Dance To Be Held Tonight On Tennis Courts

Tonight at seven thirty on the tennis courts there will be a street dance for all VSC students and their guests, sponsored by the executive student committee for the betterment of VSC through the Valdosta State College Foundation.

The dance, originally planned as a culmination to a money drive which was to ask a one dollar donation from each student member of a campus recognized organization, is now seen as the event which will finish off the preliminaries and begin the drive for the contributions in earnest.

The purpose of the students being asked to contribute to this non-profit organization is to show these civic minded unselfish individuals who formed that the VSC student body is 100% behind the plan to help the college fill some holes in its organization, in the areas of scholarship programs, building supplementary funds, etc., meant to benefit the college first, society secondly by making it easier for people to come to VSC at least financially.

Four VSC Coeds Chosen For State Poultry Contest In Atlanta

The Poultry Princess Contest was held in Douglas, Georgia on Friday, April 17. Of the 25 contestants, 11 were from Valdosta or VSC. Four contestants from the Douglas, Rome, Atlanta and Athens preliminaries are chosen to compete in June for the State Poultry Princess Crown. The state winner will then have the opportunity to enter the "Miss U.S.A.", a preliminary for the "Miss Universe."

In the ten finalists the four from VSC were: Gail Bazemore, Marguerite Shelton, Andy Shenton and Brenda Smith. Before the four finalists were chosen the "Miss Congeniality" presentation was made to Gail Bazemore. The four finalists were: Gail Bazemore, Marguerite Shelton, Andy Shenton and Diane Quattlebaum. At VSC, Gail is a TKE sponsor, Homecoming Queen and is Vice President of Alpha Delta Pi Sorority. Marguerite, a freshman at VSC, was a former Miss Georgia State Employee and 2nd runner-up in the "Miss Valdosta" Contest of 1963. Andy, a cheerleader at VSC, was pledge class president of ADPI and was recently in the top 5 in the "Miss Valdosta." Diane Quattlebaum is from Valdosta and a student at the University of Florida. She is the assistant treasurer of the Alpha Delta Pi Sorority, an ROTC Unit Sweetheart and is a former Miss Gum Turpentine.

Other VSC participants were: Betty Curtis, Barbara Garrison, Margaret Ann Parsons, Brenda Smith, Donna Spratlin and Carole Williamson.

Jim Buie Elected

At the annual Leadership Training Conference for the BSU students of Georgia, April 17, 18, 19 at Covington FFA Camp, Jim Buie from VSC was elected State President by delegates from 29 colleges and universities. VSC sent 25 of the 408 students who met to plan and coordinate state BSU work.

We Hate It, But..

By CANOPY REPORTER

Because of the literary and art magazine that is coming out on or around May 8, this is the last Canopy edition that will be under the control of the present staff.

Editor Maxwell wants to announce that thus far there are no "takers" for the job of editor for next year, and anyone that feels he is capable of doing the job is asked to submit a written application for the position, stating the qualifications he may have, plus the reasons why he wants the job. Consult the "V" Book for details.

Also retiring will be Lee Lovett and Bill Sapp, co-business managers George Phelps artist, and the two correspondents, Lamar Wommack in Peru and Lee Maxwell in Germany.

Curt Wonicker Attends Convention In Texas For Alpha Chi Society

The Georgia Alpha Chapter of Alpha Chi National Honor Society sent Curt Wonicker as its representative to the regional meeting held at Wayland College in Plainview, Texas. Curt arrived in Plainview in time for the first meeting on the program.

The theme of the program was "Science and a Sense of Moral Responsibility," where papers were read and speeches presented by the various representatives from the Texas Regions.

A reception was later held in the Student Union Building at Wayland College honoring the Alpha Chi delegates. Dr. Paul J. Schwab, National Director of Alpha Chi and the faculty sponsors were present, giving speeches and observations regarding the founding of the Honor Society.

The Valdosta State College representative received a very warm welcome as he represented the only school outside the state of Texas. Curt said, "The students were eager to hear about the activities and programs carried on at VSC."

On the return trip, Curt stopped in Fort Worth and visited friends that had been classmates while studying in Mexico this past summer. Of course one cannot travel the southern route of the United States without spending an evening in the exotic atmosphere of New Orleans. This was another highlight of the trip.

Curt said, "It was a wonderful experience and presented an opportunity to exchange views and ideas with students from another section of the country."

Mrs. Lee Bennett and Joe Pember of the VSC art department are currently showing some of their creations in the areas of ceramics and paintings respectively in the First Methodist Church of Albany's religious art festival of the year.

When arriving at the end of a row that has been as hard to plow as the task I have experienced this year as editor, it is difficult to decide whether to accentuate the positive and remember only the pleasant things, or to bring to the more or less uninformed student body pertinent facts which they should know by virtue of their all being stockholders in this great amalgamation of minds that form this intellectual community in regard to the paper.

With the thought in mind that I may be beating my head against a stone wall of dogmatism and plain lethargy. I want to mention that at the onset of this experience the plan was for the paper staff to receive competent instruction in the art of doing things journalistically correct and receive credit for the work the same as any other academic pursuit. This plan failed because of the afore mentioned idiosyncracies of the English Department, dogmatism and lethargy, which carefully allowed the whole project to evaporate like so much chit-chat. This I am not happy about, because I think the people who spend the time and effort that many on this staff do, they should be justly rewarded elsewhere than at some future time in Heaven or somewhere. Be this as it may, the word is that they are DEFINITELY planning on this for next year—I would not go tell anybody this, but wait and see, they will bury this again next year, and probably from now on until there is no newspaper.

ROBERT MAXWELL

There is on almost all college campuses the desire on the part of the administration to censor the editorials and news stories that might concern sacred subjects that they would rather not have aired publicly. As editor I have felt that I could not serve the students and the administration perfectly, so I chose to devote myself to the former and tolerate the latter. If the editor is a fall man for the higher ups, then the newspaper had just as well not have an editorial page. It has worked out very well, discretion has been as always the pursuit of this paper, at times it may have been a mite indiscreet, no one is perfect. This paper can be a powerful organ when used in the right manner, it is entirely paid for by the students, and the merchants in town, so it owes nothing to any bureaucrat. The worst thing that can happen to an editor is to be fired, and that would be like giving a beer to an alcoholic with delirium tremens, a real blessing.

The sad, sad part of this work is the lethargic nature of so many students, which results in only a handful of people doing the work, indeed at times, I have written 75% of the material that was published. This is certainly to an extent my fault, not having the personality suited to begging people to work for the Canopy. I have always felt that if someone wants to work on the paper he will come and ask to be given a task, for that is the only way he will really enjoy his work. I know people are bashful and feel they are not capable, but this work is ninety percent effort and only ten percent ability. It is the students' paper, and they should be willing to give up a little leisure time to its advantage. My thanks go to the few who did stick with the project, they have done a real fine job.

There have appeared from time to time editorials which were calculated to accomplish several things, the most important of which was to cause students to form an opinion about something, and if possible, to really think about something controversial. I did this for many reasons, wanting to see if anybody would react strongly enough to bring the matter up for consideration at the SGA open meetings, I wanted to let the students in on some inside information I at times had access to, items that I felt were very important and they should know about. I think I have succeeded in getting students interested in the things that really count around here, and hope this tradition does not end with my feeble efforts. The job of gadfly is not a pleasant one, many times I would rather not have had to mention these things, but I felt it was incumbent upon me to do so. Form an opinion, disagree, raise hell about it if you want to, but please form that all important notion in your mind that you do at times. I have never used the power of my position to perpetuate personal grudges, that I consider below the dignity of an intellectual striving for the best possible results in this chaotic world of college and life. I believe editorials pay because they reach people who think, and this is the foundation upon which I predicated this column and others that I have written.

The time has come now to choose another person for this job. Whoever it is that takes the job will find that he will be without a real standard advisor. The one supplied by the administration has so many other commitments that the Canopy is just another pain in the solar plexus. The paper needs a person who is easy to get along with, who has the best interests of the paper at heart, and who is willing to work FOR, not AGAINST the better interests of the paper. This person should not be a part of the administration, but a faculty member who has the time and training to help make the paper the best possible. I seriously doubt there will be any change, however.

May I take this opportunity to say how much I have enjoyed the privilege of being the editor of the Campus Canopy, and I shall never forget the experience as long as I live. I have learned more from this one experience than any other in my entire almost 23 years of life.

Bavaria In The Spring

Editor's Note—For his last dispatch for the Canopy, Mr. Maxwell has chosen to write on the country most known in this country as having added nomenclature to good beer.. He has had the opportunity to travel in the section, and compares it to the rather bleak and depressing atmosphere of Greater Germany. It has been a pleasure to have Lee on the staff, and his contributions will be missed in the future.

It is also noteworthy to add that the Canopy's correspondent in Peru, Mr. Lamar Wommack is back in the states now, attending Georgia Southern in Statesboro. The editor would also like to take this opportunity to thank him for his help in carrying on an exchange of ideas.

Bavaria in spring is a beautiful section of Germany. It is located in southern Germany and differs greatly from middle and northern Germany. The most noticeable difference is the weather. The usual German overcast is almost non-existent. The days are quite consistently sunny and clear. The sun has a warming effect even in winter when the temperature drops as low as fifteen degrees below zero.

The Bavarian landscape is predominantly rolling hills which in some places rise into mountains with heavily wooded slopes of tall, straight pine and fir. These evergreens make a striking contrast against the inches or feet of snow that falls in Bavaria even into the spring. To walk through these hills in the late-afternoon sunlight, gives one a feeling of peaceful closeness to nature.

Bavaria is primarily a rural farming area. The countryside is covered with small, well-kept fields. The valleys between the green hills are lined with fast, crystal-clear streams. Along these streams are many small villages of high spired houses and shops. Each village has an old-time church with a high steeple for its outstanding landmark. The Bavarian people who live in these villages are a very pleasant, friendly people.

Bavaria is one of the foremost recreation areas in Europe. Here are some of the finest ski slopes in Europe. There is outstanding trout fishing in the clear streams and lakes. This region is a photographer's dream. There is no end to the places and scenes that can be recorded on film. Bavaria is a place to be visited at length.

SONNET IV

By Sheila Edwards

Never again will I love one so dear
Like hugging the green earth with wasted love
To find the leaves and new grass disappear
To find a raven instead of a dove.
But how could I have known it all the while?
I've never seen the naked earth stripped bare,
Explored beyond your half-revealing
smile,
Or probed the secrets that lay hidden there.

We shared communion in our young hearts first
And then our lips met wine
from the same cup
United us and quenched our restless thirst
But not again will we together
sup
Now when we pass as strangers
on the street,
Our eyes look up and down but never meet.

LITTLE MAN ON CAMPUS

MOSELLE PETERS VINCENT

Are you bothered and puzzled by the word Honesty? Some know what it is, some think they do, and others pretend never to have heard of it. All of these people may live by it or they may not, it is their own choice. At times the choice may be very difficult, and it takes a strong one to choose honesty. Why should it be so hard to choose honesty? Well, first let's determine what honesty really is. Honesty is truth and truth is life.

At a first glance this doesn't say too much until one thinks for a few moments about it. To broaden it one might say that honesty represents life.

Life is many things, and many of these things present problems which must be met. In life one has to work and many times one does not want to work. This presents a problem. One has to pay people for services they do for him, sometimes he does not want to. This presents problems. One has to study to pass exams, and sometimes he does not feel like it, and this presents a problem. We have to help other people at times, this presents a problem when we are selfish. So you see, life may be rather hard to face at times, and it is this aspect of life that relates to truth, and ultimately honesty.

How do these problems relate to truth? Well, truth is the actual event that happens when the problem is solved. When one decides that he must work, and he does work, then the truth is that he did work. When one decides that he does not have to pay people for their services, and he does not, then the truth is that he did not. When one has decided that he need not study for his exam and that he can pass it by looking at other people's papers, the truth is that he is a cheater. When one decides that it is right to help others and he does this, the truth is that he is a very considerate person. I could continue forever with these examples, so now let's see how honesty relates to truth. An honest person is one who tells the truth whether it be bad or good. When he has decided to work and has done it and says that he has done it, he is being honest by simply verifying the truth. But when he says that he has paid a person for their services when truthfully he has not, he is not being honest, or when he cheats on a test and says that he did not cheat, again he is being dishonest.

We now have a clear definition of what honesty is, and also see how at times it might be hard to be honest. Let's all strive for this goal, the world would be a little bit better if we could achieve it.

Gale Thomas Crowned Queen

The brothers and pledges of Pi Kappa Phi entertained their alumnae and the faculty in a rose garden setting at their Rose Ball recently.

Highlight of the evening was the crowning of Miss Gail Thomas as Pi Kap Rose Queen for 1964-65. Miss Thomas, a former Pi Kap sponsor, was crowned by Miss Betty Dow Majors, retiring queen.

The new fraternity sponsors were also presented at the dance. They are Misses Gail Allen, Genie Rogero, Glenda Gunter, Cindy Sessions, Alwyn Hamill, Suellen Sheffield, Sandra Babcock, and Ricki Cox.

In a special presentation Ronnie Knoll was presented the most outstanding brother plaque. The plaque was presented by the Pi Kappa pledge class to honor the brother whom they feel has done the most in the fraternity during the past year.

The dance was held at the Woman's Building and the Collegians furnished music for the dancing. Held annually the dance is to remind each girl that she is a rose in some Pi Kap's heart.

Founders Day Banquet Of AXD

Gamma Xi chapter of Alpha Xi Delta Sorority held their Founders Day banquet Friday night, April 17, at the Holiday Inn.

Mrs. Joseph S. Farley of Jacksonville, Florida, president of Omega province, was a special guest for the occasion.

Seventy one years ago Alpha Xi Delta was founded at Lombard College in Salesburg, Illinois. In honoring the ten founders of the national sorority, a candle lighting service was held.

Participating in the program were: Vicki Dixon, Chubbie Barefoot, Bonnie Powell, Ann Cook, Eileen Carter, Yvonne Brown, Sharon Hall, Glenda Gunter, Jinanne Bennett, and Judy Kear.

Angela Bush, chapter president, was presented with a framed picture of the only living founder, Mrs. M. T. Bruner of Monmouth, Illinois.

Cindy Sessions introduced the speaker, Dr. Harold Gulliver, retired head of the English department at Valdosta State College. The highlight of his speech was his poem "Falcons for Sale", suggested by the falcons on the shoulders of four Arabs during his visit to Damascus, Syria.

Before the banquet Vicki Dixon of Bainbridge and Chubbie Barefoot of Waycross were initiated into Alpha Xi Delta sister hood.

Botany Exchange Trip Planned

By Kenneth Hollingsworth

On the weekend of May 16th and 17th, three Valdosta State College students will go to Athens on a field trip in the mountains of North Georgia and South Carolina. The students are Juanita Norsworthy of Valdosta, Eddie Vickers, and Kenneth Hollingsworth, both of Whigham.

It all began last fall quarter when a group of graduate students from the University of Georgia, studying botany under Dr. Wilbur H. Duncan, came down to Valdosta to study South Georgia flora. Mr. Wayne Faircloth, now doing graduate work at Georgia, and the taxonomy class here at VSC played host to this group.

The graduate students came down on a Friday afternoon and spent the night in the gym, except for the one young lady among the group who stayed in Converse Hall. Saturday was occupied with a field trip. After breakfast in the dining hall, the group visited several places representative of South Georgia flora, among them sand hills, open pine woods, and peat bogs. Of special interest to them were the aquatic plants of the fresh water lakes and ponds in this area.

Valdosta was used as a base of operations. The group returned for lunch and supper that evening in the college dining hall. The group returned to Athens on Sunday, making stops for collecting specimens along the way.

Upon leaving, Dr. Duncan mentioned a proposed mountain trip in the spring and invited the VSC students to come up and go along. Maybe this trip will increase the knowledge of the types of plants growing in different locales. Some of the students from Athens had never before seen many plants of this area and there will doubtless be similar experiences for the VSC students.

Fins and Flippers

The Fins and Flippers have begun work on the water show which will take place May 30, according to Mrs. Harris Mathis, faculty adviser.

New members include Linda Deen and Kay Potts.

Anyone who is interested in swimming and in joining the Fins and Flippers should contact either Patty Clark or Mrs. Mathis.

AXD Rose Reception Held

The Rose Reception of Alpha Xi Delta Sorority was held Sunday afternoon, April 19, in the rotunda of Ashley Hall.

The faculty, their wives and husbands, and the alumnae were the invited guests. They were greeted by Angela Bush, Cindy Sessions, Norma Williams, and Sandra Riggins.

After meeting members of the sorority, the guests were served refreshments.

The Rose Reception is held each year in honor of the faculty at Valdosta State College by the sorority.

Christians Given Opportunities

Five Valdosta State College students have been chosen by the State Baptist Student Union and the Home Mission Board to serve as summer missionaries.

Those planning to work are: Sonny Akins, Enigma, who was chosen by the State BSU and Addie Collins, DeSoto; Gail Fountain, Fitzgerald; Lee Hobbs, Thomasville; and Suzanne Saunders, Valdosta, selected by the Home Mission Board.

Sonny Akins was one of the six young people chosen from Georgia to serve in another country. He will work in Venezuela.

The women students will be four of the 650 working throughout the United States. They will be sent to the following fields: Addie Collins, California; Gail Fountain, Texas; Lee Hobbs, Ohio; and Suzanne Saunders, Tennessee.

These summer helpers will be very busy for ten weeks with various activities including: leading Vacation Bible Schools, working in Youth Camps, helping in missions and churches, visiting and seeking new church members, teaching, preaching, and conducting religious surveys.

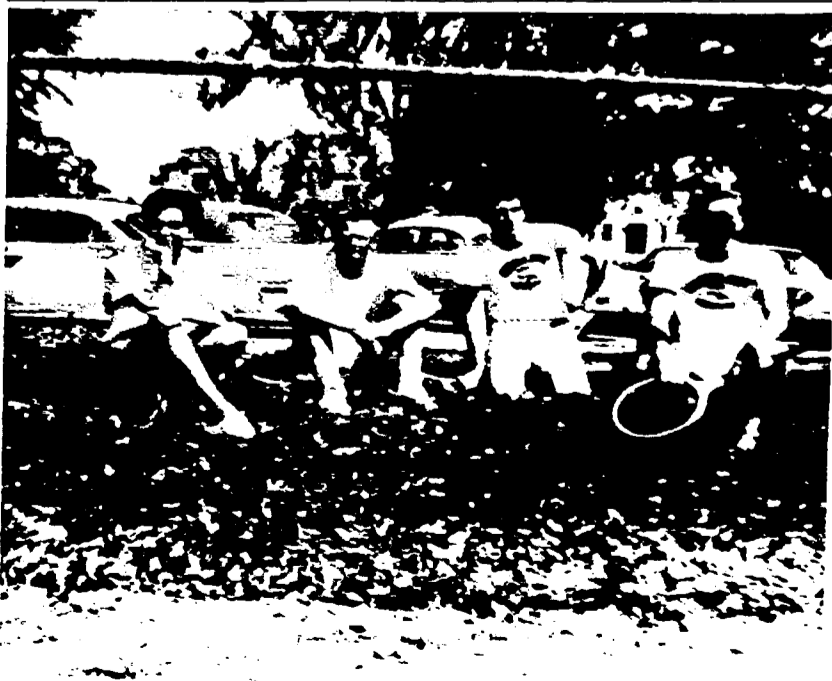

These students will receive paid transportation to and from their destination and living expenses. They will be paid $25.00 a week. Their chief rewards will not be in money or material gain as Addie Collins stated, "I'm sure I will learn things which will help me understand people."

AD Pi King

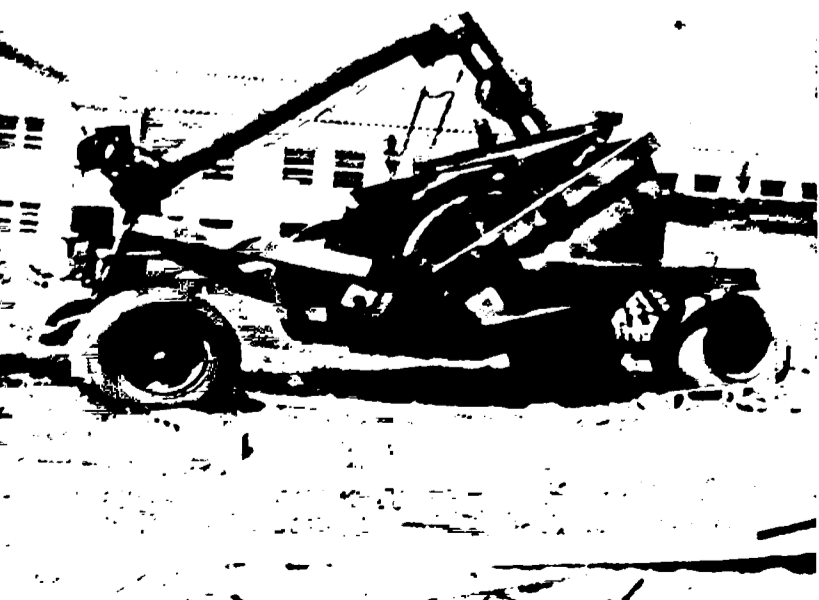

The ADPI's have carefully looked over the male faction on the VSC campus in their search for a new King of Diamonds. The position called for a handsome guy who was loved by 40 girls! Also, he must have ability to cook hamburgers.

It was particularly hard to find a successor for Curt Womicker, who has been a true King of Diamonds.

Finally a name was suggested that appealed to every girl—a perfect king for the girls of Delta Theta Chapter is delighted to announce Jimmy O'Neal as the "man in her life." "Father" O'Neal, from Donaldsonville, is a member of Sigma Phi Epsilon fraternity and is the new President of the Senior Class.

These tennis players would really appreciate some bleachers so they could have better accommodations between matches. The same goes for the spectators at the varsity games, they have to sit almost out in the street.

If the contractor would take this hideous thing home, we could enjoy the view of our nice new dormitory much more. By the way, what is it anyhow?

Ellen Taylor Reigns As Miss Valdosta

Ellen Taylor, Miss Valdosta for 1965.

By: KAY POWELL

"A Yankee by birth, and a Southerner by choice" might well be the banner of the beauty who will represent Valdosta in the 1964 Miss Georgia Contest.

Ellen Taylor, Miss Valdosta 1964, is a southern convert from Indianapolis, Indiana. Ellen moved to Valdosta in 1962 when she was a senior in high school.

"I used to get awfully homesick and wanted to move back to Indiana. But I made friends quickly in Valdosta and lost a lot of my homesickness," said the brown-haired, grey-eyed beauty who is a sophomore education major at VSC.

This homesickness was a contributing factor to Ellen's winning of the Miss Valdosta title.

"I couldn't think of any talent I had," laughed Ellen, "except the poetry I sometimes write when I get homesick. Everyone encouraged me to recite some of my poems for my talent."

For her talent Ellen presented a clever monologue in verse. She told of two childhood friends, Chuck and Steve, whom she missed when she moved to Georgia. To compensate for her homesickness, Ellen wrote a poem telling of her love for Georgia and its people. Her last poem told of the work and worry which goes into a pageant like the Miss Valdosta contest.

"The evening gown competition at the very first scared me the most," said Ellen. "One of the helpers back stage grabbed me right before I went on stage and covered me in more make-up."

"I just knew she had put too much make-up on me. But later I realized that I never would have shown up on the stage the way I had my make-up fixed."

But Ellen was radiating beauty, charm, and poise when she walked onto the stage. She carried her 5'8" body regally throughout the evening dress, talent, and bathing suit competion.

The former Tau Kappa Epsilon Calendar Girl and former Miss Valdosta High School did not falter during the final part of the competition when the master of ceremonies, Dick Walden, posed the difficult questions to the top five finalists.

Ellen personifies beauty, charm, poise, versatility, and naturalness in every way. Valdosta should be proud to have such a representative reigning beauty.

Ellen said that if she had remained in Indiana she would never have entered a contest such as this Jaycee-sponsored Miss Valdosta beauty pageant.

Ellen will represent Valdosta in the Miss Georgia pageant at Columbus on June 22. Other Miss Valdosta finalists were Brenda Smith, Albany, first runner-up; Jeannie Hoyle, Valdosta, second runner-up; Andy Shenton, Valdosta, and Carole Williamson, Pembroke.

Students Attend Workshop

Last week eight students from VSC attended a workshop on the complexities of government and business sponsored by the United States Chamber of Commerce. The day long affair was held in the Biltmore Hotel in Atlanta, and several learned speakers highlighted the day.

The speakers concerned their talks with the following topics: 1. Low profit margin, 2. Excessive taxes, 3. European Common Market, 4. Lagging U. S. economic growth rate.

Robert Wagner, an oil company executive of Chicago, spoke on the major reasons U. S. businesses desire to go abroad to expand, rather than do it in this country.

A speech by Tichard Everett, economist of the Continental Can Company, said that the factories in this country are full of antiquated machinery while those of such countries as Germany and Japan are full of modern equipment capable of far outproducing our machines.

Pi Kappa Phi Initiate Four and Pledges Four

On April 5th Pi Kappa Phi initiated four new brothers. These brothers, Ronald Thomas, Larry Crow, Joe Williams, and Jack Bridges, made a trip to Florida State University on the 4th and were honored by the Pi Kapp's at a party that evening at the Valdosta Shrine Club. Billy Golden's band provided the entertainment for the evening.

This past two weeks Pi Kappa Phi has accepted four new pledges. They are Bobby Vallotton from Valdosta, Ed Martin from Haines City, Florida, Jim Henley from Valdosta, and Earl Spell from Albany.

Sigma Phi Epsilon Sweetheart Dance

Woman's Building. Dress will be formal and music will be provided by Ray Peterson. The 1964-65 Sig Ep Sweetheart and sponsors will be announced.

A Word From Coan

Dear Fellow Students:

Thank you for showing your support and belief in the SGA and me, by voting. I am very honored and happy to serve as your SGA President.

The SGA can only function at its best when you stand behind it. The plans that are now being made for next year are for YOU. The success of the week-end activities and other events are dependent upon your support.

I feel that I have one of the best groups on the SGA Council this year. We will be striving to represent you and to make VSC a better campus for us.

Now is the time for our new SGA Council to roll up our sleeves and start to work. Also, it is time for those who lost in the elections and the rest of the student body to roll-up their sleeves and help us.

Pi Kappi Phi Elects

The election of officers was held April 9th. The new president is Carl Odom, with David Barrow and Warren Williams serving as Treasurer and Secretary respectively. Ken Holloway was elected to the position of Pledge Trainer and Charles Adams was elected Historian. "Tex" Bentley will continue serving as Chaplain.

ID Cards Check

By SHIELA EDWARDS
Identification cards are now being required of all students, teachers, and alumni who wish to check books out of the VSC Library.

The library has expanded greatly recently and is continuing to do so. Thus it has become necessary to operate like a large library and require identification cards. All students must present this card before checking out a book.

Presently there are books checked out to students who are not even qualified to use the VSC library. Miss Hambrick hopes to eliminate this and other problems that have arisen.

What A Pity

At the last open meeting of the SGA, much to the dismay of the president, only one student showed up for the fiasco, and this was a reporter for the CANOPY.

Rather than waste the whole meeting, the industrious campus politicians conducted a regular meeting. They did pass two motions, one concerning the write-in candidates, they decided that none would be accepted, since there was plenty of time for people to qualify. The other motion was declaring the area around the voting place, the publicity office, to be off limits to any people doing any campaigning for the candidates.

The topic picked for discussion at this particular meeting, required assemblies, was tabled until such time as the student body is interested enough to come and voice an opinion.

Students Attend Mock Convention

Three Valdosta State College students, Billy Greer of Tifton, Bruce Varnadoe of Valdosta and Dorothy Mears, also of Valdosta, attended the Georgia Collegiate Mock Republic Presidential Convention held at Emory University on April 17th and 18th.

This mock G.O.P. convention was sponsored by the Emory University College Council in order to better acquaint college students with the events of a political convention.

Tennis And Baseball Highlight This Week

With the spring sports season nearing the end of the line, Valdosta State's baseball and tennis teams are posting respectable records.

Coach Bill Grant's diamond squad, at the time of this writing, stood 8-5 and the tennis teams of coach Gary Colson stood in reverse of that figure with a 5-8 mark.

The most recent win for the baseball came on Saturday April 18, when it split a doubleheader with Shorter's Gold Wave.

Behind a four-hit pitching performance from ace hurler Clay Peters the Rebs downed Shorter 1-0 in the first one and the Gold Wave took the nightcap by a 8-0 count.

On the tennis front, VSC that same Saturday lost to Georgia Southern of Statesboro by a 5-4 count.

The Eagles from Statesboro gained their victory margin during singles play as they built up a 4-2 lead. VSC came through doubles competition with a 2-1 edge, but it wasn't enough to make up the difference.

The tennis squad was slated to compete against Abraham Baldwin Junior College from Tifton on the VSC courts Thursday and is slated to close out play for the 1964 season in the CIAC tournament at Rome on May 1-2.

As of this writing, next start for the baseball nine was a bout with Mercer to be staged at Macon on Friday. The Rebs then had four more games scheduled after that one.

Final National Association of Intercollegiate Athletic tabulations on who did what in basketball this season are in and VSC stands with the best of them.

The final tally ranks coach Gary Colson's "rip snorting" Rebels ninth in team defense among more than 400 NAIA members fielding hoop squads this winter.

Defensive average for the Rebs was 61.0. Tops in the "stop-em" department was Colorado Mines with a 54.6 mark.

But guess who was second? That's right it was the high-flying Gold Wave which makes its home in Rome on Shorter's campus.

Now it goes without saying that any team coming in second on a national poll is tough to score on. And that's exactly what Shorter was this winter.

And you can bet your "A" in history Shorter was especially tough to get past with points at Columbus when the Rebels beat it 35-32 for GIAC championship number four.

According to national statistics, Shorter is seven notches better on defense than VSC, but word from the GIAC throne room is that "t'aint" so.

And the reason VSC is doing the talking from the throne room is that it employs a special talent besides rock-hard defensive ability and a sharp-shooting offense. The special talent is called desire.

It's a talent some of the Shorter fans must have let slip their minds during that unusual game at Columbus.

The Shorter people let it be known from the time the game started until it was over with that they were "number one." It was a real cute little chant they used: "WE'RE NUMBER ONE," "WE'RE NUMBER ONE."

The fans on the other side of the court kept trying to tell Shorter, "NO YOU'RE NUMBER TWO, WE'RE NUMBER ONE," but some people just refuse to listen.

What's Left

(ACP) — Jerianne Roginski, editor-in-chief of THE COLLEGIAN, University of Toledo, found her goodbye space was limited to five inches due to the overpowering capitalistic instrument of advertising — hardly sufficient space to appease all the enemies in one final column.

But it was sufficient space to note with nostalgia that, years from now, what will be left of these most hectic, and memorable years will be a few yellow and tattered copies of the newspaper in the library files.

Nothing irks the hard pressed college student more than shaking out an envelope from home and finding nothing in it but news and love.

Schoolteacher Litterbugs Plague The Library

By An Anonymous Observer

It is of no doubt that the students who are planning to be teachers are the school's worst litterbugs. The fact that they plan to be teachers gives them no prerogative to be sloppy, negligent, and disrespectful....

The education room of the VSC library at almost any time greatly resembles some Babylonian ruins or the stoneage. After a student assistant has rearranged the room to look like a library once again, the splendor is shortlived. Within less than a day the barbarian invaders will strike again! With already a shortage of staff members in the library, it is impossible and unreasonable for the personnel to play like policemen in the stacks to maintain order.

The present numerical system was not adopted yesterday. If these students are capable of becoming teachers, they are surely able to learn the numbers and numerical successions of the books. Once a book has been removed from the shelf, there is of course an empty space. Since the room is not a Texas Hotel suite, it appears to be quite evident that the student could find his way back to the SAME shelf without a map.

The library is generously blessed with Hindering Harrys. These are creatures who play eeny-meeny-minny-mo, and put the book back in any convenient space they may happen to run across. There is no welcome mat out for them. They need help.

Heaven help our children! If the teacher possesses so little respect for property, their classrooms may soon resemble a forgotten dominoe game. When visiting a teacher, do not forget to wear boots to wade through the mire and general mess of their habituous negligence.

Library Expansion

By BILL JENKINS

The above ground structure of the new library annex is only now becoming noticeable, although students trying to concentrate in the library have been most conscious for about six weeks that construction has begun. The annex will provide facilities which will make the dream of beginning adequate work at Valdosta State College a reality.

Construction was begun only about two years after a request for such an addition was registered with the Board of Regents.

Perhaps one incident which pointed to the need for more library space took place when the Board of Regents visited the college last year. They toured the library during the lunch hour and found only about twenty students in the library at that time. The students were concentrated in the upstairs reading where the carrels are located. Consequently, there was not enough seating space, and some students were seated on the floor. That scene seemed to have impressed the distinguished visitors so much that they failed to see the almost empty main reading

The primary purpose of the annex is to expand individual study facilities and provide space for more books.

Books, as such, will be extremely scarce on the first floor of the annex. Here will be found an extension of the main reading room with tables and individual desks, bound periodicals, current periodicals, and a special collections room in which microfilm will be kept.

On the second floor will be found some stacks containing volumes of books, carrels for student use, a listening room, a typing room, two small seminar rooms, and one large seminar room. A special feature of the second floor will be the installation of five carrels which may be locked. This will be especially convenient for students and faculty who are engaged in extensive research work.

The expected completion date is about the middle of September. Delays due to the weather and other causes seem to indicate, however, that the building may not be ready for occupancy until near Christmas.

Surely the student body is deeply appreciative of the library expansion which will better meet their needs, and will make the best possible use of the new facilities when they are completed.

Letter To Editor

To: Editor, Campus Canopy
From: Bruce Varnado
Subject: Open letter to V. S. C. students

Dear Fellow V.S.C. Students:
At this time, after our S.G.A. election and just before we turn our attention completely towards a new year of S.G.A. activity, I want to take this opportunity to thank the many V.S.C. students who wanted to see me elected S.G.A. president. The fact that I was not elected does not lessen my gratitude to my supporters nor excuse me from expressing it to them. I feel that I have actually won, in losing, by discovering such fine friends.

It is wonderful to win, but to at times lose causes us to appreciate our successes even more. I have had both experiences during my college career here at V.S.C. As a result, perhaps I can say with even more sincerity that I greatly appreciate your permitting me to work for three terms on our S.G.A. Council. It has been an enjoyable and rewarding experience and one which I will always value highly.

As we all know, Laurice Coan will be a qualified and capable S.G.A. President. I want to join the rest of our students in giving to him and the other members of the S.G.A. Council the support and cooperation that they need to make our S.G.A. active and progressive next year.

Sincerely,
Bruce Varnado

Lettermen Next Sunday

By CANOPY REPORTER
Sunday, May 3, from 3:00 to 5:00, is the time VSC has waited for for several months. The ever-popular Letterman will be in concert in the VSC gymnasium.

The SGA Entertainment Committee of the 1963-64 year began and planned this concert on the campus. That SGA and the newly elected SGA will be working together to make this the third and best of its efforts to give VSC a reason to be envied by other colleges, AND give VSC students good weekend entertainment. VSC students will have $1.00 tickets, other students $1.00 and adults

"We've finally figured out what doctors scribble on prescriptions to druggists. It is: "I've got my $5.00. Now he's all yours."

Parking Problems

On any morning of the week, students can be seen jockeying for a position in the complex parking maze at VSC. In fact, if you take a closer look at the situation, the "race for parking space" has a comical element.

The collegians have a record, to be released on WGOV Saturday night, that takes advantage of this comical situation. The words were written by Gene Greneker, WGOV's night time D. J. The title is "Fun, Fun, Fun," and it is basically a take off on the Beach Boys current hit. According to Gene, "The Collegians did a very good job with what I gave them to work with." Ray Winn added, "We aren't trying to sound exactly like the Beach Boys, but instead we have a message and music is our means of expression."

All in all this record is one of the best to come out of this locality in a long time. However, at present there are no plans to try to make any monetary gains. In fact, according to Gene, "We only have the master tape, and we don't plan to make any more copies. Really there is no demand as we are promoting a cause not a record." The record is true to form of the situation on campus. "Well the only way that you can win the parking race, is to become a teacher and get a private parking place."

AXD PLEDGES ONE
In a recent ceremony, Linda Deen pledged into the Gamma Xi Chapter of Alpha Xi Delta sorority.

Little Mary was left to fix the lunch, and when her mother returned with a friend, she observed that Mary had the tea strained.

Mother: "Did you find the lost strainer, dear?" (as they were eating).
Little Mary: "No, Mother, I used the fly swatter."

This Out Of Gas

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — The rented sedan driven by Guy V. Whitner Jr. of Newberry, S. C., stalled in the driveway of a Miami Beach hotel.

Whitner checked the gas gauge. Empty!

Hotel doorman William Benway called a service station to deliver some gasoline then opened the small door that hides the gas cap—and stared in disbelief.

No gas tank.

Police picked up the tank 18 blocks and nine traffic lights away.

"I can't understand how the car ran that far without a tank," said Benway.
