SIX CHOSEN FOR "WHO'S WHO" FROM THIS YEAR'S SENIOR CLASS

Six GSWC Seniors have been elected to the 1948-1949 "Who's Who Among American Universities and Colleges." They are Misses Doris Bateman, Charlene Bowen, Mary Elinore Crea, Carolyn Mathis, Betty Jean Smith, and Morris Smith.

"Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges" is a national publication in which the biographies of outstanding students appear each year. The persons named for this honor are selected on the basis of character, scholarship, and leadership in extra-curricular activities.

The following method of selection was used: a committee of six including three faculty members and three students met. Provided with a list of the members of the Senior Class, each was asked to mark fifteen of the most outstanding Seniors. The tallies were added and a slate of fifteen candidates with the highest number of votes was made. At the second meeting each member was given the names, campus activities and honors, and academic quality point ratings of the fifteen candidates. They were asked to study the records and to rate the candidates by number (1 through 15) according to their qualifications. The numbers following each name were added and the six candidates with the lowest scores were nominated.

During her college years, Miss Doris Bateman has been a member of the Student Government Association, the YWCA, the Sports Club and Sports Council, Fine Arts Club, Math-Science Club, Philharmonic Club, Dance Club, Methodist Youth Organization, Glee Club, and Serenaders. Particularly active in the work of the YWCA, Miss Bateman has served on the Y Cabinet for three years and on the Sophomore Council. Last year she was vice-president of the YWCA, and this year is its president. Miss Bateman is also serving this year on the staff of the Pine Cone, student yearbook.

Miss Charlene Bowen, one of the two town girls selected, is also a very active student. The vice-president of her Freshman Class,

Miss Bowen has, through the years, been a member of the SGA, YWCA, Sports Club, a member of the Campus Canopy editorial staff, the Pine Cone editorial staff, the Freshman and Senior Honor Societies, the Valdosta Club (Vice president in her sophomore year), Romance Language Club, Dance Club, and Methodist Youth Organization.

This year Miss Bowen is President of the Sock and Buskin Club and is chairman of the Artist Series Committee of the College. She is also a member of the ECA Committee and is vice-president of the IRC. Miss Bowen is a History Major and English Minor.

Miss Crea, present Editor-in-Chief of the Campus Canopy, is a member of the Student Government Association and Student

The Doctor's Corner

The fall cold is lurking about and we wish that we had a cure. We have not, but many things can be done which help.

First: more rest, more liquid intake, as water, fruit juice or coca colas, and less food. A fruit juice diet, only for one day is best.

Second: there are various types of cold capsules which help, and nose drops open up the air passages.

Third: a cold vaccine (not serum) sometimes helps.

Fourth: omit swimming for the first two or three days (the stage of bacterial invasion.)

The second announcement is that the Health Service has on hand fresh typhoid vaccine for those who need their "annual" or for those who have never taken the course of three injections, the course should be taken.

The third announcement is in regard to corsages: they may be left in the frigidaire in the dispensary part of the Health Service if taken from the box, placed in the lower part, as vaccines are on the upper shelves, and if the owner will use care in not leaving the door open long and in closing it when through.

Presidents Will Light the Fire Of Fellowship

The Y. W. C. A. of the Georgia State Womens College, one of the most active and inclusive of the campus organizations, observes the third of its traditional services on Thursday evening, November 4, with the Firelighting Service. This ceremony, held in the Rotunda of Ashley Hall, each year marks the first lighting of the fires in the Rotunda, and symbolizes the kindling of the fires of friendship in the hearts of all G. S. W. C. girls.

Miss Doris Bateman, president of the "Y", and Carolyn Mathis, president of the Student Government Association will light the fires, after which presidents of the clubs and representatives of other organizations will add fagots symbolizing various things to the fires.

Miss Patsy Sutherland, for the League of Women Voters will add

Atlanta Symphony Due Here Nov. 7

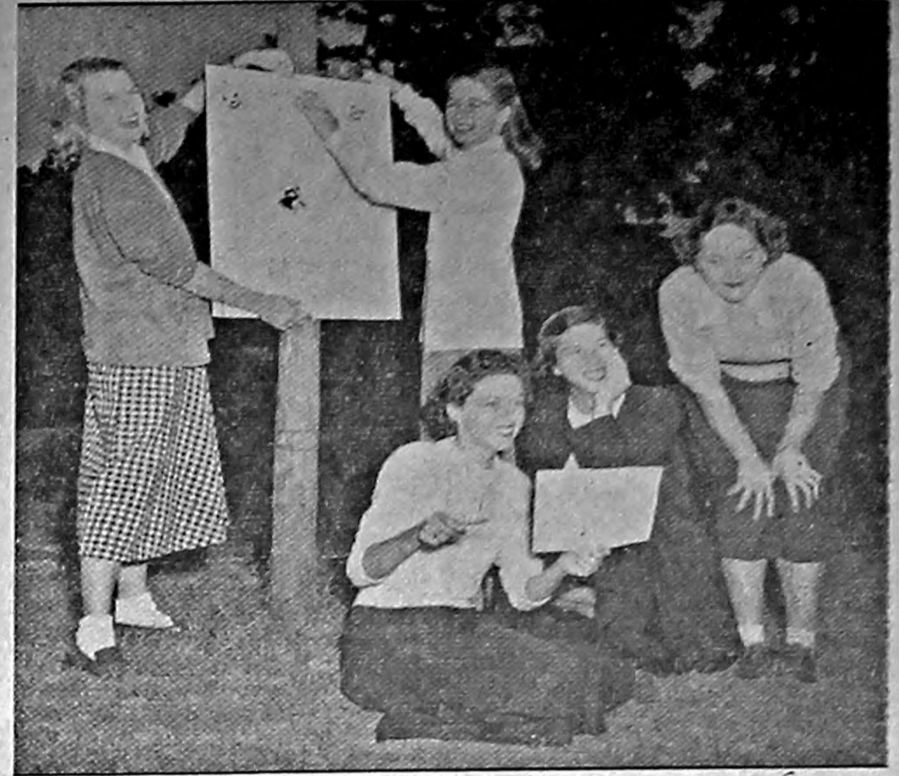

The Valdosta High School Auditorium will be the scene of the first program of the Valdosta Concert Association Sunday afternoon, November 7, at three o'clock, when the Atlanta Symphony Orchestra, under the direction of Henry Sopkin, will appear.

Representatives from GSWC, Emory, and Valdosta comprise the board which selects the artists that appear in concert here.

Appearing with the ninety-one piece orchestra as piano soloist will be Hugh Hodgson, well known head of the Music Department at the University of Georgia. Besides his Sunday afternoon performance, Mr. Hodgson will present a program here at the College Monday morning at ten thirty in the auditorium.

Beginning their Sunday afternoon program with the Overture to "Rienzi," by Wagner, the Orchestra will play Symphony Number Two in D Major, Opus thirty-six, by Beethoven: Adagio Molto, allegro con brio; Larghetto, Scherzo and Trio, allegro; Allegro Molto; and Concerto Number Two in G Major for Piano and Orchestra by Saint Saens: Andante Sostenuto; Allegro Scherzando; Allegro with Mr. Hodgson as soloist.

The Orchestra will conclude the afternoon program with Polka and Fugue from the opera "Schwanda," by Weinberger.

What are they laughing about? Why don't you ask them—they are: left to right: Misses Jean Helton, Doris Bateman, Bet Alderman, Grace Hiers, and Virginia Heisler.

SENIORS WILL WOW 'EM WITH SKIT, STREET DANCE

Ghosts and goblins galore will be in attendance at GSWC tonight to lend the Seniors an experienced hand in presenting their annual Halloween Carnival. From 7:30 until the 'witching hour of midnight participants in the Carnival will be entertained with all the traditional Halloween festivities—fortune telling, apple bobbing, House of Horrors, cake walks, penny pitching, FOOD—plus a skit (or side-show, if you prefer) and a Street Dance.

Booths will be set-up on South Campus by the gym. Admission to the Carnival grounds will be 10 c and prices at the booths will range from 5c to 25c.

Gulliver Speaks At Assembly

"Only one man left in the United States believes that Harry Truman will be elected president next week and that's Harry Truman!"

With this humorous statement, Dr. Harold S. Gulliver, professor of English, began a talk on Presidential Personalities Wednesday, October 27, in assembly.

"To become president of the United States", Dr. Gulliver went on to say, "you should not be born a girl, because there have been no women presidents, and you should not be born in Georgia, but in Virginia, Ohio, or New York. In fact, you have an excellent chance of being elected president if you are governor of New York."

In his talk, Dr. Gulliver briefly summarized the presidential terms of such former presidents as Harding, Hoover, Wilson, and Theodore Roosevelt. Recalling the interest that Roosevelt had in development of the Army and Navy, Dr. Gulliver stated that such an interest in the armed services should be kept alive for "if Stalin wants force, then force he should get."

When speaking of Franklin D. Roosevelt, Dr. Gulliver said, "If you were to take Alfred Landon, Wendel Wilkie, Thomas Dewey, and Woodrow Wilson and mix them up together you still couldn't get one Franklin Roosevelt!"

Ending his talk, Dr. Gulliver pointed out that no matter who was elected to the presidency the American people would still go on doing the same things and living in the same manner.

SEE PAGE THREE —For the New Sock and Buskin Members —For "Saturday Cleaning"

The skit, revealing the varied talents of the Seniors, will be presented in the auditorium at 9:30. Admission will be 25c.

Following the skit will be a Street Dance to be held between Converse Hall and the gym.

Decoration of the Carnival grounds is being done by Misses Grace Hiers, Anne Knepton, Bet Alderman, Marion Collins, and Libby DeLoach. Misses Ann Dupriest and Doris Bateman are in charge of tickets. Misses Bim Ansley, Mary Elinore Crea, Carolyn Mathis, and Doris Bateman have handled the advertising. Other committees include: Gate—Misses Jean Helton, Ann Hutchins, and Ala McBride; Dance—Misses Morris Smith, Jackie Norman, Sally Beatty, and Martha Lee George; Skit—Misses Cornelia Tuten, Pat Porter, and Sherla Miller.

The following chairmen will be in charge of booths: Miss Beejee Smith — Penny Pitching; Misses Ruby Lacey, Mina Spence, and Zona Bennett—Cake Walks; Miss-

The Frontal Lobe

Whatzat? Why, silly, that's where your memory is. Now is the appropriate time for you to wonder to yourself—What memory. Why the seat of intelligence is thought to be in the frontal lobe, personally I think—I have a sneaking notion at least—that somewhere along the line I missed out on my frontal lobe, but did you? So right away you must wonder if that's why you made 34 on the most recent math test when high was 90. No, that isn't the reason, you simply FORGOT.

If we could retain everything that we, at one time or the other, have been exposed to, we would be prodigies, masterminds, why we'd be—But it would help if we could try. Some of us don't even make an attempt, and the things we forget—some people sleep late on Saturday and Sunday, but we forgot, we should have met Susie, but we forgot, the plant needed watering but it died only because we forgot. Forgetfulness is one of the worst habits which we fall victim to and the easiest to cure; just concentrate!

When Susie says, "Meet me at four" and you think of it at five, why then you know that a little concentration would have saved you a great deal of trouble and embarrassment. So many of us are prone to listen but still NOT listen when someone is talking to us.

Why, did you know that people have deposited thousands of dollars of good American currency in the banks of this country and never remembered it? And there it sits doing no one any good. Think of the good it would do our Chapel Fund!

Last Monday at Morning Watch we were told the story of the little boy who "forgot the best"—the key to the cave which held the treasures. How wonderful it would be if we could remember God, who is our key to bountiful living. But we even forget Him. If we are to continue to exist with any degree of happiness, we must surely remember to concentrate some time during the day on Him.

Let's give our grey matter a little exercise and see if we can't lend a little liveliness to this business of living. At least it would be more exciting than sitting around wondering if we've FORGOT-TEN any thing. That's a boring thing to do.

There is nothing capricious in nature; and the implanting of a desire indicates that its gratification is in the constitution of the creature that feels it.

—Emerson

THE TRADING POST

Athens, Ala. (ACP) "What about your study habits?" asks the writer of a feature for the "Crows Nest" of Athens College. He lists (with credit for suggestions to Tibbits, F. Layman, "Inventory of Study Habits and Attitudes") the following study habits to be checked by the individual:

Have a definite place and time for study. Study having the purpose of the lesson in mind and with the idea of recalling things studied and of using what is learned.

Limit the time spent on a lesson and try to do a little more in the same length of time each study period.

Get an overall view of the work by looking over the whole assignment or chapter before beginning to study.

Try to analyze material into its parts and after selecting the important points write them in fewer words and use key words for memory.

Try to discuss with others things that have been learned and also try to practice what has been learned.

Get reports and written work in on time; don't let your feelings toward the teacher affect your study.

Be accurate in your work and try to develop an interest in every study. Make definite preparations for exams.

Work out a good system of taking notes in lectures so that the material is understood and the importance of the various facts gauged before the notes are written down.

SO YOU DID HIM A FAVOR?

So you think you are doing your friends a favor? Well, now, maybe you aren't. Stop and think it over.

When you do a favor for someone, do they feel that they must return it or else be eternally grateful to you? If they feel that way, then you haven't done them a favor. You might as well ask for wages.

Before you promise to do someone a favor, check yourself on these points and decide if you will be doing them a favor or asking them to sign their lives away.

1. Don't give up once you have started to do someone a favor, and even if it does turn out to be more work than you bargained for, make it seem that it is really nothing.

2. Don't run around subtly mentioning it or take a superior attitude toward the person just because you were in a position to do him a favor.

3. Don't expect payment for a favor—even in the form of gratitude from the person who accepted it. Don't keep reminding him of the favor.

Remember—you can build friendships on favors, but only if it is a real favor and not a weapon of blackmail. "The Maverick," Northern Oklahoma Junior College.

House in the Woods

Construction work began on the activities building to be called the House in the Woods, II. The materials were logs grown on the sixty acre campus and material from the old House in the Woods. Annual Carnival

Lights were blazing down on south campus near the old riding ring when the '39 Seniors pulled the switch on the annual carnival Fortune tellers, cake walks, House of Horrors, and side shows were a few of the events to be topped off with "Jookin' in the Gym."

Mars Invades New Jersey

The radio program of the invasion of the people of Mars in New Jersey caused mob hysteria all over the campus. The news of people being killed by poisonous gas and machine guns had girls running up and down the halls crying for their mothers and Miss Hopper. Everyone finally quieted down when the announcer stated the "news" was only fiction.

Fire Alarms

Fire alarms were put in all dormitories as a result of an editorial in the CANOPY.

Dances

A dance was given to last until the late hour of eleven and prizes were given for the best waltzers.

When asked what she liked about Valdosta and 'WC, one Freshman replied, "It's swell knitting weather."

Book Review

By ANN SMITH

One afternoon I had a few free minutes so I decided I would ease the strain my poor mind had been under by reading a novel.

About the first sight that greeted me was a rather small book entitled "It's Greek To Me." Sounded different at least, so I strained my weary eyes a bit more and found that it had been written by Willie Snow Etherdige, a fellow Georgian.

Mrs. Etherdige has the reputation for writing books that will make you almost "bust" the seams of a new turtle-necked jersey.

Being a naturally curious person I looked at the cover flap to see that I was getting what I expected. This is what I found there: "Mrs. Etherdige relates her experiences of a trip made to Greece with her husband who is a government official. It is gay and funny but under the lightness can be detected a sad and rather serious note. She wittingly casts off on Communism by telling of the difficulties incurred in trying to penetrate the 'Iron Curtain.' Through her you see the way the people from the soon-exiled king to the people living in the streets to the guerilla fighter in the hills."

I read the book and found that the synopsis had greatly underrated the book.

I recommend it to anyone who has a little extra time and likes to take their information in a enjoyable fashion.

it all (meaning 'WC), but the lessons were too hard. (Did it take Mathis this long??)

Dala Wallace strolling about the campus ——— and as always with a group of photogenic faces tagging along behind him.

Seniors forsaking everything—even bridge—to complete plans for the Senior Carnival.

TO BE SCENE:—Everyone having a wonderful time at the Senior Carnival tonight.

Overheard while riding the bus home from town Friday—Sophomore explaining to weekend guests "I know you think it's an awfully long way from town to the college, but it's just because the bus has to go all through the proverbs to get there."

Weeks, Months or Holidays

Well . . . here it is Hallowe'en. Course the Hallowe'en candy in the dime store is already stale and the Hallowe'en masks look shop-worn. (But what else can you expect when they were put on the counters as soon as the last Fourth of July Firecracker stopped popping?) . . . Thanksgiving turkey is just around the corner, and only yesterday I heard someone humming a Christmas carol. Guess I had better start making up New Year Resolutions, and decide what I'm going to buy my Heart Sister for Valentine. Wonder if the Easter Bunny knows that I'm not living in the same room this year? Heavens! It's practically June and I'm graduating. I better start looking for a job. Hope we go to the mountains for Labor Day Week-end. Wonder if I ought to get a new suit this Fall. Why, what do you know? It's October! And . . .

Well . . . here it is Hallowe'en!

Maybe some folks use clocks and calendars for keeping track of time—but most of us tell time by Holidays. They mark off our years into periods of anticipation and reminiscence. The actual holiday itself is not nearly so important as the preparation for it and the fun we have talking about it when its over. Take Hallowe'en for instance. Here it's practically synonymous with "Senior Carnival." For weeks we've talked and planned and worked to make the Carnival the "very best yet" (and if someone doesn't save that Penny Board I made for posterity, I'm going to come back and haunt the poor fellow who has to make it next year. That is, if my extra sheet comes back from the laundry.) And tonight after the Carnival we'll start going over every detail of the evening—who fainted in the House of Horrors (probably Mathis), how silly the boy looked who fell in the tub of water while trying to bob for the biggest apple, and what everyone said about "that skit!"

A friendly (?) critic just read the first page of this dissertation and remarked kindly (?) that he hoped I would SAY something on the second page. Which probably isn't a bad idea, so here goes.

Most of our college traditions are centered upon Holidays. Since "colleges, like people, are best known for the things they do," it stands to reason that we, as people and as parts of the college, are going to be best known for the things we do—or don't do. Preparation for every event from the Senior Carnival to the Junior-Senior Frolics means lots of "things to do" for everyone. The old alibi about being "too busy" is positively no good, because it's a well known fact to all of us that the busiest people are the ones who can always find time to do one more thing. You'll find your enjoyment rating going up fifty points for every activity that you have contributed to in even the smallest way.

As for Hallowe'en and the Senior Carnival—the best way to have the most fun is to COME and spend your week's allowance. And if your financial condition afterwards makes you sad, just think how much fun the Seniors are having counting your money!

Result of the Poll

Last Wednesday, October 27, a poll was taken in assembly to find the answers to three questions: 1. Would you agree to a conference at which Negro students would be in attendance? 2. Would you agree to holding a conference on our campus with Negro students in attendance? 3. Would you agree to Negro students staying in the dormitories in such an event?

To the first question the majority answered "Yes"; to the second, there was a tie; and to the third the majority answered "No."

The poll was taken for the Southeastern Conference of Student Government Associations.

To us who sat in the auditorium and wrote "yes" or "no" on our ballots the questions were merely concerned with a far-fetched idea thought up by someone somewhere other than right here.

On answering whether or not we would advocate an interracial meeting SOMEWHERE ELSE we quickly answered in the affirmative. However, bringing the possibility of such a meeting closer home—right here on campus we swerved to severance of opinion and when we brought it even closer to the possibility of having members live in our dormitories we answered with a definite "NO."

SATURDAY CLEANING

OR

Pass the Broom, Roommate, There's Dust Aloose In Here

By BETTY HENDERSON

A one-act farce review by Betty Henderson)

In the dim light of early morning, two figures can be distinguished. Both seem to be in positions formerly introduced by the Indian Rubber Man.

As the shade rises, we see the hands on the clock pointing to fifteen minutes, three seconds, two ticks and a tock past ten o'clock. One figure moves, slowly, painfully, and in a few minutes we see what seems to be the head of a girl, maybe. We are in doubt as to how her head got where her feet should be, but there it is, sticking out from under the cover at the foot of the bed.

"Sarah," she calls in a sleepy mumble. Silence. "Sarah?" More silence. "SARAH!!!" This time the other figure moves, and this, we presume, is Sarah.

Sarah slowly turns over and answers in a kindly tone, "Nah-h, Shaddup!" Then she, too, remembers—the day is Saturday. And do you realize the importance of Saturdays? Room-cleaning day!

Sarah drags herself out of bed. The other figure gets up. They dress, eat stale crackers and drink a coke. One grabs the broom. The other, the dust rag. Time passes.

Suddenly we realize we can no longer see the two figures. What has happened? The room seems thick with smoke. . . no, it's DUST! Then we hear the sound of choking, sneezing, and other noises of agony. A figure appears at the window, strains out the opened window. Heavens, what is this? A minstrel show? I'd have SWORN those two people were a lighter shade ten minutes ago.

One figure goes offstage (to the closet). We then hear a monologue from the figure left. It goes something like this: "Dad-gummed dust. Don't see why we don't clean the room up more often. Just wait NEXT time I'll . . ."

Sounds offstage interrupt her, right on cue. Among these sounds are coathangers falling, shoes kicked around, and muffled groans. It dawns on us that Sarah is unable to find the dust pan. Then both figures leave the stage, and we sit silently, wondering how much longer this can go on.

They find the dust pan! They sweep the floor! Dust the room thoroughly and list what they have found: a lab manual, the lost iron, three shoes (not mates), four used kleenex, a copy of "How To Get A Man From Emory Junior" by the eminent authoress, Velma de Crumme, eight hair pins, a comb, the top off the tooth paste, a bottle of shampoo, a dog-eared card (now their deck has NINE aces), and an antique shaving mug. (Don't ask me how it got there, I just live in the room!)

The moral to this story should be "Never put off 'til tomorrow what you can do today," but guess what OURS is! Yup . . . you guessed it . . . "Never do this week what you can put off 'til Saturday."

The audience is requested to hold applause, boos, and over-ripe tomatoes until the next performance which will of course be Saturday . . . which Saturday we'll never tell!

SPORTS SIDELIGHTS

By BIM ANSLEY

The ping pong tournament is nearing the quarter finals with Frankie Briggs, Sherla Miller, Cornelia Ashley, Barbara Green, and Judy Briggs in the foreground. So everyone who has not had time to play their match please try to make time so we can finish the tournament up on time.

Everyone in school was proud of the wonderful showing of the Ping Pong enthusiasts and is looking forward to the tennis tournament which will begin about November 14. Jean Mullis, the tennis manager, will be posting a piece of paper on the sandwich board, and those girls who are interested in playing in the tennis tournament be sure and sign up.

FIRST MATCH GAMES

The first match games for the year were quite a success with the Kappas and Lambdas splitting a twin bill. Next time we want more spectators out to yell. If you were sitting in your room Wednesday afternoon and you heard those yells and you wished you could be in on them—there is no reason why you couldn't. Everyone is invited out to play Monday afternoon, and if you don't want to play you can come out and watch and yell for your team.

MARCH, MARCH

There is going to be a hike soon, and we are all hoping that it won't rain this time. If it's good weather let's ALL put on our blue jeans and take a long hike together. A hike is more fun when there are a lot of people along to talk and sing. Of course, there will be some refreshments at the end of the hike; so that is something to work for. Here is a good place to put in a plug for the Sports Calendar. You can always get a good two hours if not more for a hike. Keep those calendars up to date.

Freshman Dormitory Representatives

Freshmen dormitory representatives for Sports Council will soon be chosen. We are looking to find two girls, one Kappa, one Lambda that are really interested in seeing the sports program of G. S. W. C. be a success this year. Be on your toes and if you have any suggestions give them to Morris Smith.

Look out Freshmen, here comes Rat Day. Better watch your steps and act like the perfect little angels, because that is the one day the upperclassmen get revenge.

Lambdas Tramp Kappas 4-0

Bringing up the rear on the match games slate was the rambunctious soccer scramble of the twenty-seventh which put to balance books as it was entered with a flourish in the Lambda column.

From the opening quarter it was obvious that the Reds would be on the wrong end of the score and at the final whistle they were duly grateful it was only 4 to 0.

The technique and team work of the purples were easy favorites over the uncoordinated fighting spirit of the Kappas.

The initial purple score came in the first quarter on a bullet boot by Briggs which caught the entire secondary napping; again in the third quarter the Lambdas got the range to chalk up another goal.

Much praise is due the Purple forwards who can think with their feet and who work together quite well.

Among the most eviable were Sauls, Briggs, Norton, and Heister. For the losers, Smith, Knepton, and Miller bolstered the faltering ranks.

Six Chosen

(Continued from Front Page) Council. She is active in "Y" Cabinet, as a member of the Chapel Choir, and as organist. She has been news editor and associate editor of the Campus Canopy. Miss Crea is majoring in the Division of Humanities with English Emphasis. S. G. A. Her Interest

In addition to making an unusually outstanding scholastic record at GSWC, having been included on the Dean's List each quarter since her initial enrollment, Miss Carolyn Mathis has been very active in extra-curricular affairs. As a member of the Student Association, she has served on the Student Council and Student-Faculty Committee and as first vice-president of the organization, and is now president of SGA. She was elected Treasurer of her Freshman Class and President of Sophomore Class. During her college years she has held membership in the YWCA, Sports Club and Sports Council, Freshman and Senior Honor Societies, Fine Arts Club, Math-Science Club, International Relations Club, Glee Club, Methodist Youth Organization, Romance Language Club, the League of Women Voters. She is now Art Editor of the Pine Cone and Sports Editor of the Campus Canopy. In addition, she has served as secretary of the IRC, and as a member of the Board of the League of Women Voters and the Extra-Curricular Activities Committee. Miss Mathis is majoring in Art and minoring in History.

Headed All Student Publications

Miss Betty Jean Smith has been particularly active in the field of college publications, serving last year as editor of the Campus Canopy, and this year as editor of the Pine Cone, and of the Student Handbook. As a member of the Student Government Association, she has served on the Student Council and the Student-Faculty Committee. She has been a member of the YWCA and has served on the "Y" Cabinet for four years. She has held membership in the Freshman and Senior Honor Societies, the Fine Arts Club, the Sports Club, Math-Science Club, International Relations Club, League of Women Voters, Glee Club, and the Fellowship of St. Martin. Miss Smith previously served as Associate Editor of the Campus Canopy, Lay-Out Editor of the Pine Cone, Historian of the Freshman Honor Society, Secretary-Treasurer of the Senior Honor Society, and as Treasurer and Vice-President of the Fellowship of St. Martin, and is now president of the latter organization.

She is also a member of the Extra-Curricular Activities Committee. Last year Miss Smith was elected to Most All-Round Girl in the Junior Class. She is a History major and an English minor.

Sports Club Holds Interest

Serving this year as president of the Sports Club, Miss Morris Smith also has an outstanding record in extra-curricular affairs. She has been a member of the Sports Club and the Sports Council for four years and last year was vice-president of the organization. She has been a member of the Freshman and Senior Honor Society last year. She has also held membership on the staff of the Campus Canopy and the Pine Cone for two years, and has been a member of the Sociology Club, Valdosta Club, Math-Science Club, League of Women Voters, and Extra-Curricular Activities Committee. Miss Smith is a Sociology major and an English minor.

Kappas Snag 38 to 22 Victory

Wednesday, October 27, the 1948 edition of the Kappa volleyball team led by an alert frosh contingent spiked the Purples to win the first match game of the year 38 to 22.

From the opening minute until the final gun, the Reds showed superior organization and form which proved too much for the less experienced Purples.

Among the most noticeable of the Red gals were Betty Jo Mims, Dot "single wing" Crowe, "Simp" Simpson, and Jean Elton.

Big guns for the Lambdas included Emmie Kenny, Ellen Odum, Blount Trammell, Betty Waters, and Jackie Sikes.
