THE GEORGIA STATE WOMAN'S COLLEGE, VALDOSTA, GEORGIA, MONDAY, SEPTEMBER 21, 1942

Three New Teachers Join GSWC Faculty This Term

Dr. Frank R. Reade, president of the college, has announced three changes in G.S.W.C.'s faculty for the 1942-43 term. Dr. Olive Stone has accepted a position as Professor of Education. Dr. Frederick Pister succeeds Dr. Harold Punke as Professor of Education, and Miss Ruth Reid has been elected to fill a vacancy in the Physical Education Department.

Dr. Stone received her doctorate at the University of North Carolina. She succeeds Miss Mary Longley in the Sociology Department here. Dr. Stone's courses will be relating to the social work phase of the field, including case work.

Dr. Pister, of Newark, N. J. received his training at New York University and at the University of Pittsburg. He comes to the college from Hunter College in New York City, where he was professor of education. Dr. Punke, former Professor of Education at the famed forces.

Miss Reid, who received her M.A. degree from Columbia University last June, will replace Miss Elizabeth McRee in the Physical Education Department. She did her undergraduate work at G.S.W.C. and served this summer as Recreational Director for the G.S.W.C. Summer School.

Miss McRee, Professor of Physical Education at the college for several years, resigned her position to enter the service of the United States in WAACS. She is now at the Fort De Moines Training School in De Moines, Iowa.

Miss Janie Bush, Professor of Latin, has been granted a leave of absence for the fall quarter.

Miss Mildred Larson, who was on leave of absence from the college, has resigned her position as Assistant Treasurer to accept a job with the Bell Aircraft Corporation. She is now taking a training course in Buffalo, New York and upon finishing there will return to Marietta, Georgia, where a Bell Aircraft plant is located.

'Pygmalion' To Be Staged Thursday

"Pygmalion," annual presentation of the Y.W.C.A. as the first Vesper program of the year, will be offered for the Freshman Class on Thursday evening. Julia Frances McCorkle, vice-president of the Y and director of the pageant, has chosen a cast composed of members of the Y Cabinet and Student Government officers.

Sara Catherine Martin will play the sculptor, Pygmalion, and Jean Thompson will take the role of his beautiful creation, Galatea.

Other members of the cast are Jacquie Smith as Vanity, Alpha Mae Castleberry as Gayety, Betty Peters as Beauty, Alice Belle Meadors as Humor, June Mosely as Poetry, Gwen Johnson as Art, Nell Patten as Music, Jo McNeill as Drama, Pat Forrester as the Spirit of the Association, and Eugenia Reid and Jackie Jones as her companions.

Miss McCorkle will serve as the reader, and Maria Davis will assist backstage. Ava Collins is pianist.

The pageant follows closely the ancient Greek legend by that name. The drama tells of the attempts of a sculptor to awaken a statue so beautiful that he has fallen in love with it.

Men Students Are Admitted at GSWC

This fall for the first time in its history, the Georgia State Woman's College is admitting men as students at the regular sessions. This is an emergency measure brought about by the war and the subsequent moving of Emory at Valdosta to the Atlanta campus of the University. Only men living in Valdosta will be permitted to enter the college for study.

G.S.W.C. has included men in its summer school enrollment for a number of years.

Students who have registered under the new plan include: William H. Briggs, Clifton H. Brummitt, Lloyd Burns, Turner Byrd, Tom Crouch, Stephen Joyner, Grantland Miller, Tom Mundy, and Albert Pendleton.

Freshmen Urged to Return Info Sheet

Freshmen are urged to fill out the colorful mimeographed sheets which were distributed today through the Office of Publicity and Placement and headed "You're Here—So What?"

This sheet will give to members of the President's Council information they need concerning extra-curricular interests of the students. Each club president would like to be certain that girls interested in their activities have a chance to become a member.

SGA & YWCA Plan Busy Week For New Students

Student Government Association and the Y. W. C. A. Cabinet are cooperating with college authorities in the planning of Freshman Week which began today with the dormitory registration of the freshmen.

During Orientation Week new students will attend state advisor classes, take state placement tests, meet with faculty advisors for planning their college work, take physical examinations, and attend parties given for them by campus organizations.

Tonight a sing will be held out of doors introducing Freshmen to college songs. The sing will be led by Alice Meadors, Y.W.C.A. entertainment chairman.

Tuesday morning at 9:00 all members of the Freshman Class are expected to attend assembly in the auditorium. A party in the Rec Hall has been arranged for Tuesday evening.

The Sports Club is in charge of arrangements for a supper hike which will originate on campus at 5:15 Wednesday afternoon. The hiking party will return to the campus after supper for games and contests on the front lawn.

"Pygmalion," a pageant presented annually by the Y.W.C.A., will be dramatized in the auditorium Thursday evening. Shortly afterward the Y will entertain for the freshman at an informal party.

During the afternoon on Friday the Sports Club will be hostess to new students at an open house in the House in the Woods. Short exhibitions of various campus sports will be given at that time. Friday evening there will be a splash party at the swimming pool.

S.G.A. exams are scheduled for Saturday morning, and during the afternoon eligible S.G.A. candidates will take the pledge of the association.

Saturday evening the faculty reception will be held on the terrace of Ashley Hall. It is to be informal, and the entire faculty will be present to greet the new students. Following the reception a street dance will be given in front of the dormitories.

Among the student officials who are assisting with Freshman Week activities are: Sara Catherine Martin, S.G.A. president; Jean Thompson, Senior Class president; Carolyn Rowland, Junior Class president; Catherine Garbutt, Sophomore Class president; June Mosely, Y.W.C.A. president; Julia Frances McCorkle, vice-president of the Y; Betty Peters, secretary of that organization.

Jackie Jones, Eugenia Reid, Pat Forrester, Jo McNeill, Nell Patten, Gwen Johnson, Alice Meadors, Alpha Mae Castleberry, and Jacqueline Smith, all members of the Y.W.C.A. Cabinet, are also assisting the two main campus organizations in these activities.

Martha Ashley, president of the Sports Club, figures prominently in arrangements. Leonora Peeples, Sock and Buskin Club president, has also been active in making plans for the first week.

Sock and Buskin To Present Skit

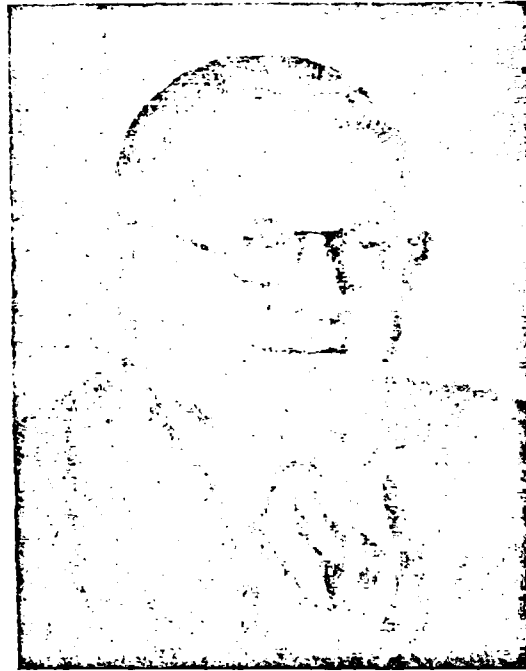

Sock and Buskin, the dramatic club of the Georgia State Woman's College, will present a program of skits and reading on Monday evening, September 28, in the college auditorium, according to announcement made by the president of the club, Leonora Peeples, of Valdosta.

Included in the program is a dialogue, "Last Night," given by Betty Barnes and Leonora Peeples. Another skit, "Three Sisters," will be portrayed in pantomime by Henrietta Walker, Beth Whitaker, and Christine Young.

Two humorous readings on the program are "Vera Chera," done by Rachel Parks, and "O, Thou, Pottsville," done by Jane Williams.

The Sock and Buskin Club annually presents one or more three-act plays. Last year's productions were "Ladies in Retirement" and "Yorkshire Pudding." In recent seasons the club has produced "The Old Maid," "First Lady," and "Stage Door."

G.S.W.C. ADMINISTRATIVE HEADS

Dr. Frank R. Reade, president of the college, and Miss Annie P. Hopper, Dean of Women, will officially welcome members of the Freshman Class at the first assembly of the term tomorrow.

Thumbnail Sketches Of Upperclassmen Who Are Helping Freshmen Week Are Compiled

Freshmen, here are some thumbnail sketches of some of G.S.W.C.'s BWOC's (Big Women on Campus) who are back to help you enjoy Freshman Week. Don't let your acquaintance with these girls stop with reading these paragraphs. They want to know you, too!

There is no other starting point than original, intangible Sara Catherine Martin, of Waycross, S. C. was vice-president of S. G. A. last year, Soph Class president the year before. Noted for her highly original ideas for plays and parties, she is campus wit. She's forever tripping around to the far corners of the U. S., is the only child, talented in art, dramatics, journalism.

Charming blonde June Mosely, president of the Y.W.C.A., is an English major, a Glee Club officer. She is invariably early to everything, and she's extremely conscientious about work and promises. She's from Jakin, Georgia.

Her roommate, Jean Thompson, is the beautiful blonde Senior Class president. She has been prominent in Y and S.G.A. activities. Walking proof that beauty and brains do mix at G.S.W.C., she is a sociology major and is interested in child welfare.

Junior Class President Carolyn Rowland, president of the juniors is the fourth blonde BWOC in this list, poised, quiet-spoken, and popular. She is from Moultrie, majors in sociology, has been prominent in campus Y work.

Tall, good-looking Catherine Garbutt, Jesup, is president of the Sophomores. She won acclaim last year for her swimming, sewing, lovely clothes, and the college's best example of correct posture.

Julia Frances McCorkle, shoulders the huge responsibility of arranging Vesper programs twice weekly. Hailing from Montezuma, she is a talented art student, did much of the art work on the chapel windows, and is an aggressive leader of student affairs. She's a Junior.

Pretty Betty Peters, Y secretary, is another Moultrie girl—nice disposition, cute clothes, dependable. Last year she was widely known as Emory Junior's dream girl, Sophomore.

Little and witty and very much the dare-devil is Pat Forrester, Donalsonville, who's assistant vice-president of the Y. She works hard on the publications, the Glee Club, the Y, and makes good grades too. Sophomore.

Other Officers

Gwen Johnson, secretary-treasurer of S.G.A. and member of Y Cabinet, is from Leesburg. She's artistic, dances well, has an infectious laugh and a closetful of gorgeous clothes.

Martha Ashley is probably the best known town student at G.S.W.C., is president of the Sports Club though only a junior, and widely known around town as a golfer. Her jalopy is a front-campus fixture. She sings beautifully, is a Serenader, and, contrary to first impressions, is a deep thinker.

Hard-working, brunette Canopy editor is Jackie Smith, of Waycross. She's interested in music and journalism. Last year's associate editor on the Canopy and yearbook literary editor, she attended the National Association Collegiate Press convention in St. Louis last year.

Alice Meadors, Albany, is entertainment chairman of the Y and a Sports Club officer. She has a sister in the Sophomore Class, is witty, a good dancer, Gwen's roommate, and an English major.

To The Class Of '46

By the time the Canopy rolls off the press, Converse Hall's barren rooms will have taken on a homey atmosphere and closets will be well filled with bright fall clothes.

Long before it is cool enough in South Georgia to gaud about in woolen skirts and sweaters, we hope each member of the Class of '46 will feel just as much at home as those good-looking draperies and spreads are calculated to make your room appear. There is no better preventative for a good, old-fashioned case of homesickness than to stay busy, busy, busy for the first glorious week. (After that, we assure you there will be no chance to loaf.)

Next door neighbors are nice people to know. Don't waste any time in dropping in to meet them. Maybe you are poor at remembering names, but it is ten to one that your new acquaintance is too. Freshman Week is one time when nobody blushes to ask a name again and again—and again if necessary.

Perhaps you've never enjoyed a Sing before; or perhaps street dances don't appeal to you. But if that is what is planned for Freshman Week don't stay home on that account. You've never been to a Sing or street dance with those new classmates before, so do yourself the favor of finding out what fun it can be with them.

Don't miss meeting the upperclassmen who are to help you enjoy Freshman Week. Don't be hesitant about visiting them in Senior Hall or Ashley. They are eager to know you every one.

Enjoy the pool and the tennis courts to the fullest. We want you to have fun, and out of it to become well-rounded college women. YOU are the DARLINGS OF THE CAMPUS.

Editorments

The Canopy would like to introduce to you its columnists, and to recommend that you make it a habit to follow these columns throughout the year.

Two seniors will be entertaining you from their respective spots in the last column of the page. One is Student Government President Sara Catherine Martin who has been places and seen things of national interest. Kitty spent six weeks this summer at a camp for SGA heads near Ashville, N. C. A couple of weeks ago she returned from an international student conference in Washington.

At Ashville she met people like Henry A. Wallace, renewed an acquaintance with Eleanor Roosevelt, and met such interesting young people as Christopher Morley's daughter, Louise. Kitty helped plan the Washington conference and represented the North American Continent on a coast-to-coast broadcast with Mrs. Roosevelt. Her Canopy column will frequently include mention of national figures; you will always find it worth the reading.

Another columnist is town-girl Betty Barnes. She knows college girls inside out, and in her humorous way she'll keep you well informed about college doings. Betty spent part of the summer in New York, and you won't go wrong by following her lead on the clothes situation. Her news is strictly Fifth Avenue.

Betty is a talented musician (she was elected

Well, gals, the Class of '46 is doing mighty well by the old campus slogan, and once again G. W. S. C. lassies can point with pride to that "Cute Crowd of Converse Kids."

For instance, there's Vo Hammie Johnson, of Washington, Georgia, whose personality is as different as her name. Then there's Betty McGowan, of Waycross, tiny and talented—in journalism and in the art (she edited WHS's student news.)

Among those who are well remembered from the Tri-Hi-Y Convention that met here last spring are the Adel trio, Ida Maud McKinnon, Anne Talley, and Fredda Rapp. We'll be hearing you, girls! Mary Rouse, of Waycross, was at the convention in a cute, pink suit.

Some members of the class feel like old GSWC gals by now 'cause they started their college careers the hard way—in summer school. Pretty Lucy Lane, of Moultrie, whose face you probably saw looking out at you from the front page of the Journal one day this summer, was here. Christine Lee (she's from Dupont) was around romping amazingly on the piano, and you'll love her swing.

Cute lil' Charlotte Williamson, Albany, transferred down from Shorter for the summer session. And a tall, brunette, tarheel, Alice Lewis, was down from China Grove, N. C.

Energetic Hilda Bivings, Donaldsonville, is June Mosely's cousin. Roommates and Claxton High School-mates, Jean Powe and Elizabeth Bowen, were at GSWC this summer. So were Waycross' Jean Colgan and North Georgia's Florida Pryor.

You'll find those attractive roommates, Martha Chastain, Thomasville, and Mary Ethelyn Powell, Albany, socializing in the Rec a lot. Adding their names to GSWC's swell Cordele girls are roomies Marjorie Claire Dorrough and Louise Rowland.

Emily Dekle's another Cordele girl. She was here for summer quarter and is Barbara's little sis, Edith Roberts, of Valdosta, is another little sister in the Freshman Class—she's Minnie's. And Georgia Smith, also of Valdosta, is Corinne's youngest sister. (She's got music in her soul.)

Those Yankee brogues belong to Ruth Carol Allen, of Sloatsburg, N. Y., and Helen Waterman, who recently came to Athens from Scarsdale, N. Y. Glad you came south!

Luisa Castro, a Venezuelan who has come down from New York City, can tell interesting tales of glamorous International House in New York and of her native South America.

Diana Psaki, of Greece, arrived today. Diana and Luisa met in New York but were unable to get reservations on the crowded trains together.

There's a nice group of Moultrie girls: Betty Statham, who was here this summer, Glynn Hill, who has a nice voice, and Mary Louise Davis. Rommies Harriet Singletary and Ethel Bently are from Pelham. Harriett was Anne's sister.

MISS MARJORIE CARTER

Miss Marjorie Carter, who by this time is known to every occupant of Converse Hall, hails from Norfolk, Virginia. The Class of '46 is the eighth group of Freshmen that has entered since she came to G.S.W.C., and the smallest group of dormitory girls in several years.

Miss Carter's duties by no means end with holding Freshman hall meetings every now and then. Her biology classes, swimming and diving classes, first aid lectures, and work as Assistant Dean of Women make her one of the busiest people on campus.

She received her B.S. at the College of William and Mary and her M.A. in biology at the University of Virginia. Her course in Survey of Biology is one that leaves every student who has taken the state exam in that subject praising her teaching methods.

During the summer Miss Carter spent a while at Abington, Dr. Reade's camp in Virginia, as riding instructor. She is a former riding instructor at G.S.W.C., and still rides a good deal as a hobby.

Miss Carter's dining hall table is usually the last to leave the room after meals. Conversation there goes on long after meals are over, usually centering about plans for improving the college. Upperclassmen who want to hear an amusing story try to get Miss Carter into a conversation about her young niece.

Miss Carter is an advocate of changing the name of the college to something more brief and less confusing. She is conscientiously concerned with improving the health of the students and can give anyone helpful hints on posture and relaxation.

Freshmen who are in doubt about any college regulations are urged to speak to Miss Carter concerning them. If Miss Carter is not available see Miss Hopper or Sara Catherine Martin.

MRS. DALE STEEL

Sharing the responsibility of Converse Hall is Mrs. Dale Steel, of Savannah. Mrs. Steel, whose room is located on the second floor in that building, came to G.S.W.C. last fall.

She has long been a friend of the college. One of her five children is a graduate of G.S.W.C., and she has kept up a correspondence with Miss Hopper since that time. Another of Mrs. Steel's children who is well known on the campus is her youngest son, Ned, who attended Emory at Valdosta last year. Ned is now at Emory University in Atlanta where he is continuing his pre-law work.

Mrs. Steel has charge of the Country Store, popular hangout of the dorm crowd in the south wing of Converse. Since she has been affiliated with the Country Store bright new curtains, attractively painted chairs, and a newly painted floor have added much to the appearance of the store. The stock, as well as the store space, has been increased.

Mrs. Steel is G.S.W.C.'s unofficial postmistress also. As a courtesy to the students, stamps are sold at the Country Store. Freshmen get their mail there twice daily. A letter drop collects outgoing mail, which leaves the store at 9:15 a. m., each day.

Mrs. Steel was born in Ohio, but came to Atlanta as a child. Most of her married life has been spent in Savannah, though she lived for ten years in Jacksonville, Florida.

Mrs. Steel's pet spaniel, Ricky, was Converse mascot last year. Ricky deserted G.S.W.C. for a boys' college this year, however. The dog now belongs to a member of the Emory University faculty.

Mrs. Steel was in residence here for the summer session, and is well known to the freshmen who entered last quarter. To all the new girls we'd like to say Mrs. Steel will be happy to talk over any personal problems with you, and by the time you leave Converse Hall you'll be one of her many adopted daughters.

Martin Reminisces Of Freshman Days

Memories of classes, concerts, initiations, picnics under the pines, and exciting evenings spent in the Canopy office flash through our mind.

Much has happened since that eventful autumn day when we entered college four years ago, and we wonder now as we look back on those years with both pleasure and amusement, what changes we would make if we were entering instead of leaving G. S. W. C. this year.

An evening spent with Eleanor Roosevelt on the campus comes to mind, and fragments of a conversation about freshman activities begins to shape into a complete picture. We are recalling important points she mentioned and listing three that particularly impressed us.

First Lady's Points

First, she made a significant statement: that regardless of what she studied, she would so train her mind that at the end of four years the acquisition of whatever she desired would be easier. We like that for it reminds us that education does not end with graduation and it suggests that the harder the subject, the more diligent the workers and the greater the reward.

A second remark was that she would spend some time in a study of the community in which she found herself, gain an understanding of the people and conditions present, and be better prepared to meet the challenge offered by democracy in a changing world.

Self-Discipline

Finally, she said that through strenuous manual labor she would learn self-discipline. Here is an important lesson, for as time goes on we will be forced to accept discipline, either imposed by ourselves or others. And quoting our First Lady, "The imposing on oneself of certain obligations which cannot be shirked under any form of ordered society is an education for life as a citizen."

Thus we conclude our reminiscence with these changes in mind—

If we were entering college this fall we would take the hardest courses offered, make ample use of the laboratory in which we live and discipline ourselves to do the things we consider important.

Barnes Talks About You, Mademoiselle

'Course we don't know all you freshmen yet (give us a little time, pleez) but I betcha I can tell you, Mademoiselle Freshman, a lot about you, sighth unseen.

First of all you're just as excited as a hurricane about college—it's everything 'n then some that you thought it would be. You're as eager to meet people and make friends as a Chinese missionary, and you think the helter-skelter of the first week is terrific. But what a problem getting that homey look into a dorm room!

You're not going to shed too many tears over breaking of your pet fingernails helping somebody open their trunk 'cause you know they'd have done the same for you. You're going to rave over roommate's picture of "The One" just as if he is really as cute as she thinks he is. And you hope she doesn't feel too bad when you bring out the picture of your super-super.

You're up to the minute on all the latest fads in clothes, but you're faithful as a Mohammedan when it comes to saddle shoes, sweaters 'n skirts. Your reversible will be your best friend from the clothes line, and you might be mistaken for a Scotch lassie in your bright plaids.

You hardly think you can stand the strain waiting for the first college dance, and you're quite anxious to brighten up some moody guy's (get me?) life. (Aren't we all?)

You've got that glint in your eye to change the pronoun in "He Wears A Pair of Silver Wings," and you think "Gal from Kalamazoo" is just cutest yet. You could gab for hours about Claude Thornhill.

You are planning to try out for some of the campus clubs, of course, and you resolved long fore you arrived at G. S. W. C. to be a well-rounded college girl.

There now, isn't that YOU I've been talking about?

Student Government Head Attends World Conference

Miss Sara Catherine (Kitty) Martin has returned from Washington, D. C., where she attended the World Convention of International Student Assembly which brought together 350 students from 53 nations. The assembly was enthusiastically supported by the governments of United Nations, and the foreign delegates were chosen and sent by their governments. This convention was probably the only official Allied international conference which will be held during the war.

The program was planned around the past, present, and future, and considered under the themes, "The End of Imperialism," "The Peoples' Century," and "The Peace of Interdependence." Recognized authorities on world affairs presented these topics at plenary sessions and they were further discussed in a series of roundtables, dealing with their spiritual, historical, political, social, economic, and educational aspects.

Describes Delegates

It was a colorful gathering, the delegates being attired in native costumes, and many wearing the uniforms of their nations. A few spoke through interpreters. At the student dance given at the American University the American delegates jitterbugged for the benefit of the overseas delegates. Miss Yung Wang, Chinese movie actress, performed a feature dance, and Lieut. Peheltinsey, Soviet Sniper, "did" a Russian folk dance.

Among the most interesting students were: Lieutenant Lindmila Peheltinsey, a young Russian girl guerrilla with the highest record in the Soviet's army of snipers. She is a graduate of Kiev University, quit social work to join guerilla forces and has killed 309 German soldiers. She has been wounded four times and fought through the battle of Sevastopol. Accompanying her were Nikolai Krasavchenko, Moscow youth leader, who was once captured by the enemy, and Lieut. Vladimir Peheltinsey who won the title, "Hero of the Soviet Union," by killing 152 Germans with 154 shots.

Another hero was Wing Commander David Scott-Malden, 22 years old, of England, who piloted a spitfire in the recent air battle over Dieppe and won the Distinguished Flying Cross for bringing down six Nazi planes. Mr. Raden Abdu Kadir Widjoatmodjo, Knight of the order of Orange Nassau of Java, and Cesare Lombroso, leader of anti-fascists Italians, were brilliant leaders. Charming Regina Aranda of Brazil made an interesting contribution, as did many, many others too numerous to mention.

Martin Broadcasts

Miss Martin represented the North American continent at a breakfast at the White House on Wednesday morning and on a coast to coast radio broadcast with Mrs. Roosevelt and five foreign delegates on Thursday night. She was given a ride by Mrs. Roosevelt in a White House car, and attended a garden party at the Executive Mansion on Saturday. She represented the U. S. delegation on steering committees and helped to draft the credo, a set of principles determining their attitude toward the conduct of the post-war world. Before acting upon the draft the various delegations met with the embassies or legations of their countries. Miss Martin served on the committee on arrangements for the conference and was active on many other committees. She made the nomination speech for the young man who was elected president of the U. S. delegation. —The Waycross Journal Herald.

8 Freshmen Cited First Honor Grads Of Georgia Schools

Eight members of the Freshman Class are listed by the registrar as first honor graduates from their respective high schools. The University System of Georgia rewards the outstanding student in each senior class of a Georgia high school with a scholarship to any of the units of the system that the student should choose to attend which is applied toward tuition for the Freshman year.

The eight G.S.W.C. girls who qualified are: Susie Bedell, Woodburn; Florence Hope, Albany; Alameda Roberts, Homerville; Mildred Thomas, Eastman; Harriet Singletary, Pelham; Oneda Edwards, Valdosta; Ida Virginia Nichols, Screven; Evelyn Louise Rowland, East Crisp High School, Cordele.

Know Your Sports Club Officers!

Get acquainted with your Sports Club officers. You can't stay two days at G.S.W.C. without knowing the organization's president, Martha Ashley, Martha's a Valdosta girl, a member of the Junior Class, and good at any number of sports.

Jean Mobley, a senior from Sylvania, is secretary of the club, and Alice Meadors, an Albany senior, is treasurer. Both girls filled these offices last year also.

Sports Club Plans Parties For Frosh

The Sports Club, largest of campus clubs, will entertain Wednesday night for the Freshman Class. The Sports Council is planning a hike with a nosebag supper, the destination being Joe Rees' Mill Pond. After hiking back to the campus the group will gather in the gymnasium where upperclassmen will see that the new girls are well acquainted with the Sports Club in a very entertaining manner. Later there will be games and contests on front campus. The nosebag supper will be prepared through the courtesy of the college dining hall.

The Sports Club's plans for Freshman Week don't end with one party, however. They have arranged an open house to which all freshmen are invited on Friday afternoon at the House in the Woods. There will be short demonstrations of campus sports and a splash party in the pool.

The vice-president is to be elected, Evalyn O'Neal Johnson having resigned.

The Sports Club is governed by these girls with the assistance of a council. Sports Council is composed of faculty advisors, officers, and a group of girls interested in different sports on campus. The personnel of the council changes somewhat each quarter.

Faculty advisors of the Sports Club include instructors in physical education. They are: Miss Leonora Ivey, head of the department, and Miss Ruth Reid, Miss Marjorie Carter, and Mrs. Johnny Oliver.
