Notice: Sock And Buskin

At 7:30 on Sunday evening in the Play Production Room, formal initiation services of the new members of the club will be held. At this time, Miss Louise A. Sawyer, instructor in Speech and director of the club will make a short speech of welcome to all who have received bids.

The service will be followed by the serving of refreshments. All old members are expected to be present as an act of recognition and welcome to the new girls.

Improvements Add Efficiency And Beauty to Library

Although the building of a new library is expected to begin at G. S. W. C. this year, many improvements have been made on the present library. Work was begun during the summer and is still continuing to make the library more efficient and attractive.

One thousand new children's books and three hundred new text books have been lent to the school by the State Department of Education. The text books will be useful to teachers by aiding them to select books for their courses. They can also be used by students for reference work.

Among the children's books are "The 'Arabian Nights'", "Robinson Crusoe", and "Treasure Island". Students who neglected these stories in their youth will have a chance to read them.

The library has subscribed to a new magazine, "Books Abroad", which will prove especially beneficial to foreign language students. This magazine offers each quarter reviews of a thousand or more of the outstanding current foreign books, in addition to leading articles and comments on languages other than English. There are special sections in the magazine devoted to books in various languages, and contributions from leading countries of Europe and America bringing present-day world literature into view.

Improvements which add to the neat and attractive appearance of the library include the recently shellacked tables, interesting posters, and fresh labels over books.

Sock And Buskin Announce Bids

Announcement of the addition of eight new members to the Sock and Buskin Club was made today by Anna Richter, president. The new members were chosen as a result of try-outs held Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday afternoons of this week.

Girls selected for membership are:

Eleanor Morgan, Katherine Handorf, Ruth Burroughs, Rachel Crittenden, Anne Parham, Frances Williams, Robinette Bell, Doris Dickson, Betty Tomberlin, Ruth Dixon.

Opal Brown and Mary Catherine Abernathy were offered bids to the club, without trial, earlier in the week. This is an unusual occurrence in the club but was done in recognition of the excellence of their performances in the May Day exercises of last spring.

Miss Brown played the part of Snow White while Miss Abernathy took the dual role of the wicked queen and the witch, in the pageant of Snow White, which was presented at that time.

First Of Music Series Lectures Given By Kraft

In an effort to bring to the campus a greater knowledge and appreciation of music, Mr. Herbert Kraft of the Music Department, inaugurated a series of lectures on music, with a speech in the auditorium on Tuesday evening. The series will be continued over a series of several weeks.

"This Thing Music; Its Scope and Method" was the topic of the lecture of Tuesday evening. His thesis was that we should experiment with music by listening intelligently to the music we hear in our daily lives, and dissatisfaction with the meagerness of our present musical enjoyment is necessary in order to attain a greater measure of appreciation. The next in the series will be given on October 10, the topic for discussion being "Likes and Dislikes in Music."

In conjunction with these lectures, a series of musical programs will be held in the Rotunda every Sunday afternoon. The first of this series will be held on October 2.

Rhymes McKey Named In Election

Elections in the Sophomore and Senior classes today were decisive in the selection of two officers in each class. Seniors voted Ruth Rhymes, vice-president and Margurite Arnold to be secretary-treasurer. The Sophomore ballot resulted in the election of Susie McKey, vice president and Mary Alice Brim, secretary-treasurer.

This system of electing a vice-president from the town students and a secretary-treasurer, is used for the first time this year. Previously, the selection of class officers other than the president was arbitrary, it being left to the class to decide what other officers were necessary, and making no discrimination in their choice between town and dormitory students.

It was decided at the Y-Student Government retreat, held spring quarter last year, that a new system was necessary whereby representation of town students would be assured. The decision was made, to keep the class presidencies within the dormitory students for purposes of convenience, but to create the office of a town student vice president.

Discussion To Be Held After Dinner

Dr. and Mrs. Harold S. Gulliver will be guests of the college in the dining hall at dinner on Sunday. After dinner, coffee will be served in the Rotunda.

At this time, the present European situation will be discussed. Dr. Gulliver, who spent several years in Europe during and after the World War is greatly interested in the state of affairs that now exists between Germany, Czechoslovakia and other Central European powers. This interest is an outgrowth not only of his own war time experiences, but also of his association with European.

References to the war and Dr. Gulliver's feelings concerning it, are found in his recently published book of poems. "Out of the Bog."

Gonna Dance Out Both My Shoes

Now, remember lassies! go put on those pretty evening frocks and lets make this dance the tops.

Will There Be War In Europe, Or Not ?

Soldiers are marching, governments are collapsing, men are dying, murders are being committed, and the International relations club is conducting a weekly summary of all these news events. These meetings will be open to students and faculty members on Mondays at assembly period in Room 113.

It has been the policy of the club to conduct a forum and present a speaker each year. This year, the club has decided to keep the students well informed as to the international situation by having members of the club review all important world events each Monday morning.

Ora Kate Wisenbaker, club president, in announcing this program, extended an invitation to all members of the student body and faculty to attend. This series of meetings is a significant step in carrying out the object of the Club, which is an understanding and promotion of world peace.

Whether a member of the Sports Club or not, any girl may invite on Co-recreation days a boy to come out and join her in playing games on the campus.

The Sports Club equipment, coupled with that of the Physical Education department, such as tennis, badminton, golf, pool, archery, pink pong, may be used.

The first Co-recreation will take place Friday, October 7. In charge of the plans are Laura Duncan, chairman, Ruth Reid and Marguerite Norton.

Bids to the Sports Club will be extended to the freshmen to become members of either the Kappa or Lambda teams, on Friday, September 31.

Annie Adams, as president of the Club, and Dody Wilson as Vice-president, and two other members, one from each of the two teams drew earlier in the week the members for each side.

The Club's program for this quarter will be clearly explained at the meeting of new and old members.

Y.W.C.A. Vesper Choir Selected

Tryouts for the Y. W. C. A. Vesper Choir were held Monday, September 26, in the music studio. Miss Elizabeth Druckenmiller, voice instructor, was in charge of the tryouts. Those selected for the choir were: Margaret Carter, Emily Cumming, Frances Middleton, Eleanor Turnbull, Margaret Burns, Wilma Adams, Elizabeth Waterhouse, Lois Green, Wilmot Green, Eleanor Cook, Betty Logan, Mildred Harris, Mary Elizabeth McLin and Winifred Ruffin.

On Thursday and Sunday nights the choir will sing for vesper services. Plans are being made for the choir to sing in the different churches during the year.

The first practice of the choir was held Thursday, September 29. Subsequent practices will be held weekly on this same day at Assembly period.

... is a good system to work by. It is a system of returning a favor that is done for you.

In this case we are speaking of the advertisements in the Campus Canopy. We don't like to consider these advertisements only as favors, helping out a striving little paper. We should like to think that the advertisers benefited in additional College trade, through running "ads" in this paper.

However, the "ads" run on these pages are nothing more than favors, as long as our readers do not patronize the advertisers. We ask you to take us out of this favor class, and put us on our feet as a worthwhile paper.

Patronize a merchant who advertises in the Canopy, in preference to one who does not. Make a point of mentioning that you saw his "ad" in the Canopy. Make our advertisers feel that they are being benefited by trading with us.

The Chance Of

... a lifetime is offered each year to girls who are seniors in colleges and universities throughout the country. Vogue Magazine is the kind and gracious benefactor in this case, and they make an offer that each year attracts greater numbers of students.

This competition offers opportunities to college women interested in careers in writing, fashion advertising and merchandising. Each year, more college women are becoming aware of the advantages that are offered, there being seniors from 252 colleges competing last year.

Paris in the spring, New York in the winter—and, employed by Vogue. The prize, if not the career itself, has already attracted many entrants.

Here is a field of work that freshmen as well as seniors might stop to consider. Here is something worth working for if your talents run in that particular direction.

Organized Last Year

... the planning committee will go ahead with its weekly meeting this year, holding them each Monday afternoon. Seven members of the faculty and administration discuss at these meetings problems concerning the college as a whole or individual students.

It is the wish of this body, that any student or group of students who has a problem to discuss, bring it before them. However, great or small the problem may be, if it concerns the happiness of the students or their interests on campus, the committee will gladly give their problem consideration.

We Are Robbing

... ourselves of more than we realize by our mercenary attitude on this campus. We are robbing ourselves of that "one big happy family" feeling, that we so smugly apply to ourselves. That we are money-mad is an obvious fact, and there's no use trying to avoid the issue.

During Orientation Week, people used high sounding phrases, among them, "the feeling these seniors have for the college." It is not our intention to disillusion the freshmen; anyone who has been here two, or three, or four years, does have a certain feeling for their college.

At graduation, the outgoing class is filled with reminiscences. Parting from the college and their friends here is difficult.

Each class takes from the college, experiences, knowledge and memories, that will enrich the rest of their lives. This is a fine thing, and the college is glad for its girls to take such a heritage with them.

— What Is Left Behind —

And in return, what do these same girls leave with their Alma Mater? It is impossible for a student not to leave something of herself here. Something of her attitude, the work she has done, her personality, is sure to impress, to some degree, the college or other girls who will follow her.

But of voluntary giving, there is little. No one has asked any group to give up something to the college. Nevertheless, it seems that a genuine love of it, would inspire the desire to leave something voluntary and definite in acknowledgement of everything the college has spent to those who attended it.

But look at the picture we present. From the very first year, each class is striving to make money, a great deal of money, to finance a senior trip. It represents a last chance for one big celebration before each member goes a different way.

We don't say that the idea is thoroughly wrong. It is good for the classes to work together, so that they can play together. But the point we wish to make is this. Opportunities for making money are not very great in this campus; consequently every opportunity that comes along is turned into a money-making proposition.

— Financial or Social Successes —

We are robbing ourselves of simple enjoyments, involving no consideration of finances. Our functions are first reckoned as to whether or not they are financial successes, and then, as to their social aspects.

If earning money is such a task that it deprives us of taking advantage of non-profit entertainments, then we ask you, "Is a senior trip worth the struggle? Do four years of work and one week of merriment offset the simpler pleasures that e could be enjoying less frantically, during the whole time we are here?"

This is not just one opinion. We have heard it voiced by others—seniors who have almost weathered the storm, and it should therefore be worth consideration.

We have heard students say that much more enjoyment could be gotten from giving, than from taking. Some of them see a senior trip as a rather selfish objective. These girls are the supporters of the trend favoring more gracious social activities where finances would not furrow the brow of the hostess. These students feel they would rather leave any money they might earn to go towards a scholarship fund or a campus improvement.

— Ideal Is High —

This is a high ideal. We are not proposing that the seniors, who are now on the last lap, should forego their trip. We are not asking any class that has already started working towards this objective, to give it up. But we look to the freshmen particularly, as those who are starting out on a new leaf, to consider the arguments set forth.

Perhaps the other classes are too far gone. Perhaps the freshmen have already caught the fever. But we are opening another channel of thought to you.

Are you robbing yourselves? What are you going to do about it?

"The tabulation showed," the survey report said, "that the persons working the most hours studies the most. (One student who works 50 hours in a local dry goods store spends 26 hours in studying. On the other hand a girl sleeping 60 hours, does no outside work and studies but 10 hours.)"

CARLISLE, PA.—(ACP)—Dickinson College has made participation in extra-curricular activities a requirement for graduation.

Faculty's Annual Reception Brilliant Affair

Freshmen Make Headlines

— By Ruth Whisonant —

The old adage "Green Freshmen" applies just as much to this year's class as it has applied to previous ones. Some of the boners pulled recently furnish adequate evidence of the fact. For instance there was the freshman who was undecided as to what Brookwood included. One day she was in the drug store and seeing a Student Government official come in she immediately rushed up and asked, "Will it be all right for me to go in the store next door?"

Another newcomer wanted to know if it was permissible for her to go to the water barrel and get a drink of water. Wonder how long she had been thirsty before she found someone to ask?

There was one girl who wanted to be very sure she didn't do anything wrong so she asked the president of Student Government to escort her to the ladies lounge in the Ritz Theatre.

Of all the boners pulled in the last two weeks, this one gets top rating. One afternoon the president and vice-president of Student Government were enjoying a chat together in the vice-president's room. As they were chatting away about the business of student government a freshman walked in with her sign out card in her hand. Imagine the surprise and chagrin of both officers when she sweetly asked, "Is there anyone in here who can approve my card?"

But the freshmen aren't the only ones who pull boners. How about the monitor in Senior Hall who heard somebody making fuss in the hall. She went out to quiet it down, as all good monitors do, and who should it be but Miss Carter.

So cheer up, Freshmen. You don't really do and say dumber things than upper classmen. It's just that you make the headlines.

Brown Named Officer In Club

Plans For Try-Outs Discussed.

At a call meeting of the Fine Arts Club at chapel period Tuesday, Opal Brown was elected vice-president. Miss Brown, an art major and member of the junior class, is also News Editor of the Campus Canopy.

After the election, plans for try-outs for new members were discussed. These trials, which were held this morning at chapel time included tests of art knowledge and appreciation. Bids will be given out to those accepted for membership, later in the week.

Safe driving and traffic efficiency is one of the new courses planned for the University of Pittsburgh summer session.

Heading the receiving line at the annual Faculty Reception last Saturday evening were Dr. and Mrs. Frank R. Reade and Miss Annie P. Hopper. Others of the faculty and administration were grouped according to their respective departments.

Members of the senior class assisted in receiving the guests, who comprised the remainder of the student body. June Lawson, senior class president was in charge of admitting students in small groups into the Rotunda. Introductions to the faculty were made by Mary Hudson and Elizabeth Garbutt. Margaret Abernathy, Anna Richter, Hazel Muggridge and C. J. Morris served punch throughout the evening.

New Course Is Offered Students

Points Given In News Stories.

Under the supervision of Mrs. Odum a class in creative writing is being offered this year. Besides being an interesting course, it develops a student's originality and writing ability.

During the past week, the class has centered its attention on newspaper writing. Mrs. Odum has given points on writing news stories.

Every week the class criticizes each article appearing in the Campus Canopy and grades it according to subject matter, manner and presentation, and the style of writing.

Following the Dalton plan, each student submits the plan for her weeks work showing what she intends to accomplish. At the end of the week, her completed assignment is submitted to the class for criticism.

The University of Virginia alumni association will request that Congress give the university the $3,000,000 fund available as a monument to Thomas Jefferson for an "educational, living tribute."

Norwood Suggests Contest.

Mr. J. W. Norwood, well-known local publisher, gave the advertising staff of the Campus Canopy an enthusiastic and stirring talk on Tuesday night. Through Mr. Norwood's suggestions, the twenty members comprising the advertising staff decided to wage a contest among themselves, keeping a record of all advertisements sold, in order to compare them each month with that of the last month, noting improvements.

The contest, first of its kind, will provide incentive for better and more complete work among the staff members.

There will be a very important meeting of all girls trying out for the reportorial staff of the Campus Canopy on Monday evening at 7:30 in Room 3. It is most necessary that anyone wishing to make the staff be present at this meeting.

Outdoor Girls

With the big meeting of the entire Sports Club this afternoon, the sports program on campus is officially launched. It's the outdoor girls who will be the BSOC's (translation - Big Shots On Campus) from now on. President Annie Adams is encouraged over the response from the freshmen interested in joining up with the club. This high increase in membership promises greater competition between Kappas and Lambdas than ever before.

Basketball and Fistball Are Fall Sports

Organized sports for the fall quarter are Basketball and Fistball. Managers for these teams are: Basketball — Ruth Reid, Kappa and Evelyn Hay, Lambda; Fistball—Evelyn Brim, Lambda and Yolande Coppage, Kappa.

Schedules for sports practices will be announced after the meeting of the Sports Club Council on Tuesday afternoon. Besides these organized sports, exercise and enjoyment may also be had in swimming tennis, golf and archery.

Club members are urged to record their practices. Only one practice a day may be officially signed up.

Each night from 10:00 'till 10:30, the pool is opened, with a regular life guard in attendance. Swimming at these times is worth one half practice.

Significant among the new activities offered by the club this year is the Co-recreational Period on Friday afternoon. The way to a man's heart may be through his stomach, but just try letting him beat you at a game of tennis and see how superior he feels.

Here's to the Outdoor Girls—those of the sparkling eyes and healthy glow. A complete program is being launched that effects one of largest organized groups on campus.

Sunday School Plans Completed

Margaret Weir, Sunday School chairman of the YWCA, has announced that plans for this quarter have been completed.

The freshman and sophomore classes are to be led by Miss Annie P. Hopper. The other groups will be organized under the leadership of Miss Mildred Teasley as discussion leader, working with a committee of three juniors or seniors acting in an advisory capacity.

Announcement of the committee will be made next week after the decision of the Y Cabinet. It will be their duty to investigate the desires of the student relative to Sunday School programs, discuss them with Miss Teasley and aid in forming programs that will satisfy the majority of the students.

University of Virginia students do not call their campus a campus. They call it "the grounds."

Cats Invade West Hall As Prints

— By Opal Brown —

Have you noticed the cats in the lower hall of the Ad Building? They're very meek pussies and ever since they were placed there, have made not so much as one "meow" to disturb the run of classes. But if you should have passed them up, take a look at them on your next trip over there. This is of course assuming that you do attend classes.

There's a blue cat, an orange cat, a yellow cat, and yes, a black cat! The latter, as are all the others, is firmly enclosed in a glass case, so there's no fear of his crossing your path and making you so unlucky as to be called on the very day you haven't opened your book.

The light yellow cat is the original sketch made by Elizabeth Norton. The yellow, blue and black cats show the process of black printing. The finished product is seen in the extreme right hand corner. These are original blocks used by the artist; they have been marked and there will never again be any more prints made like them.

These cats were secured by the art department from Mrs. C. Whitmore, who last year displayed a collection of pictures in the Upper Rotunda. They come from the Print Corner at Hingham Center, Massachusetts.

Soon to be taken from display, the cats will be stored in the Art Department. They will be available to anyone who is interested in block printing.

This advent of cats into the very halls of learning is sure to be viewed with the varying emotions of joy, alarm and distaste. The Biology Department, by its use of cats for experimental purposes in the past, is responsible for one of these reactions.

Ruth Rhymes was a cat lover. When she was a little girl she had one of these feline friends which she held in very great esteem. The pickled pussy that her "Lab" partner produced from the shadows of the supply closet one day last year, for the purpose of dissection, actually brought her to the point of tears. Perhaps an un-pickled specimen will bring back the smiles and recollections of childhood to her tender heart.

And then there is Dora Ida, of the Perkins, Dora Ida's, a recognized cat ever. Even as far back as her freshman days, this kind hearted soul deprived herself of her morning toast to put food in the mouths of starving cats that sometimes wandered around the campus. To Dora Ida and other humanitarians we offer the well known caution, "Don't feed the animals."

The cats in the Ad Building are not in a scientifically preserved state and they are apparently well fed. As a matter of fact, they seem to be quite charming cats. They are worth inspection and it is guaranteed that the sight of them will produce no ill effects.

Duties of Vice-President

Under the new system, the vice president is expected to act in close association with the president and the town students of the class. She is their chief representative in all class affairs.

Secretary treasures are chosen from the dormitory students also as a matter of convenience. The two offices were combined because there is usually not so much secretarial work in one class to warrant the creation of a separate office for that purpose.

No announcement has been made concerning when the Junior class elections will take place. The election of these officers for the freshmen class will be deferred until after the election of a class president in November.

The tryouts included two groups to test their histrionic ability. The first group consisted of the reading of a passage to determine articulation, enunciation and general reading intelligence, several short speeches in character and dialect, exercises in stage technique such as walking, sitting, rising and bowing.

Candidates selected the second group themselves. This group was to include a problem in pantomime and a character reading chosen from a designated group of plays.

Series Of Vesper Programs Planned

Beginning Sunday evening the first talk in a series of subjects revolving around the central topic, "Realizing God in everyday life" will be given. The subjects to be spoken on during the series will include: Awareness, Friendliness, Loyalty, Self-Control, Consideration, Service to Others and Willingness to Do. The series will cover a period from October second to November thirteenth.

Rev. Cecil Thompson of the Presbyterian Church of Valdosta was the speaker last Sunday evening at vespers. His subject dealt with "The Deepening of Human Ties." Rev. Thompson was the first minister of local churches to speak at a college vesper program this year.

A new idea in vesper programs was introduced Thursday evening when girls assembling in the Rotunda were asked to suggest songs they would like to sing at the services throughout the year. These songs were practiced, under the leadership of Margaret Carter.

Ouch! Oooo -. These were the groans that the esthetic dancing class uttered this week. It seems that Miss Ivey has really been putting them through. The girls blush to tell of the muscles they never knew they had.

Sara Garbutt will proudly tell you that she can walk on her thighs, but Rosemary Baker will only groan and say her skin is getting thinner in certain places.

It has been rumored that Mary Winn Greer relaxed so thoroughly at Miss Ivey's request that she hasn't been able to regain her former balance and stability.

The dancing class aims to give the girls perfect coordination of all parts of the body so that each girl will acquire charm and grace through her good posture.

Of course the respective members do not have visions of becoming other Ruth St. Dennis but each one has a dream of herself casually strolling down winding stairs with her head held high, but not so high that she can't see the gleam of admiration in the eyes of those below and hear the murmurs of "Such poise and such grace."

Because of this, the girls are willing to relax completely, roll over and over and jiggle their heads around 'till they become drunk. Nevertheless, the girls one and all are assured that the ideal is worth the effort.

Brink Leads AAUW

Dr. Eleanor Nims Brink presided at the meeting of the Valdosta branch of the AAUW which was held on Thursday afternoon in the Administration Building. One of the main projects under discussion was the question of food for the children at the W. P. A. nursery school.
