University System Council Opens Two Day Session Here On Friday; Notables Attend

Superintendents Will Discuss Problems at Forum Here

Superintendent C. W. Miller of Woodbine Will Lead Discussions.

Under the leadership of Superintendent C. W. Miller of Woodbine, a number of school superintendents of the second and eighth districts will meet at the college on Saturday to discuss problems of curriculum revision. This meeting is being held at this time in order that the superintendents may receive advice on their particular problems from the members of the university council who are authorities in their particular field.

The opening hour will be at eleven o'clock on Saturday morning. The address of welcome will be delivered by President Frank Reade of the Georgia State Womans College. Superintendent Miller will speak on "The Present Status of the Georgia Program for the Improvement of Institutions in the 8th District." Following his speech a discussion of the problems in the curriculum study program will be led by Miss Ethel Adams of Moultrie and Mr. E. V. Whelchel of Adel. Mr. Ralph Newton superintendent of schools in Waycross will discuss "How to Make Use

Deans of Women Will Meet With Council

Deans of Women from the following colleges will meet concurrently with the University Council here on Friday and Saturday: University of Georgia; S. G. T. C.; Georgia Southwestern; Middle Georgia College; West Georgia College; South Georgia State College; North Georgia College; and Abraham Baldwin Agricultural College.

A discussion of common problems of the deans will be held and a program of talks has been arranged. Miss Annie P. Hopper, dean of women at G. S. W. C., will hold a discussion on the "Relation of the Dean of Women to the Administration and the Academic Program." Other discussions on the relations of the deans to social programs, religious programs and health programs will be led by Miss Mamie Veazy, dean of women at S. G. T. C., Miss Sara Ward, dean of women at West Georgia College, and Mrs. Alex Rhodes, dean of women at the University of Georgia, respectively.

An entertainment program has also been arranged by Miss Hopper.

A WELCOME FROM G. S. W. C.

The student body of the Georgia State Womans College extends its heartiest welcome to the administrative council of University System of Georgia, to the members of the various committees reporting to the council, to the superintendents of the Second and Eighth Districts, to the visiting physicians, and to the deans of women who are meeting at our college Friday and Saturday.

It is indeed an honor to have these officials visit our college. Valdosta, owing to its geographical position in the state, seldom has the pleasure of entertaining the members of the University System. Because of this fact the students wish to show their appreciation for the selection of our college for the meeting, and to extend an invitation to visit our campus more regularly in the future.

University Council in Session as Guests of College Here

Distinguished Educators of State Institutions Gather to Confer.

The administrative council of the university system of Georgia will meet here tomorrow and Saturday for a discussion of current problems within the system. Chancellor S. V. Sanford will preside at the general sessions and will deliver the opening address at the Daniel Ashley Hotel in the morning.

Presidents of the units in the system and deans and officials on the various committees will arrive in Valdosta tonight. Representatives from the following units will be in attendance:

Albany: Georgia Normal and Agricultural College, President J. W. Holley, Dean Hodges, Professor R. M. Beavers.

Americus: Georgia Southwestern College: President Peyton Jacob, Dean W. O. Hampton, Professor L. R. Towson, Miss Addie Beall Early, Dr. H. A. Smith.

College Physicians Study Problems in Health

A very interesting problem in the university system is the relation between the health of a student and the work that is being done. Dr. F. S. Beers, university examiner, has been conducting an investigation of this problem recently, and his findings together with the report from attending college physicians, will be discussed before a committee headed by Dean G. L. Kelly of the University of Georgia School of Medicine at Augusta.

College physicians from various units in the university system will meet with Dr. Marian Farbar, head of the Health Service at G. S. W. C., to discuss health problems in the system at 10:00 on Friday morning.

A number of the colleges in the system have instituted physical examinations for every student who enters the college. Dr. Farbar has a complete health record of every student at G. S. W. C. and a health chart which is kept in connection with the health service.

The committee will report to the administrative council at 3:00 o'clock on Friday afternoon.

Barrymore To Make "It Can't Happen Here"

Lionel Barrymore is deep in research these days, reading every available scrap on dictatorships and politics, in preparation for his forthcoming leading role in "It Can't Happen Here," Sinclair Lewis' sensational novel of America under an imaginary dictatorship, to be produced by Lucien Hubbard.

William Powell, suave movie actor has a new title—"America's Best Hat Wearer." The men's hat trade industry selected him, emphasizing the important thing is the "way a man chooses and wears his hats rather than merely the number he owns."

Clark Gable has found documentary proof that he worked at MGM as a film actor for $5.00 a day—and was glad to get it. Gable was in a scene, as a millionaire publisher in "Wife vs. Secretary," which required him to fumble through a pile of papers on his desk. In the middle of the scene he picked up a sheet of paper, scanned it—then released a triumphant yell. The paper was Gable's voucher sheet which he had framed immediately and it now hangs in front of his make-up table with the inscription:

"Just as a Reminder—Mister Gable!"

WHAT ABOUT OUR HONOR STUDENTS?

As bright a group of honor students as any school has a chance to be proud of are the honor students of G. S. W. C.

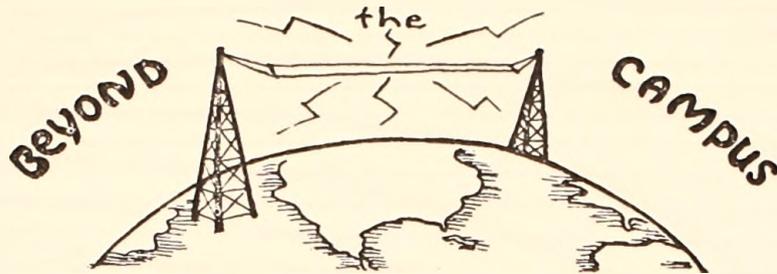

"Who are the honor students of the college"—Lorene Johnson asked that question back in November. Who wears this mantle of distinction? Is it someone who counts on the basketball court or a girl who excels in club activities or in one of the fine arts?

The honor students at G. S. W. C. are those who with their skill and energy have won a tip top rating in scholastic accomplishments but their Alma Mater has been lamentably indifferent in recognizing their achievements.

In the light of non-action that the college has taken, it seems certain that the students must keep the case pending until the authorities become aware that the girls think the issue too important to drop. The heads have remained silent and failed to take any favorable action or at least present evidence against it. The college students feel that they have reason behind them in this matter.

As a matter of fact—all generalizations aside—let's have signal recognition for our honor students at G. S. W. C.

By ELIZABETH GREEN

No sooner had the world recovered from the shock of the passing of Rudyard Kipling, famed British poet, and writer of tales of India, than it was plunged into deep sympathy with the British Empire moaning the death of its beloved sovereign, George V. The king was outstanding in his work for international peace and loved for his sincerity and simplicity. Just a short while ago England was in mourning for the Princess Royal, Alexandra, the king's sister. The 41-year old, but still boyish, Prince of Wales is now King Edward VII and Emperor of India.

Japan, undaunted at the refusal of her demand for equality with England and U. S., has walked out on the London naval conference. She has denounced the 1922 Washington naval treaty with its 5-5-3 ratio, and in withdrawing from the present conference is at liberty to build warships without restraint by treaty. But Japan has already given over more than half her budget for the coming year to military expenditures. It is one more step in Japan's isolation from the Occident and her desire for domination in the Far East and it makes the future of naval limitations a very dubious thing. This action has also ended the likelihood of the old Anglo-Japanese alliance. The remaining delegates—from Great Britain, U. S., France, and Italy—are trying to reach some agreement among themselves. The probable plan is notification in advance of any building program and an exchange of information on naval construction. A limitation of tonnage is to be sought for but would contain the "escalator clause" freeing nations from treaty agreements should Japan commence a heavy building program. While conferences seem doomed to failure and wasted time, money, and effort they at least show an attempt to maintain peace in the world.

Due to Hitler's marriage aid loans Germany's birth rate leaped 22 per cent last year. Looks as if Herr Hitler is following in the footsteps of Il Duce—who first encouraged the rapid increase of his people and then got himself in a heck of a mess trying to annex more territory for their support.

And again Germany voices her desire for the return of her colonies. Says Goebels, Nazi minister of propaganda—"the time is coming when we must demand colonies. It cannot go on like this. Germany does not intend to meddle in any way in the English-Italian-Ethiopian conflict, but what others possess we must also possess." This is a touchy subject with the British and French foreign offices, for as soon as the Italo-Ethiopian conflict is settled, they must take up the question of German colonies. Until something is done about this Germany will not return to the League nor join any of the efforts for security pacts over Europe.

The question of sanctions is relatively an old one, but still it crops up again and again. It still seems to be uppermost in European politics. The League met Monday to consider an oil embargo, but nothing seems to have come of it. Everyone is afraid to take the initiative.

On this side of the Atlantic the biggest news story seems to be the Baby Bonus Bill—calling for an expenditure of from $1,000,000,000 to $2,491,000,000. Just another small item to worry the taxpayers.

Superlatives Named For Annual at Meet Today

The seniors whose pictures will be placed in the superlative section of the Pine Cone, the G. S. W. C. annual, were selected by the student body in a ballot voting today at 1:05. Ethlyn Massey, editor of the annual, explained the choice of superlatives to the students before the voting.

Broun Hutchinson was voted the most intellectual. Miss Hutchinson is president of the Sock and Buskin Club and has had parts in several of the productions. She played the part of Mrs. Malaprop in the Emory Junior College production of Sheridan's "The Rivals." Miss Hutchinson has made high honors every semester since her freshman year.

Mildred Turnbull was selected to fit the role of personality. Miss Turnbull is president of the Student Government Association this year and she was vice-president of the Y. W. C. A. and the Phi Kappa Athletic Club her junior and sophomore years, respectively.

GERMAN BIRTH RATE ATTRIBUTED TO THE NAZI INFLUENCE

"Why the Large Rise in German Birth Rate?" by P. K. Welpton, AMERICAN JOURNAL OF SOCIOLOGY, November, 1935.

The rise in the birth-rate from 1933 to 1934 was much larger in Germany than in other countries. This probably is due in part to Nazi attempts to increase births by preventing abortion and the spreading of birth-control information and by giving psychical and economic encouragement to larger families. The birth-rate rose in large cities before the remainder of the country and to a greater degree. The extent of the rise in the various states is correlated with the proportion of the working population engaged in agriculture, the proportion of Catholics and the 1933 birth-rate. The extent of the rise in various cities is correlated with the last two of these and with the size of the city. Nazis claim that the psychical rebirth of the German people is the chief cause of the higher birth-rate, but there are indications pointing to the importance of the suppressing of abortions.

"Recent Changes in Marriage," by William F. Ogburn.

Marriage increased in the United States from 1920 to 1930 even when age, nativity and urban-rural composition are held constant. Early marriage is not increasing. Urban-rural differences and sex distribution differences are less. There are fewer widowed. The volume of marriage among men is nearly the same under varying social conditions, while among young women it varies more widely. The large cities discourage marriage, if farms can be taken as the norm, by 15 per cent. The country is becoming somewhat more homogeneous in respect to marriage.

Sock and Buskin Will Produce "From Nine Till Six"

English Play with All-Girl Cast Chosen for Production in February.

"From Nine Till Six," an English play, has been selected for the regular three-act play to be given by the Sock and Buskin Club on February 28. The play, by Mary and Phillip Stewart, has an all-girl cast. Try-outs for parts in the play will be held next week.

At the regular monthly meeting on Tuesday evening in the play production room, a one-act play, "Wrong Numbers," was presented. The members of the cast included Broun Hutchinson, president of the club, La Forrest Smith, and Matilda Tillman. The play was directed by Ames Watkins.

Plans for the annual frolic to be given next month were also discussed by the members.

Geological Exhibit Is Loaned to School

A collection of all the important minerals of Georgia has been loaned to the college by the Division of Geology of the Georgia Department of Forestry and Geological Development. This group, under the direction of Dr. Phelan, has been placed in a showcase in the south end of West Hall.

About seventy-five different minerals, ranging from the softer ones, such as sandstone, to the very hard ones, as marble and granite, are on exhibition. Among the more interesting rock formations are the samples of fool's gold, several kinds of the famous marble varieties of kaolin, talc and talc pencils, semi-precious tourmaline and beryl, white clay and red clays, bituminous coal, gold ore, and numerous other geological specimens that are unfamiliar to the average person.

This collection will be of interest and value to the students in that group of physical science classes studying geology.

Knitting Class Begins As Leisure Activity

Knitting classes have been organized as part of the leisure time activities program for the college. The work is under the direction of Miss Matilda Calloway who is at the head of the home economics department at G. S. W. C.

The classes are being taught by Helen Joiner, Chapple Bragg, Helen Landey, Mary Anna Pinckard, and Patsy Sparks. Much enthusiasm has been shown in the classes which rated first in student demand in the recent leisure time survey made by Dr. Earl Phelan, director of N. Y. A.

The schedule for the classes is as follows:

Monday, Tuesday—11:15-12:10 a. m.
Monday, Tuesday—4:05-5:00 p. m.
Tuesday, Thursday—4:05-5:00 p. m.

INFORMATION WANTED—BY SENIORS

houses and interesting customs from days of old. Tulane University and Sophia Newcomb College are also interesting to the visitor.

One senior who is "in the know" talks enthusiastically of coffee and doughnuts at the French Quarter at midnight, while another looks forward to the stay at the Roosevelt with its famous Blue Room. Information regarding what-to-be-sure-to-see has been eagerly sought after—one authority says not to miss eating a "poor boy's sandwich." Of course many nickels have been put aside for "Antoine's" and marvelous Creole cooking, pralines for those at home, and souvenirs from the many quaint shops.

We are all sighing and wishing.

HACKETT WANTS TO BE ALADDIN; COXWELL INVISIBLE MAN

While the seniors are wishing they had a million to spend in New Orleans, they also have other desires. Is it true that everyone wishes he were someone else? The seniors all chorus "yes." Most of them have a hero or idol that they would like to be.

Who would guess that Patsy Sparks has always wanted to change places with Emily Post so she'll know how to act on all occasions? Patsy would then be so admired that Carol Forrester, masquerading as Hattie Carnegie would give her a debut party at Newport.

Rachel Coxwell is quite sure about whom she would like to resemble. "I want to be an invisible man so I can disappear when called on in class," she asserts. "It would be so convenient."

Ethlyn Massey thinks it would be wonderful to be Loretta Young who does not have to count her calories. To be the "Skinny Woman" of a circus is Bessie Jo Johnson's fond hope. She wants to be called "Skinny" once in her life.

Pinkie Howell says, "Shirley Temple is my choice. I'd have loads of money and such a long time to spend it in." Clara Davis Adams would be Dor's Duke Cromwell and own many pocket-books with something in each one. (Double shades of the coming New Orleans journey!)

Nelson Eddy is evidently the object of affection of at least two seniors. Evelyn May wishes to be Grace Moore and sing with him while Virginia Tuck likes the idea of being Mrs. Eddy (So her children will have blonde, curly hair.)

"I wish I were Venus," smiles Jo Daniel. "My subconscious self craves homage." (As if she didn't get it now.)

Norma Shearer is Lucille Thompson's ideal because she so magnificently combines a career with marriage. Clara Lou Driskell pines for a voice like Lily Pons and Joy Miller, (while secretly admiring Miss Pons, too) declares Vera Vann as her idol.

Who would imagine that energetic Mildred Turnbull longs to be Rip Van Winkle and sleep and dream her whole life through or that Myra Hackett is

The center of envy this week are the seniors; the reason is the annual senior trip which will be to New Orleans this year. Two buses are required to take the thirty-five or forty girls leaving Wednesday afternoon to return the following Sunday. Dr. and Mrs. Joseph Durrenberger will accompany the group.

The buses will also be used for the sightseeing tours of the city, and the girls have high plans of seeing all there is to see. New Orleans has a store of historic value, containing the old St. Louis Cathedral, Napoleon's house, Delgado Museum of Art, the Old St. Anthony's Garden, Beauregard's home, and many relics of "old Creole days" expressed in the old dying to be Aladdin, not for just one day, but all her life!

We thought Amanda Barksdale would make a grand movie star but hadn't known she wanted to be the lady doctor that Kay Francis so often portrays.

As Ruby Harrison wants to travel around forever, she names Amelia Earhart for her heroine. Broun Hutchinson is quite appreciative. She will be Rupert Brooke and give the world beauty.

"I talk myself into too much trouble," states Leila Mae Tyson, "I should be the dumb Marx brother." Miriam Adams is simply violet-rayed about Ina Ray Hutton. She wants to dress and do the things she does.

When questioned, Leonora DuFour worked on the Canopy and answered at the same time, "Who, me? I want to be 'Mrs. Man-in-the-Moon' so I can see everything that goes on. The Kaleidoscope is my pet worry every week anyway."

COLLEGE CALENDAR

VALDOSTA CLUB ENTERTAINS AT HOUSE IN THE WOODS

The Valdosta Club entertained its members with a luncheon at the House in the Woods this afternoon. Frances Garbutt, president of the club, and Miss Annie P. Hopper, dean of women, presided at the meeting held before the luncheon.

The refreshment committee was composed of Jane Twitty, chairman; Martha Powell, La Forrest Smith, Luelle Giddens, Sara Owens, Lois Corley, Margaret Dalton, Martha Johnston, Barnie Lou Newsome, Kathryn Toole and Ruth Garbutt

Fine Arts Club Sponsors Artists Exhibit in Ashley Hall

Block Prints, Etchings, and Aquatints included in showing.

An exhibit of etchings, color wood blocks, and wood cuts from the Georgia Circuit Exhibition for 1935-36 under the auspices of the Telfair Academy at Savannah, Georgia, has been placed in the Upper Rotunda of Ashley Hall by the Fine Arts Club, to remain there through January 26. The exhibit includes 28 pictures and arrangements may be made to purchase any of them through Mrs. W. W. Stewart, chairman of the Southern Arts Projects for Georgia.

In connection with the exhibit, history and explanation of the techniques used in the pictures has been placed on the bulletin board in the administration building. The subjects discussed here include prints and print making, etchings, dry points, aquatints, metal engravings, wood engravings, lithographs, color prints, and printings from plates in form of engravings.

The artists who have pictures in the exhibit are John Taylor Arms, Alfred Hutty, Will Simmons, Eugene Higgins, Robert Nisbet, E. B. Warren, Benjamin C. Brown, Loren Barton, Diana Thorne, Philip Little, Ralph Pearson, Elizabeth Keith, Gustave Bauman, A. Rigden Read, Alice Huger Smith, W. J. Phillips, Thomas W. Nason, and William Steeple Davis.

Among the etchings "Southern Oaks," by Hutty, is indigenous to our section of the South. The "Silver King," by Simmons, illustrates a very effective use of line for strength and action. Two etchings by Diana Thorne have a light pastoral atmosphere and "Anna" by Loren Barton, is a lovely delicate profile of a little girl.

The color wood blocks show color and line harmony in various types, as Spanish scenes as the active "Wind-swept Eucalyptus," and Alice Huger Smith's impressionistic "Mossy Tree."

Fine Arts Club Plans Extensive Program

The Fine Arts Club planned an activities program last Wednesday for the remainder of the year at the regular monthly meeting in the House in the Woods. Following this, Miss Frances Ruth Carpenter, art instructor and faculty advisor to the club, gave the club a fish chowder supper.

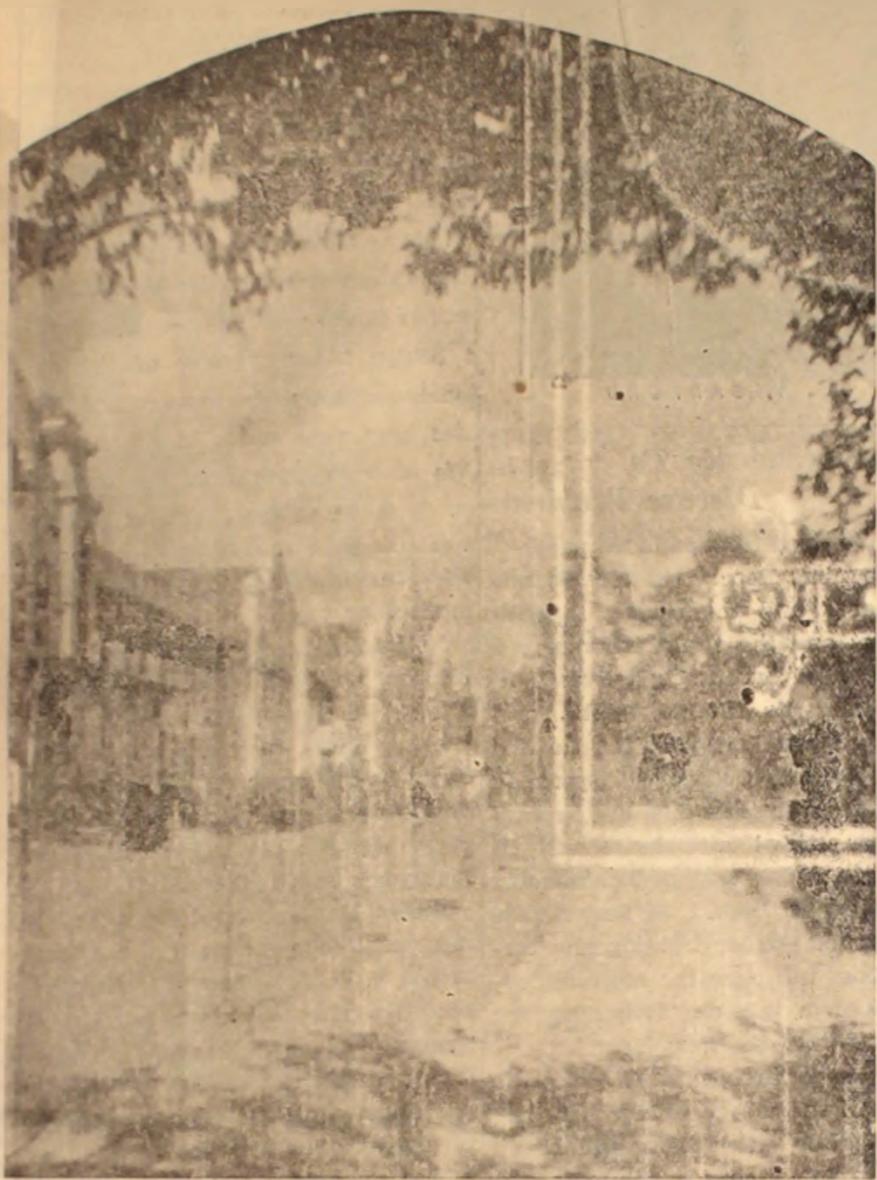

For the activities of this quarter plans were made to make money for the annual trip, also plans for the trip which will be to Charleston and Savannah, and plans for the meetings, including talks and soap carrying.

In reviewing the activities of last quarter it was noted that the club has had a tea in honor of Miss Carpenter, a waffle supper and a Christmas bazaar, and has brought the Georgia artist exhibit to the college.

The Campus of The Georgia State Wo

ans College Presents Scenes of Beauty

The campus of the Georgia State Womans College, the students believe, is one of the most beautiful in the South. Words supply an inadequate description of its charm; these pictures, which disclose the campus as it really is, are offered instead.

The beautiful simplicity of the pine trees has been untouched in the landscaping of the campus, except immediately about the buildings, giving the entire campus the charming background of the piney woods country before the axe of the lumberman was laid upon it.

Its cool and quiet is conducive to scholarship, and its appealing beauty leaves a firm imprint upon those who attend the institution. The student body is justly proud of the pines, of the sylvan retreats, of the quiet little walks, of the little brook that seeks its way through the ferns.

The buildings, harmonizing with the campus, are of a style distinctly Southern, and the physical aspects of the institution challenge the admiration of every visitor.

TRAGEDY IS PORTRAYAL OF FEELING COMEDY IS THOUGHT, SAYS DEETER

As the third number of the Artists Series the Hedgerow Players presented "The Mask and the Face," a modern farce by Luigi Chiarelli, at the Ritz Theatre Monday evening. The play was sponsored by G. S. W. C. and the Junior Chamber of Commerce of Valdosta.

The director of the play, Jasper Deeter, has been doing work in the theatre for eighteen years. He said in an interview Monday morning that all of his life he knew that he wanted to go into one of the arts, but was not quite sure which one. He thought he was "too lazy for a musical career." "That requires real work," he said. When he was twenty-four he, in his own words, "barged" his way into the theater.

Some of his players have been with him for twelve years. He judges actors and actresses by their fluency and rhythm.

The Hedgerow Theatre is out from Philadelphia and for the past two years during the extreme cold weather Mr. Deeter has taken his plays on a tour in order to make more money. He does not plan to tour next winter.

Usually the players are not booked for a town as small as Valdosta. Most of the plays are given in university towns. Mr. Deeter says that Georgia and Florida are isolated and are not in the path usually taken on tours. He added that there are a great many people in Georgia who are literary-minded, but there are not enough per square mile to make play presentation profitable unless it is sufficiently backed.

Mr. Deeter is a very interesting conversationalist and does not seem to mind talking about his work. He looks the part of a typical actor. He prefers playing tragedy because, he says, tragedy is the portrayal of a person's feeling while comedy is the portrayal of his thoughts. Of the two he considers comedy much more difficult. In discussing audiences, Mr. Deeter said that there were many differences, but that he had not had enough experience with different types to organize his thoughts along that line.

Mr. Deeter believes in never looking ahead to the next day when he is on the road, but takes one day at a time. The company travels by bus and Mr. Deeter says it doesn't take "any brains to get on the bus and get to the next town." He says that the stage

TENNIS CLASS HOLDS TOURNEY

The physical education class in tennis is having an elimination tournament this week. Miss Leonora Ivey, director of the department, is teaching the class in tennis technique. Two matches have been played, Elizabeth Green and Virginia Zipples having won these matches from Catharine Moore and Estelle Ricks, respectively.

The final match will be played off next week settings they carry are very simple, consisting mainly of a lot of velvet, but that they do carry complete costuming.

In describing "The Mask and the Face," the only one of the six plays given on the tour that has modern costuming, Mr. Deeter used the word "sophisticated."

French Club Will Present Play

Tomorrow afternoon at 4:30 o'clock in the play production room of the administration building a selected cast will present "L'Homme Qui Epousa Une Femme Muette," a French farce in two acts by an unknown author and sponsored by the French Club. Everyone is cordially invited.

The action of the play results from the unhappy situation of a man who married a mute wife and had a doctor restore her ability to speak only to wish her as quiet as she had been before. The characters are: Maître Simon, the judge; Anna Richter, Maitre Pierre, the lawyer; Chapple Bragg, Doctor Pallidore; Josephine Joubert; Jean, the man-servant, Carroll Peeples; Fanchon, the maid-servant, Nellie Mae Connon; Catharine, the wife, Elizabeth Kelley; the doctor's assistants, Wilma Ruth Faircloth and June Lawson.

The play is a costume play of the fifteenth century and the costumes were designed by Nellie Mae Connon as an art project.

The play will mark a regular meeting of the French Club.

Work Begins on PWA Project

Work on the open air theatre to be built in the park south of the campus began on Monday by labor furnished under the auspices of the PWA.

Plans for the theatre were made by R. J. Drexel, city landscape architect for Valdosta, for the stage fifty feet wide, and the terraced seating arrangement which will accommodate between five and seven hundred spectators.

Miss Louise Sawyer, director of the speech department at the college, Mrs. Joe Wisenbaker, PWA director for women's projects, and W. M. Kaylor, director for district number three, are supervising the construction.

The theater, when finished, will be used for all of the outdoor entertainments at the college.

CHEMISTRY DIVISION OF MATH-SCIENCE VISITS DISTILLERY

The chemistry division of the Math-Science visited a turpentine still in the vicinity of Valdosta this afternoon. This visit was one of the projects of the club relating to scientific interest in the industry of our section of Georgia. The trip was planned by Dr. Earl Phelan, professor of chemistry and advisor of the group.

CAMPUS KALEIDOSCOPE

This is our pet worry! Why should people love gossip so, anyway? It must be the animal in us. There was a time when we sat aloof from all this, but now it is in our blood.

There is the sophomore dance to which everybody is invited Saturday night and bring your dates, that is if you can rate one. No dirty cracks intended—A certain junior seems awfully anxious to go to Thomasville every week-end, what can the attraction be? . . . And there are the juniors who go out every night and still make honors, tell us how it can be done . . . Sweetie Walton is our idea of a cute gal . . . And by the way, what about those letters from Athens for friend roommate that come so regularly . . . Our prize for one of the cutest rooms in the school goes to Margaret Abernathy . . . Not that this has any connection, but what is the meaning of dogfish, skeletons, and what not that greets one in the halls these days? Has everyone gone biological? . . . And we hope that the elections came out the way everybody wanted them to . . . Ain't love great, Alvata? . . .

How are the superstitions coming, Laura Mae? . . . The seniors are just too lucky . . . We have to wait another year before we are that lucky, and then we hear that it is to be Washington . . . Maybe we can meet an ambassador or somethin' . . . Ruth Williams still clings to Annapolis . . . What is there about a navy man? . . . Well, we're tired of this, so be good little gals, and we won't get you. That is, unless . . .
