A military helicopter complete with trained personnel, medical equipment and supplies carried Mrs. Ruth Mauldin of Adel from Albany to an Augusta hospital recently for treatment of a bone disease, multiple myeloma. The transporting helicopter was sent as an air ambulance by the newly-begun Military Assistance to Safety and Traffic program for Southwest Georgia, a medical emergency project. Mrs. Mauldin's physical condition was too severe to have her moved by ambulance, and arrangements were made for the Ft. Benning-based helicopter to fly her to the Augusta hospital. She was the third recipient of the program for the Southwest Georgia area since its organization in July.

New Sowega emergency service proves worthwhile to Adel patient

The initiation of a new emergency program in Southwest Georgia proved worthwhile recently for an Adel resident whose medical condition demanded its services.

Mrs. Ruth Mauldin of Adel, who entered the Palmyra Park Hospital in Albany several weeks ago with a bone-deteriorating disease termed as multiple myeloma, was the third patient to receive the aid of the Military Assistance to Safety and Traffic (MAST) program in the Southwest Georgia area.

After careful consideration and lengthy examinations, Mrs. Mauldin's Albany physician, Dr. C. B. Gillespie, who is also chairman of the MAST executive committee, concluded that her condition warranted moving her to the Talmadge Memorial Hospital in Augusta for further treatment.

Since Dr. Gillespie knew that Mrs. Mauldin could not be carried to the Augusta hospital by ambulance because of the extent of her illness, he immediately began making arrangements to use the emergency helicopter from the MAST program to fly her there.

The Ft. Benning, Columbus-based military helicopter, complete with crew members, medical equipment and supplies, carried the Adel resident safely to her destination on January 18 with her already-fractured leg bound in pillows to prevent further bone breakage.

When the helicopter stopped for refueling in Warner Robins, the officials of the program had pre-arranged for an ambulance to be waiting for Mrs. Mauldin to rest in before she continued her journey. She was accompanied to Augusta by her brothers, Steve Gibbs of Albany and Billy Gibbs of Sparks.

The MAST project was organized for the Southwest on July 13, 1972, by the Emergency Medical Services Advisory Board in the Albany-Dougherty County area. Its purpose is to provide helicopters and personnel for the area during emergencies.

The program's services include evacuation and transportation of patients like Mrs. Mauldin to prevent death or aggravation of an illness, immediate shipment of blood, drugs and supplies at no cost to the victims in need, and disaster aid.

The new concept supplements the existing emergency medical services by providing the military helicopters as air ambulances to be maintained in a constant state of readiness to respond efficiently to serious civilian medical emergencies.

Mrs. Mauldin returned to her home last Friday night, and the condition first believed to be fatal has progressed now to the point that doctors say she has an 85 per cent chance of leading a normal life. She will return to the hospital each month for an undetermined period for treatments.

"I just can't praise the helicopter program enough," Mrs. Mauldin says. "I had never known the program existed until now, but all the people involved were so wonderful to me, and I know all the good things that have happened are just miracles sent from God in answer to all the prayers people have offered."

The decision to request a MAST helicopter is based solely on the judgement of the law enforcement officers, physicians, or other responsible persons such as public safety officials at the scene of an emergency.

THIS WORLD OF OURS

Without trees, life as we know it would not be possible. Trees absorb carbon dioxide and return oxygen to the atmosphere. In fact, every acre of young, vigorous forest produces enough oxygen each year to supply the annual needs of 18 people. Trees also store and filter vast amounts of water and return water vapor to the atmosphere.

Billy Joe Salesman Of Month

Langdale Ford Company had a big sales month in January and Billy Joe Legette had the biggest month of all 19 salesmen. He not only was on Turner Johnson's winning contest team, but scored most sales points to win the Salesman of the Month title.

It was the first time Billy Joe was the winner. "I couldn't have done it without my friends who bought cars and trucks," he said, "and I want to thank every one of them. I hope they'll all be coming back."

Billy Joe has been with Langdale Ford Company about six years. He was born at Hahira and has lived in Lowndes County all his life.

It was a great month for the Ford Dealership. A total of 187 new cars and trucks was sold, with Billy Joe getting more than his share of the sales.

The contest is over but Little Profit is seeing to it that the good deals are still there. Billy Joe invites you to come in and test drive a great new 1973 Ford.

REPORTS FROM THE UNITED STATES SENATE

IT'S TIME FOR the Congress and the Executive branches to appraise their fiscal policies realistically and set out to achieve real spending reform. For too many years the government has tried to bury problems in taxpayers' dollars, and the results have been disastrous:

- Federal deficits from fiscal 1970 to 1973 are estimated to total more than $104 billion—more than any other period except during World War II.
- The debt of the federal government is far greater than the combined debt of all other governments of all other nations of the world.
- The government of the United States pays out over $53 million a day, more than $20 billion a year, merely on interest on its national debt.
- In the past 43 years, the United States government has had multi-billion dollar budget deficits 37 times.
- Taxpayers are frustrated by inflation. The working man is being robbed of his earnings. The elderly are being denied the full benefit of their savings and retirement allocations.

The President reflected the mood of the people when he cited the need for more responsible government spending in his Inaugural Address.

We need affirmative action to curb deficit spending—action that will produce the desired results, rather than just a lot of heat but very little light.

I HAVE INTRODUCED to the Senate a Constitutional amendment that would put a tight lid on federal spending, except in time of war or national emergency.

My amendment is designed to prohibit the federal government from spending money it does not have. I'm convinced this measure is the most effective way to halt runaway spending.

This bill would establish a working mechanism which would compel the Congress and the Executive Branch to become more responsible in appraising and allocating funds. Since the luxury of deficit spending would no longer be available, we would be insulated from the day-to-day pressures and demands which have forced us into unprecedented debt and fiscal crisis.

I believe spending reform is the single most important issue before the Congress. Deficit spending has become a way of life. Such a life style is, at best, unhealthy and, at worst, suicidal. The federal government has become addicted to deficit spending and, in the vernacular, the time has come to kick the habit.

The House Plan Of The Week

RAMBLING CONTEMPORARY OFFERS SEPARATE EATING AREAS BREAKFAST ROOM HAS TWO VIEWS

The family in this attractive two-story dwelling can have their choice of views in the well-placed comfortable breakfast room which looks out on a neatly planted court as well as through a bay window to the back yard. The formal dining area is completely separated from the breakfast room by a short passage-way. A 557 square foot garage and connecting storage room offers easy entrance to the breakfast room and just off the breakfast room behind the garage is a laundry with washer and dryer connections.

The kitchen separates the family room from the breakfast area yet allows easy access to each as well as to the dining room. A brief hall connecting the foyer to the family room gives the latter a certain degree of privacy. There is a cozy fireplace in the family room and the 220 square foot wood deck outside on the rear of the house gives even more recreation room.

A half bath conveniently located off the hall just outside the family room, prevents guests in the living room across the foyer from being disturbed.

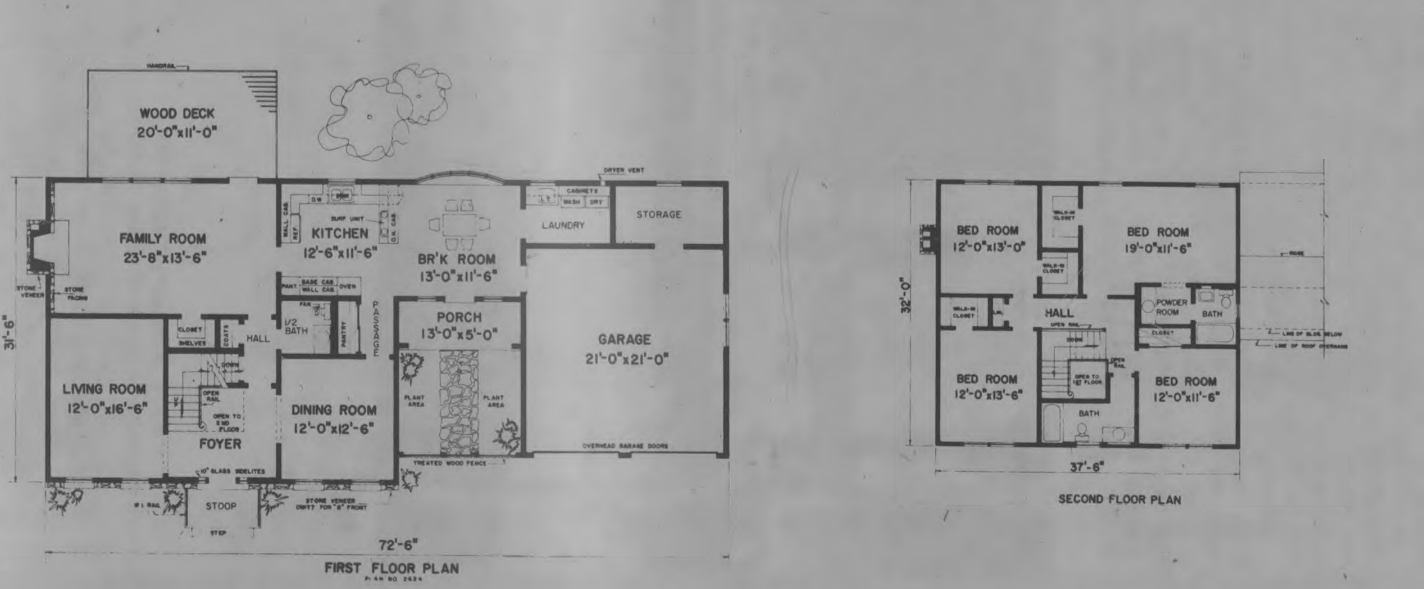

The stairway in the foyer leads both down to the 1,200 square foot basement and up the four bed rooms and two baths making up the remainder of the 2,656 square foot dwelling.

A central hall ties the four bed rooms together and a bath off the hall serves three of them. Window placement has been done in the rooms to allow as much unused wall space as possible. Two of the three similar size rooms have walk-in closets while the third has ample closet space. The master bed room features a powder room and bath and a walk-in closet.

The exterior of the contemporary dwelling (B front pictured), features attractive wood siding and a covered stoop as well as a screened court area with a 65 square foot porch at one end.

A New England exterior (B front not pictured), may also be used for this dwelling. It features a combination of stone veneer and wood siding with shuttered windows. The court is not screened but has a low wood fence in front of it.

Miss Webb, Rev. Hall united in ceremony

Miss Karen Ann Webb and Reverend Barry Lynn Hall were united in marriage Saturday afternoon, January 27 at three-thirty o'clock in the Bethany Baptist Church.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Felton Jerome Webb of Hahira and the groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Caleb Anderson Hall, Jr., of Huntsville, Ala.

The Rev. Clyde C. Stokes, pastor, performed the ceremony.

Bob Pharis, organist, rendered a program of nuptial music and accompanied Mrs. Jim Knox as she sang "The Wedding Prayer," "All My Life" and "The Hawaiian Wedding Song."

The altar was decorated with an arched candelabra in the center with standing floor baskets of white gladioli, chrysanthemums and pom-poms on either side. Branched and tree candelabra entwined with simlax and large fern trees were used in background arrangements. The prie dieu was satin draped and the family pews were marked with white satin ribbons.

The groom chose Darryl Moody of Huntsville, Ala., as his best man. Ushers were Frank Hall and Bruce Hall, also of Huntsville.

Mrs. Jim Fielding of Albany was matron of honor. Mrs. Perry Smith of Enterprise, Ala., and Miss Mary Alice Fiveash of Hahira served as bridesmaids.

The matron of honor wore a floor-length dress of baby pink bridal satin with a high round neckline and short flared sleeves. The empire waist was attached to a gathered skirt with corded piping. The bridesmaids wore blue satin gowns fashioned like the honor attendant's. They carried nosegays of daisies.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was lovely in a floor-length gown of white chantilly lace over peau de soie. The empire bodice featured a round neckline and long bell-shaped sleeves of chantilly lace. The chapel train was also of chantilly lace. Her silk illusion veil was attached to a seed pearl crown accented with rhinestones. She carried a white prayer book with a bouquet of white frenched carnations, white roses and a white orchid with white satin streamers.

Social Security

A recent change in the medicare law will be of benefit to some individuals not enrolled in the Social Security medical insurance. In the past you had to enroll in this insurance during specific periods.

Your initial enrollment period encompassed seven months. The month you reached age 65, and three months after that month, and three months before that month. If you did not enroll during this period you had to enroll within three years after the period ended.

Many folks didn't enroll, and as a result some have had second thoughts about their decision not to do so. However, due to the three year rule they were barred from coverage.

The three year enrollment limitation has been eliminated by the recent social security amendments. So if you didn't enroll in the medical insurance when you should have, even if it has been more than three years ago, you will have another opportunity during January, February and March of 1973. Your coverage will start July 1, 1973. For more information get in touch with the social security office at Valdosta, Georgia. Just dial operator and ask for WX-6500.

Miss Cathy Hensley honored at luncheons

Miss Cathy Hensley of Hahira, who is the fiancée of Tom Odom, has been commented by a number of bridal parties held in Hahira, Nashville and Valdosta. Suitman friends honored the young bride-to-be with two luncheons last week, which were both beautiful and well enjoyed.

On Friday, February 2, Mrs. A. Phelps and Mrs. H. H. Armichael honored Cathy with a luncheon at the King of the Road in Valdosta. The T-shaped tables were covered with lovely cloths and held beautiful arrangements of mixed flowers in soft pastel shades. Cathy, a lovely blonde, wore a becoming laid dress with a Cymbidium orchid corsage. Sixteen guests enjoyed the lovely luncheon.

The Thomasville Country Club was the setting last Saturday, February 3, for a luncheon given for Miss Cathy Hensley, and among the guests present were both mothers of the young couple, Mrs. John Hensley and Mrs. Rete Odom. The dining area was very beautifully decorated and the focal points on the tables were baskets of mixed spring flowers in many lovely colors. The honoree wore a beautiful dress in green with a pink and white Camellia corsage. Hostesses for the lovely luncheon were Mrs. Russell Hunter, Mrs. H. N. West, Mrs. Russell Davis, Mrs. M. H. Long and her daughter, Suzanne Long, who is a sorority sister of Cathy's at Valdosta State College. Twenty-seven attended the luncheon and all wished Cathy and Tom much happiness. Their wedding is planned for Saturday, February 10, at the First Baptist Church in Hahira.

Tips for Homemakers

By Ted M. Phelps, Home economist

Furniture Arrangement:
The den or family room in the home is where television viewing or listening to music is centered. Some homes have furniture coming up with a good arrangement for this room.
Ted Phelps stated that university of Georgia cooperative Extension Service specialist Claire Simpson, has a few suggestions for furniture arrangement in the den or family room.
Relate the television set to the design of the fireplace wall if one is present. Another good idea is to place the television in the den to make it an integral part of the storage wall of the room. It could also move the television out of sight when not used. Still another idea is to place the television on swivel units so that it can be placed against walls or cabinets and turned back those wanting to see it. Use for a phonograph or an F-tereo set in the den, the most desirable location is to combine with other units or built-in storage. Records could be housed in one corner of the room or one part of a wall could be planned to house them.

Try to arrange furniture in the den so that a variety of activities may be carried on independently of one another.
Living Room Traffic Patterns:
Living room traffic patterns are determined by the arrangement of the furniture in the room and the location of doors.
Doors need grouping close together in a living room. Placing the doors in one corner so traffic is across one end of the room is good. In other words, avoid cross traffic through the center of the living room.
Poor traffic lanes in a living room create interruptions, so plan the traffic away from the conversation areas of the living room.
Control of traffic also reduces wear on floor coverings and reduces house cleaning efforts, too.

To Line or Not To Line Draperies:
When making draperies at home several factors need consideration.
Most tailored draperies look better and last longer if a lining is used.
A lining for draperies protects the drapery fabric from soil and reduces sun fading. A lining adds body to the draperies by helping panels hang straight and full. Also, a lining for draperies gives uniformity to the outside of the house, especially when a patterned or colored fabric is used.
The color of the lining needs to be in keeping with the exterior of the house but should be in a solid hue and in a neutral hue, too. The width of the lining should be the same width as the drapery so the seams are matched.
Lowndes County Extension Service offices have information about making draperies. If you need assistance in selecting fabrics for draperies, call our office 242-1536 and ask for the booklet "Let's Know Drapery Fabrics". If you need help in making draperies ask for "Do-It-Yourself Draperies."

Because the first Chautauqua Assembly in 1874 was meant to support Sunday School teaching, a 175-foot-long relief model of Palestine was constructed, with Lake Chautauqua representing the Mediterranean. Rebuilt and enlarged to 350 feet, the 99-year-old model now is used in Chautauqua discussions of Middle East history and politics.

Gospel And Country Music Notes

BY BARBARA HENDLEY

ERNEST TUBB was surprised when the Opry honored him with a big cake on the stage for his 30th year on The Grand Ole Opry. Ernest joined the Opry in January of 1943. The next Saturday MARTY ROBINS celebrated his 20th year on the Opry. He planned to shock everyone with the news, but it turned out to be a surprise to him. Then three years ago Marty had open-heart surgery.

New Year's Day marked the death of the late great HANK WILLIAMS 20 years ago, who died with a heart attack on the road to a show date, lying in the back seat of his car. He was only 29 years old...

JERRY LEE LEWIS WENT CRAZY ON GRAND OLE OPRY DEBUT
By John Pugh
"The Greatest Live Show On Earth" played on one of the world's greatest stages Saturday night, Jan. 20, when Jerry Lee Lewis - after nearly two decades as a headliner - finally made his debut at the Grand Ole Opry.

The Killer, as he is known to one and all, simply knocked them dead.
He killed them with his music. Country with more soul than anybody else since Hank Williams. Rock with more pounding, driving, frenetic piano playing and "singing" this side of Fujiyama. He killed them with a music that is an extension of his gigantic personality, an embodiment of his turbulent life style, a vocal and visual picture of a man's entire existence. From "Me and Bobby McGee" to "Chantilly Lace," from "Another Time, Another Place" to "Johnny B. Goode," from "Waiting For A Train" to "Whole Lotta Shakin' Going On," he displayed his berserkly hypnotic music that could only be played and sung by the most unique musical personality America has ever produced. And for one of the few times in his life Jerry Lee consented to do an encore. Three of them.

He killed them with his showmanship. Playing the piano with almost every part of his anatomy, shaking his legs back and forth at the piano stool like a man who can't hold it another minute, flinging off his modern art sport coat, he was never more in his glory. It was all there in spades: the arrogant manner, the haughty demeanor, the regal aura that have probably caused Jerry Lee Lewis to be both praised and damned more than any other entertainer.

But another side of Jerry Lee was also shown at the Opry. After a few numbers he stopped his show and called Opry pianist Del Wood out on stage. Following a short but moving speech on Mrs. Wood's graciousness and compassion, he invited her to duet with him on the rag-time piano song, "Down Yonder." It was an incomparable sight: Jerry Lee Lewis, the hedonistic, lascivious Killer playing alongside Del Wood, one of the great ladies of country music. Finishing their number, they spontaneously embraced as the applause rose to a tumult. It was the only time Jerry Lee Lewis has ever shared the spotlight with someone else.

He killed them with his comments. Acknowledging that it had taken him more than 15 years to play the Opry, he explained what he had been doing all that time was waiting for his chance. "The Killer kept hanging it in," he said in his patented raspy, semi-Bogart voice. To long-time Jerry Lee fans, which was everybody, it was one of his all-time classic pronouncements.

Finally, I think more than anything else the following vignette shows how The Killer killed them. Somewhere during Jerry Lee's playing and singing and shaking and shouting a friend of mine started hollering, repeatedly, "He's going crazy! He's going crazy!"

Jaycee rattlesnakes for Fitzgerald

Recorded only by shark attack, the awesome image of a venomous, hypofanged, viper sed, and zinging meaningful rattlesnakes, perhaps unveils the minds of men faster in thoughts of death by chain saw! And perhaps nowhere else on earth is the Eastern diamondback Rattler more red or comparable to a chain saw's buzz and lightning flash here in South Central Georgia.

Beginning Saturday, February 10, from 1:00 P.M. through 4:00 P.M., bystanders, curators, participants, or the naturally curious can witness hourly snake handling demonstrations with live rattlers. Questions regarding rattlers will be welcomed. There will be a rattlesnake milking exhibition as well as cooked rattlesnake meat samples for exotic, if not curious, gourmet tastes.
Admission for adults is 50 cents and children 25 cents. The Fitzgerald Rattlesnake Round-up will be held at the City Park on North Main Street in Fitzgerald. Everyone is welcomed.

Financial investment in scouting pays dividends

Quality Scouting for boys in this area does cost money, but the dividends are the 2,600 members who are getting a practical program of character development, citizenship training, and mental and physical fitness.

Mr. I. H. Boyette, council finance chairman, explained that the cost to bring the BSA program to boys in the Alapaha Council is shared by the boy himself, his unit, the organization that is chartered to use the program, and the local and national organization.

Boyette explained that the boy pays a national membership fee, buys his own uniform, books, and equipment, and pays dues into his unit treasury—preferably earning the money for these personal expenses.

His troop or pack pays its way from the boys' weekly dues and money earned through approved projects.

organization, which owns the unit, is responsible for a meeting place, competent volunteer leadership who pay their own expenses, and other resources.

The Alapaha Council prepares an operating budget to serve the units, and these funds come from United Ways and the annual sustaining membership enrollment among members, parents, and friends of Scouting.

Finally, Boyette said, the national organization coordinates and stimulates the program nationally and develops program materials. These services are paid from membership fees and other income that is put back into the program.

The Alapaha Council is a member agency of the United Fund of Lowndes County which provides about 85 percent of the local operating budget in Lowndes County. In Atkinson, Ben Hill, Berrien, Brooks, Clinch, Coffee, Cook, Echols, Irwin, Jeff Davis, and Lanier Counties where there is no United Way, a separate Scout drive is conducted for financial support.

Adel Hospital Board members 'Fired'

County Commissioners place themselves on authority

(From Adel News)

In an unprecedented move, five members of the Hospital Authority were relieved of their duties by the Board of Commissioners Monday and then two other members handed in their resignations to the Board.

As it stands today, only two members of the nine-member Authority remain on the Board.

In addition to removing five members from the Authority, the Board of Commissioners voted to appoint themselves to the Authority.

Notified by letter that they were being removed from the Authority were Board Chairman W. A. (Bill) Smith of Sparks, Vice Chairman Dallace Jones of Adel, J. Cash Register of Adel, Dan Cowart of Sparks and L. E. Crawford, Sr., of Lenox.

Coming on the heels of this action, Authority members Ralph Deen of Adel and Warren Robinson of Lenox gave their resignations to the Board of Commissioners, who appoint members of the Authority.

Members James Burnette of Masee and A. E. Wildes of Cecil remain on the Hospital Board.

Following the change in the makeup of the Authority, there are now seven members. In addition to the three commissioners, William Day of Adel and Roy Godwin of Lenox join Burnette and Wildes on the Authority.

The commissioners cited problems at the hospital as the reason for the shakeup.

In the letter to all Authority members, it was stated, "After studying the financial situation of the hospital, we find that it will be necessary to raise approximately $250,000.00 to install a sprinkling system and to pay past due accounts and a note at Farmers and Merchants Bank for $50,000.00 plus interest for the hospital. After careful thought and consideration, the Board of Commissioners feel that if we are solely responsible to the taxpayers for such a large sum as this, as well as approximately $460,000.00 for the nursing home; it becomes necessary and a duty of the Commissioners to change the number of members of the Hospital Board as well as a part of the present membership of the Board.

"Effective February 5, 1973, a resolution will change the number of the Hospital Board from nine to seven members. This Board will then consist of the persons whose terms began January 1, 1973 and the members of the Board of County Commissioners who by virtue of their office will constitute the other three members of the Hospital Board.

"This resolution is so drawn that in the future the Board of County Commissioners, whoever they are, will automatically serve as Hospital Board members by virtue of their office.

"This action is not to be taken as any discredit to the integrity or character of the board members that are affected."

The letter also stated "...this is meant strictly in a friendly manner and in the best interest of the county and the hospital."

County Commission Chairman James G. Connell said the commissioners voted to put themselves on the board "because the Hill Burton people suggested that we get on the board."

"After all," he said, "we are responsible for finances at the hospital. It just makes good business sense to know what's going on."

Former Authority Chairman Bill Smith said that Commissioner Connell had attended "about 95 per cent of the hospital board meetings and already knew what was going on."

"In fact," Smith charged, "James is the only commissioner who has attended a hospital board meeting in the past year and if they don't know what's going on, it's their own fault." He added that all commissioners are invited to every meeting.

Smith stated that he resented the "underhanded and unjust manner in which this was done. I personally offered to resign if I was in any way hindering the operation of the hospital and was told by two commissioners that this was not necessary, that they were not out to get anybody off the board."

Connell admitted today that the wrong approach was used in changing the makeup of the board. "I thought this was the easiest and most diplomatic way without having any hard feelings. If I was in error, it was an honest blunder. I was sincere in what I was doing."

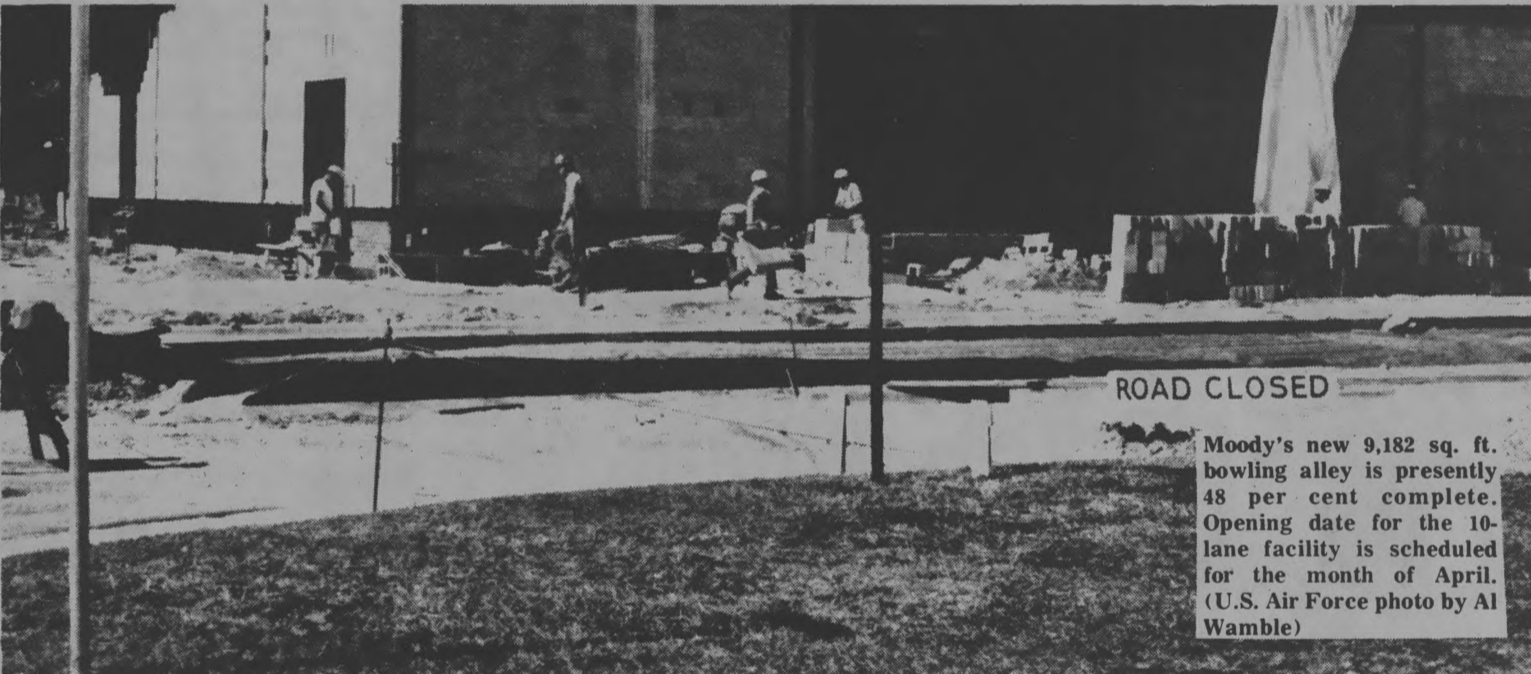

In the resignation of Ralph Deen from the board, he stated that he would not be a "rubber stamp for anyone, including the county commission." He said that with the commissioners on the board, there would be too much politics and he would not have anything to do with it.

The second member, Warren Robinson, gave "personal reasons" for resigning. "It was taking too much time away from my job," he stated.

Deen, who has been finance officer for the Authority since December, labeled as "a lie" the statement which appeared in the Valdosta Times Tuesday that the hospital's checking account was "several thousand dollars overdrawn."

"This is just not true. There is money in our checking account and our payroll and expenses are being taken care of," Deen said.

This has been confirmed by both the bookkeeper and auditor of the hospital, Deen stated. "The hospital's account has not been overdrawn since I began my duties as finance officer, and I resent the statement by James Connell that it is overdrawn," said Deen.

Friday, February 9, opens the Second Annual Birdog Field Trials, which is sponsored by the Alapaha Field Trial Club.

The Field Trials are scheduled for the Grand Bay Public Hunting Area, located 8 miles south of Lakeland on Georgia 122 between Lakeland and Valdosta. Signs placed at each entrance will alert spectators and participants to the correct area.

There are seven stakes available to participants with entry fees from $5.00 to $25.00. There are three open classes with 70 per cent of the entries split 50, 30, 20 between first, second, and third place winners. Trophies go to the dog winning each of the four amateur classes.

Of special interest to participants is the drawing determining which-dog-runs-when. The drawing is scheduled for 8 p.m., Thursday night, before the trials on Friday and will be held at the Farmers and Merchants Bank in Lakeland. Entries may be phoned in (482-3585) at time of drawing. All entries close at drawing time.

Alapaha Field Trial Club President, Paul R. Johnson of Valdosta, and Trials Coordinator Ralph C. Berryhill of Lakeland, extend an enthusiastic welcome to everyone.

"Heck," Paul was overheard, "there'll be more clean fun and dog talk swapped around here than handshakes at a political rally!"

"Yea'n, we want everybody to stop by and watch these fine young dogs work," Berryhill chimed, agrinning!
