THE GEORGIA STATE WOMAN'S COLLEGE, VALDOSTA, GEORGIA SATURDAY, MAY 24, 1941

NUMBER 27.

28th Commencement Week Begins June 2

Stuart Barnwell Delivers Baccalaureate Sermon

First Methodist Church To Be Scene Of Address For The Graduating Class Of The Georgia State Women's College At 11:00 A. M., Sunday, June 1

Right Reverend Stuart Barnwell, Bishop of the Savannah Episcopal church, will deliver the sermon of the twenty-eighth Baccalaureate service on Sunday, June 1, in Valdosta's First Methodist church at 11:00 a. m.

The thirty-one Seniors in their caps and gowns will head the processional into the church followed by the entire student body. The processional will begin at eleven o'clock. Faculty members will not march in the processional but will be seated in a body in the church.

Bishop Barnwell was graduated from the Theological Seminary in Alexandria, Virginia, in 1903 a B. D. degree. Following his graduation he served as rector of the Church of the Advent in Birmingham, Alabama, for several years. Following this he was field secretary for the National Council of the Episcopal church and then he was Bishop of the Missionary District of Idaho in 1925 for ten years. Prior to his appointment as Bishop of the diocese of Georgia he was Bishop Codjuton.

Special music will be furnished by the Glee Club under the direction of Miss Marie Motter. Included in the numbers are "Peace I Live With You," with an arrangement by Mr. Herbert Kraft, "Praise Ye The Father," "Lo, My Shepherds' Hand Is Diving," and "Kipling's Recessional." For their last performance of the year the Glee Club will appear in Vestments.

Miss Ann Parham

Parham Will Give Recital, May 26th

Outstanding among the programs to be presented during the commencement season is the graduation recital of Ann Parham, a minor in the Department of Speech. The recital will be given Monday evening, May 26, at 8:30

Graduates Express Sentiments Of Delight, Sorrow and Fright

By ANNA MAY PRYOR

Laments of delight, sorrow, and fright were expressed by the "grads" when asked to express their feelings on graduation, leaving school for good, and getting jobs. "S'funny how much sentiment is wrapped up in graduation! After all, it is one of the major turning points in one's life—the parting from the old order of being dependent into the new one of independence.

In response to being questioned, Bits thoughtfully replied, "You know, I'm glad and sorry. Can you be both? I am. I hate to leave all the girls but I am glad to get out of school—that is, if I can get a job."

Emily finds the situation a bit perilous and she adds, "I tremble to think of of the outcome, but I remain an optimist even if I'm not certain of graduating. I'll always be homesick for G. S. W. C., but it'll be wonderful to graduate." She hastily added, "If I do."

"I would like to go through the same thing all over again," Caroline Williams said longingly, "I'd like to graduate and work, but am not—right away anyhow." It is a Seniors privilege to give advice, and it is the Freshmen, Sophomores, and Juniors who should listen—and heed. "My advice," Caroline submitted, "Is to study before it is too late, but don't forget to have a good time." What I want most for graduation is a JOB.

A case of Senior creeps was witnessed in Ann Parham's room. "Well, I've got the Senior jitters," she 'lowed, "I'm scared to death. I've never experienced anything like it. This ole world just isn't the most inviting thing I've ever seen."

Linda grinned and answered, "I've never hated to see anything end so badly in my life, because I know that I've spent the best part of my life—my college days."

"It's been wonderful—I can't wait for the sixth of June!" Marie Smith was brimming full of ye old vigor and anxiety as she made the above remark.

The president of the class, Margaret Burns began in that easy manner of characteristic of her, "To tell the truth, I'm really sorry

Tradition Upheld By Senior Class

Following an old tradition of the college, the Senior class will present as the annual commencement play, "Xingu" by Edith Wor-ton, on Thursday night, June 5, at 8:30, immediately after the Alumnae Banquet in the Dining room.

Mary Alice Brim Sasser, will play the leading role as an English novelist in the comedy based on the trials and tribulations of a group of clubwomen.

The supporting cast includes Maxine Cowart, Jeannette Johnson, Lois Christian, Inez Taylor, Evelyn Woodward, Virginia Tomlinson and Louise McFie.

Dean Hollis Eden Gives Commencement Address

Thirty-Four Seniors To Receive Degrees At The Twenty-Eighth Commencement Exercises Of GSWC Which Will Be At 10:00 A. M., June 6th

Dean Hollis A. Eden

Hollis A. Eden, Dean of Emory Junior College, will be the commencement speaker for the 28th annual commencement of G. S. W. C., when thirty-four Seniors will receive their degrees promptly at ten o'clock on June 6, the graduates will march into the auditorium where, following Dean Edens' address, they will be Hooded by their Hood-sisters and presented with degrees by Dr. Frank R. Reade.

A graduate of Emory University, Dean Eden received his Masters' degree in History in 1928. Following his graduation, Dean Eden was president of the Cumberland Mountain School at Crossville, Tennessee, for several years. Since that time he has served as Dean of Emory Junior College in Valdosta.

The Seniors are carrying eight different A. B. degrees.

Those majoring in English include Evelyn Brim, Mary Alice Brim, Maxine Cowart, Margaret Dutton, Emily Garner, Gwendolyn Winter, Jeannette Johnson, Veronica Kleeman, Susie McKey and Mattie Ruth Parrish.

The six Sociology majors include Lilla Mae Spooner, Linda Summer, Inez Taylor, Virginia Tomlinson, Rowena Burford, and Betty Dasher.

G'Bye

"The time has come," the walrus said. And so on. Not to talk of many things—but the time has come for you old organ, The Campus Canopy to go into seclusion until around September 21 when the Special Freshman edition will be delivered to brand-new residents of Converse Hall.

This year's Canopy, ably edited by Linda Summer until May 1, has known several changes—changes in the general make-up, a new nameplate, and changes in the print. But the Canopy's "Open Door" Editorial Policy has been maintained. We expect to continue along these lines next year.

So until then, when the Freshmen will be wise Sophomores, and the Sophomores will be jolly Juniors; when the Juniors will be smooth Seniors and the Seniors will be superior alumni, the Canopy bids you all a reluctant farewell.

A Perfect Year ...?

We're coming to the end of another school year. A perfect year? No, it hasn't been perfect. Why? Well, the only reason we can give is that nothing can be perfect. There is always a blot somewhere, but as far as this year is concerned, that blot is so small that it can only be seen with microscopic critical eyes. We have had chances to experience so many desirable things not only here at school but in the world about us—things that we will be better for having experienced.

We've seen high school graduates adjust themselves to a college environment; we've seen a student body revolt against a system of school attendance, then realizing it was a little hasty in its criticisms, adapt itself to the system. We've seen and heard some of the leading artists of the day—Fitzsimmons and Winslow, Petri, Cornelia Otis Skinner, James Melton and others. We've seen our own college artists perform. We stood one day and heard our library dedicated by Mrs. Roosevelt, most of us being so eager to watch every move of the dedicator that we failed at the moment to realize the significance of a library dedication.

Having read Jan Valtin's Out of the Night, we know the depths of Communism, having read Vereen Bell's Swamp Water we know what life in the Okefenokee Swamp means. Through the movie Tobacco Road we were shown an exaggerated view of conditions of our state's rural inhabitants; through the newspaper we've seen youth murder father and the punishment dealt him only served to emphasize the need of juvenile courts in every county. We've lived in a world the like of which no one has ever lived in before—we've lived peacefully in it—no one promising us for how long. We've read of man fighting man and have been told they were fighting for "love of country." Sometimes we wonder if that is the only reason.

If perfection of a year is judged by a maximum number of desirable activities experienced by an individual, then we say to you "Yes, this year has been perfect—every day of every one of the nine months."

Excitement reigned when invitations for the Emory Jr. formal arrived in Monday morning's mail. And a lot of our girls got them—including: Jeannette Smith... who couldn't figure out who James Clark was; Marjorie Murray... she and Mont Breedlove have been hitting things off pretty well lately; Mary Kate Hunter... with Earl from Tifton of course; Nazi Holland... with a blind date we hear... hope your luck is better than ours; Mary Frances Rutland and Charles Yarborough; Jane Ellen Smith... with Fred Neal; Jacqueline Smith... and need we say its Jake; and Martha Haire... who almost didn't make it.

Leave it to Tut... finding Roxie Dix picture in Zack's pocket. And he has a big one coming as soon as it can be recovered from its present resting place.

Off and on through the year Norwood and Melba have been on it and off it... but where are they now?

How 'bout: that letter Jean Saunders got from Jim the other day... it was really in there! And that white uniform Kennedy had hold of last Sunday night. Jewel Hurst turning down an invitation to the Emory Jr. dance.

Affairs that have lasted through the whole year: David and Beth... and their summer plans fit right together, too. Nathan and Anna May. Betty Franklin and Foozy. Evelyrr O'Neal and Ralph.

And Bits and Jimmie... only Jimmie has to go to the army the day before graduation. And Tony and Leecy Anne are planning to make more than a year of it, you know.

Sara Petty is all excited over Eck's coming in a couple of weeks... she hasn't seen him since last summer and to quote her "unusual name—unusual boy".

Isn't the draft awful? If you don't believe it just ask Mary Anne Barker and James Rackley.

Jane Ellen and Teeny stepped out with Ott and Woot.

Two letters and a telephone call from Fort Benning can be consolation for a visit that fell through so Jane Spivey feels.

Glad to see Betty Logan back on campus again.

Charles Hargrove was down in his new convertible to see Sis Williams last week end.

Who is that good-looking picture that Nell McLendon shows to every one?

Runelle Prance and George Cooper... Margaret Burns and George Jennings took a trip to St. Augustine last Sunday... and weren't they a little late getting back?

The crew around 363 gets intellectual with a quiz... and Porky and Parham draw straws for high score... while Richardson performs for a Senior Hall audience. Richardson is a very talented impersonator. If you haven't seen her, you just must!!!

Heard and seen around in Senior Hall: Inez, alias Amapola, Taylor exhibiting new shoes... Ann, alias Petunia, Parham, busily preparing for her recital, which we understand is to be THE EVENT of the season... Woodward dating Willard Belote... Rachel Williams weeping over spilt milk... Martha Wilkes taking a sudden fancy to all-day suckers from the country store... we understand that Sis can't keep stocked up on them because of her... Numerous threats as to what the residents of Senior Hall are going to do if they can't have their telephone calls without a perpetual audience.

Parade Of Opinion

PRINCETON LOOKS AT THE WAB

(Excerpts from a series of editorial articles in the Daily Princetonian, undergraduate publication at Princeton university).

"We suggest that the ideal which America should strive for is an orderly international society living in accordance with the democratic way of life. We believe it is America's obligation to pursue that end and its destiny to help in effecting realization of that ideal. This way of life, embracing social and cultural as well as political democracy, is of such scope and vision that it can never be fully realized unless all the peoples of the world unite to pursue it co-operatively. The problem facing America as a nation, then, is a dual one: to pave the way for future international union and also to keep alive and to extend the democratic way of life."

Let's look at the blackest side of the picture first—suppose Britain falls. For two principal reasons, we believe that America's non-belligerency is more important to America and to the world than England's victory. (1) The chance of a clean-cut, unconditional surrender of the British people is so slight that it should not be the bogey of American policy. (2) The Nazi regime is built on a quicksand. Even a German victory over Britain would not clear the way for Nazi world domination.

"Obviously, a British victory would make the problem of establishing the basis for a just and lasting peace easier—though the victory would not mean the solution to the problem. We have stated our belief that America as a victorious belligerent, with the bitterness of war in its heart and the taste of triumph sweet on its lips, would be psychologically unable to offer any solution more rational than another Versailles, or worse. But America as a non-belligerent would be in a position to temper the blind fury of British demands, to prevent a maladjusted order which would produce another Hitler-Frankenstein, and to set up one which would give the world at least a hope of lasting peace.

"The third possible outcome of the war is stalemate. In such an eventuality the role of the United States should be to provide without bitterness the structure of an international world order based on democratic principles."

Priorities ...

By Anna May Pryor

Were it humanly possible to get a Senior, a Junior, a Sophomore, and a Freshman together—the conversation would probably result as follows: (ahem)

Freshman: "I'd give anything to be a Senior and be through with school forever and ever and ever, (a look of admiration on her young face.) This year has seemed centuries long. I'm so glad school's out. Oh, I can hardly wait to see the folks and all."

Sophomore: "Gee Kiddie, that's exactly what I said last year. Humph, you just don't know how good it is to get back and see everybody after summer's over. Yeah, I'm glad to go home—but I'll guarantee you we'll all be glad to get back next year."

after a year or two you sorta feel a part of the place—I do. Just think though kids—next year I'll be a Senior, WOW!!!

Senior: "Seems only yesterday I was saying goodbye (sobbingly) to the folks and off to be a Freshman in college. I looked forward to being a Senior, but now I wish I were that measley Freshman again. It's been great."

And so your Priorities editor leaves you Freshmen, Sophomores, Juniors and Seniors, with hopes of seein' ya' next year!!! Betcha - - -!

Best joker de weeka

Sophomore:—Did you take a shower?
Freshman:—No, is there one missing?

DAY BY DAY BY MAY

Howdo Again—

Won't be long before we'll be homeward bound, but 'til then 'comes the deluge'— of term papers, reviews, and exams!!

Resolved this summer (to try) to keep:

- 1) This hair un-unruly.
- 2) Those white shoes un-untidy.
- 3) This nose un-peely.

If you're looking for a laugh: "Memoirs of a mule"— Chapter in Levant's book, "A Smattering of Ignorance." The mule is Harpo Marx.

Material for the summer: white pique.

Do you know that... Two years ago Ann Parham and Margaret Burns lived in Room 273 in Ashley. Ann was elected Vice-President of S. G. A. and Margaret was elected President of the Junior Class. Residents of 273 this year are Sara Catherine Martin and Thelma Sirmans— next year's Vice-President of S. G. A. and President of the Junior Class, respectively!

Suggested name for that certain worn utensil at the House in the woods: Campus Canopy-ner!

Movie we don't want to miss: "Citizen Kane." Orson Wells wrote, directed, and stars in it!

Loosing You

By ANNA MAY PRYOR

I wish a lot of things, 'tis true,
With all my heart and soul.
Like making all my dreams come true
And broken dishes whole.

I also wish that loosing you
Caused sleepless nights and fits
And that loosing you, my love
Had broke my heart to bits.

All of it for your sake
None of it for mine
For second love beats first, my dear
Just any old time!

NELL BRANNEN

Elected to lead next year's Sophomore Class is chic, versatile Nell Brannen of Millen . . . was president of her Senior Class there and editor of the school paper . . . and Millen High's first honor graduate has continued to make good grades at G. S. W. C.

Riding, swimming, tennis . . . in fact all sports . . . are including in her interests . . . is considering a major in physical education, a member of Phi Kappa Sports Club, she rode in the May Day exhibition.

The swimming pool is her favorite spot on campus at the moment . . . spends all her spare time writing letters . . . collects signs to further beautify those Converse walls . . . favorite food is strawberry short cake.

The center of attraction in Nell's room these days is the life-size head of a soldier made of clay with hair that really grows . . . Buddy's hair is grass, you see . . . Nell loves to keep scrapbooks and photograph albums . . . likes movies, dancing, reading.

She will be perfectly happy if she can get into a hospital . . . not as a patient, of course . . . would like to be a lab technician, so she's majoring in chemistry, minoring in biology.

She hates uncertainty in people and waiting for people who are never ready on time . . . is the sort of person people give bracelets too . . . so she has drawers full of them . . . Nell always wears an ankle bracelet.

She plays the piano . . . sings with the Vesper Choir . . . has been planning to transfer at the end of her Sophomore year, but is so fond of the girls and the atmosphere in general at G. S. W. C. that she may change her mind . . . We hope so!

MATTIE RUTH PARRISH

Genial Pat Parrish is among the thirty-five happy candidates for the A. B. degree in the Class of '41 . . . She is working on an English major, but her choice of vocation is marriage . . . She is minoring in sociology, and perhaps she found some help there that will be valuable to her when her dreams come true.

An individualist to the core, her favorite food is not the usual steak, potatoes, and strawberry short cake, but dill pickles . . . Her pet hate—snakes (all varieties).

During her four years at G. S. W. C., she has participated in the Valdosta Club, S. G. A., Sociology Club, and Phi Kappa Sports Club . . . Pat's choice in the realm of sports is swimming, and she dearly loves to dance."

Pat has lived in Valdosta all her life, and she evidently thinks it's a pretty swell place to stay . . . At any rate, her fiance is a Valdosta boy . . . the wedding to take place during the summer.

One of the grandest places in the world, according to Pat, is Twin Lakes . . . and why shouldn't it be if you love swimming and dancing and fun in general as much as she does?

'Lest you get the idea that Pat believes in all fun and no work, perhaps we'd better hasten to state she is plenty smart . . . and her friends say she has more real, honest-to-goodness common sense than anyone they know.

Her sparkling wit is probably the most characteristic thing about her . . . Sincerity, friendliness, and cool-headedness are the adjectives that come to one's mind in thinking of this senior . . . Good luck, Pat, in the career you are about to undertake!

Plan For Freshman Representation In SGA Court

A proposal from the Student Government association was made, approved and placed on the bulletin board, Wednesday, May 21, by Maxwell Williams, president of the association.

The proposal read as follows:

"It has been proposed by the President of the Student Government Association and approved by the court of Trial that a member of the Freshman class be elected as a representative from that class to sit on the Court of Trials.

At present, the Freshman class which is the largest on campus is represented by only one member of the Court. With two representatives from this class on court, more students would be given fairer representation at Court. The leadership and ability of two rather than one from the Freshman class would be definitely put to work on campus. This should eliminate, in part, the fact that too few girls are put up for offices in their Sophomore, Junior and Senior years because the ability of one or more girl would have been discovered and used her first year in college.

The Freshman representative will be elected at the same time that the Freshman class President is elected."

This plan will go into effect in 1941-42.

Dean of Women Message

By ANNIE P. HOPPER

MISS ANNIE P. HOPPER

Pearl Buck has a recent book in which she pays her respects to the American Woman. In this book she charges that American women are immature and adolescent, emotionally unstable, and that they are busy with trivial and inconsequential things rather than the things of an adult world.

Some critics think that Pearl Buck is rather unfair to the women of this country. On the other hand, it might be that having lived in China as she did for so many years, and thus having acquired the Chinese background she may be able to see American civilization and the part played by American women, more objectively and more truly than we who are too close to it to have the right perspective.

Right or wrong, I think there is something worth consideration in what she says. Today, more than ever before it is necessary for women to think straight and to reach conclusions without emotional or personal bias. The world has passed through some critical periods of history but none more so than the present. It may prove to be a crucial moment from which we rise to something higher than we have ever known, or it may be that civilization will go down to complete destruction and the man must begin again his slow and painful progress upwards.

As college students you have an excellent opportunity for practicing clear thinking studying values, and arriving at conclusions free from hysteria and personal bias. In your own living and particularly in group living many questions and problems arise which must be solved. It is not easy to decide against one's personal interests or to put aside one's personal preferences or desires. Yet all constructive living involves just that. To lose one's self in group life is a wonderful experience. "He that loseth his life shall find it." To be able to look at a situation objectively and free from emotion is an evidence of adulthood. Too many college women go out into the world still adolescent in their attitude and selfish in their point of view. Their actions are determined by their emotions and not by their judgment.

It is possible to cultivate an inner life of emotional stability that acts as a gyroscope to keep the ship of one's being steady and true to its course without losing one's way, without being driven by every wind and current, one way move steadily on in spite of complexities and confusion. There will always be a guiding star in the integrity of one's own life purposes. The way may seem uncertain and insecure, but shall that not be a challenge to your youth and courage? There is nothing to be afraid of except fear itself. We of the older generation still see you in shining armor going forth in search of the Holy Grail. I have faith to believe that the search will not be in vain.

On One Of Gullivers Travels He Meets, Not Jack, Rob't. Frost

By JANE ELLEN SMITH
next train.

A grey-haired, roughly dressed man, with a knapsack slung over his shoulder, climber aboard a train which was pulling out of a tiny junction in Vermont.

In the back of this train sat our Dr. Gulliver on his way to Yale, where he was teaching at that time—the late 1920's. He watched the stranger, who had a boxy mountain-climbing shoe on one foot and a toeless bedroom slipper on the other, come up the aisle and take a place among a group of travellers.

Laughter Fills Car

Soon laughter and joking filled the car as the man talked animatedly with the men and women.

Curiosity filled our benign professor, so he walked up the aisle of the swaying coach and took an empty seat by the unusual character.

"Hello, and who are you?" Dr. Gulliver inquired.

With a magnetic smile, the man answered,

"Why, my name's Robert Frost—what's yours?"

Well, gee! Can you imagine how Dr. Gulliver felt? Just think—talking to one of the most famous contemporary poets!

Gulliver Gulps Name

After Dr. Gulliver gulped his name, they began talking. Mr. Frost said that he had been mountain climbing for the last week or so, gathering material for a new book of verse. Our prof grinned happily and the conversation progressed.

In about an hour, the train whistle blew for the stop at St. Johnsbury, a small town in Vermont where our English teacher had a four-hour wait for the

"I plan to stay over in St. Johnsbury for a few days" said Frost. "until my toe gets well;" he held up the slippered foot that he had hurt on a mountain trail, "for my wife would worry and fuss at me about it! I surely would like to take you out for a steak dinner—but I don't have any money!"

What a surprise! Wouldn't you have thought—well,—Dr. Gulliver hastily replied that he would be only too glad to lend him five dollars — and Robert Frost agreed.

They discussed all of their common interests over the steak that night, and later in Frost's hotel room. The train for Connecticut puffed in around 2:30 in the morning, and so Gulliver said goodbye to Frost and the delightful evening.

That was August. September passed, October passed, November, and finally, December came and Dr. Gulliver was still minus five dollars.

Poet Pays Debt

Then, one day a package arrived. Inside was a copy of Frost's Mountain Interval, a book of poems which had just been published. On the fly-leaf Frost had written, "To Dr. Harold S. Gulliver, my friend and fellow-traveler." Last, but not least, was an envelope containing a check for five dollars! As badly as he wanted to keep the check for Frost's signature, Dr. Gulliver was compelled to cash it because, as he chuckles and says, "I needed the money!"

In return, our professor sent the famous poet a copy of his book on the works of Thackeray. When asked why he did not send some of his poems, Dr. Gulliver replied that one poet will never like ano-

Sports Club Prexy Deserves A Place In Sports History

By HARRIET FLOURNOY

Several years ago Old Timer, noted Atlanta Journal Sports writer wrote a feature on Jack Phillips, Tech fullback and captain. Your writer is no Old Timer and her subject is not a fullback, but the situation is similar.

There is something sad about the end of a season. Always some of the most brilliant stars must leave their orbit and fade into oblivion. Some sport stars fade almost before their day is over, but for G. S. W. C. it will be a long time before the fame of Ruth Reid has faded. Anybody can say what they want to about the big blond, but she deserves her place in the sports history.

Very few colleges and universities can boast four letter men, but Reid has made and played in games for every sport offered on Campus for the last four years. Her tennis record is unique in that she has been singles champion for four years, and in archers, Ruth has led the flock in points scored in the last three tournaments, not to mention the golf tournaments she has won on campus. These do not even take in her achievements in Volley ball, swimming, basketball and riding.

Can anybody have four years of such outstanding brilliance and not be given a great deal of credit for it all?

Our hat is off to Ruth Reid! Twice president of Sports Club, President of Georgia Athletic Federation of College Women, Honor society member and general all around girl.

ther's poetry, so he felt as if prose would be the best bet!

This is only one of happy, lovable Gulliver's experiences—get him to tell you sometime!

Faculty Will Have Vacation With Holidays Drawing Near

By EUNICE FAIRCHILD

Maybe it hasn't occurred to you, but the faculty actually has a vacation in store for them too. They are probably as anxious for school to close as we are, even if they haven't been haunted with those horrible dreams about final exams as we have. (What did I hear Dr. Durrenberger muttering about nightmares-)

Being awfully weary of teaching for nine months, several of the teachers have decided to do something different and teach summer school. Their list include Mrs. Odum, Miss Carpenter, Miss Lawson, Dr. Nevins, Dr. Gulliver, Mr. Kraft, Miss Carter, and it's rumored Dr. Durrenberger will be hanging around, until August 23 when he will attend a conference on Education of Racial Relations at Blue Ridge, N. C.

Dr. Brink likes girl schools so much that she plans to teach at the Florida State College for Women in Tallahassee. The later part of the summer she will spend on a camping trip through the New England States with headquarters in Vermont.

While we are taking it easy, "a couple of dozen" of the faculty will be going through just what we've been going through for the past year — only in a double dose. This time somebody else will be dishing it out to them and they'll like it just like we do. Dr. Phelan will attend the University of Chicago. Miss Carter has won a scholarship to the Mountain Lake Biological Station at Mountain Lake, Virginia. Miss Richter, will go to L. S. U. at New Orleans and Miss Sawyer will be at Columbia for Intersession on June 10 and then remain for the summer session there. Miss Motter will study at Carnegie School of Technology with a recuperation period in New York and Los Angeles. Miss Calaway goes to Michigan State College and Lottie Reed will go to the Georgia Evening College in Atlanta. Dr. Farbar leaves for Chicago at the very closing of school to study research and Miss McRee is planning to combine business with pleasure at the University of California.

The only dope we could get from Dr. Hawkes was as follows in her very words: "Just say, I'm not going to be at summer school and I'm not going to be in Valdosta". Then she revealed that she'd be searching for cool spots in ye mountains. Dr. Mallory will be "relaxing" on the shady side of some North Georgia mountain.

Miss Teasley plans to remain a fixed article on the GSWC campus for the most of the summer. In August she says she'll break in her new car "Columbus, Jr." on a trip through New York and New Hampshire. She tells your reporter that she's warning all her friends from Georgia to New Hampshire that she'll stop over for a visit, taking in at least one meal!

Miss Carpenter has vague ideas of going vagabond after summer school and finding "paintable" scenes for her canvas. Miss Bush plans a "stop-and-go" trip to Canada. Dr. Treanor will be at home with "the folks" in Athens. Miss Hopper will be visiting relatives in Alabama and Mississippi, and before returning in September, she

Dr. Reade will be at his camp at Glenrodhie, Va., and at Abingdon, Va., for most of the summer months.

MEET FREDDA

Fredda Gibson was singing with a small band at a college prom when Richard Humber summoned her to New York to join his orchestra. Thus she became an important singer overnight at the age of eighteen. Later Fredda was featured with Bobby Hackett's orchestra and heard on "Your Hit Parade". Now she sings with Jack Leonard and Lyn Murray's orchestra on the new radio program, "Meet the Music," heard Sundays on Columbia network.

An Editorial

By LINDER SUMMER

Ordinarily when school closes in June the students leave their classes with light hearts in anticipation of an enjoyable or profitable vacation. Very often during this period, little thought is given to the more serious matters of world events.

This summer, however, it appears that those who are leaving for a rest period as well as those who are leaving for good, are going in a more serious frame of mind. That is to be expected, with events in Europe and at home being as grave as they are.

In our studies this year, many of us have been exposed to studying current events. Why not keep it up during the vacation? After all, what is happening today in world affairs is of vital importance to all of us. We can read the newspapers, and listen to radio, and thus keep informed as to what is happening to us, for most of these occurrences have either a direct or indirect influence on our lives.

Therefore, it is up to us to keep intelligently informed in world affairs and current events.

THE SPORTS COUNCIL IS IN FOR

A treat next Friday night when they conclude the year's activities with a picnic supper at Twin Lakes. Tradition says that at the end of every school year the faculty advisers of the Sports Club must give the Council a picnic and this year is no exception to the custom according to the Misses Ivey, McRee, Carter, and Lowry.

All the girls who have been on Sports Council during the year will participate. Leaving at five o'clock from the front of Ashley, the group will motor over the Dusenbury's cottage at the Lakes to swim, play table tennis, and best of all, to eat supper. After supper the installation of officers will be held and the new group will take over the reins of leadership.

"THANKS TO EVERY ONE"

says Ruth Reid, "who in any way, manner, or from helped to make the G. A. F. C. W. convention the success that it undoubtedly was. We certainly appreciate the aid and cooperation which the student body gave us and we thank them every on ever so much for contributing to the success of the meeting."

YOU'RE TAKING PART

In the golf tournament, we hope. If you haven't seen last week's Canopy or stumbled over the big sign in the Ad Building, or heard anyone else talking about it, we'd advise you to get the details, grab a few sticks and balls, and try to beat your best score. At any rate, put your good scores in the box at the Sports Club bulletin boards in Converse and get into the tournament. It closes Monday but you can get in a few holes of golf during the week-end.

DON'T FORGET THE SWIMMING MEET

Tuesday night and the last softball game of the season on Thursday afternoon. These events will conclude the years Sports Activities so be on the look out to find out who won the honor plaque.

HONORS, HONORS, HONORS!

Every one's talking about the Sports Club honors to be awarded in the near future! The campus is buzzing with queries, "Have you signed up all your practices this quarter" and "How many teams did you make this year?" as the final records are being chalked up. As the Sports Club members doubtless know, there is a progressive system of honors which they may win if they are ambitious enough to fulfill a few minor requirements such as being a member of the Sports Club (of course), having as many as 50 sports practices a year, and making at least 2 teams during the year. The first honor is a letter (K or L according to the association to which the girl belongs), the next year a star may be added to the letter; the third honor is a silver friendship bracelet; the fourth and greatest honor is a silver replica of the honor plaque and the girls name engraved on the big plaque. This year there are three seniors receiving this supreme honor and curiously enough, all of them are town girls. The lucky girls are Ruth Reid, Katherine Munday, and Yolande Coppage and the honors are to be presented in chapel Wednesday morning to all those who are entitled to them.
