Florida Glee Club To Appear Here Next Week

G. S. W. C. Glee Club Presents University Of Florida Club In Concert On April 18

The nationally famous University of Florida Glee Club will be presented in concert in Valdosta on the night of April 18, under the sponsorship of the Glee Club of G. S. W. C.

Under the direction of Professor John W. DeBruyn, the "Ambassadors of Good Will" will sing a delightfully varied program of religious, classical, light classical, and modern numbers. Appearing with the 35-man ensemble this year are three vocal soloists, a trio, and two pianists.

John W. DeBruyn, who is entering his fifteenth year as the successful director of the University of Florida Glee Club, has spent a lifetime in the study of voice technique and choral direction. His masterful application of the knowledge gained by years of study will be apparent when the the Gator songsters are heard in concert. Their superb singing which is the result of hours of rehearsal stressing interpretation according to pattern, contrast, proportion, balance, unity, and variety has brought such comments as "careful blending of tones, clear diction and superb harmony" from all who have heard them, and also the reputation of being the South's most outstanding Glee Club.

Two years ago the University of Florida Glee Club appeared before a large, enthusiastic Valdosta audience. Since then the group has completely changed its repertoire and mastered new voice techniques. Since appearing in Valdosta the boys from old Florida have given concerts in New York City, Washington, Jacksonville, Tampa, Daytona Beach, Miami, Bradenton, Sarasota, Orlando, West Palm

Librarians Given Souvenir Of Dedication

Miss Lillian Patterson and Miss Laura Reed were presented this week with a framed copy of the scroll given to Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt by the citizens of Valdosta on her recent visit here for the dedication of the library.

The scroll reads as follows:

"To Mrs. Franklin Delano Roosevelt greetings, welcome, and personal admiration from the city of Valdosta, Georgia—and her citizens.

"On the occasion of her visit and address to us in the dedication ceremonies of the library building at the Georgia State Woman's College.

"Signed at Valdosta, Georgia, this twenty-seventh day of March, nineteen hundred and forty-one."

The document was attested by Mr. A. S. Myddleton, Clerk of the Council, and signed by J. D. Ashley, Mayor; W. N. Holcombe, Mayor Pro-Tem; and T. A. Baker, N. N. Langdale, J. E. Mathis, W. M. Oliver, Jr., and W. H. Stanford, all members of the city council. A seal of the City of Valdosta was placed on the scroll.

The copy given to Miss Patterson and Miss Reed was presented to them by Mayor J. D. Ashley and the Valdosta Councilmen. The copy will hang in the library in recognition and remembrance of the dedicatory exercises.

Gwen Johnson and Mary Carol Allen are to be co-chairmen of Publicity. Laura Mae Youngblood will be Room Chairman.

Alice Meadors will serve as chairman of the entertainment division, and Ava Collins and Odelia King as Co-chairmen of the Music committee.

The 'Y' Cabinet is composed of the heads of the various divisions of the organization. The newly appointed officials were nominated by a committee composed of both out-going and incoming officers of the YWCA. The appointments were submitted to the present cabinet for approval.

The elective officials of the 'Y' were chosen in a vote held in February. They include Kathryn Scott, president, June Mosely, vice-president, Mary Jean Rockwell, secretary, and Jean Thompson, treasurer.

All of these officers will go into office following the joint retreat of the Government Association and the YWCA which will be held this year on April 26 and 27 at Twin Lakes. Further plans for the retreat will be announced later.

Keep Up With Affairs

It's surprising how few students are interested in current events, but the comparatively few people who read a daily newspaper give evidence of this. A recent survey of a representative group of G. S. W. C. girls shows that most of them have alibies for not keeping up with the news, while a very few stated that they did. Many students came forth with that hackneyed excuse that they just don't have time, and hence, they never look at a paper. Some were bold enough to say that they would not read a paper if they had one, because they were simply not interested. Of those who read the papers, a few only read the funny papers, and on Sundays may scan the society columns. Several do more than this by adding the Sunday Magazine Section to the limited list. Quite a number stated that they scanned the headlines and occasionally read the body of news stories, but frankly admitted that they would not exert themselves this much if some faculty member hadn't required it in some course they were taking.

This is a deplorable state of affairs, especially on this campus where all students have an equal opportunity to make themselves familiar with daily occurrences. The daily and weekly newspapers from various sections of Georgia as well as other states, are in the library for the use (not disposal) of everyone. Besides these newspapers there's always one to be found in the dormitory. Anyone can read these papers, or perhaps a personal copy would be preferred. For those who have such preference, there is an agent on campus who delivers the papers every morning before breakfast for a very small amount.

Are we students going to remain in utter darkness as to what is going on around us? In these days and times, much is happening that we should all know about, things that it will be easy to learn now, but difficult later. Our future depends on those things which are happening now, both in local, state, national, and international affairs. It shouldn't take force to make one interested in current affairs, but if that's what we need, we suggest that the faculty members "clamp down" and force the students to find out what's happening to them and the world in which they live.

Let's take advantage of our opportunities, polish up our dusty minds, and sharpen them with the knowledge of everyday occurrences. We are too prone to live in the past. Let's learn about the present, so that we can look more intelligently toward the future.

Priorities . . .

By Anna May Pryor

WAR is the most effective way yet devised for nations to use up their resources . . . plus, man supply. What good is it to fight a world war for raw materials, then if the supply is used up in fighting the war.

pigmies, it really does things and goes places. In a sporting way.

Sportsmanship is shooting a fellow in broad open daylight instead of stabbing him in the back or putting poison in his coffee. But if the Dictators choose stabbing, let us put a little poison in their coffee, "turn about is fair play". What ever it takes, the allies must and will win this war!

We can't, no matter how badly we need him, have the man who was "first in war, first in peace, and first in the hearts of his countrymen". Though Roosevelt may not hold this title he is certainly running a close second, and may before all is said and done, come in first. At least, it looks that way.

As the war moves stealthily on toward its outcome, we shudder to think of the consternation that will be created in England when these young war refugees go back home and take with them a choice collection of modern American slang! 'Tis a great country, America, with a great people and a great government . . . isn't it?

Wise And Otherwise

By Frances Kennedy
WISE

This is really good: "Most things we do to forget our troubles bring on more troubles." And ain't it the truth?

OTHERWISE

Your old pen-pusher, after quizzing nearly half of GSWC on the good and evil of supperless Sunday nights, is really worn out. But, we got opinions! And such a variety of same.

HEEL HITLER

Milton Schwebel, guidance counselor of the National Youth Administration has issued the following statement of the all-absorbing subject of Fifth Columnists:

"Fifth columnists are usually painted as foreign agents shipped into the nation to disrupt its defenses. Events abroad, however, have demonstrated that powerful democracy destroyed by internal policies that shut the door of opportunity to their youth.

"While a nation cannot defend its democracy without military and naval strength, the most powerful army and navy may go for naught where young men and women look in vain for jobs, security, and marriage.

"With their pride and high hopes beaten down by unemployment in their despair they fall victims of crime, intolerance and selfishness. There are conditions that breed the undemocratic state. In our considerations of defense we must give more than one thought—and do more than one deed—to uproot the causes of these conditions."

Odds And Ends

Actions speak louder than words, but that doesn't always make them any easier to understand.

Disillusionment is often only the polishing of the rough edges of happiness.

Experience is what you store up during the time you're looking for something else.

Life may be just a bed of roses, but it seems that many are sleeping on the thorns.

Majority Of Students Favor 'Nose-Bag' Suppers On Sunday

By Frances Kennedy

To sup or not to sup! That is the question now enveloping the campus—"Will we have suppers on Sunday nights or will we be content with lunches given to us at dinner?" Of the forty-one people interviewed the majority seemed to agree that the plan should be given a fair trial.

Beginning early Tuesday morning, your eager reporter walked into an Ashley hall room and flung the question to a crowd that faintly resembled the Democratic National Convention, only to be bombarded with a deafening chorus of "No's". BETH THARPE and JANE WILLIAMS were very much against the idea, while MARY FRANCES RUTLAND was definitely for the plan. She said, "I don't want Sunday night suppers. I hate to have to put on hose after I've undressed for the afternoon, and break my neck getting downstairs when lunches in paper bags will serve the purpose just as well!" MAY MATHER, echoed by JEANNE PRYOR said that getting papper-bag lunches given at dinner would be o. k. if some provision could be made for milk. "PUNKIN" NEWBERRY and ANGELINE CUNNINGHAM glared at your cowering writer and said "No."

Fair Trial

MARY BUNDRICK, waylaid on her way to class, said that she was willing to give the plan a fair trial. "It might work," she said. MARY RAINES stated her opinion briefly with "Cut 'em out!" JANE ELLEN SMITH was against the plan. "After all, the girls in the dining room get paid for working, and when they accepted the job it was for Sunday nights as well as any other night".

After being interrupted from some pretty intensive studying, HARRIET FLOURNOY said: "I don't like the idea of cutting out Sunday night suppers. But, if we do, fifty cents should be taken from our board and deposited at Brookwood or the country store for something to drink. The N. Y. A. girls have to work their full time so why not the dining room girls?" BECKY NEAL agreed with her roommate and said that often she went to supper just for a glass of cold milk.

Bag Lunches Cute

Encountered while writing a check in the student bank, "PORKY" ORR said that she thought that paper bag lunches would be cute. LOUISE OGBURN said: "It makes no difference to me, just so we get food!"

NAZI HOLLAND, who ducked behind her companion when we approached her with our pencil raised, said: "We need more supper anyway, so let's don't do away with what we have. It sure will embarrass me to have to take paper bags out of the dining room at lunch, especially when we have guests." LOUISE HILL believes in giving the plan a fair trial. "I think it'll work, too," she whispered behind a Humanities book. THELMA SIRMAN things that after a two weeks trial the student body should be allowed to vote on the idea.

RACHEL CRITTENDEN threw an emphatic "Do away with Sunday night suppers" over her shoulder as she hurried up the stairs. MAXINE COWART said that she was in favor of doing away with them. MARY ANN ISOM said indignantly: "Everybody should be willing to try it out. The girls in the dining room need a rest anyway. It should be voted on at the end of the trial

Community Center Sponsors Egg Hunt In Park

On Saturday, April 12, at 4 o'clock the Community Center, under the leadership of Mrs. Tom Ashley, is sponsoring the annual egg hunt for the children of Valdosta.

Assisting with the preparations for the egg hunt this year is Miss McRee's Recreational Leadership class. The class members are to go to the Community Center to dye the eggs. The children are invited to help in this if they wish.

On Saturday afternoon the children will gather in Brookwood Park while the Recreational class is hiding the eggs on North campus where the hunt is to be held.

The children will be divided into three age groups and prizes will be awarded in each group for the largest number of eggs found.

Swastika Creates Turmoil On Stetson Campus

By Beth Rollison

What would GSWC students do if they saw a crudely made Nazi Swastika fluttering from the dome of the Ad Building? At Stetson University, in DeLand, Florida, the students were thrown into a turmoil upon viewing such a flag under the Stars and Stripes.

Somebody, either a Nazi spy or an April Food prankster, improvised a flag made from a full sized bed sheet with a swastika painted on it. After a crowd of students, townspeople, police, and several Camp Blanding soldiers tried in vain to reach the flag, an unidentified youth proved to be the hero of the day. He aimed well and shot the flag from the pole causing it to fall ridiculously into a nearby tree.

Many of the spectators were highly indignant, while others were amused. How would Nazi students react if the Stars and Stripes were displayed on one of their college campuses?

English Club Sponsors Panel Discussion

"Getting a job and holding it" was the topic of the panel discussion of the April meeting of the English Club on Tuesday night. Open to all who were present, the members and the guests joined in by asking questions about the teaching profession.

Evelyn Brim, Mary Alice Brim, Margaret Dutton, and Veronica Kleeman led the discussions on Applying for a job; Personality Traits of a Good Teacher, Teacher-Community Relationships, and Progressive vs. Conventional Schools.

Among the guests were Mr. E. P. Mallory, professor of Education, who added much to the meeting. After refreshments were served, the discussion continued.

Soph Council Plans Co-Ed Hike

At a meeting of the Sophomore Council Tuesday evening, plans for a co-ed hike for the entire Sophomore class were discussed. The time and place of the hike will be announced later.

Working with the class as a whole the Council is also planning to hold open forums on Boy and Girl Relationships. Because of the many requests from members of the class it was decided that Taps would be held every night except Saturday and Sunday nights in the Upper Rotunda at 10:45.

Mary Jo Ford, chairman of the Council, presided over the meeting.

Love Is Never Out Of Season No Matter How Near Or Far

By Eunice Fairchild

With spring already here, if your fancy hasn't turned to thoughts of love, it's just because they are already "in the groove." Spring might be the best time of year to fall in love, but who doesn't agree with that famous old saying, "Love is never out of season."

To find out if a man has been hard at work is to look at the palm of his hands. . .but the best way to find out if a girl has been at work is to look at the third finger on her left hand. And from the looks of the third, finger, left hand, of the GSWC gals they certainly are getting their share of Cupid's bows.

Wood Carvings Are Displayed In Ad Building

A collection of small wood carvings from the Bavarian village of Oberammergau has been on display in the administration building for the past week and will be here until April 15.

There are about sixty objects in the collection which consists of several groups, the most notable being the Christmas Creche and the copy of the Regensberger Madonna, the original which has been transferred to the Munich National Museum. The carving, "The Last Supper" executed in the most minute detail and encased in a shrine, admirably illustrates the delicacy and feeling the artists has in work of this medium. Although the inhabitants Oberammergau are renowned for their dramatization of the Passion Play and their wood carvings. There latter are usually associated with religious subjects in the minds of the general public. However, the little

HOW'S THE SOFTBALL COMING, GAL? — —

We don't see many of you up and out early these crisp, cool spring mornings. What's the trouble? Is that ol' bed just too cozy to leave or is it laziness on your part? We've got to get some practice in because the first big games comes off next Friday, April 17. At present the Kappas are a few points ahead in the contest for the honor plaque, but those Lambdas may have a snappy comeback in the forth-coming games. There should be, and promises to be, some spirited competition during these softball games.

THERE'S UNDERCOVER WORK AFOOT ON CAMPUS! — —

Not 5th Columnists, not Nazi spies, we assure you! There's not much apparent on the surface as yet, but it's being done all the same. Who's doing it? The Sports Council. What are they doing? They are making preparations. Preparations for what? Preparations for the GAFCW convention.

And, what, pray, is the GAFCW? That is the Georgia Federation of College Women, headed by Ruth Reid, which will hold its annual convention on our campus in May. Well, what's the connection between the Georgia Athletic—what is it—and the undercover work done by the Sports Council? O. K., here's the "dope":

Sports Council members are quietly making plans for the convention, which is to be May 16, 17, 18, and committees are being arranged. A little later, all loyal Sports Club members will be asked to take a part in entertaining and making the delegates feel at home on our campus. Don't forget about this, now! We'll need your help because we want to make these visitors remember our campus in years to come.

NOTE TO COUNCIL MEMBERS: — —

Don't forget the Sports Council meeting next Tuesday. Written reports are to be read by the Chairman of the different committees WALKER APPEARS: — —

Today as our "Horse of the Week." He was raised at Dr. Reade's father's home in Virginia, so the tune, "Carry Me Back to Old Virginia", probably brings a touch of nostalgia to him. Walker is a favorite with the faculty and is Miss Sawyer's pet, particularly. Easy going and steady, Walker takes things in his stride and never gets excited over anything. (Guess he's lived long enough not to be surprised at anything we humans do!) This gentle steed can truly be called the "Ole Faithful" of the stable.

Miss Willard Honored With Dinner At Cabin

Honoring Miss Glenn Willard, Presbyterian Student Secretary of GSCW at Milledgeville who is on campus through Sunday, the Presbyterian students of GSWC and Emory Junior were hosts at a buffet supper in the House-in-the-Woods last night. Presbyterian faculty members, Miss Annie P. Hopper, and Kathryn Scott, president of the YWCA were additional guests at the supper.

Miss Willard will be the principal speaker his afternoon at the Vesper hour of Radio Station WGOV. Sunday morning she will speak to the Young Peoples Department of the First Presbyterian Church, Hazel Brown, president of the Presbyterian Students Association, announced.

Church Night was observed Thursday night, as a part of the regular Vesper Worship Service. Monthly, the pastors of the various Valdosta churches meet students of their denomination for a devotional service.

There's More To Do On Campus Than You Think

By Teeny Hopson

Plainly speaking, you have no idea of the things you can do right here on our campus, at G. S. W. C. that are really, honest-to-goodness hard-down, fun!! I really mean it . . .

For instance, I'll bet a lot of you gals haven't even thought of going down to the "LOG" and listening to the records that are there especially for us Just oodles of the very best classical ones. Of course, I know, that a lot of you don't care for that kind of music but if you'd really go down and LISTEN to them, you'll be amazed at the enjoyment you can get out of it. For instance (again) that William Tell Overture record is a combination that everybody would like.

And the tennis courts are for all kinds of players . . . good, bad and mediocre. If you play tennis like I do, you do the hit-miss-and-mostly-run after-balls-type - but, just the same, its good for you! Most of you will get a grand tan while playing (me, I get freckled) . . . and you can also wear those cute new shorts . . . Rachel Crittendon's got a darling pair of blue ones.

Talking about tans . . . you can secure the best out at that swimming pool. Have you ever thought how inviting the water looks . . . and how pretty the pool is? Even if you can't swim . . . you can go out and adorn the place . . . that's a nice feeling!!

Play golf, good gracious! Just ask Martha Ashley about the golf angle. There's always a good softball game going on, now and Anna May "Punkin'" Pryor thinks bike rides are the stuff. The Park's the place of beauty and a grand place to think and get the so-called cobwebs outa' ya' brain . . . Even on rainy days, there's plenty of indoor games down at the gym.

Another important thing!! Even Mrs. F. D. R. thinks its the thing to do . . . go over and browse around among those good and wonderful books at the Library. You'll find out lots you didn't ever dream of learning . . . just quit being lazy and go on over!

AND . . . Think it Over!!!

"I think its a waste of time and effort to have Sunday night suppers when so few people come," JEAN SLADE told us.

NELL BRANNEN said that the idea was worth trying. "It has its advantages for the dining hall girls." SARA PETTY said: "It's a good idea. And, heck, those girls who haven't will power enough to let their suppers alone until supper time, don't deserve any. Everyone is entitled to some time off." MERRICK MCINTOSH said that if we pay for the food we should get it. MARY KATE HUNTER is in favor of the plan if the food will stay fresh.

In the midst of searching for a knife, GWEN HENDRIX said: "It's getting so pretty that we might as well have paper bag lunches." HAZEL BROWN said that she favored the plan. "Something different anyway," she continued. "We pick up other things from other colleges such as the stagger system, so why not adopt this." BETH ROLLISON said that she lost weight when she missed a meal, and she couldn't save her lunch that long. "I guess I can live without suppers, though", she finished ruefully.

ANN PARHAM said that she thought our stomachs needed a rest, and MAXWELL WILLIAMS is for giving the paper-bag a trial. JANE CALHOUN favors the idea because she won't have to dress after swimming on Sunday afternoons.

Staggering into the kitchen after a long day, we asked the question for the last time to LEROY, chef, who replied with a deep rumble fore and aft. "Suits me fine if 'yall get rid of them."
