Freshmen Will Seek Ancient Gray Hat In Annual Local Rite

Search for Hat Will Continue Until January; Freshmen Anticipate A Victory Over Their Rivals

Tomorrow the freshmen begin the first search for the hat in the annual custom of Hat Day which originated in 1917, and is a contest between the freshmen and sophomore classes. The hat was hidden by Ruth Bunn, president of the sophomore class this week.

The hat in question is the gray hat left behind by Dr. R. H. Powell, former president of the college, when he went away to war. Each year the hat is hidden by the class holding it from the previous year. This class is usually the sophomore class, and the hat is hidden by the class president before the 19th of October.

It can be hidden only on front campus, not in dormitories or on back campus, nor in the offices or desks in the administration building. There must be some sort of marker left inside wherever it is hidden.

The hat may be searched for from six o'clock in the morning to six o'clock in the evening only on the 19th of each month, continuing until six o'clock on January 19th. The search must be discontinued at six p. m. each 19th day until the 19th day of the next month. Should the searchers find the hat, they in turn hide it without letting their opponents know it has been found. One class may, if possible, take the hat from the other class if it is discovered in open possession before the close of the contest on January the 19th.

Only one time since the beginning of Hat Day have the freshmen failed to find and keep the hat. The class in possession on January 19th at six o'clock is entertained by the losers later in the quarter.

Most Elective Officers Upon Campus Selected

In the numerous elections on the campus during the past few weeks the class offices of the organizations have been filled with some exceptions.

The new officers are: Kitsie Smith, secretary of sophomore class; Carolyn Green, treasurer of sophomore class; Jesselyn Griggs, secretary of the Y. W. C. A.; Rachel Coxwell, president of the I. R. C.; Hulda Summer, secretary-treasurer of the English Club; Estelle Ricks, treasurer of the junior class; Lorene Johnson, secretary-treasurer of the Sock and Uskin Club.

JOURNALISM IS GREAT FUN INDEED FOR THOSE WHO AREN'T JOURNALISTS

By HULDA SUMMER

Shakespeare states, it is true, that a rose by any other name would smell as sweet, but the class in journalism wishes that the fourth estate would call a spade a spade, and a rose a rose.

The journalistic terms are quite piquing to one's imagination, and very provoking to one's ability to learn and remember.

Who would suspect such a musical sounding name as "boiler plate" to mean those simple and dull bits of information about highest trees in the world and reports on mosquito control, used as space-fillers?

A boxed head doesn't denote a pugilistic encounter, but a few headlines enclosed with line rules.

Lovely decorations for a party can be found at the top of a newspaper's front sheet: the flag, banner, streamer and ribbon. And refreshments for the fete include the lobster-shift, pi, and date line. As a beverage, the dope (story) is dispensed at the font (assortment of type). Possibly all these delicacies

Carnival Will Present Unusual Features Here

It will not be necessary for spectators to get up at day-light to watch the wagons unload for the senior carnival tomorrow evening at 8:00 o'clock on back-campus.

In fact, all the carnival, from the hot-dogs to the freaks will materialize from or under the direction of the senior class. Many a back will bend in hard work before the final set-up of games, side-shows, booths, and dances will be completed.

The carnival will offer a well balanced program—from food to exercise. So come, spend your dollars, and feel that you are helping the senior class that many miles on their trip, and are enjoying doing it.

are prepared in the galley (place where type is held).

The hell-box isn't the punishment corner for wicked and slothful journalists who neglect to hand in their regular assignments; it is the box into which irregular type is thrown.

Jumping the gun and killing are two frequent occurrences in a newspaper office, but editors aren't big

English Club Holds Its Regular Meeting Monday

The English Club met on Monday evening at the House in the Woods. Miss Louise Hardy of Quitman presided and Miss Ames Watkins of Metcalf was in charge of the program. At this meeting the following new members were welcomed into the club: Eunice Adams, Marianna, Fla.; Eloise Ogletree and Priscilla Kelley, Savannah; Frances Fluker and Matilda Tillman, Quitman; Emily Parrish, Martha Sue Williams, Valdosta; Mary McLester Johnson, Macon; Hulda Summer and Pearl Wilson, Cordele; Estelle Ricks, Reynolds; Alexa Daley, Dublin; Lorene Johnson and Antoinette Andrews, Thomasville.

An extensive year's program was worked out by the English Club at the last meeting.

The topic for the year is Contemporary Writers. At each meeting the program will be built around one concentrated subject of immediate interest. A "writers' clinic" is planned to encourage students to write and to improve would-be journalists in a cooperative manner. The main event planned is a banquet around Easter at which there will be a well-known guest speaker and also the awarding of prizes for the best student writings.

Regular monthly meetings are to be held the second Tuesday in each month.

Halliburton To Make Interesting Talk On His Foreign Travels

Ride Over Alps And Visit To Strange Lands Will Be Topic of Lecture Here on Monday Evening.

Richard Halliburton, explorer, author and journalist, will give his latest adventures as described in his most recent book, Seven League Boots, Monday evening, October 21, at the Valdosta High School. He will be presented by G. S. W. C. and the Junior Chamber of Commerce as the first of the Artist series.

Mr. Halliburton, endowed with a fertile imagination and a singular disregard for danger, has visited many out-of-the-way corners of the world, and encountered many a strange adventure. In his talks he transports one to a veritable fairyland, a imaginative world of knights, flying carpets and sorceresses, all based on his unusual travelings. He shows what can be gained from this commonplace world, if only one has courage and daring.

His elephant ride over the Alps; his climb to the hilltop in the Holy Land, where, hanging four thousand feet above the Dead Sea, he explored the ruins of Herod's palace where Salome danced for the head of John the Baptist; and his visit to Mt. Athos, the monastery in Northern Greece where no woman or female animal has set foot for over a thousand years, are only a few of his unusual experiences.

To give just a hint of Mr. Halliburton's popularity, since he has recently turned journalist forty of the largest newspapers have requested him to fill an entire page every Sunday for fifty-two Sundays. This, as well as the sales record set by his five books, Royal Road to Romance, Glorious Adventure, New Worlds to Conquer, The Flying Carpet, and Seven League Boots, show us that the American people enjoy being transported for a time from their well-known world to a world of exciting adventure.

CHAPEL NOTICE

Unless an official announcement is made to the contrary, chapel services will be held every Wednesday morning at 10:45. Occasionally special assemblies of the student body will be called at the hour. While I do not want to require attendance at chapel compulsion it is my wish that all students, missionary girls and town girls present at the chapel service Wednesday and at special assemblies.

THE USE OF BEAUTY

While so much time and money is being used to beautify the campus and the buildings it seems that a little effort might be made to utilize the beauty already here.

The terraces in front of both dormitories are beautiful, but seldom used. The few hard benches are used for dates at night by sophomores and during large entertainments the terrace is used by guests. Inexpensive out-door furnishings would make the terraces pleasant for reading, and healthful studying, receiving guests and having informal social affairs during pleasant weather and would withstand unpleasant weather. In a place as far south as Valdosta the weather is mild enough to make a pleasant terrace a very useful one.

Another appreciated improvement would be a covered arcade between the second stories of Converse and Ashley. This would make the infirmary more accessible to upper Ashley and would be protection from rain and cold. The outside doors of the open lower arcade must now be locked at night and Ashley is cut off from Converse.

The upper arcade would also lessen the fatigue and strain of going up and down steps, which doctors say weakens the heart.

KAMPUS KALEIDOSCOPE

Tillie has long debated the question "Wody" or "Woody Not"—and it seems that the last daisy petal said "Woody Not."

Who'd guess, seeing Turnbull slouch in sweater and oxford's around the campus that she could don black velvet and captivate the ex-national-secretary of a leading fraternity. Well—it's true, because I was there and I seen it.

What about this home-town product called "Buck" that Johnson seems to have taken off the market?

Why do Margaret and Mary Agnes palpitate when eating ham? The answer, girls, is Armour's—

A certain red-head says she could not claim to be editing the Canopy this week. She was too busy editing.

Two high school red-heads seemed to have lost favor with two G. S. W. C. juniors. Perhaps the girls are thinking ahead. At least they are being partial to the funeral home.

Emma seems very anxious to go to Savannah on every occasion. Sounds fishy to me! Could it be—Harry?

Conundrum: What have E. Green and Jacksonville in common that's so exciting?

"Can it be the breeze" that is blowing Billy out of his place as chief Romeo? Ah—it's only the combined forces of Georgia, Vanderbilt, Duke, and last but not least, Emory Junior—ah, there, Bedelia (Priscilla).

Jacob says Hulda's heart keeps her awake nights since a certain Cordele gentlemen has been keeping the roads hot between Valdosta and Cordele—and it doesn't beat pitter-pat, either; it beats "Barnwell".

The duct who sang "Sweet Sue" had prepared to sing "Some of These Days", and the pianist thought they were to sing "Somebody Stole My Gal"—so that explains the faltering and the boop-a-doops that took place of words and, alas, the tune had evidently been mislaid, or else it had gone bad on them.

Mary Holtzclaw especially likes grits and rice—wonder why?

4 certain B. M. O. C.'s at E. J. C. who are rushing 4 certain juniors—S. Y. T.'s, too—at G. S. W. C. are really running up a phone bill. Five cents a call mounted up into higher finance when one shiek called one junior five times the same day.

PSALM OF MATH

Professor Hawks is my teacher. I shall not pass.

She maketh me prove unworthy equations.

She maketh me to expose my ignorance before my class.

She maketh me to draw figures on the board for my grade's sake.

Yes tho' I study until midnight I shall learn no math.

The simple problems bother me and the equations sorely trouble me.

She prepareth quizzes for me in the presence of mine enemies.

She giveth me a low grade, my work runneth over.

Surely zero and conditions will follow me all the days of my life—

And I shall dwell in the class of math forever!

Through The Magazines

"The Land of Ethiopia"—by R. E. Cheesman, FORUM, October, 1935,

This is a splendid summary of the development of Ethiopia, its government, its religion, and its political status. It is interesting to learn how the names Abyssinia and Ethiopia came to be used interchangeably; also, just what relation Ethiopians are to our American negroes, and what forms of religion they actually practice. It is surprising to learn of the ancient culture of these people and of the literature preserved by them through the ages. When did the Italians invade Ethiopia before and what were the results? Why did Great Britain and other nations object so strenuously to Ethiopia's joining the League of Nations—even when she was backed by Italy to do so? This is a very enlightening article for any who wish a brief accurate background of the Italo-Ethiopian conflict.

—Mary's Gamble for Ethiopia" — Allan Nevins and Ignatius Phay-re, CURRENT HISTORY, September, 1935.

Mussolini has become an international racketeer, for even if he had been prevented from invading Ethiopia, he would have demanded from other nations in the League the equivalent of what he will gain if he conquers Ethiopia. There was in the League the contention that war might be averted by reopening the whole question of African mandates and parceling them out more equally, but that dangerous step could never be taken. It must be remembered that Italy has long felt that she was cheated in the distribution of the spoils of the war of 1918. She expected then to emerge from the conflict an imperial power, with a colonial empire proportioned to her population and ambition.

Italy's financial position is very bad and will be worse after the war, and should she gain Ethiopia her expenses would have only begun. Mussolini expects to settle 3,000,000 Italian colonists on the Ethiopian up-

Transfers This Year Set New Record For College, Is Disclosed

Eighteen transfers, more than in any previous year, are listed on the college record for 1935-36. They come from other schools in the state and from other states.

Some of the transfers said they chose G. S. W. C. because they like a smaller student body. They also state that our girls will equal the girls found in any other school for character and spirit.

Several underclassmen have said that their former schools gave them more privileges than we have here, but they did not mind that because they will enjoy junior and senior privileges more.

All of them said they like the idea of having several clubs on the campus, because in this way every girl will be able to belong to at least one club. They also like the sportsmanship and cooperation which exists among these clubs.

The transfers registered at G. S. W. C. this year are: Frances Hines, Martha Strange, and Nellie Chism from Georgia Southwestern College, Americus; Mary Johnson and Rachel Summer from Mercer, Macon; Martha Sue Williams from Abraham Baldwin College, Tifton; Margaret Phillips from Louisiana State Normal College, Natchitoches, La.; Elizabeth Dasher from David Lipscomb College, Nashville, Tenn.; Hazel Evans from South Georgia State College, Douglas; Mildred Evarts, Lylburn Warren and Louise Vann from Georgia State College for Women, Milledgeville; Philena Tyson from Wesleyan, Macon; Frances Hunt and Ethel Stallings from Bessie Tift, Forsyth; Mary Holtzclaw from East Carolina Teachers College, Greenville, N. C.; Mary Edwin Thorpe from Stratford, Danville, Va.; Emogene Gaskins from Agnes Scott, Decatur.

lands and thus diminish the overpopulation of his country. He believes that when Europe has ceased to exercise her "historic mission" of colonizing savage lands she will have fallen into decadence.

Italy's risks in Ethiopia are manifold. Her two ports along the Red Sea are poor strongholds, and that entire area is infested with malaria, windstorms, cafaud (a peculiar mental disease), and the atmosphere, landscape, and water cannot be endured by Caucasians.

Ethiopian courage in overwhelming odds has challenged the admiration of the world. Foreign nations are (for their own protection) prohibiting them the privilege of buying war implements and materials, yet they struggle on.

The Turks and native Africans feel resentful toward Italy. The French declare Italy will have twice the struggle here that France had in taking Morocco.

I. R. C. TO MEET
 The International Relations Club entertained the new members with a steak supper at the fireplace Tuesday evening. Rachel Coxwell, the newly elected president, welcomed the new members, who were: Clara Davis Adams, Moultrie; Mrs. Nell Elizabeth Greene, Valdosta; Myra Hackett, Moultrie; Ruby Harrison, Fitzgerald; Sara Ellen Morgan, Mystic; Geraldine Collins, Unadilla; Louise Harper, Albany; Frances McLain, Dawson; Anna Mathews, Valdosta; Lois Perry, Kingsland; Camille Rycroft, Adel; Floride Zipperer, Valdosta.

TEA ON WEDNESDAY
 The Fine Arts Club tea was given Wednesday in the upper Rotunda from four-thirty to six o'clock. A group of paintings by Miss Ruth Carpenter, art instructor, was on exhibition.
 Ann Turner, president of the club, and Martha Gay, secretary-treasurer, presided at the tea table. The members of the club assisted in serving. The pictures were entitled: A Study, The Old Barn, The Road to the Studol, A Portuguese Youth, Gray Day, Clam Houses, The Willows, Christopher Wren Tower, The Old Sea Captain, A Cape Cod Cottage, Unfinished Sketch—Repair Docks, The Lady in Gray.

SMOKING RULES
 Juniors and Seniors have been granted smoking privileges with certain limitations. No smoking is to be done on the campus at any time, on the street or in drugstores. They can smoke when out riding on dates and when visiting at friends' homes in town. The privilege is given with reservation that it be kept to the letter. This is the only privilege that can be given at the present to maintain safety from fire.

VALDOSTA CLUB
 The Valdosta Club had a luncheon Thursday at the House in the Woods. The incoming president, Miss Frances Garbutt, presided.
