The Girls in Foods 310 will put their knowledge into practice this week with a series of entertainments for friends and faculty members. The entertainments will include teas, parties and any other form which the girls in the class desire. Preparations have been much in evidence the past week, for the girls have been busy in invitations, just what to serve and how to serve it, who to ask and what kind of an affair to have.

Monday afternoon, Peggy Ashley honored her roommate, the Southwell, with a bridge party. Tonight, Annette Massey will entertain a group of Juniors at a tea supper, commemorating at the same time some birthdays in the past. Thursday afternoon, from 5 o'clock, Kathleen Hall will honor graduating Seniors and invited faculty members with an informal party.

WAC Recruiting Team Led by Lt. Nell A. Mason To Be On Campus

Dear ye, hear ye, all ye woman students and interested parties! We're coming—Yes, sir, May 17-18, '44, be here on the G. S. W. C. campus! Who am I talking about? The WAC Recruiting Team of WAC officers, an Army officer, and a non-commissioned officer.

The team, headed by Lt. Nell A. Mason, of the Women's Air Corps, will be on campus two days, will meet in chapel, and is here for the purpose of interviewing those interested in the work of the Women's Air Corps and the FAC's themselves. The team will be composed of Lt. Mason, of Athens, Ga.; Lt. Mary E. Holt, of Rocky Mount, Virginia; Lt. Violet of Lansing, Michigan, and Cornelle B. Taylor, of Leslie, Va.

This group is one of the many now being sent to the country to acquaint the people with the work behind the scenes and behind the uniforms. Information which they will give at G. S. W. C. will undoubtedly be of immense interest to all, and members of the team will appreciate any cooperation given them here.

His friend M. A. Jones, D. D., retired pastor, will deliver the commencement sermon to the Seniors on June 4. Reverend Jones is widely known throughout the South, having connection with a church in Atlanta. He is also associated with a church in St. Louis. His text is an outstanding one—Reverend Jones. His sermons appear every Sunday in the Atlanta Constitution.

Greenlee Cottage Is Scene of '44 Retreat

Mrs. F. A. Greenlee's cottage at Twin Lakes was the scene of much work and much fun this past weekend. Though the campus was bare and the dormitories were running a close race to tombs, the Lakes echoed on all sides with the voices of the groups from the college there on Retreat.

At the cottage were the Y. W. C. A. Cabinet members and some of the Student Government heads.

Among the Y. W. C. A. group were Alpha Mae Castleberry, Effie Powell, Helen Davis, Jr., Catherine Garbutt, Helen Allen, Harriett Arrington, Claire Peacock, Claire Hall, Harriet Singletary, Gladys Penland, Nancy Story, Lorraine Anchors, Anne Keene, and June Mosely, chaplain.

Student Government members going to the Lakes were Martha Goodwin, Mary Greech, Mary Agnes Wolff, Jean Rowe, Jean Martin, Betty Peters, Peggy Pressley, and Emily Dekle.

Retreat is held to give the leading groups of the campus a chance to get away and to discuss and plan the work to be carried out in the next year. Of course, a bit of swimming, hiking, a few steaks, and a touch of the sun are added just to make it all come out right.

Home Economics Club Will Hold Its First Meeting Thursday

The Home Economics Club will hold its first meeting Thursday night in the House-in-the-Woods. A constitution has been drawn up by a committee of the Home Economics Majors, and has been approved by the members. At this meeting, officers will be elected. A nominating committee has already turned in a list of nominations to the Faculty Advisor of the club, Miss Lola M. Drew, professor of Home Economics.

The Juniors, Rachel Cunningham, Emily Dekle, Annette Massey, Ruby Burgamy, Dot Jackson, Kathleen Hall, and Barbara Pressley are in charge of the program and refreshments.

Glee Club Presents Annual Concert Saturday, May 13

Filling the air with tuneful melody and harmony, the G. S. W. C. Glee Club and Serenaders presented their annual concert last Saturday evening. Miss Marie Motter directed the Glee club, and Miss Jean Vanschute accompanied.

The program included selections by Bach, Brahms, Tschaiakowski, Victor Herbert, Weinberger, Strauss and many other great composers. The first group of songs consisted of "Now Let All the Heavens Adore Thee," and "Lord Thou Art Mindful," both by Bach, and "How Lovely Is Thy Dwelling Place" by Brahms.

Frances Loosier, voice major sang "One Fine Day" from "Madame Butterfly" by Puccini.

For its second group the Glee Club sang "I heard a Forest Praying" by Debussy, "In a Persian Market" by Keteiby and "Shvanda" from the opera "The Bagpiper" by Weinberger.

Martha Goodwin, Nell Patten and Robilee Patillo, dressed in oriental costumes set the scene for the Serenaders to sing "Five Fragments of Jade" by Tokacs. The last number "On the River" was presented as a solo by Martha Freeman.

After intermission, the Serenaders returned to sing "Oh, Dear What Can the Matter Be?" by Warren. Betty Rentz, Marjorie Dorrough, and Glynn Hill, sang "Ma Lindy Lou" by Strickland and Romberg's, "I'll See You Again" as an encore. The Serenaders next sang "There Are Such Things," a currently popular number by Haer. Ending this group a trio composed of Jackie Jones, Glee Club president, Rosie Barnhill, and Marjorie Ferguson sang "I Can't Do That Sum" from Victor Herbert's "Babes In Toyland."

In the last group the Serenaders sang "The Carioca" by Youmans and as an encore, "There's Something About a Soldier" by Noel Gay. The Glee club concluded the evening's performance with "Chinese Dance" from the "Nutcracker Suite" of Tschaiakowski, and "Blue Danube" by Strauss.

After the concert the Glee Club sponsored a formal dance in the Recreation Hall.

In the list of Glee Club members published last week, the name of Doris Gibbs was omitted by error.

Dr. S. V. Sanford Is Well-Known Speaker At G. S. W. C.

Speaker for G.S.W.C.'s graduation exercises on Sunday afternoon, June 4, as far as is known at the present time, will be Dr. S. V. Sanford, Chancellor of the University System of Georgia.

Dr. Sanford, chancellor since 1935 and one of Georgia's outstanding educators, was born in Covington, Ga., in 1871. He received his education at Mercer University, the University of Berlin, and at Oxford. From the schools at Marietta, and then, for ten years, served as professor of English at the University of Ga.

Advancing rapidly from his position as head of the Henry W. Grady School of Journalism in 1921, he served successively as Dean of the University and President. The office he filled for three years from 1932-35.

Chancellor Sanford is a member of the Association of American Schools of Journalism, Kappa Alpha Kappa Phi. He is also author of several books on composition and grammar.

The announcement of his coming comes as welcome news to G. S. W. C. students who, from his previous visits on campus, have come to know his personality and wit. Dr. Frank R. Reade, who made the announcement, has recently been appointed as executive assistant to Dr. Sanford.

We've Seen Him In The Roosevelt Peddling Papers

By Mary Mitchell

I have seen him up and down the campus—and I'm not referring to the "guy in Navy blue." His real passport is "Paper, Sir?" "Ma'am?" given in his most carefully clipped manner, elaborately clipped, that is, for a newspaper, and the accompanying honored smile.

Amazing how good-natured a smile can be. Gruff old men in the morning news from his hurriedly in order to catch the buses, bustling ladies tell him that "We have ours delivered while high school kids read over his shoulder and ask to run errands for them. All he takes in and the ever widening stays—not in a moronic banana style, but as an ever deepening understanding of the reasons for the inconsiderations of others and as a forgiveness for their shortcomings.

His frank blue eyes, short-cropped blonde hair ruffled in true boyish fashion off-set the ragged sweater, baggy trousers, worn-down heels of his shoes. He hasn't been told that sweaters should be straight, so his slants over one hip and is pushed up by the papers on the opposite side. His brown plaid shirt plainly seen below his sweater carries no note of untidiness for him. No one has corrected him on his dress. There is a very good reason. Let the one of us who has his pleasant smile and deep understanding of people speak the first word!

Little Red Riding Hood Wolves Have Changed

By Martha Blount

Come little girls, gather around me and I'll tell you a story.

Once upon a time, a long time ago, the world was very different. Then, a wolf was a wolf—even in sheep's clothing. He had a long, sharp nose and a big mouth and pointed teeth and anybody, even little girls, could tell a wolf when they saw one. Why, she could even tell him by his howl—long and loud. And when she saw a wolf or heard one howl, she would run fast to Grandmother's house. It wasn't so very dangerous for little girls then because the wolf always preferred Grandmother.

But my, how times have changed! Things are different now and little girls become mixed up very easily. To begin with, you can no longer tell a wolf by his long nose and sharp teeth. Some of them even look like a combination of Clark Gable, Robert Taylor, and Frank Sinatra. And what's more, they no longer howl. In fact they speak very sweetly and softly, and some have even been known to croon. Yes, times have changed.

Oh, for the good old days when a wolf was labeled—when a girl could tell by looking at one that he was a wolf. Then, when she went through the woods, metaphorically or allegorically speaking, when she met something she knew whether to lift up her head and smile or lift up her skirts and run. Now, all a poor little girl can do is cross her fingers and hope that her woman's intuition will sound an alarm when a wolf approaches. All in all, it's a queer world for little girls!

THE EDITOR WRITES . . . .

President Roosevelt, in a message to Everett Case, new president of Colgate University in New York, spoke of the challenge to American colleges of today. His words were as follows:

"The challenge of the new day for American colleges is very great. All our energies at the present time must be devoted to winning the war. Yet, winning the war will be futile if we do not, throughout the period of its winning, keep our people prepared to make a lasting and worthy peace. This time the peace must be global, the same as the war has been global. Around the peace table the voice of the United States will have great weight. It is of tremendous importance that that voice shall represent the aspirations of a people determined to its destiny. The soul of that destiny is maximum freedom of the human spirit."

The colleges of Britain have also played a great part in this war, and they have kept going despite the tremendous odds against which they have had to fight. These colleges are very surprised and grateful that they are still alive, active, and useful. The most serious loss to both American and British colleges and universities alike is the curtailment of art, music, theater, and the outside speakers that offer so much.

Perhaps this war will offer a wider and clearer vision of the aims which the university must set before itself, its country, and even the world. It is in this way that universities and colleges, large and small, G.S.W.C. included, will be so important to a much sadder old world when this war is over.

Goodwin What Rates A Second Look?

What is the first thing a girl notices when she sees a boy? Maybe books would give the answer, but a representative survey of G.S.W.C. women shows the following data:

Before you go further, think what you notice, then read on to see if you are in the groove with the rest of your fellow class-mates.

One sure thing, G.S.W.C. women like a well-groomed, well-mannered man. In fact, these two assets must be present before the man wins a second look from many girls on campus. I'll throw my note in here, too. From the Sophomore Class comes a request for broad shoulders or nothing at all. Maybe P. T. will help this young lady find her man or the man to find broad shoulders. Give me clean, strong hands, including well-kept fingernails, comes the cry from many. They don't have to be Woodbury hands, either. If a fellow has handsome eyes, he'll get along well on campus, too. You know how it goes:

"Oh, Grandpa, what beautiful eyes you have!" Did you know big feet are popular, too. Little feet—no foundation, big feet and a way with the woman. Maybe this is caused by women freeing their feet from tight shoes yet still not wanting to exceed man in anything. So they want big-footed men—Unselfish creatures, aren't we?

All these above characteristics are necessary for even those second glances. The next things are a pleasing voice, oodles of personality and high morals. Well, girls, that seems like an ideal but some fellows must have some of these at least by the gleam in your eyes when asked such questions.

I'd like for you to notice that good looks were not even mentioned. One they were even condensed. Well, after all, looks are only skin deep, whereas cleanliness, manners, personality, and morals are through and through. It seems these ideals have been "Bred in the Bone" of the G.S.W.C. women. Not bad, either; just stick to them for both men and yourself.

Kampus KALEIDOSCOPE

Well, Gals, the Snooper is back again with news from the front-line gossip sessions.

These dances ain't no slow things are they? Why, with the formal and the dance of May 6th some catches were made (on both sides).

Seen at the dance was one of the old stand-bys, Lamar Crozier, with none other than Betty McAllister.

Also, Rosie Yarborough and Sid were seen casting fond eyes in each other's direction again.

With all the wolves roaming around, Easy Reese did land a Wolf. And it was reported that she was seen with this same Wolf Sunday.

I have always heard that birds of a feather flock together, but now I know it's true—just look at the right time and you'll see Virginia Bird and that Lt. Bird.

Something must be coming of the romance between Gracie and Earl. It's a little over a year ago now, isn't it? Give us a few tips, won't you?

And her roommate isn't doing so badly for herself. Is he a navigator or bombardier, and which Boh are you courting, Alice?

The other branches of Uncle Sam's service aren't doing so badly for themselves, either. Two of Jacksonville's Blue-Jackets kept the big guns on the faces of two Juniors this week end. Who are they? Why—Annette and Kitty of course.

By the way, which one of the girls held the attention of that 'devil-dog', Paul Love?

Mercy me, these sailor men do get around, don't they? Didn't I see Willa Dean and Nelle Lunsford sporting out with two of them Friday nite?

Dot Jackson is a mighty sweet girl this week, or oughta be after that big box of candy (pre-war too) that she received. Kirk must be a mighty sweet Ensign himself.

Everybody has heard now about that story-book incident which happened to Betty Bowen. Must be thrilling to get a note dropped from an airplane soaring low in the Heavens. (getting poetic, ain't it?)

Now, three cheers for Whitaker and Patten who gave such grand performances the other night. Keep it up!!

Sketching The Seniors . . . . .

By MARTHA BLOUNT

MARTHA GOODWIN

Martha Goodwin, the president of our Student Government Association, comes to us from McRae, Georgia, and is a December graduate. She is that competent, busy little person who really gets things accomplished.

Martha is in the Glee Club, and is an active member of the Sports Club. She is a member of the Fine Arts Club and is on the staff of the Campus Canopy.

During the interview today, Martha received a call from the President of the Student Government Association of G.S.C.W. in Milledgeville, who had heard about our new Constitution and wanted to know all of our ideas. Looks like we are fast becoming famous!

Martha says she hates wolves, dirty jokes, and for people to be careless, negligent or forgetful. She likes men who are well-groomed, well-mannered, and who don't mind if she talks about science now and then.

She generally likes sport clothes, but likes a frill now and then, and her favorite color is blue. As for food, she likes steaks when she can afford them (whole ones), otherwise she likes them ground.

She has several hobbies, among which are collecting cute baby pictures, poems, good thoughts, quotations, and making people smile.

Speaking of ambitions, her main one is to go abroad after the war and help repair things. She would also like to do medical work.

She likes Spencer Tracy and Susan Peters, and her music taste runs along the classical and semi-classical line. She likes "The Desert Song" and "One Alone." She also likes to read good books and likes foreign languages. One of her secret yearnings is to sit up all night on a beach and watch the sun rise.

Her favorite sports are swimming and tennis and bicycle riding. Another is sleeping, and she doesn't talk much in the morning—that's when she does her thinking. The person she would like most to see right now is her Daddy, who is a prisoner of the Japanese.

ALPHA MAE CASTLEBERRY

Alpha Mae Castleberry, that vivacious little brunette from Richland, is President of our Y.W.C.A.

She has served on the Y.W.C.A. for four years and is a member of the Fine Arts Club and is on the Canopy staff.

She likes sincere people and people who keep their promises. She likes them serious sometimes, funny sometimes, but both at the right times.

She likes to collect poems, says she has a "glorious mixture". And she likes for people to stand up for what they think and have a reason for thinking it.

One of her chief aims is to see the Chapel built, but her ambition is to go to Emory and get her degree in Religious Education.

Her favorite movie stars are Ingrid Bergman, Greer Garson, and Spencer Tracy. She prefers semi-classical and classical music, but likes the good old boogie-woogie, too, because, she says, "Nobody loves to dance any better than I do." One of her favorites is the "Nutteracker Suite". She also likes to read, and among her favorite authors are Rawlings and Hemingway, especially his For Whom the Bell Tolls.

And now about men—she also likes them well-groomed and well-mannered. The first things she notices about a man are his hands and his eyes. Her favorite sport is horseback riding, but she also likes to take a nap in the afternoons.

She likes dress clothes best, with blue and white her favorite colors, but she says she feels best in shorts, with her hair on top, and barefooted. Says she is teased all the time about taking her shoes off, and once lost them in a theater.

Alpha Mae likes to take walks too, in fact, she and Martha take them together all the time. Her pet peeve is for the laundry not to come in on time, and we know what she means. Alpha Mae won't be leaving us until March, but we'll wish her luck anyway.

Allen Writes of Religion

The excuses we have for not trying to attain are funny and pathetic. Indeed, that anyone should want excuses, but we of us do! Some of us argue that we do that there is really no use for the strugglers of us insist that we are entirely too to bother with a thing so exacting as to scoff at the Christian's struggle between wrong, and laugh because he prefers the charity and Christianity better than the fun and self-glory.

And by far the most pitiful and tragic contends there is no God, who speak the surface that which the depths refuse to who demand "what has he done for me, you prove that all the good thing in life has fro ma God? Why haven't they come through persistence and driving ambition?

Silly questions! Yes, we can be proud elocution and its influence. We can convince that we deny Him, but we never satisfy soul—never still that nagging voice under talkativeness. And when the hard hour none of these human beings that we have are-so great can help us. But without thought eyes turn naturally toward the sky and plead fully to the God we have denied to ease the When friends are inadequate, we can always the ever-ready friend in the darkness of our ets, if we go to our knees and ask for Him.

Yes, there is a God—a God strong enough stand between us and infidelity; powerful to stand all our attacks with no other argument his spirit that is alive and evident in the best loving enough to be our best friend and the in our hearts tells us that He understands.

The Math-Science Club met Wednesday night at the House-in-the-Woods. The meeting was called to order by President Mary Agnes Wolff. The program for the evening consisted of reports based on the new drug, penicillin. Sara Alien Mathews reported on the "Discovery and Development"; Harriett Singletary, "Rockefeller Foundation"; Betty Collins, "The Use of It In the Armed Forces"; and Mary Esther Carter, "Civilian Use".

New officers for the coming year were elected. Mary Creech was selected as President, Martha Lindsay, Vice-President, and Harriett Singletary, Secretary-Treasurer.

Three new members were welcomed into the club. These were Connie Kinsler, Maude Willis, and Mrs. Thorpe.

Refreshments were served to close the final meeting of the club for the year.

Discussions of Europe Mark Eng. Club Meeting

On Wednesday evening, at 7:30, the English Club of the campus held its regular monthly meeting in the House-in-the-Woods. As this was the final meeting of the year, an informal forum, led by Mrs. John Odum, English instructor and sponsor of the club, was held. Old cathedrals, the characteristics, customs and foods of the European peoples were the topics of this discussion. Highlights of the evening were derived from personal experiences of Mrs. Odum in her two trips through Europe.

A short business meeting preceded the program. Installation of the new officers of the club was held informally, and plans for next year were discussed.

Dr. Farber Sends Out S.O.S For Lost Articles

Dr. Farbar sends out an S.O.S. for missing articles. She is missing a small blue and white cream pitcher which was borrowed quite some time ago. It is part of a set and she wishes it returned as soon as possible. Also, a green earthen vase which she treasures as a gift was borrowed and never returned. You who have these articles please return them right away.

Dr. Farbar has some smallpox virus which she suggests that any faculty member or student who had a light "take" a number of years ago would do well to use. She says it may give additional immunity to the disease. She also has a supply of Mixed Typhoid vaccine on hand.

If you've heard any peculiar sounds lately don't be alarmed because it is probably the freshmen coming out with their new spring names.

Now there's Jake Hart, the little freshman from Bainbridge. As far as we know she doesn't have another name. And if anyone should ask for Mary Nix Williams none of us would know that they were speaking of Nickey.

Then there's Betty Lee who has been answering to the camouflage name of Pete. She says its a long story, but just ask her where her name was derived from. Everyone knows Jean Martin as Nosey. She says you can easily see where she got her name, but you don't mind, do you, Nosey?

Elizabeth Pate has been called Patey by everyone since she was first introduced at G.S.W.C. Living right across the hall from her is Easy Reese. She's the strawberry blonde from Preston, remember?

Downstairs all living near each other are those cuties from Reynolds, Tack Brunson, Sister Hinton, and Wootie Newsome. Their nicknames came from the fair city of Reynolds, and from what we gather that must be a very exciting town.

We hear that Laura Helen Downs had a snazzy nickname in Thomaston. It seems funny that she hasn't told anyone what it was. Just ask her if she wants to take a quick shower, and she will probably say, "At all she wrote, Miss Agnes." Sounds funny, but she'll understand.

B. J. Remson, the girl from D.C., has been called Cheesy because of one of her favorite expressions. Cheesed off, B. J.?

It seems that Fiend Green's name clung to her from the first drag. Maybe she was influenced by Ratsy Maupin and Eager Beaver Hall.

No one would ever guess that B. T. was Bobbie Townsend unless they had heard it screamed up and down the hall as all the Frosh have. Then there's Betty Rentz, commonly known as Renso, who takes her daily music lesson.

If you have been watching the softball practices, you have all, no doubt, seen the second Babe Ruth, who is Mary N. McGuirt, commonly called Gurgle. And speaking of softball, you too, have probably seen Dot "Glamour" Reynolds. She's the girl who always plays with her eye on the ball.

Now these are only a few of the many crazy names that the freshmen have to live with. So from now on if you happen to hear anything like these names, just remember that a freshman is on the loose somewhere nearby.

THE BIG NEWS OF THE WEEK

The winning party planned for Friday night. The party is a good show, lots of fun for all. Refreshments, it's said. This party is for everyone who is helping with the party or just watching from the sides of the night. Make it a date to be there for lots of fun and entertainment.

WHAT'S THIS WE HEAR

about Sports Club proxy Rachel Cunningham driving off the golf course with a club-headed PUTTER the other afternoon. Really proud of Rachel for being elected to the Council of the C. W. . . . Congratulations!

A REBIRTH OF INTEREST

has finally come around in softball. At the first of the quarter was eager and then as the quarter progressed and softball started, interest began lagging. At any rate it's mighty good to see the girls coming out after supper again. You can have fun, help your team by coming out so don't forget to be there for the practices. Especially be sure to come Wednesday night for the Match Game in softball for the quarter. The Kappas have won and so have the Lambdas. The score was slightly one-sided in the game but from the looks of last week's practices this game will be very close. Spectators not only have fun at these games but inspire their teams to greater efforts so if you aren't playing, at least be there to root for the "home team."

THIS PAST WEEK-END

was a lots of fun for all and you should see the work that everyone had a grand time on Retreat and also had plenty of milk some very good plans for next year. Would be nice if Retreat every quarter, wouldn't it?

HOW'S YOUR SUN-TAN COMING?

The Pool nowadays is not only serving the purpose of letting a little swimming done but also it's helping them to get that appeal. Winter coats are varied colors but stylists agree that and pink are in vogue in summer time . . . how 'bout it . . . do you have a good "coat" of tan yet? Mary Ruth Rouse is way ahead of her own black self. Antice Roberts is really proud of her golden and B. Townsend is having plenty of fun trying to cover her . . . or get them to run together at least.

IT'S NEARLY TIME

for the Archery tournament and still not enough girls are coming for practices. Sorry to be so persistent with the same old plea do come out and practice so we can have a good tournament. There are many qualified archers on campus and practicing doesn't take much time . . . so come on out!

THIS IS THE LAST WEEK

of the Golf Tournament too, so be sure to get around to playing some rounds before it's over.

DON'T FORGET!

The softball Match Game Wednesday at seven; the swimming Friday night; the golf tournament . . . and to play some sport this

Golfers Call 'Fore'—Tournament Will End This Week

The golf tournament is really on its way now. Every afternoon if one listens closely they can hear the familiar cry of "Fore" drifting from back campus and the golf course. Then, of course, you know that someone is out trying to get that sometimes ornery golf ball into the little cup on the green. It's really quite a problem sometimes to make that little ball do as you want it to do. That is what makes golf the skilled and interesting game it is. That is also what makes for a good competitive tournament.

This tournament counts points on the Sports Club Plaque and the Kappas and Lambdas have been out trying for 'em. The rules for the tournament are posted on all bulletin boards . . . be sure to read them. All one has to do to enter the tournament is play a round of golf keep your score (on score cards provided at the Gym) and at the completion of playing . . . drop your score card into the box placed in the Gym for this purpose. You can play as many rounds as you like and post your score for each. The lowest score for one round will decide the winner of the tournament.

The game of golf may look simple to some but that's because you haven't tried it. Just ask Martha Chastain, Midge Thomas, or Mary Ellen Compton about that. They were out playing the other afternoon and finding it not so simple. Barbara Edenfield and Rachel Cunningham were also out doing their bit for their teams. You can play anytime except during a P.E. class and it's really a lot of fun. So join the crowd and get in some of rounds before the tournament closes Saturday. This is your chance to help your team win the Sports Club Plaque . . . get out and try!

Cunningham and Vaughn Attend G. A. F. C. W.

Rachel Cunningham and June Vaughn attended the G.A.F.C.W. Convention which was held at the Piedmont Hotel in Atlanta May 5-7. Miss Lenora Ivey, faculty advisor for the association accompanied the two.

The delegates to the convention included all out-going and in-coming presidents of Athletic Clubs from all the colleges in Georgia. A discussion was held on the activities of the club this year and for the new year. Outstanding athletic leaders

Last Match-Game of Season Scheduled for Wednesday Night at 7; Will Decide Final Victor

The last softball Match Game of the quarter is to be played Wednesday night at 7 o'clock. The Kappas were the winners of the first game and the Lambdas winners of the second match game. This game tomorrow night will decide which team is to be the final winner.

Will the pitching talent of Maudine Blair and that first baseman whiz, Beth Middleton, be able to stop the Lambdas' June Vaughn, Jake Hart, and Kathleen Grantham? Louise Newton, Dot Davis, and Henrietta Tarver hold on to almost every fly hit into the field but will they stop more balls than the Lambdas' Claire Fraeock, Clare Carson, and Marie Armstrong? B. J. Remson of the Lambdas, has shown her ability to catch those flies around third base and she also smashed the first home run of the season, but Nell Kenney, Kappa third baseman, has also got a few home runs to her credit. Helen Allen is another Kappa who can really give that ball a good ride. Lou Sims, Kappa second baseman, has been a very valuable player, as have M. A. Roberts, Bobby Townsend, and Edith Roberts. Laura Helen Downs, Dot Hinton, and Dot Reynolds of the Lambda team have been in the game all the way through, too.

The Kappas and Lambdas have been more evenly matched in softball and are running closer than in any other team sport so far. This last Match Game is to be exciting and plenty close. The Lambdas are determined to hold that lead they gained in the last game and the Kappas are determined to get revenge for that defeat. The games stand at one all. Who will win this one??? YOU be there to find out a 7 o'clock Wednesday!

sketched the athletic programs in their colleges and suggested improvements to be made in the clubs throughout the state. The new presidents had a wonderful opportunity for gaining new ideas for making their clubs a success next year.

While in Atlanta the delegates were invited to the May Day festival at Agnes Scott. The festivals are always not only symbolic but very beautiful.

The G.S.W.C. delegates brought back many new ideas for a great 1944-45 Sports Club.

Sports Club Gives Swimming Party

Ready for a party? Well, here's one coming up that is made to order. Friday night in the time and the swimming pool in the place. Form swimming, relays, diving, figure swimming . . . all these are on the program plus fun for all . . . with refreshments. The swimming managers, Mary Agnes Wolff and Jeanne Whittendale, are really out-doing themselves to try to give you a good party and from what is said . . . it is going to be just that.

If you've never been to one of these good swimming parties you just don't know what you've been missing. What is really fun is to take part in them but even if you just come to watch they're gill loads of fun. It's not too late for any girl who can swim even a little bit, to come out and join the swimming teams for practice on Mondays at 5:30. The entire program promises to be good but the relays that are planned will really give you a laugh. These will be crazy and very amusing . . . can't you just imagine some people trying to swim the length of the pool in full dress and holding a candle (or something similar) all at the same time. You get a kick out of trying to do it and also one in watching others try. We're looking forward to seeing some good swimming and diving and also the other kind.

The party will have swimming, music, and other entertainment. Cokes will be sold and the rest furnished "for nothin'." It seems to be all for fun and fun for all so don't miss it. Remember it's Friday night. Come prepared to have a big time . . . otherwise don't come. We'll see you there!
