FOREWORD

MOVING IMAGES OF ENTHUSIASM—the four daughters of the College—the classes—are herein presented in an illustrated chronicle of student life for the year 1939-'40.

Marching on to a world where women are active, these daughters are pictured on the threshold of new adventures, carved out of the past and created from the experiences of the generations before them.

On the pages that follow the students of G. S. W. C. can see themselves as seen by the eye of the PINE CONE—at work, at play.

The illusive and distinctive atmosphere, the spirit which is the vitality of the college, the camaraderie which motivates friendship and cooperation among students, the versatility that makes possible the varied activities—these qualities the staff has tried to capture in the sincere desire of bringing them concretely to the hearts and minds of the students, hoping that these scenes will portray the college at its best.

The PINE CONE editors, conscious of their great privilege and responsibility, have done their best to find a new voice for heralding the march of the Liberal Arts College for Women of the University System of Georgia as they apply themselves to the goals which make for woman's successful living.

Seeing is Believing

THE STUDENTS, as well as the college, have gained far-reaching publicity because of beauty. So to the skeptic, who must see to believe, these two pages, and those that follow, give undeniable proof.

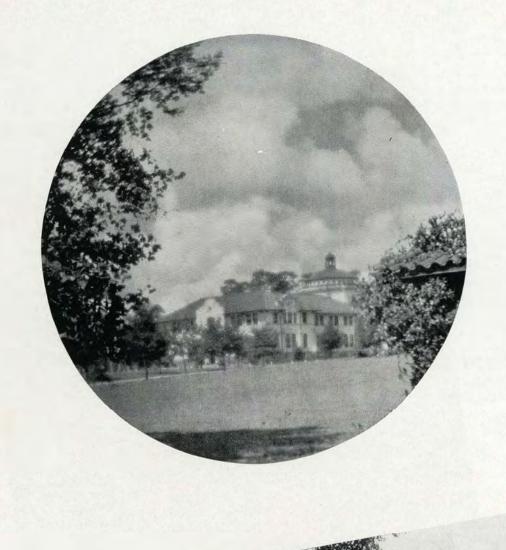

Scarred stairways, studious students, the historic hitch-hiking corner, the dome, the new swimming pool, the dormitory of juniors and seniors that is yet to be named—all represent thresholds to adventure to girls of G. S. W. C. by the beauty way.

When life at college needs a change in routine the House-in-the-Pines has been found to be the best panacea of all ills. Newly installed in the house is a Carnegie Music Set which is fast becoming a means of enjoyment to both faculty and students. The perfectly arranged little kitchen has inspired many candy-making parties and spaghetti suppers, also it has halted the work of the Canopy many nights in its rush to beat the eleven o'clock deadline. Due to periodical physical checkups on students made by the resident physician, a high standard of health is maintained. The zest for activity, which comes from health, is apparent at G. S. W. C., where there is no place for those without the will to do.

OPENING THE SOCIAL YEAR with a dance in the Rec Hall, the Senior Class began a record-breaking program of activities. This first dance attracted the largest crowd ever witnessed at a Saturday evening frolic. No other dance of the year touched it in number of persons present.

Sponsoring a benefit bridge at the House-in-the-Woods as a second venture in the money-making scheme, the seniors again met with success, but this time unexpectedly. The class feared losses due to the fact that only a small number of the students in the college played bridge.

In concurrence with an annual custom the seniors sponsored the October Carnival, and pulled as one strong body in putting it over—their biggest enterprise of the year. Financial returns were not thought to be staggering by members of the class, who had aimed at even higher monetary gains, but judging the results comparatively with senior classes of other years, the money earned in the undertaking justified the work expended, and made it possible to name the carnival a success.

After tasting the fruits of success the seniors clamored for more. In a drive to sell engraved stationery to the student body, faculty members, clubs, and organizations, the class met Dame Fortune right in the face. Strengthened by such an encounter this class of '40 plunged into another sale.

In an effort to raise more money the seniors edited a Student-Faculty Address Book. To all who could pay the nominal fee the class equipped with complete addresses and telephone numbers of all those connected with the college.

Thus the senior trip became a reality after much hard work.

The TRIP

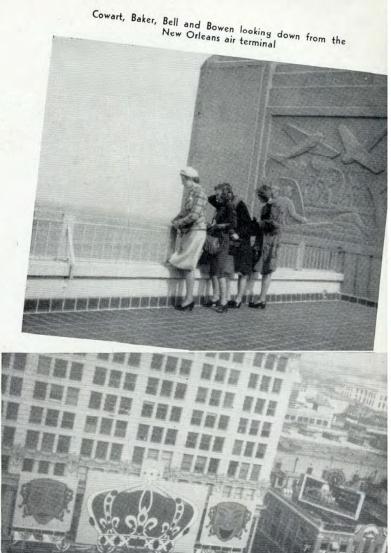

AT THE SUGGESTION of several class members the Senior Class President, Mary Catherine Abernathy, checked up on the possibilities of a trip to New Orleans during the Mardi Gras festivities. Finding the facts favorable with the budget, she presented them to the entire class, which voted for New Orleans during Mardi Gras as the site of their destination.

Chartering a special bus, thirty-one seniors set out February 2 for New Orleans with high hopes, and found the Crescent City more glamorous and foreign than they had imagined. Spending four days in New Orleans the seniors engaged in a round of activities that would have tired the indefatigable Mrs. Roosevelt.

After several tours over the city, the French Quarter became the source of chief attraction to the G.S.W.C.-ers. Finding the food the best ever, and the shops the quaintest, many representatives of the class could be found in the French Quarter any time during the day.

Highlights of the trip: Taking a 12-minute flight over the city at 130 miles per hour, seeing and talking to Wallace Beery and Wayne King, Eleanor Morgan's singing over station WWL, having coffee and doughnuts at the French Market at midnight, witnessing the magnificent Mardi Gras parades, making a round of the night clubs, hearing Larry Clinton play "My Little Rubber Dollie."

WRITING, OR BUSINESS ADMINISTRATION.

FILLED WITH THE CARNIVAL SPIRIT, and giving everything they had to make the undertaking a success, the seniors plunged into the most extensive moneymaking project of the year. Nothing seemed too hard or too easy for the versatile upperclassmen.

Asking donations from the downtown business houses, the seniors were able to open the carnival gates with all the frills and trappings. Hot dogs, the fortune tellers, the fishing ponds, the cakewalks, the Town Crier aided by a microphone, the bowling pen, special sideshows incorporating Emory Junior College talent, a dance, bingo tables—all were featured attractions, and done up in the Hallowe'en manner.

As another way of increasing financial returns, the dormitories were canvassed by seniors selling tickets on chances for valuable prizes.

The original plan of the class of '40 had been to take en masse a cruise to Cuba. After the carnival, those plans had to be changed as the high water mark was not attained. Stars of the Variety Show

The JUNIORS

"HOPE SPRINGS not only from what we have done, but from the work we have just begun," is the motto characteristic of the Junior Class in its participation in the campus activities of the past three years. With enthusiasm, interest, and sportsmanship each member of this class has endeavored to make herself a unit of the group personality. Genuinely cooperative is the adjective that has adequately described these class members from the time they came together as one body in the fall of '37 up until the present year.

As president of her class for the freshman year as well as the junior year, Margaret Burns has tried to lead her fellow classmates in such a way that the college year might prove successful for every member. As the class before graduation, the Junior Class prepares to assume campus responsibility and leadership in the following year, and it is toward this ideal that the class as a unit has worked.

Rotunda teas and the Junior-Senior formal dances given in honor of the departing seniors marked this year's social center of class hospitality. In an effort to raise funds for necessary expenditures the juniors brought the University of Georgia Glee Club to the campus, sponsored a benefit bridge, and sold college banners to the students.

Boosting the spirit of the Alma Mater throughout the three-year period, this Junior Class, it may be said, has paved the way to higher successes as the Senior Class of '41.

It has attempted as its final goal this year to bring enrichment to not only the Junior Class itself but to the entire campus as well.

The SOPHOMORES

THE SOPHOMORE CLASS, through the cooperation of each of its members, has been very active in campus affairs during this year. Hiding the traditional hat in the fall quarter for the Freshmen to find, the Sophs were successful in the hiding and were later entertained by the losing class.

For the purpose of raising funds for class progress the Sophomores sponsored a dance in the Rec Hall and undertook the selling of Christmas card orders on the campus.

In the winter quarter they entertained the Seniors, their sister classmen, at a formal dance at the Country Club just outside Valdosta.

The FRESHMEN

THE YOUNGEST CLASS in college, the Freshman Class is the center of interest during Orientation Week, held at the beginning of the year. Class members then proceed to learn about college through actual experience and observation throughout the year.

Class President, Jane Ellen Smith, named as the class goal "making the Freshman year the happiest, most beneficial, and most encouraging the members have ever known; including as many class members as possible in the class undertakings; and the preparing for a broader life as each girl learns the art of living and working harmoniously with others."

A formal dance, featuring the horoscope in decorations was given in February at the Country Club by the Freshmen honoring their sister-classmen, the Juniors. Early in the spring quarter the class also sponsored a dance and later a class picnic.

Variety is the Spice of Life

"LISTEN to me and I'll learn you where to listen to learn"—so it goes, more talk, instead of work, but feeling that too much work would make Jill a dull girl, students find time for play.

Whether it's swimming, sleeping, or studying, these girls have a system—always manage to look breathless and eager and never fail to say "Hey" to each other on every meeting. In a "Battle of the Sexes" held in February G. S. W. C. battlers lost to the Emory Junior foe. A new idea, the "battle" furnished stimulation and enjoyment to all those participating and watching.

At formal time the air is tense with excitement as arriving corsages and boy friends break mnnotony of school days—the "Y" Angler, sponsored by the Y.W.C.A. brings crisp and curt quotations on each Thursday via mimeographed sheets . . . more of Annie Angler.

INCLUDING EVERY GIRL in the student body in its membership, the Student Government Association is a democratic organization. Consequently, the organization doesn't fear an investigation from the Dies Committee. SGA has as its main purpose the promotion of the highest standards of honor and integrity in all manners of personal conduct. Such a goal defies Mr. Martin Dies, of Texas, to find even a hint of a suspicious un-American way on the campus.

Responsibility and privileges are democratically distributed among the students. Freshmen become members of the organization after a week of intensive training and orientation. Freshman Week is conducted jointly by the Young Woman's Christian Association and the Student Government Association.

Again working cooperatively, the SGA and the Y. W. C. A. brought Mrs. Florence S. Robnett to the campus. Speaking on vocations for women, Mrs. Robnett spoke to sophomores in special meetings, and to the student body as a whole.

Strengthening the cordial relations between faculty and students, thereby promoting general respect for law and order, officers of SGA meet with the president and deans of the college to get all sides of important issues.

The Student-Faculty Honor Council and the Executive Board work together. Delegates are sent each year by the association to the annual Student Government Conference. This year delegates were sent to the conference held at Shorter College.

As delegates go to other colleges for conferences, they return saying, "we have more privileges than most schools!" Privileges are granted to the student body when they seem desirable by the heads of the organization.

This year SGA granted to the students the privilege of wearing socks to the dining room for evening meals, with the exception of Thursday evenings, when dancing is allowed between courses and students dress for the occasion.

Ruth Whisonant, the present president of the organization, had the idea of calling together the class presidents to discuss campus problems, and to solve them in the best way. Consequently, she attended club meetings to present the problems to even more students. As a result, the various clubs, at the suggestion of the SGA president, have made a notable effort to eliminate the snags of college life.

An open forum, held in the spring quarter each year, allows students to meet and voice any thoughts of theirs as to changes in regulations which they think worthy. In such a meeting the pot boils with suppressed ideas and hopes of students. Many new privileges have been granted later to the student body because of these lively gabfests.

Honor Council Representatives are Curtis Whatley, dormitory, and Helen Duncan, town. These girls serve on the Executive Committee when major problems of discipline arise.

SGA monitors are Kathryn Scott, Ashley Hall House President, Virginia Power, Ruth Dixon, Gwendolyn Hendricks, Carolyn Bridges, and Lucile Johnson. They maintain discipline in Senior Hall and in Ashley Hall. In Converse Hall, N. Y. A. girls act as monitors. This innovation was added last year.

THE Y. W. C. A.

A NON-DENOMINATIONAL organization, The Young Woman's Christian Association directs the religious activities on the campus. The executive staff, the Cabinet, meets once a week to discuss and to find answers to many problems, great and small, to create a better social order and to plan the "Y" program.

Miss Annie P. Hopper and Miss Elicabeth Garbutt are faculty advisers.

On Sunday and Thursday evenings Vesper services are held. Throughout the year ministers of the various churches in Valdosta are asked to speak at Vesper programs, also professors on campus appear on these programs. Through the "Y" and its program a definite spiritual atmosphere is stimulated within the college. Morning Watch is held each morning except Saturday and Sunday mornings.

The Young Woman's Christian Association is represented each year at the national conference held at Blue Ridge, North Carolina, also at the Georgia Student Christian Conference, and other smaller conferences. A Freshman Commission and a Sophomore Council were organized this year to establish a closer connection between the underclass students and the Y. W. C. A.

In order to understand the scope of the organization, here is a birds-eye view of the activities which have highlighted this year's program.

Beginning the year with a Barn Dance for the freshmen, a play entitled "Pygmalion and Galatea" quickly followed, climaxed with a Sing on the steps the same evening. The freshmen were early orientated by a Recognition Service through which leaders on campus in student activities were introduced to them.

Religious Emphasis Week brought Dr. W. A. Smart of Emory Theological School to the campus on November 19th. Each year Dr. Smart comes to G. S. W. C., giving special conferences and lectures to the students, and trying to point a way of religious life which is not contrary to intelligence.

The Hanging of the Greens, the Fire Lighting Ceremony, Heart Sister Week, installation services, the Christmas pageant and play, all annual occurrences for the Y. W. C. A., foster religious development and give to the campus a distinctive atmosphere.

The Vesper Choir, under the direction of Mr. Herbert Kraft, assisted by Mildred Harris and Frances Middleton, appeared with special songs each week.

Professor Vissimore and his choir of Negro Singers bring a charm to the "Y" programs each year that is unrivalled.

Chairman of Deputation Irwin Smith sought and obtained a student speaker for each quarter. They appeared on evening programs at the churches of Valdosta, and also at Vesper programs.

The "Y" Cabinet romps and plays, together with the Student Government offieals, at the Retreat. Held in the spring quarter, the Retreat affords a chance for both organizations to evaluate their programs, and to make changes for the coming school year. The Y. W. C. A. and S. G. A. work jointly in many undertakings, strengthening their objectives by so doing.

BEGINNING with a great deal of advice, good, bad, indifferent, a few ideas, quantities of paper and a very new PINE CONE office, the editors of the PINE CONE have put out a yearbook using a great many new methods and ideas. Instead of the old twelve by fifteen size book, printed by the offset process, the 1940 PINE CONE is a nine by twelve book printed by the engraving process.

Following the example set by the 1939 PINE CONE, the book is presented by the entire student body of the Georgia State Womans College. Formerly the book was presented only by the members of the Senior Class.

Using Life and Fortune magazines as models, the editors have attempted to picture, through words and photographs, the year's activities of students at G. S. W. C. In picturing life on the campus, care has been taken to get the usual campus activities as well as the unusual ones.

For the fourth year a junior staff has been organized in order to give the oncoming staff experience in publishing a yearbook. This year underclassmen have been given responsible positions as assistant editors so that they may gain an even better understanding of yearbook preparation.

In October Ora Kate Wisenbaker, Editor, and Rosemary Baker, Business Manager, were sent as delegates to Des Moines, Iowa, where the National Collegiate Press Association held its annual convention. Here, under the expert guidance of leaders in the field of yearbook journalism, the delegates mapped out plans for the 1940 PINE CONE.

As is traditional, the color and design of the yearbook cover has been kept a secret by the editors. Mr. Henry Tice of Kingsport Press, in cooperation with the editors, designed a cover for their approval.

Studio portraits for the PINE CONE were taken by Mr. Veran Blackburn of Valdosta. Snapshots were taken under the direction of the photograph editor, Sara Garbutt.

Throughout the preparation of the book, the editors have been able to call on Mr. Johnny Long, of Foote and Davies Company, and Mr. Walter Dargan, of Photo-Process Engraving Company, for advice on all technical problems.

For eight years the PINE CONE has received first class honor rating in the National Scholastic Press Association's All-American Yearbook Contest. In 1929, 1932 and 1933 it received All-American honors. Twice, in 1926 and 1927, the PINE CONE received Honorable Mention in the Art Crafts Guild's national contest for yearbooks as being one of the outstanding yearbooks published in the United States.

Each year delegates have been sent to national and state conventions. Last year Louise Bell, present editor of the Canopy, was elected secretary and treasurer of the Georgia Collegiate Press Association at the Spring Convention held on the G. S. W. C. campus.

BRINGING THE WORLD of the theater to the campus the Sock and Buskin Club has a twofold purpose of promoting an interest in play production and developing the appreciation of dramatic arts on the campus.

An initiation service and entertainment for the new members was held early in October after the annual tryouts. In the following month the new members entertained the old members.

At the December meeting of the club Miss Willene Roberts of Valdosta, alumna of G. S. W. C. and former member of the Sock and Buskin Club, lectured on the art of make-up and gave appropriate demonstrations. Miss Roberts did graduate work at the American Academy of Dramatics in New York City.

During the winter quarter the club members went to Atlanta to see Katherine Cornell playing in "No Time for Comedy," at the Erlanger Theater. It is the custom of the club each year, to take a trip to see some outstanding play or actress.

Each year also the club presents a three-act play and a number of one-act plays at selected intervals. This year the members presented the three-act play, "First Lady," in the spring quarter. Tryouts for the cast were held early in January. Another noteworthy function in this year's activities was Another noteworthy function in this year's activities was the shower for the costume closet of the club, given at the January meeting. Besides sponsoring a dance in the Rec Hall, the club held its Annual Frolic in February.

Membership in the Sock and Buskin Club is based on dramatic ability and the club limitation is thirty-five.

THE FINE ARTS CLUB

THEY ARE THE ARTISTS of the campus, the twenty-five Fine Arts Club members. They give art its place in college life and create an art-consciousness among the students.

Among the year's interesting exhibits displayed through efforts of the club were those of book plates, Japanese prints, children's work and work from the High Museum of Art in Atlanta. In the spring quarter the work of Miss Frances Ruth Carpenter, club counsellor, was displayed, along with an exhibit of select student work.

Programs featuring art in the different phases were given at monthly meetings which were thrown open to other students and the public as well. Guest speakers discussed art in dress, religion, poetry, dance, drama, music, and flower arrangement.

A Saturday Morning Sketching Class and a Craft Shop were opened to students with materials furnished by the club.

Setting a new pace in campus moneyraising the club promoted a poster-making business which brought successful results. They also sponsored a picture show, a dance, a sale on trade chances, and candy sales during the winter quarter.

Miss Carpenter Advises President Louie Peeples

In addition, the Christmas Bazaar was held early in December, featuring Ohio pottery, Japanese prints, antique china, a china display, and suitable Christmas gifts. The Bazaar was termed one of the most successful in the club's history. As a result of a certain number of Japanese print sales, three Japanese Design books were awarded the club by the Shima Art Company. Easter week-end the club members went to Sarasota, Florida, to see the Ringling Art Collection. Going by Silver and Tarpon Springs, they were present at Bok Tower in Lake Wales for Easter morning services and they returned by way of St. Augustine to visit the Marine Studios.

Yearbooks, distributed in the fall, and a club scrapbook were other club projects.

BEGINNING the school year with a supper for the new members, the Glee Club has sponsored a dance in the Rec Hall and a picture show at the Ritz Theater.

Prominent throughout the year in the musical affairs of the college, the club members sang at Thanksgiving programs, Vesper Services, the Christmas Festival, and Commencement exercises. The annual spring concert, however, is the largest offering the group makes to the campus.

In the spring quarter the entire club went on a tour. They sang this year over WRUF in Gainesville, Florida, and WPAX in Thomasville.

Chosen on the basis of singing ability, the thirty members ended the year's activities with a banquet.

SPONSORING A DANCE in December formally began the activities of the Philharmonic Club. Following this activity up, the club brought the University of Florida Symphony Orchestra, composed of more than fifty members, to the campus. Noteworthy was this attraction in that it was the first time a symphony orchestra had been sponsored by a club.

Regular monthly programs presented by the members of the club were part of the plan to give to the student body a chance to hear and appreciate the best in music.

The outstanding club event during the fall quarter was a trip to Tallahassee to hear the Cincinnati Symphony Orchestra directed by Fritz Reiner.

Composed of twenty-two members, the club this year had the largest number of girls trying out for membership. Members are chosen from the Music Department.

Five senior members of the club gave recitals in the spring quarter, either in voice or piano, or both.

The Philharmonic Club attempts to inspire its members and the campus as a whole to a better appreciation of good music.

WITH MISS MILDRED PRICE as faculty adviser the International Relations Club is responsible for the creation of interest in national and international affairs of the day. Weekly forums, open to the student body and faculty, were conducted during the winter and spring quarters.

The club was organized in 1928 under the sponsorship of the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace. From the Endowment the club receives a number of books and pamphlets relating to current national and international issues, which are placed on the I. R. C. shelf in the library for general use. Also the Endowment sends speakers each year to the campus through the auspices of the club.

At present there are available four fifty-dollar-loan scholarships for the use of history majors in senior college.

To offer to its MEMBERS an opportunity to work out phases of those scientific projects in which they are most interested, and to be of service to the college through the fulfillment of these projects—this has been the purpose of the Math-Science Club.

In order to accomplish its goals the club is divided into three parts: math, chemistry, and biology. The activity of the club as a whole is under the supervision of the club president.

The Biology Division this year collected and preserved South Georgia flora, thus beginning a permanent herbarium for the college. The division also continued work on the botanical garden in the south woods of the campus.

The Chemistry Division acted as nucleus and sponsor of the Camera Club. During the year the division made field trips to industrial centers in the vicinity of the college.

An attempt was made by the Math Division to show the lighter side of mathematics. This was done through periodically depicting the dream of a math professor through the medium of posters and miniature figures showing the math progress made by "Little Willie" from kindergarten to college graduation. The exhibit was placed in the hall of the Administration Building for all to see, and changed each quarter.

CENTER OF LITERARY INTERESTS, the English Club limits its membership to twenty-five English majors holding a specified scholastic average.

Bringing to the campus in September John G. Neihardt, American poet and literary critic, the club was the first of the year to sponsor an artist on campus. Mr. Neihardt, author of Epic Cycle of the West which included Song of Hugh Glass, Song of Three Friends, Song of Indian Wars, and Song of the Messiah, appeared at the college on a program in which he read selections from his epic.

Reviewing a current novel and offering criticism upon it was the program at the January meeting. In such programs students are given the chance to formulate their own opinions concerning popular books, and to learn some way of evaluating these books.

A panel discussion, as a means of increasing student interest in literary pursuits, was held with great success. Five members of the club discussed the subject "Romanticism vs. Realism," following it up by allowing the entire club members to offer their opinions.

HAVING A DEEP INTEREST not only in the French language but in the literature of France and the country itself as well, the French Club members endeavor to stimulate this interest elsewhere on the campus.

At club meetings, which are customarily conducted in French, the members give French book reviews and discuss topics of club interest. They presented a French play entitled "Napoleonette" in the latter part of the fall quarter, according to the annual custom of the club.

Membership is limited to twenty French majors and minors of the Sophomore, Junior and Senior Classes with the scholastic average of B or above.

THE G. S. W. C. HONOR

The Seniors

ORGANIZED with the purpose of recognizing scholarship, leadership, and personality in 1936-'37, the Senior Honor Society is composed of a group selected from students who have completed two and twothirds years of work in the college, and who are outstanding for academic work and leadership.

On a five-year period of trial, the society is petitioning Mortar Board, national honor and leadership society for membership.

This year, the Senior Honor Society organized a Student Cooperative Book Store, and opened it to the students on January 1, 1940. The society also sponsored a school for training in Parliamentary Law and in cooperation with the Freshman Honor Society an Honor Day program was held.

PROMOTING and maintaining among the members of its organization and the campus at large all activities which tend to stimulate and enrich their intellectual living, the Freshman Honor Society has an important role in college life.

It is composed of only Junior College students of high scholastic standing in academic work. Other bases for membership are personality, leadership, and cooperation.

Not only creating an interest in intellectual achievement, the society tries also to render service to the college whenever possible.

Organized in 1936-'37 the society is on a five-year period of trial petitioning for membership in the Alpha Lambda Delta Honorary Fraternity. The membership for this year totals seventeen.

Among the projects this year was a "Battle of the Sexes," sponsored jointly with the Freshman Honor Society of Emory Junior at Valdosta. Ballot boxes were placed at either college and all the students were invited to contribute questions. The purpose of this project was to bring intellectual good to both campuses and create a more friendly attitude between the two schools.

The society also purchased outstanding books which the members read and contributed to the library at the end of the year.

Programs are provided that the group might gain a better understanding of the cultural and vocational aspects in the field of Sociology.

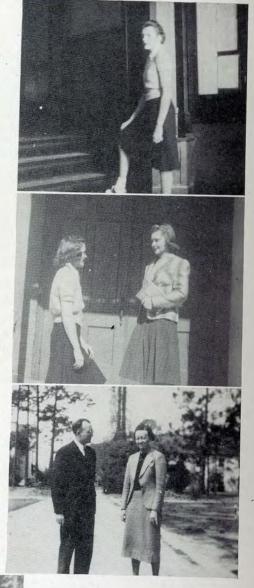

Those majoring or minoring in the field of Sociology and maintaining a certain scholastic standard are entitled to membership.

This club, the youngest on the campus, is two years old. It was organized in the fall of last year by a group of interested students majoring in Sociology.

KAPPA AND LAMBDA SPORTS CLUBS VIE

President Reid

THE AIM of the Sports Club is to promote a higher degree of physical efficiency by fostering a program which will provide the maximum number of girls an avenue of relaxation from the strain and stress of the too-rushed status quo.

Serving as a guide toward better leadership, sportsmanship, and ability, the Sports Club is divided into two associations, Phi Lambda and Phi Kappa. The association winning the greater number of points from match games during the year is awarded the Honor Plaque for the year.

The executive body of the club, the Sports Council, plans each week for activities that will bring a well-rounded program of team games and individual sports.

Meeting this year every Tuesday afternoon at the House-inthe-Pines, the Council discusses the outcome of the club's varied activities and plots a course by which the most students can be reached for sports. Once a month the Council has a supper. At these monthly suppers the faculty advisers of the club and the student members share fun and work.

Aiming to have "a sport for every girl and every girl a sport" the club ranks as one of the most democratic organizations on campus. The entire student body is eligible for membership, qualifications for membership being only that a girl keep up the required number of practices per quarter. Pledges are taken into full membership after they have shown an active interest in the club's program, and have a satisfactory scholastic record.

Match-game in American Ball

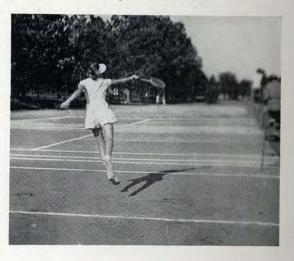

Wilson, Ross, Campbell,

Activities included in the year's program are tennis, archery, swimming, golf, horseback riding, ping-pong, deck tennis, box hockey, croquet, shuffleboard, American ball, basketball, baseball, and badminton.

For the first time the club this year sold felt shields to girls for sweaters. The shields were in the colors, red and purple, of the two teams, each girl wearing the color of her team.

THE ALUMNAE ASSOCIATION has been striving yearly to bring the students who are graduates of the college in closer contact with the college after they have graduated, and this year's program has been planned with that main objective in view. An installation ceremony will be held at commencement to welcome the new members to the organization.

The annual alumnae luncheon will also be held during commencement time, along with other social affairs for the graduates.

The purpose of the association is to combine former G. S. W. C. students into an active off-campus group. The organization aims to preserve the ideals of the college, and to extend its influence through its membership of more than a thousand graduates. The privileges of active membership are granted to those who have received a degree or a diploma; those who have completed one year of college work are eligible for associate membership.

Each year the association provides a scholarship for some girl who meets certain definite qualifications.

The Alumnae Association sends members each year to G. E. A. meetings. The Association is a member of the American Alumni Council.

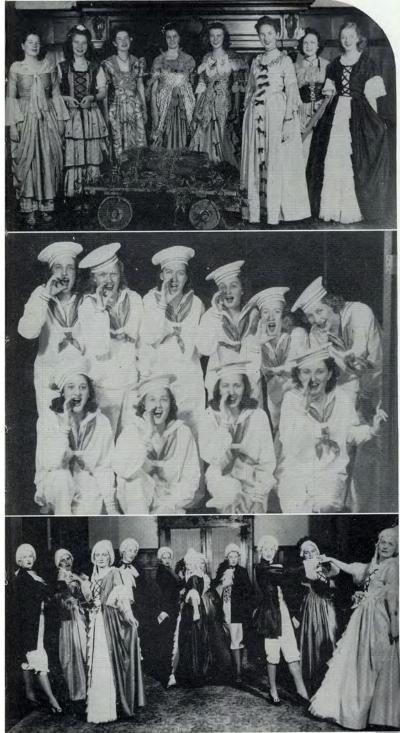

To encourage the continued interest of its members in the Association the dormitory staff maintains a feeling of "open house" for any returning student.

The constitution of the Association was adopted in 1933 which focused the ideals and aims of the organization. The future holds for the Alumnae Association the realization of a dream of local chapters organized and scattered throughout the state which will carry its ideals forward.

THE CHRISTMAS FESTIVAL BRINGS YULETIDE CHEER

Top: Members of the Glee Club bring in the traditional Yule Log. . . . Center: Sailors home on leave give a rousing cheer. . . . Bottom: Stately Lords and Ladies of the Manor dance the minuet. . . . Circle: Rag Dolls Orr and Taylor with Court Fool Zachert. INCARNATION of the true manner of the Old English, the Christmas Festival is a reproduction of a medieval manor with the banquet hall decorated in mistletoe and ivy.

Held on the evening before going home for the holidays, the festival has become a tradition of the college. Only students, faculty members and invited guests may attend the festival.

The festival begins in the Rotunda where the Yule log is lighted and a toast is drunk by faculty members. As the Lord of the Manor goes into the Feast Hall, the festivities begin.

The Lord and Lady of the Manor, President and Mrs. Reade, with their invited guests, sit on a dais overlooking the entire feast hall, and in full sight of the dances.

Singing "Adeste Fidelis," the students, transformed for the evening into the good people of Merrie England, stream into the feast hall, attired in costumes of lords and ladies, peasants, Robin Hoods, milkmaids, and others. Miss Lenora Ivey, physical education director, is Master of Ceremonies as the Lord of Misrule. Her underling, the Court Fool, attends to any misruling that the master might happen to neglect at any time during the program.

The evening proceeds from the comic and ludicrous to the quaint and the humourous and then on to beauty and solemnity.

Fun and entertainment are not lacking: singers, dancers, and jesters add to the joviality of the occasion. Throughout the feast, the guests blend their voices to sing old Christmas carols. As the evening progresses, the music passes from the whimsical folk carol to a religious note, which deepens at last with the beauty and grace of the stately minuet.

After the lights are extinguished, the entire company marches out to the candlelight recessional, "Silent Night," and there comes to the hearts of everyone a new interpretation of the meaning of Christmas.

May DAY

ONE OF THE loveliest traditions at the college is the annual May Day celebration, a gala occasion in which every student takes part, from the Queen of the May, selected from the Senior Class by popular vote, to the lowliest freshman, masquerading as a peasant.

Songs and dances on the green in which the peasant folk express the age-old sentiments regarding May Day—old English traditions featuring milkmaids, lords and ladies—the winding of the vari-colored May poles—the lovely court procession of the Queen and her court—all typify the spirit of the May Day celebrations from the time of the Druids to the present day.

All of the pageantry and simple splendor that marked the celebrations of the Celtics is carried on as a tradition at the College each May Day. The May Day Festival is a particularly happy occasion since it celebrates the coming of Spring with its promise of new life. The May Court, ruled over by the Queen, is held on the green in front of Converse Hall. After the Queen is crowned, there follows a colorful program of dances for the pleasure of Her Highness, the Court and the guests.

Each year the May Festival has a new and different theme, although the spirit of it remains always the same. Last year, the theme was Springtime in the South. Through dances, this idea was traced from ante bellum days up to the modern era. Top: May Queen and her Court. First row: M. Carter, A. Adams, H. Joiner, M. V. Williams, M. Weir. Second row: H. and Play DAY

EACH YEAR on the first Saturday in May, the college acts as hostess to hundreds of girls from the Senior Classes of South Georgia high schools.

Invited to spend the day on the campus, the girls enjoy a combined May Day—Play Day. Students and visitors are divided into teams and compete in games throughout the morning. After a horse show and archery exposition, a picnic lunch is spread in the grove back of Senior Dormitory. Early in the afternoon, before the May Festival, an especially prepared musical and dramatic program is given in the G. S. W. C. auditorium for the high school guests.

The aim of Play Day is to help the work being done all over the country, to spread the knowledge and use of new and interesting games to other schools, and to encourage friendship between the high schools and the college. There is no school rivalry, no playing merely to win, no individual honor to be gained, but a day spent in learning new games, playing old ones, and enjoying the comradeship of play.

Dr. Reade makes the home run!

Personality Plus...

IT WAS NOT the wish of the student body to include in this section either an interpretation of "it" or of "oomph."

Eight seniors, elected by the student body in a ballot poll conducted jointly by the Student Government Association and the PINE CONE, were chosen from a group of sixteen.

The sixteen seniors selected on the characteristics of leadership, versatility, personality, and ability, were considered outstanding by a selected committee made up of students and faculty members. They, accordingly, submitted their selections to the student body for final election of the eight.

On this page are the eight girls who were runner-ups in the PINE CONE Feature Poll. They were: Rosemary Baker, Geraldine Bowen, Montine Cowart, Helen Duncan, Eleanor Morgan, Marguerite Norton, Rosalind Taylor, and Curtis Whatley.
