NAMES PLEASING, TOO

Music, soft words keep plants growing

By JOHN C. MOON
Copley News Service

Most of the plants inside our home are growing fine.

That's because my wife plays pretty music on the stereo for them.

And she talks to them.

"That's right," she said. "I read in a magazine that you should talk to plants and play pleasing music for them."

I pointed to the prayer plant near the stereo.

"What's the matter with that?"

"It's your son," she said. "He came over for a visit today and put on rock 'n' roll music."

Then she said:

"Notice how little Piety has its hands turned downward?"

Oh, I forgot.

She gives the plants names, too.

Piety, naturally, is the prayer plant near the stereo.

Charlie is the creeping succulent atop the toilet tank in the bathroom.

Sam is the big plant with the unpronounceable Greek name near the living room window and Art is the rubber tree in the entry, and so on.

Just then the family dog, Tigre, and cat, Socksy, strolled into the living room.

"I talk to them (the dog and cat)," she said, "so what's wrong with talking to the plants?"

I could see she was about to evangelize me on the merits of talking and playing music for plants, so I leaned back in my chair.

"There is a big revival now on putting plants in the home. I have read countless articles about talking to them and treating them right."

She admitted that some of the many plants in our house haven't been named yet. Some have two names, because of arguments among our family members.

The African violet is called Violet. Everyone assumes it is a female plant.

Some plants have both male and female names, until the sex of the plant is determined.

For the life of me, I haven't been able to determine the sex of trees and plants. I don't know what part of the plant's anatomy to inspect.

My wife should know more about the sex of the plants, though. She gives them a shower bath at least once each week.

My wife is intelligent, educated and cultured, so I guess her personality has rubbed off on the plants during her many conversations.

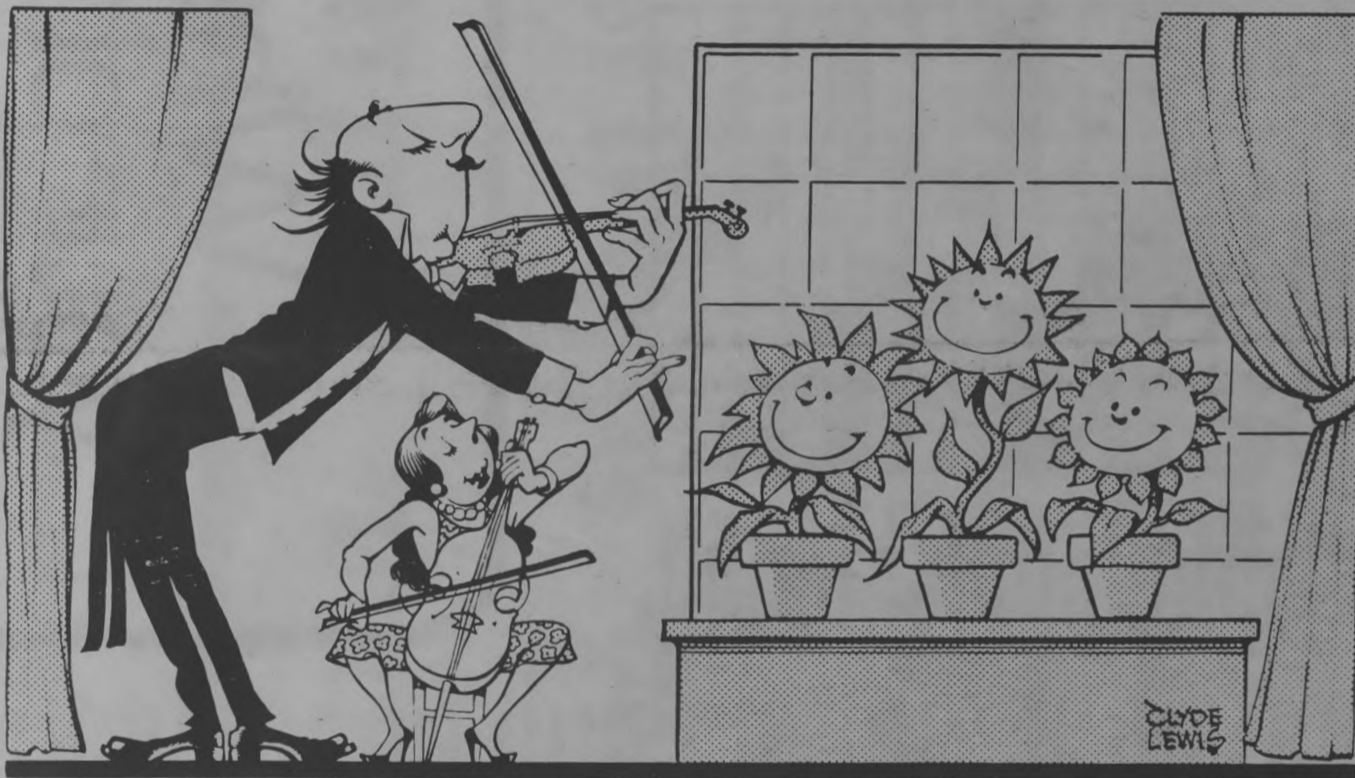

Anyway, I understand the plants don't like any cursing around the house.

And they don't like rock 'n' roll or cowboy and country western music on the stereo.

Thus far, my wife hasn't pointed to any wilted or droopy leaves caused by the jokes I tell friends around the house.

Maybe the plants like my jokes.

They had better.

League teams end season seeing Braves game

The little league teams, Citizens Bank and Days Inn, ended their season with a trip to Atlanta to see a Braves baseball game.

The perfect day started as the boys boarded the bus for Atlanta at 9:00 a.m. June 30. The bus carried a group of 54, including 3 boys from the game they were able to get the attention of Hank Aaron. He gave them a fleeting glance.

Georgia Sheriff's Boys Ranch. The group arrived at 3:30, time enough to watch the Old Timers game prior to the Braves game. At one time during the Braves

The group left the ballfield at 9:00 that evening. To the delight of all the boys and parents they stopped at McDonalds on the way back. They arrived home at 3:30 a.m.

Although great rivals on the playing field, the boys were on their best behavior during the trip. A great time was had by all as the teams ended their season.

How is your safety score?

To be sure home is a safe place for young children, the following check list from the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company is a good guide.

- Keep poisons and flammable substances locked away and out of reach of young children.
- Have gates at stairways to keep baby or toddler from falling.
- Light stair wells, and have stairs equipped with treads and hand rails.
- Anchor scatter rugs so they won't slip.
- Screen or bar high windows to keep children from falling.
- Lock or latch doors that lead to "dangerous spots" for a toddler.
- Cover or insulate hot radiators and pipes.
- Put dummy plugs into unused electric outlets.
- Keep electrical devices away from sink and bathtub.
- Keep electric cords in good condition.
- Avoid overloading electrical circuits.
- Dispose of combustible litter in attic and basement.
- Use flame-retardant fabrics for home furnishings.
- Lock up firearms.
- Use seat belts in the car.

All parents should take the necessary steps to eliminate, not most, but ALL potential hazards from their children's environment. Booklets published on various aspects of safety are available from the Department of Health, 6840 Eastern Avenue, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20012.

This past weekend we had the opportunity to go to the big sing in Bonifay, Florida and really enjoyed it. There were so many good groups there it's hard to say which we enjoyed the best! There were 18 professional groups to appear on the stage! I suppose after the "Commers" won the talent contest they were considered professional. They were good! We didn't make it for the talent contest. It was announced during the Sing there were forty contestants! It was hot there too. The Sing was held in the Memorial Stadium in Bonifay. It was the biggest Sing ever to be held in Bonifay and to many it was the largest audience they had ever sang to. I didn't get the attendance, but there were people everywhere! The playing field was nothing but rows and rows of lawn chairs and the end field was full to capacity. The stands were comfortably full. We didn't make it all night. When they went around one time we decided to make it a night. It was then 2:30 a.m.! Here is the groups that were there:

1) The Synn Family from Winter Haven, Florida.

2) Ward Hert and The Bible Tones from Lumbertown, Miss.

3) The Golden Keys from Savannah, Ga.

4) Les Beasley and The Florida Boys, Pensacola, Fla. They really had a good program. One of the prettiest songs they did was "God Washed The Dirty Feet Of Man". Listen for it, you'll like it.

5) Butch Williams Singers, Texas. The show stealer here was a six-year-old, Dwayne Allen. He really was cute. He sang "The Devil Made Me Do It" and he was a sport with his singing!

6) Bob Wills and the Inspirational, Fort Worth, Texas. And you could tell they were from Texas! They grow them tall there. The bass singer stood 6'8" and weighed over 300 pounds. The baritone was 6'3"! They sure made the piano player from Illinois look small at around 5'10"! They were a joy to listen to.

7) The Lefevres, Atlanta, Ga. They have added two girls to the group since we last saw them, Sharon and Teresa McNeal. We think they are an asset to the group.

8) The Rebels Quartet, Tampa, Florida.

10) THE CHUCK WAGON GANG ... We waited a long time to see them again and they are great! The crowd got a little uneasy when they came on stage and Anna wasn't with them. They sang a song or two which was great, then Roy told the audience the news. On the way to the sing the day before when they had just started the trip from Louisiana and had gotten about thirty miles down the road from Baton Rouge a car pulled out in front of the bus they were in and Anna happened to be standing at the time. The driver slammed on brakes and Anna fell and broke her pelvis bone! She was in great pain until they got her to the hospital in that city then they transferred her to her home in Baton Rouge hospital where she will be confined for about a month or more. It was a big disappointment to the crowd, but I'm sure it was more so for her. Roy gave the address and room number she is occupying if anyone would like to send a card. Send to: Mrs. Anna Davis, General Hospital, Room

221, Baton Rouge, La. I'm sure she will appreciate any and all letters and cards.

10) Jimmy Davis, the two term governor of Louisiana. He was great! Roy Carter, Ron Paige, and the guitar picker, James Wilson, backed him on the songs. I think they were good even though I'm sure Anna would have given the magic touch to the group and Mr. Davis. The Chuck Wagon Gang and The Governor had only one instrument, the guitar, backing them up in the music and they got quite an applause! Thought I'd mention this. Today so many groups have so much music you don't get the real meaning from the words of the song because of the loud sound. Of course this is just my opinion, and I like the different instruments, but the real purpose of a good song is the words and when the music drowns the words you've lost your purpose then. (Lesson for today)

11) The Comers, the contest winners, Columbus, Georgia. Steve Comer, Michael Beck, and Randy Comer. They received $200.00 as winners of the contest. Butch Williams sponsored the contest and did a great job. He sure was an over worked young man in the heat they had down there that day!!

12) The Hiesmen ... Corinth, Miss. only instrument was an organ!!

13) Dale Shellnut and The Dixie Echoes, Pensacola, Fla. Wayne Diamond, brother of Pat Diamond the piano player for the Georgians, sings bass for the Dixie Echoes, and does a good job.

14) Wendy Bagwell and the Sunliters. They were good, as usually they are!! Wendy told of the rattlesnakes and furnished the humor for the groups. It was a good time for them as it was beginning to get late and the crowd was growing tired of sitting on those hard benches!

15) The Oak Ridge Boys with the Oaks Band. These young men take the show wherever they go. They're a youth group that reaches the young people or the young people reaches them. Whichever, they get across their point. They're very popular now and they received a standing ovation from the young people. They have some beautiful songs and are doing a great work with their music and songs.

16) Hovie Lister and the Statesmen. They've added another piano player to the group now and he plays a good piano. Hovie had to wipe to "Boogie Woogie" from the keys when he left! We enjoyed them, too.

17) Billy Tod (bass singer of the Florida Boys, formally) and the Songmasters also of Pensacola, Fla. Billy still sings good bass!!

18) The Journeymen, Winter Haven, Fla.

We enjoyed all the singers. The most popular song going now is "Why Me, Lord?" and then coming on strong in second place is "I'll Soon Be Gone". Maybe after 18 more years Don will take me again!

Saturday night is the gospel sing at Fellowship Church. Starting at 8:00 p.m. The Shilohs, The McDaniel Family, and the Youth Fellowship Choir will be there to get the first Sing underway. Come out and join us.

The Shilohs will be in Moultrie the 8th of this month which is Sunday at the Free Will Church. The Gospel Troublers and Eddie Dee will also be there. Gets started at 2 p.m. Go out somewhere this week and support gospel music and be in the church of your choice Sunday.

"Under Construction"
Once considered a "fossil" like the moon with a surface little changed over millions of years, Mars is now regarded as a planet still "under construction." Like Earth, it may have a molten core, a crust that shifts and cracks, and mountains that sometimes blow their tops.

MAKING PICKLES AND RELISHES AT HOME
Pickle products truly add spice to meals or snacks. The skillful blending of spices, sugar, and vinegar with fruits and vegetables gives crisp, firm texture and pungent, sweet-sour flavor. Pickles and relishes contribute some nutritive value, contain little or no fat, and except for the sweet type, are low in calories. Although food markets today offer a wide variety of pickles and relishes, many homemakers like to make their own pickle products when garden vegetables and fresh fruits are in abundant supply. Pickle products are classified on the basis of ingredients used and the method of preparation. There are four general classes. Bridged pickles, also called fermented pickles, go through a curing process of about 4 weeks. Dilled cucumbers and sauerkraut belong in this group. Other vegetables, such as green tomatoes, may also be cured in the same way as cucumbers. Good sauerkraut (brined cabbage) has a pleasant tart and tangy flavor, and is free from any off-flavors or off-odors. Fresh-pack or quick-process pickles are brined for several hours or over-night, then drained and combined with boiling-hot vinegar, spices, and other seasonings. Fruit-pickles are usually prepared from whole fruits and simmered in a spicy, sweet-sour syrup. They should be bright in color, of uniform size, and tender and firm without being watery. Relishes are prepared from fruits and vegetables which are chopped, seasoned, and then cooked to desired consistency. Satisfactory pickle products can be obtained only when good-quality ingredients are used and proper procedures are followed. Use tested recipes. Read the complete recipe before starting preparation. Make sure necessary ingredients are on hand. Measure or weigh all ingredients carefully. Selection. -- Select tender vegetables and firm fruit, fresh from the garden. Pears and peaches may be slightly underripe for pickling. Use unwaxed cucumbers for pickling. Use pure granulated salt if available. Un-iodized table salt can be used, but the materials added to the salt to prevent caking may make the brine cloudy and cause a weak brine. Do not use iodized table salt; it may darken pickles. Use a high-grade cider or distilled vinegar of 4- to 6-percent acidity (40 to 60 grain). Vinegars of unknown acidity should not be used. Do not dilute the vinegar unless the recipe so specifies. If a less sour product is preferred, add sugar rather than decrease vinegar. Either white granulated or brown sugar may be used. The whole spices in a bag and remove them before pickles are packed. Powdered spices tend to darken pickles and relishes. Grape Leaves: Some old recipes list these as an ingredient. They help to keep the green color which is characteristic of pickles. Enzymes in the leaves help prevent cucumbers from becoming soft. Lime: The type to use is calcium hydroxide (lime). This is available from the drugstore in a rather highly purified form. Usually one vial (1 1/2 grams) of lime is needed for each two gallons of water. Because builder's lime is impure, it should not be used in firming products for pickle making. Alum: If possible, do not use this ingredient because if too much is used or if it remains in the cucumbers, it could cause digestive disturbances. If alum is used, be sure to measure accurately. Utensils: For heating pickling liquids, use utensils of unchipped enamelware, stainless steel, aluminum, or glass. Do not use copper, brass, galvanized, plastic, or iron utensils; these may react with acids or salts and cause undesirable color changes in the pickles or form undesirable compounds. For fermenting or brining, use a crock or stone jar, unchipped enamel-lined pan, or large glass jar, bowl, or casserole. Important: Do not use lime or alum in an aluminum or zinc or plastic. Water-Bath Canner: Any large metal container may be used for a water-bath canner if it is deep enough to allow for 1 or 2 inches of water above the tops of the jars, plus a little extra space for boiling... has a close-fitting cover... is equipped with a wire or wood rack with partitions to keep jars from touching each other and falling against the sides of the canner.

'Honest, Doc, I need glasses

By ANN RUDY
Copley News Service

My oculist is not the sort of man you'd expect him to be. He coaches on eye tests.

"Listen," I said to him, as I sat forward on a tiny stool in his office squinting at an eye chart, "I can't see that bottom line at all. It's just a blur."

He pushed the stool, which was on casters, a bit nearer the chart. I blinked and peered.

"E, F, B?" I asked.

"Try P, B, C," he whispered.

"Why should I?" I said irritably. "What good will cheating here do me when I'm trying to read the price tags at Saks?"

He smiled indulgently. "I'm telling you, doctor," I continued, "I need glasses. I've lied to myself for two years, but I'm sick of reading 'Lad, A Dog' just because the print is big."

He threw back his head and laughed. "Getting to be that age, eh?" he said. Apparently, advancing age and impending blindness were sources of merriment to him. "Look," I said, grabbing his starched lapel, "give me a pair of glasses or I'll go the 5 and 10 and buy a pair for 49 cents that will ruin my eyes. Think of your Hippocratic oath."

Finally, he opened a tiny drawer filled with sample lenses and grudgingly slipped a few into a pair of empty frames he had affixed to my nose. With the fourth set the bottom line suddenly jumped out and I read it.

"Doctor!" I exclaimed, "I can see!"

But his sense of the dramatic was flawed. Clearly, he had not seen Bette Davis in "Dark Victory." Where was his merriment now?

Dourly, he scribbled a prescription for the optometrist and looked at me gravely.

"Now when you get these glasses," he said, "don't wear them all the time."

"I won't," I lied. "Honest Injun."

And, in a way, I've kept my promise. I never wear them unless I'm looking at something. And if I want to read 'Lad, A Dog' I always take them off.
