Pine Cone Bids For National Ratings

SHOWS PROMISE OF WINNING HONORS IN SCHOLASTIC PRESS RATINGS

The 1935 Pine Cone, year book of G. S. W. C., is an outstanding success and shows promise of being another all-American winner. No department failed to bear its proper share of the annual and the result is a book that is the pride of the entire group and over which the staff may well be pleased.

Winnie Davis, of Valdosta, has served as one of the most efficient Art Editors to ever serve on a Pine Cone. Her little sketches are most amusing and highly adapted, each for the particular phase of life at G. S. W. C. which they represent. Her caricatures are so symbolic as to make them the most popular and talked about portion of the annual.

The theme of the annual is new and most delightful. The four best years of life, freshman, sophomore, junior and senior years at G. S. W. C., have furnished an excellent and unique base for it. Away from Shakespeare and the usual run of classical theme builders, the editors and staff turned to Mother Goose and her verses. To begin each division of the Pine Cone a verse from our first foster mother, Mother Goose was adapted. In this manner a thoroughly new type of college annual has been created.

The arrangement of the pictures is a decided improvement over former Pine Cones. This year they are so placed as to attract the most attention and at the same time give the deserved recognition to the most outstanding members of the various clubs and other activities. The most active of the clubs received more pictures, write-ups and space in general as by rights they should, but no extra-curricular activity was admitted; the members, officers and aims of all were expressed in the most attractive manner possible.

The play on the old traditions and annual events of G. S. W. C. will serve to endear the 1935 Pine Cone to the hearts of the present students in the years long after they have ceased to be students. The lovely pictures and few but significant words about each of the beloved events that have become again history, even at this early date their occurrence, fill the hearts of each participant with joyful memories but at the same time a tiny throb that they are gone and will come no more.

One of the most beautiful of the features of the new annual is its new type of cover. The metallic blends serve to give it beauty and uniqueness as well as a unique appearance. The lovely pine on the cover will stand symbolic of the tall graceful pines of G. S. W. C. and bring them back into the memory of her students as long as they live.

Turnbull Installed As S. G. A. President

Last Saturday night in a simple and impressive ceremony, Miss Mildred Turnbull, of Moultrie, became the new Student Government President of G. S. W. C., succeeding Miss Henry Kate Gardner, Camilla, who has served for the year of 1934-1935. Addresses were made to the entire student body by both the retiring and entering presidents.

To the soft strains of the Pine Branch played by Miss Judy Cochran, of Camilla, the two presidents entered wearing graduation robes. After the entrance the group sang the old school song. Miss Gardner wore the cap of office while Miss Turnbull entered bareheaded.

The address of Miss Gardner was outstanding. Her words were such that inspired those students who are returning next year to higher ideals, made them realize what it means to be Student Government president and brought about resolutions to stand by Miss Turnbull next year.

Miss Gardner caught her audience's attention by comparing her feelings to that of a man about to be shot who is given one last word and wonders what that will be. She quoted Green Pastures to say "being S. G. A. president ain't always the bed of roses it seems." She brought out the fact that law and order are natural things and it had been her aim as S. G. A. president to show the students that she was not a thing to rule them but rather to help them keep the natural law of law and order as their leader. In science, life, character, and even literature we must have law and order, a large student group is no exception to this rule, it is the building place for us to equip ourselves to live in the complex civilization that is to be our lives.

While law and order are natural and necessary they are not responsible for all the good in the world. The right is not held by individuals, a good moral sense in the individual is required to make them natural and not a forced and artificial factor, and here the moral responsibility falls on the Misses Elizabeth Larisey of Valdosta, and Louise Ambos of Savannah, served as co-editors; Miss Estelle Roberts, Cordele, was literary editor, and Misses Carolyn Brim and Elizabeth Wilkes got the ads that made the annual possible.

Five outstanding members of the senior class have their picture in the feature section. They are: Misses Eleanor Bailey, Douglas, most representative; Henry Kate Gardner, Camilla, most versatile; Annie Belle Weatherford, Savannah, best sport; Virginia Sheppard, Savannah, most attractive; and Elizabeth Larisey, Valdosta, most outstanding lay student.

Upper Rotunda Houses Exhibit

GROUP FROM GRAND CENTRAL GALLERIES; DIRECTOR OF SOUTHERN ART PROJECTS TALKS TO STUDENTS.

A group of paintings from the Grand Central Art Galleries in New York have been on exhibition in the upper Rotunda of Ashley Hall for the past week. They were brought to the college through the Student Activities Fee Committee, and through the cooperation of the Southern Art Projects.

These paintings represent a group of modern American painters and a few foreign artists; however, most of the collection featured American art. The collection was a miscellaneous group.

On Friday morning, Miss Leila Mechlin, director of the Southern Art Projects, spoke to the students in the Upper Rotunda. She discussed the meaning of great art, and some of the recent trends. After her talk she explained the meaning of the pictures to a group of students interested in art.

This exhibition is one of the finest that has been on the campus this year.

Rifle Shooting Now at G. S. W. C.

A course in rifle shooting is now aiding the students at the Georgia State Womens College to be proficient in one of the last remaining frontiers of men's sports. In the old days it was considered enough to know embroidery and a smattering of French, but today the girl who can hit 22 bull's eyes out of a possible 25 receives more admiration than the girl who wears a Phi Beta Kappa Key.

The students are shooting every Thursday afternoon on the rifle range. After three weeks of instruction, Miss Dorothy Ogletree, Savannah, and Miss Rachel Coxwell, Leesburg, are able to hit 22 out of 25; Miss Virginia Sheppard is able to hit 21.

Regulation .22 Army rifles are used in the class. Rifery is fast becoming one of the most popular sports on the campus, replacing tennis and archery. Today a girl's one ambition consists of being able to shatter the targets on the range.

CHORUS WILL SING FRIDAY EVENING

The Valdosta Male Chorus, under the direction of Mr. James Dasher, will present a program of songs and skits to the student body on Friday evening at eight o'clock in the Rotunda. The Male Chorus is one of the best in this section of the state. Each year the Chorus puts on a minstrel which is one of the high lights in the entertainment program of the city.

Officers Chosen For Year 1935-36

Four outstanding clubs on the campus have recently elected their officers for the year 1935-36.

Miss Sara Bingham, of Valdosta, will be president of the Fine Arts Club. Miss Bingham is an honor art student, having belonged to the Fine Arts Club for three years. She is also a member of the I. R. C., the Glee Club, and Cotillion Club. Miss Martha Gay, of Quitman, will be secretary-treasurer.

Miss Louise Hardy, of Quitman, was elected president of the English Club, and Miss Ames Watkins, of Metcalf, vice-president. Miss Hardy has been an honor student for three years, she has served as secretary-treasurer of the English Club this year, is a member of the Campus Canopy staff and of Entre Nous. Miss Watkins was a transfer this year from Andrew College, at Cuthbert, where she belonged to Chi Delta Phi, national honorary literary sorority. She has also been a member of the English Club, Campus Canopy staff, and Phi Kappa Athletic Association this year.

Miss Frances Garbutt, of Valdosta, will be president of the Valdosta Club, and Miss Lorene Thomas, of Valdosta, vice-president. Miss Garbutt has been vice-president of the Fine Arts Club this year. Other officers are Miss Dorothy Morgan, of Valdosta, secretary, and Miss Nettie Johnson, of Valdosta, treasurer.

Miss Martiele Lundy, of Boston, was elected president of the Philharmonic Club. Miss Lundy is an outstanding piano student, and a pupil of Miss Gladys Warren. She has belonged to the Philharmonic Club for two years. Miss Edith Bennett, of Savannah, was elected secretary-treasurer.

Vesper Programs

MOTHERS' DAY AND TALK ON COURAGE FEATURED ON PROGRAM

At Thursday evening's vesper service one of the freshmen again proved the ability of that group. Miss Blanche Mabbett, of Quitman, gave an instructive and challenging talk on Courage. The program was under the leadership of Miss Eloise Ogletree, of Savannah.

Sunday evening, Miss Hopper spoke on Mothers' Day, stressing a slightly different idea in regard to the significance of that day. She said that the important thing for young college women to think of is what kind of mothers they will be. The main requirement of a mother in this changing world of today is that she be the best-all-round woman possible. Miss Priscilla Kelley, of Savannah, was in charge of the program.

FOR NEXT YEAR

Lists have been posted on the bulletin boards requesting students who will be interested in next year's publications to sign up. Now is the time to express your desire to be on the staff of the Canopy, Pine Branch, or Pine Cone for next year.

This is the first year that the Canopy has been on the list of publications, but it has had a successful year and is now established as one of the main publications. However, in getting started, most of the work has been done by a few students. That is not right! The Canopy is the students' paper, and they should feel that interest in it, it is not one person's or two persons' paper, it belongs to the whole student body, and it is they who make it possible.

Plans for next year include Collegiate Digest, a national college weekly rotogravure section, and an organized staff. More features, and a larger size are also listed in the plans.

The whole thing, however, amounts to this. There cannot be a paper without the support of the whole student body. We believe that they like the paper enough to be willing to pledge their support for next year, and to help in establishing our publications in the front rank.

The Canopy is one of our most promising activities—a college paper with the interest of the students at heart, and the desire to build up the finest customs at our alma mater.

A bigger and better paper can be had for next year with the wholehearted support of the students themselves.

So if you are interested in The Canopy in particular, or publications in general, please sign on the sheet on the bulletin boards in West and Ashley Halls.

A DEBATING TEAM

At the first of the year the Canopy supported the idea of a college debating team, but somewhere during the year the plans fell through. The paper is again putting the idea before the students who are interested in order that a team might be built up next year.

Requests were made this year by the following schools to be allowed to engage us in debate: Emory University, Abraham Baldwin College, The Georgia State College for Women at Milledgeville, The Mississippi State Teachers' College, and the University of Florida. Each of these colleges was willing to debate us in Valdosta, so lack of funds was no excuse.

If a regular Debating Forum was formed during the first weeks of school, the Phi Delta Kappa subject chosen and discussed, teams formed, and a manager selected to arrange the debates, we see no reason why G. S. W. C. shouldn't have one of the best teams in South Georgia. We certainly have the material and the opportunity.

Leonora Dufour

To steal from Will Rogers: "All I know this week is what I read in the papers."

Washington Merry-Go-Round reports that there was a subtle significance behind the frequent use of the word "democracy" in President Roosevelt's fireside chat of recent date. It seems that if Hooey Long should decide, if he should decide to run for president in the next election that he would be cited as an example of foster parent to undemocratic beliefs—the arch Fascist of America. That would mean a great deal to voters in the more conservative sections of the United States.

Another great horse joins the ranks of the immortals in the racing world. Omaha, after capturing the Kentucky derby, wins the 45th Preakness, second only to the Derby in the heart of racing fans. Omaha is the son of the Derby winner of a few years ago, Gallant Fox.

It probably seems a bit peculiar to some people that we run this column every week, so we think explanations are in order. This column was originated with the idea that college girls, with studies and outside activities rarely read more than the headlines of state papers. But they will glance over the editorial page of their own paper (we're incurable optimists). This column is intended to give them some idea of the outside world, beyond the campus.

CINEMA CYNIC

Leila Urquhart

I don't know how many of you appreciate Guy Kibbee but he is rated as very good and usually has a lot of fans, so I suppose that there are quite a few of you in the lot by the law of average. Anyway, tonight is still bank night with him starring in Mary Jane's Pa.

This is truly to be a week of scares for the movie-goers. Both the Ritz and the Palace are playing excellent ones. Tomorrow and Friday at the Ritz will be Lionel Barrymore, Bela Lugosi, and lovely Elizabeth Allen in the Mark of The Vampire. If you want a good, wierd thrill right down to your toes this is the picture that can truly give it to you. It is the best out since the Fu Manchu pictures and Dracula.

The Palace decided to let you get thoroughly over the Mark of The Vampire before offering you the Bride of Frankenstein. There can't be a one of you who has forgotten Frankenstein and the story of the bride should draw you. It is to be shown Monday and Tuesday.

Monday and Tuesday at the Ritz George Raft and Ben Bernie are appearing in Stolen Harmony. It has a good orchestra and leader so the music is swell. I'd like it just because of George Raft if no other reason, and I hope that a whole gang will agree with me. Not that I would mind being unique in the least—but if I were the only person to like him I am afraid that he would soon lose a lot of good parts and then I could not see him and I would be very sad. There isn't much danger though for he is good and this particular picture is rated very highly.

Did you enjoy last week and Monday, but most of all yesterday, with The Iron Duke? Arliss is the top English-American player and comes very near the top of any list. He is truly an actor of the old school and—why talk about him, there is so little poor I can say.

There really isn't so very much else this week, though it is about time we had time to breathe deeply between pictures that we can afford to miss. Tonight at the Ritz is Ken Maynard in Old Sante Fe. Friday there will be The Princess Charming with Evelyn Mae; Saturday, John Wayne in Telegraph Trail. That is all.

Did you all see the confession of the beautiful blonde bachelor girl Alice Faye in the Constitution Sunday? Maybe some bachelor girls are really old maids after all, you never can tell how far beauty really goes. That would be an awful disillusion to at least some of us, maybe someone had intended to be a bachelor girl and I resent Miss Faye's robbing it of its glory.

Ginger Rogers and Fred Astaire have made another dancing picture entitled Top Hat. I suspect that you will await that with the same expectation that we have all waited for Shirley Temple and Lionel Barrymore in the Little Colonel, which incidentally has been to Quitman, Albany and every where else around us and I for one am beginning to doubt that we will ever get to see it. It will break my poor little heart if I don't, and I know several who will agree with me. I wonder if we could have any effect on the management in begging him to get it for us?

Harlow has joined the rank of dancing stars. That young lady is trying to run Mae West a competition. By the way, did you know that Miss West is one of the most versatile of actresses in Hollywood? If you think that she is only a sexy player you ought to see the variety of parts she has taken in the length of time she has been on the stage and screen. Even Eva le Gallienne may well be envious of the list, she has been Salvation Nell, Peg O My Heart, and everything else you might think of, or at least something just like it.

COLLEGE ENTERTAINS WITH TEA FOR CLUB WOMEN

The Georgia State Womans College entertained the Federation of Women's Clubs Wednesday afternoon with a tea in the Rotunda.

Guests were met at the door by Misses Carolyn Brim and Judy Cochran, students of the college.

Punch was served from a prettily decorated table placed in front of one of the large fireplaces in the Rotunda.

In the receiving line were Dr. and Mrs. Frank Reade, and Miss Hopper, of the college faculty; Mrs. H. B. Ritchie, state president of the Federation of Clubs, and Mrs. W. H. Oliver, president of the Wymodausis club.

Refreshments were served by a group of college girls. Misses Henry Kate Gardner, Virginia Sheppard, and Mary Elizabeth Weatherford presided at the tea table and Misses Virginia Kirkland, Mildred Turnbull, Clara Davis Adams, Mary Askew, Ruth Jones, Marjorie Groover, Eleanor Bailey, Judy Cochran, and Carolyn Brim served the refreshments.

A feature of the afternoon was the display of pictures from the Grand Central Art Galleries, New York City, which were on exhibition in the Upper Rotunda.

ALUMNAE ASSOCIATION HAS GARDEN PARTY

A delightful event of Friday afternoon was the garden party for the members of G. S. W. C. Alumnae Association, which was held in the park south of the College.

Guests were met by Miss Frances Dekle, and those in the receiving line were Miss Elizabeth McRee, Miss Annie P. Hopper, Miss Iva Chandler, and Miss Clarice Ivey.

An interesting exhibit, arranged by Miss Patterson and Miss Deariso, was that of the activities of the college year, shown by pictures in the year book and the annual.

The guest book was kept by Mrs. J. C. Thoroughman, of Changchow, China, who is on a visit to relatives and friends in this country.

On account of the rain, the party progressed and moved to the porch of the Woman's Building, where refreshments were served by Mrs. Richard Sanders, Miss Clare Bray, Mrs. O. C. Carruthers, and Miss Chloe Ivey.

The guests then went inside the Woman's Building, where an interesting program, arranged by Mrs. Hollie Howell, was given.

Mrs. Glenn Johnson made an interesting talk on "What the G. S. W. C. Alumnae Could Do For the College." This was followed by a violin solo by O. A. Toole, accompanied by Mary Winn Greer, and delightful reading by Nell Zipperer.

Mrs. Joe Durrenberger then extended an invitation to a luncheon club to be organized by members of the Valdosta Alumnae, the first luncheon meeting to be held next Friday at 1 o'clock at the Hazel Briggs tea room.

student. It has been the aim of Miss Gardner to help them find this responsibility and shoulder it as they should. She pointed out to them that anyone can be a sheep and follow the gang but it is the duty of every G. S. W. C. student to her Alma Mater to uphold great dynamic standards of living and show themselves as reared in the knowledge of how to live this life through their education.

Miss Gardner then asked the juniors and underclassmen who will be back next year to remember her words and support Miss Turnbull next year in her plans. She quoted from a judge who was being forced to sentence a criminal to beg to students to spare their president. She said, "I am a human being like yourself and ought to be spared this, but when you rise against the law and order of things I am the one appointed to right them no matter what the cost."

Miss Annie P. Hopper, dean of women, administered the oath of office to Miss Turnbull before the student body. Miss Gardner then gave to Miss Turnbull the cap of office and retired.

Miss Turnbull's address was short and dynamic. She entered into a discussion of her plans for next year with such force that on hearing her one could not help but believe that she will succeed in bringing into full existence the goal that Miss Gardner has started the S. G. A. of G. S. W. C. toward: "the perfect honor system, perfect understanding between student body and faculty and the great dynamic standard of individual living."

She based her talk on advent in the life of a minister of her acquaintance. A man addressed this minister with the question "Is life to be endured or to be enjoyed?" The minister replied "It is neither one nor the other, it is an interlude to prepare us for the supreme goal, Heaven." So it is with student government. It is a brief interlude to prepare us for the supreme goal, to teach the world that it has the wrong view point on life and must itself strive for a goal through its individuals.

If we sit back and admit that we as students are defeated by our laziness and lack of responsibility we might make our lives a bed of roses but we fail to build our character to stand the strain of the outside world. Miss Turnbull begged that those students who elected her support her, sacrifice with her and help her install an honor system that will be known throughout the country of colleges and will overcome all obstacles.

CLUB NEWS

The Fine Arts Club held its weekly meeting in the upper Rotunda Friday evening, May 10, to discuss the artists whose works have been on exhibition there for the past week, and to correlate their studies of the artist with his work of art. This exhibition, sponsored by the various clubs of the school, was secured from the Grand Central Art Galleries in New York through the Southern Art Projects.

The club also made plans for next year with Miss Sara Bingham as the new president, and Miss Martha Gay as secretary and treasurer. After a very successful year under the leadership of Miss Nellie Mae Gannon, the club plans an even wider range of activities for the future.

SPORTS

Mary Agnes Roane

Well, the Lambdas have done it again—they won the last baseball game by a one-point margin, 5-4. The teams were evenly matched and it was only by hard playing that the Lambdas scored the winning point. The Lambdas were leading in the first half of the game, but in the fifth inning, the Kappas tightened up and the rest of the game was very close.

Unfortunately, Vangie Trimble, one of the Kappa mainstays, slipped as she reached the first base and sprained her elbow. It is hoped that Vangie will soon be back in the lineup.

Instead of "Moonlight and Roses" it's Moonlight and Horses for the horseback-riders. Several moonlight rides have been made and more have been planned for this week.

These riders are coming up in the world, and maybe off too, for some of the advanced students have taken to jumping. Yes, sir, they'll be riding in the Kentucky Derby before you know it.

Because of the injury to Vangie Trimble's arm, she and Mildred Turnbull defaulted to Una Ritch and Elizabeth Macon in the Doubles Tennis Tournament last week. Tough luck, girls, better luck next time!

This week started the Singles Tennis Tournament. Many girls have entered so may the best man win.

Tournaments seem to be all the rage this quarter for plans are being made for a golf and an archery tournament to be held in the near future.

Miss Leonora Ivey and Miss Elizabeth McRee entertained the Athletic Council Tuesday afternoon with an out-door supper at Twin Lakes. Games were played and dancing was enjoyed.

Every one has been so busy this week answering chain letters that there has been no time to do anything else, however, in my spare time I have managed to find that Vangie has fickle Rete's affection at the moment, he seems to like Moultrie girls . . . John is still faithful to Ann . . . Thank goodness for a few stable men . . . Woody also has changed from the Senior House to Converse . . . C. J. still courts the Seniors, however . . . Larisey takes the prize this week for the dumbest remark, we don't blame you tho, John was around Mary Nell so much that we often thought that he was part of the family . . . Gentle advice to a certain little Freshman who thinks she has one of the Campus Sheiks sewed up, she will have a crude awakening some day . . . Harry must be a power-house . . . Hulda just can't stay away . . . Bootsie goes in for curly-headed blondes in a big way, her latest annex is one of the Golfing Olivers . . . Elizabeth Macon is still holding her own as one of the most popular Freshmen . . . Myra, however, seems to be losing her grip . . .
