Hodgson Explains Purpose Of Arts Appreciation Movement

Integration Of Fine Arts Throughout State To Be Made By University Center

By Mary Williams

"I am a true Georgian; I love Georgia and I believe appreciation of music will broaden the lives of our people," Hugh Hodgson stated in an interview explaining the purpose and origin of the coming movement for appreciation of all the fine arts, the first program for which was presented Tuesday evening.

Mr. Hodgson believes that a university should touch more than those who are fortunate enough to be enrolled and that through our Georgia schools, colleges, and universities the masses of people can be converted to something better in music, painting, etc., and so become better people.

In order to carry out this integration of fine arts into the lives of the people throughout the state of Georgia, Mr. Hodgson conceived the recently organized Fine Arts Division of the University center, which he now heads. GSWC is one of the five centers to benefit from this movement.

In stressing the social value of music Mr. Hodgson told of a listener who complained that he couldn't enjoy classical music; that it was above his head. Mr. Hodgson answered him by quoting Dr. Carter Helen Jones, who says, "When something is above your head, raise your head."

The first words the musician spoke as he left the stage were, "Did I talk too much?" After being assured that he had not, he told why he liked to use explanations between the numbers. He believes the more people know about music the more they will want to know and hence heads will be raised higher and higher.

Mr. Hodgson says he had rather play for audiences who don't think they know it all—who are not listening for every beat. One of the reasons for beginning the appreciation was a desire to enjoy music with people who were not interested in music theoretically. In pre-war days Mr. Hodg-

9 Seniors Selected For Collegiate Who's Who

M. A. Brim, E. Brim, Burns, Christian, Parham, Peeples, Reid, and Williams Are Chosen

Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities, national compilation of biographies of outstanding students in America will include in its 1940-41 edition the names of nine G. S. W. C. seniors. Those selected are Mary Alice Brim, Evelyn Brim, Margaret Burns, Lois Christian, Ann Parham, Susie McKey, Louie Peeples, Ruth Reid, and Carolyn Williams. These girls were chosen on a basis of character, scholarship, leadership, and potentialities.

Results Of Frosh Placement Tests Are Announced

Anne Singletary chalked up the largest number of high scores on the Freshman Placement Tests with three first, two second, and one third place. She was closely followed by Ellen Ogburn, who ranked highest on two of the tests and third on one of them.

In the Literary Appreciation test, Anne Singletary ranked highest, with Jean Williams and Mary Williams coming in second and third places.

Ellen Ogburn, Anne Singletary, and Nancy Meshke placed first, second, and third respectively on Mathematics.

On the test in General Science, Anne Singletary, Emmie Carter, and Helen Dorothy Davis were the three highest in the order named.

Annie Rice was highest in

Horace Caldwell Named To Board Of Regents

Governor E. D. Rivers today named Horace Caldwell, Valdosta, to the place on the Board of Regents of the University System caused by the death of John W. Bennett, of Waycross.

The term to which Mr. Caldwell has been named will expire on July 1, 1943.

This is the first time a Valdostan has been named to the Board of Regents. Before the reorganization of the University System, several Valdostans were on the board of trustees of the Georgia State Womans College, a part of the University system, but since that time this city has not been represented on the governing body of the System.

The Valdosta school is one of the important units in the University System and is growing at a satisfactory rate.

Active Citizen

Mr. Caldwell has been a resident of Valdosta for a number of years. He was at one time a member of the city council, is a past president of the Chamber of Commerce, has for a number of years been a member of the Kiwanis Club and is at this time state secretary of that organization.

He is the operator of the Daniel Ashley Hotel in Valdosta and of the Hotel Gordon, in Albany.

In speaking of his appointment today, Mr. Caldwell said that he felt highly honored and he pledged his best efforts to the entire University system and to the Valdosta college.

Mr. Caldwell's appointment was widely approved when it became known today that he had been named. Valdostans are delighted that a local resident has been placed on the Board and they feel that the selection of Mr. Caldwell is a happy one.

Reade Comments

Commenting on Mr. Caldwell's appointment, Dr. Frank R. Reade, president of the Georgia State Womans College said:

"All of us at the Georgia State Womans College are happy to learn that Governor Rivers has appointed Mr. Horace Caldwell, of Valdosta to fill the unexpired term of the late Senator John W. Bennett, of Waycross, as a member of the Board of Regents of the University System of Georgia.

"In selecting Mr. Caldwell, the governor has chosen a man of varied interests and of proven abilities—a genuine sort of fellow whose personal popularity rests solely on his very real interest in anything and everything that has to do with the progress of Valdosta and of South Georgia. His election to the Board of Regents offers him an ever larger field of service to the State."

Let's Agree On The Time

Recently we have heard so much about the clock situation, that our campus is beginning to sound like the Tower of Babel. It seems that no two clocks on campus can get together on the time. We are told to go out and come in by the time of the clock in our respective dormitories. Therefore we set our watches and alarm clocks with these clocks.

We get up in what we think is a reasonable time to get ready for breakfast, when suddenly the breakfast bell rings, sometimes five or ten minutes early, according to the dormitory clocks. We reset our watches with the dining hall clock, which is set by radio time, and presto, we're late to classes, for the bells are rung in accordance with the board room clock, which is always ahead of every other clock.

It does seem that we could get together on the time. We have heard faint murmurs going around that there is a possibility of getting Western Union time established on campus. We certainly need it. The CAMPUS CANOPY heartily endorses the idea.

However, until something definite is done about installing Western Union clocks, we propose that the official bell ringers, bells, clocks, and watches come to a decision on the time.

What's wrong with radio time? It's bound to be accurate, and no matter how far from campus one may be, it's far easier to find a radio than the board room or dormitory clocks.

Let's have an official watch and clock setting immediately. Let's get together on the time.

Oh, Those Horrible Chairs

During the past summer many improvement were made on the campus both to the exterior and interior. One of the most desirable additions made was a large number of lawn chairs which we need sorely, but have you noticed the color? They're a ghastly green . . . in fact, a vile green.

Whoever decided on the color must not have visualized how they would look with white buildings and red roofs as a background. The shade is definitely inharmonious with their surroundings. They should have been white, or, if colored paint was necessary, a shade of red which would blend with the color scheme of the campus.

We suggest that they be repainted with at least a comfortable looking color (preferably white) as soon as possible, for as they are, they detract from the appearance of the campus.

From An Uneasy Chair

Elections are much in evidence . . . clubs are selecting officers to fill vacancies . . . the big election of this quarter will come Saturday, when Student-Faculty Honor Council representatives and the Student-Faculty Honor Council representatives and the Secretary-treasurer of SGA will be chosen. GO to the polls and VOTE for your candidate

So the Seniors will wear drapes in the annual instead of sweaters and pearls . . . Hugh Hodgson was at his best on Tuesday night . . . and his rendition of Liebstraum on Wednesday was . . . shall we say . . . heavenly.

There will be no CAMPUS CANOPY next week . . . nobody will be here to read it . . . here's hoping everyone has a wonderful October 18 to 22. Your editor will remain here looking forward to a wonderful November 7, 8, and 9 in Detroit at the NCPA convention.

Parade Of Opinion: Conscription

Peacetime military conscription of the nation's young men for the purpose of bolstering the national defense is about to become a fact. Whether college men 21 and over like the prospect or not, they now face compulsory registration which for some will lead to service in the nation's armed forces.

As is to be expected, campus support throughout the country for the Burke-Wadsworth bill has lagged considerably behind the support given the measure by the population as a whole. A recent tabulation of press polls showed that 66 per cent of America's adult voting population favored conscription. Unfortunately, collegiate opinion up to now has not been sounded as extensively as that of the general public. But it is a safe bet that an objective sampling, following the methods of Dr. Gallup's Institute of Public Opinion, would find college students voting considerably less than two-thirds in favor of compulsory military training.

Draft Is Necessary

Nevertheless there have been straws in the wind these last few weeks indicating that even among students there is growing sentiment that America must call its manpower to the alert. Undergraduate and faculty groups and individuals in increasing numbers have conceded that some sort of a draft is necessary.

In Philadelphia, Lawson Robertson, 57-year-old Penn and Olympic track coach, declared for compulsory military training to toughen American youths for possible defense of their country. "I don't think the young fellows of today are ready for a war", asserted Robertson, celebrating his twenty-fifth anniversary at Penn. "They have the initiative, but not the endurance for fighting."

Colleges Watched Closely

America's college millions

watched closely as the conscription bill bounced over a rocky path through the houses of congress. Among the principal senate opponents was Montana's Isolationist Burton K. Wheeler, whose objections, based on two personal convictions, struck a responsive chord in many student minds: 1, that conscription would destroy democracy in the United States; 2, that Hitler has no military designs on the U. S.

Proponents of the measure argued that action was necessary with Hitler supreme over virtually all the European continent; that voluntary enlistment could not provide sufficient high-grade man-power for defense; and that conscription in previous national emergencies has not resulted in destruction of American democracy.

Conscription Is Here

Attitude of the administration and of local draft boards toward actual conscription of college students remains to be seen in actual practice. There seems some basis for the prediction that the proportion of students called to comp will not be high. But at any rate conscription is here, despite thousands of lusty "nays" from hundreds of colleges.

American Colleges Should Abolish Textbooks

BOSTON, MASS., (ACP)—American colleges and universities should abolish textbooks and substitute the study of 100 of the world's greatest books, according to Dr. Mortimer J. Adler, author of "How To Read A Book."

As a model for such a move he suggested St. John's at Annapolis, where the teachers lead discussions on the great thinkers like Homer, Plato, Galen, Hegel, Marx and Freud.

Adler says that learning requires reading and that one must read the great works to be able to read.

LOIS CHRISTIAN—

Tall, dark, and attractive with a sense of humor that keeps her laughing at herself, but not grimly so.

President of Philharmonic Club, accompanist for Glee Club, and a member of the Valdosta Club . . . Music major and English minor . . . plays beautifully.

States as the impossible ambition of her life, to sing opera and do it as successfully as Flagstad . . . and to see Clark Gable and Jeanette McDonald, her favorites, co-starred again.

Her most embarrassing moments are those when she speaks to friends only to discover that she made a mistake, and that the recipient of the greeting is a total stranger.

Desires to dispute a speaker's word just to note the amazed and baffled expression on the disputed one's face . . . Loves old fashioned dresses, particularly that of the Civil War period, but thinks the wearing of them would be too much . . . Likes yellow and all bright colors.

Worries most of the time, but not enough to do anything about it . . . Hobby is playing an organ . . . Not athletic.

Have you ever noticed her when she is listening to music? She pats her foot, not with the beat, but always out-of-time with the music . . . Never gets to first period classes on time . . . hates to wait on people.

Annoyed by people with an acquired brogue . . . sarcasm, and hill-billy music. Can't understand why Willkie doesn't comb his hair.

She's looking forward to rest after school.

YOLANDE COPPOGE—

Spends her time trying to figure out where they got her name, and the rest in forming new phrases for expression of her hate of her red hair.

One of the best of our Sports Club members, she has won her first three yearly awards, and already beaming over what she hopes will be her fourth . . . also she is an interested member of the Fine Arts Club, Sociology Club, and Valdosta Club.

Ambitions . . . to be a portrait painter . . . enjoy life . . . and to bowl 135 instead of her usual 60.

A major in Art, Yolande loves paintings by the Old Masters, but is not too enthusiastic over modern art. However, her favorite pass-the-time-by is moving pictures . . . also radio.

Loves to argue and will defend Roosevelt any old time, otherwise she is indifferent to politics . . . can't carry a tune, but loves music . . . not so fast, for she hates jitter-bugs . . . never worries, not even about her ideal . . . all she says is to please make him tall and brunette, not red-headed!

Always punctual . . . hates horns that won't blow and bells that won't ring. Dislikes crowds for they make her uncomfortable milling around.

Yolande loves young children, and she consistently proves it by offering to take care of friends' children when the grown-ups are going out. Hopes to work in a nursery school, and someday establish her own.

Hi, Red-Head, whose favorite theme is Nobody's Baby!

Quotes And Unquotes

We're really going to have a long week-end starting Friday, and we suggest that everyone make the most of it, for mid-terms are only just around the corner from it. In fact there are only 19 or 20 more shopping days until they'll be upon us. So get to work "chillum", for

About the time of examinations
And sits
On silent haunches
Looking over desk and chair
And then moves on
Only sometimes it doesn't."

Northwestern University Students pass a weeping willow tree with great reverence these days. The tree was planted last year with the hope that it would grow to maturity. Each day the hope grows slimmer, for the tree is to be cut down when the first Northwestern student is killed in war.

Architect Explains Meaning Library's Sculptured Panels

At last we've found out! We've been told what the sculptured panels on the library signify. The architect has given us the following explanation of the designs:

"The first panel, the lady with her head among the stars and trailing clouds is supposed to symbolize or represent Piety, or romantic and ecstatic literature in general. While the fifth panel at the extreme right, the husky girl in modern shorts, halter and snood kneeling "amongst" the corn and cabbages represents the exact antitheses, the matter of fact prose of everyday commonplace life.

The third panel, about which the general composition centers is supposed to suggest by the characteristic cross-legged Buddhist or eastern posture and the time honored Christian symbol of the vine and grapes, those branches of literature that deal with subjective, mystical, and transcendental speculation. Christian, Brahminist, Buddhist, etc.

The second and fourth panels, the lightly clad ladies purporting to study the globe of the earth and the "Sands of Time" symbolize respectively those works that deal with the terrestrial globe "as is" (geography, travel, etc.) and the study of the past (history, biography, archeology, etc.).

Well, that's comprehensible, but we still can't read the inscriptions. The CAMPUS CANOPY offers a reward of five cents (5c) in trade at the Country Store to anyone who will translate this inscription and type it for us. We wonder if anyone can, or will!

In the meantime, look at the panels on the library and study them.

Richter To Speak At Vespers Sunday

Miss Anna Richter will speak at the Vesper service on Sunday evening, October 13. Her subject will be "Good Will Between The Students and Faculty." Mildred Harris will present a vocal solo.

On the following Thursday night, June Mosely will speak on "Good Will As Observed By A Student".

Music for both of these programs will be furnished by the Vesper Choir, under direction of Mr. Herbet Kraft.

West, Cole, Mullen, Street Named To "Y" Cabinet Posts

The executive committee of the Y. W. C. A. Cabinet met on Monday night, October 7, in the House-in-the-Woods for the purpose of appointing new officers to fill several vacancies in cabinet.

Frances West will be co-chairman of the Publicity Department and Nancy Cole was selected as Deputation chairman. Mary Mullen and Frances Street were appointed as assistants to the Room Chairman, Carolyn Roberts.

This completes the Cabinet for 1940-41.

Kleeman Elected Sociology Club Vice - President

Bits Kleeman was elected Vice-President of the Sociology Club at the first meeting of the year on Monday evening. She will replace Lucille Johnson who failed to return to school this year.

Bits transferred last year from Armstrong Junior College in Savannah. She has served on the Campus Canopy staff, and is a member of the Phi Lambda Sports Club. She is an English major and Sociology minor.

Dr. Ellinor N. Brink spoke to the group on her trip to the Western States this summer. She discussed the culture of the peoples whom she saw, their mode of living, and their industries. She displayed a number of interesting curios which she collected on the trip.

At this meeting, President Inez Taylor welcomed the twenty-six new members who accepted the bids to join this organization of Sociology majors and minors.

Sock And Buskin To Have First Party Of Year

Tuesday evening, October 15, will see old and new members of the Sock and Buskin Club enjoying their first party of the year.

The old members of the club will call for the new members and escort them to the House-in-the-Woods where the social is to be held.

Specialty of the evening is to be the skit presented by the new members for the entertainment of the old Sock and Buskiners.

On October 16, the day following the party, the twenty-one new members will don their black stockings for the initiation period.

Douglas Hyde, first president of Eire (Ireland), was once interim professor of modern languages at Rutgers University in New Jersey.

Theme Of Bull Sessions Turn To Thoughts Of War

Back campus, the territory for numerous activities, occasionally gets turned into a dining room of the 'nth degree. It was during one of these so called meals eaten on back campus that the discussion of the European situation came under the line of verbal fire and discourse. And here's the result:

The queer looking piece of machinery in the road off back campus, it was decided, is a steam shovel, not an anti-aircraft gun. The plane that was circling overhead was for sight seeing, not for seeing the sights left by exploding bombs. The calling of a mass meeting to discuss the stagger system, not to discuss the staggering survivors. A party to introduce new girls to the faculty, not to introduce the governing body to some unsuspecting citizen to the new regime.

The question of the Nazi tactics in the present war was included and the parachute fighters were discussed. "If there was an air raid by parachutists, the first thing I would do would be to make a dive for the first man that hit the ground, then it would be everybody for themselves", said a freshman.

What's In A Name?

From the beginning universities and colleges had their infirmaries; a necessary evil, shall we say? But with the advent of general health education of the people and for the people, came the HEALTH SERVICES to these schools of higher learning, as a department co-operating with the Physical Education Department for the POSITIVE PHASE OF HEALTH, which means learning to keep well rather than getting well. Now, this business of getting well is done in the Infirmary, which, alas, is a necessary part of the Health Service, while the latter is the bigger, better thing, and aims to teach health and the prevention of disease for college days, and life thereafter, hence, the bigger and better the Health Service Department the smaller need be its Infirmary branch.

Freshmen To Get Sports Club Bids At Party Monday

One of the largest and most colorful gatherings of the season will take place Monday night at 7:30 in the rec-hall when the Freshmen will receive their Sports Club bids. Not only is this large in number, but it should prove to be one of the most exciting gatherings of the entire year.

Bids, Lambda or Kappa, will be offered to the Freshmen and also the upperclassmen who have expressed their desire to become members. There will be a tense atmosphere and excitement will be the major theme of the night.

Every member of the student body is cordially invited to be present, whether you are a member of the Sports Club or not. This invitation is extended to the town, wormitory students and faculty as well.

Following the donation of bids, the new pledges will be inaugurated into the club by a program. This special feature of the evening's entertainment has been given lengthy discussion and debate by the powers of the club and with all of the careful planning and consideration, it should be good. Then, a good time will have been had by all when the refreshments have been passed out (not the guests) and everyone has said goodbye.

Goodloe States Plans For Co-Rec

Girls! with boy friends at Emory Junior or out in town, Attention. Co-rec is going to be held twice a week! Friday afternoon from 3:30 and Saturday afternoon from 2:30.

Leecy Anne Goodloe is in charge of Co-rec for this year. She has some plans for a more interesting schedule than last year. There will be, of course, the regulation games, tennis, ping-pong, badminton, shuffleboard, golf and swimming, then there will be interesting supplements substituted from time to time, to add to the enjoyment and pleasure of those participating.

Upperclassmen will remember painfully the embarrassing situation they found themselves in last year with regard to the rules and laws that govern Co-rec. This year these rules come under the jurisdiction of Student Government. First, there will be privilege cards to be obtained from the offices of Miss Hopper, Miss McRee or Miss Carter. Second, the date book must be signed in. This is for the dormitory girls, and the town girls will find a notebook available for them in the locker room at the pool. These rules are most important. Do not fail to adhere strictly to them.

Bust In Rotunda Quenches Thirst

By Anna May Pryor

Poe wrote of the Raven perched upon the bust above his door, but far be it from G. S. W. C. to let any poet get a step ahead of her. Seems that the bust in Ashley Rotunda has undergone even a more thrilling experience. A more pleasant one, at any rate, as a result of the Faculty Reception.

Undoubtedly some good sympathizing soul decided that the poor stone structure, standing so still and cold, would delight in a sip of mint punch. For, late Wednesday afternoon a passer-by spied the green punch perched, not on the head of the bust, but directly in front of it on the supporting platform.

Perhaps it was just a good way to get rid of the punch cup, but one never knows, does one?

who gathered in his mother's parlor for discussion and playing of music.

The crowds grew until they began meeting at Lucy Cobb and then in the old auditorium where radiators clanked and seats squeaked until the programs were almost broken up. It's encouraging to those interested in seeing his plan become a reality to compare those days with the present when he has a new auditorium in Athens and plays to packed houses all over the state.

In a more personal vein, Mr. Hodgson highly complimented GSWC girls as an audience.

When asked whether or not the University Glee Club liked to visit here, he coughed and said, "Of course they do"

They have not revealed their bids yet, but several of the girls will bear watching. O'Neal and Bateman, coaches for the Wednesday team put the girls through a stiff workout and the girls who immersed from the brief scrimmage with honors included Murph and Allen at guard and Whidden, Bowen and Spivey at forward. On the teams coached by Coleman and Hurst, Cunningham and Holland and Morgan looked exceptionally good.

The Freshmen, as a class, are green in the field of Fist ball and very few of them have shaped up into the classes of good, bad, or indifferent players. They all look good and should provide interest in the match games to come.

This Collegiate World

(By Associated Collegiate Press) Sam A. Coggins of Nettleton, Miss., wanted to go to college, so he peddled peanuts.

Sam paid his $120 fees at Mississippi State with 2,400 nickels—the cashier counted them—earned by selling goobers.

A certain professor at Ohio State walked into the classroom 15 minutes late to find the class gone. The next day the students were reprimanded. The professor said his hat had been on the desk, and that had been a sign of his presence. Next day the professor again found an empty classroom. On each desk was a hat.

Eastern New Mexico College's information bureau sent out a story saying there was a large increase in number of freshman girls.

A New Mexico newspaper carried the story under this headline:

CO-EDS THICKER ON ENMC CAMPUS

Freshman girls weighing under 110 pounds are considering forming a Society for the Encouragement of Thinner Co-eds.

Fishing, to Alice McGrain, art student at Miami University, is duck soup. Vacationing in Indiana, she cast her baited hook into Big Indian Creek.

Abruptly, a 13-inch bass leaped out of the water and landed with a thud in the bottom of the boat. Miss McGrain took off a slipper and dealt the fish a fatal blow with the heel.

She told her story to an unbelieving cousin and offered to show where it happened. As they rowed to the spot, Miss McGrain said, "It was right here."

The words hardly had been spoken when another bass of almost the same size leaped into the boat.

The co-ed again used the slipper technique. "Now maybe you'll believe me," she observed.

A fairly comprehensive picture of the average sorority girl on the Washington University campus at St. Louis is contained in a survey in Student Life, campus publication.

Some of the conclusions follow:

VISIT Smart & Thrifty For New Assortmen of Sport, Afternoon and Formal Dresses

"She comes in assorted heights, dressed and shaped according to latest fashion. Her well-curled hair is becoming, and she will seldom cover it with a hat, but just let a suspicion of rain appear and she wads it up under a bandana and looks like someone who should be slaving in Russian wheat fields.

"In spite of her 12-hour study average weekly she keeps her grades well above the campus level, makes more B's than C's, and inspires all kinds of tales of apple-polishing by the less successful male.

"She thinks about men almost as much as they like to think she does, but her thoughts are not always to their credit. Rather often she has more dates than she wants, because that's the only way she can be sure to have the ones she really does want.

"Two or three nights a week she has a more or less formal asked-for-in-advance definite-destination date. In between times she may lunch or go for rides or have boys drop in. Certainly she spends hours on end "jellying," which she may or may not consider a great waste of time. (Jellying—a campus term meaning an inexpensive date, usually several hours sitting in a restaurant over a soda or dish of ice cream.)

"She has an allowance and usually buys her own lunch at the school cafeteria or an off-campus restaurant.

"She may look frivolous, but there's a fifty-fifty chance she has held down a paying job at some time or other. She may even be the one girl in a hundred who's working her way through college with a full-time job. She's more apt to be the one sorority girl in 10 who earns her spending money by working about seven hours a week.

"In general she's a happy girl, fairly well satisfied with her share of life."

Cameron Bradley of Southboro, Mass., a recent Harvard graduate and vice president of the Veteran Motor Car Club of America, spends his spare time collecting old automobiles. He has 16 pre-1910 models.

New girls' dormitories are being opened this month by the University of Missouri at Columbia.

Stocking Bills Cut As Ban Is Lifted

Just think of it: We can wear socks shopping! No more worrying about our exceedingly high stocking bills now, for the stocking regulation has been lifted. Of course, we must wear stockings on dates and other places that call for them, but we don't have to wear them to town.

When this announcement was made after dinner today, all the students held their breath instead of letting out the usual screams of delight. They must have thought it was too good to be true. Well it's true.

Other privileges announced today include allowing the Juniors and Seniors to go to Twin Lakes Tavern, and to go bowling at night without a chaperone. Freshmen may go bowling in the afternoon with upperclassmen.
