TWO SCHOLARSHIPS.
The gift of two scholarships were announced by President Powell. One scholarship, the gift of the local chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution, was awarded to Miss Patterson. The other scholarship, by the Valdosta Chapter of the United Daughters of the Confederacy, was tendered to Miss Audrey Cone.

"Supremacy of Law" was the theme of Mr. Branch in his able address. He spoke of the supremacy of the law of health and the social law. He urged the members of the graduating class to let their teaching be shot through and through with the supremacy of the law.
He spoke of the necessity of the observance of the supremacy of the law in this country in view of the fact that our forefathers had rebelled against the divine right of kings.
Chancellor Barrow called attention to the fact that the college here was the baby of all state institutions and that it was the biggest baby that he had ever seen. He congratulated the state on having such a rapidly developing child.

INDIVIDUAL DESTINY.
The chancellor spoke on "Individual Destiny." He reviewed how the college had done everything it could for the graduates. With them alone is the success or the failure of the future. He illustrated how the graduates are from now on the architects of their own intellectual and moral building.

He called especial attention to the students choosing high ideals and following them throughout life. He quoted the motto of Cecil Rhodes:
"The best thing in life is to be in conscious pursuit of an high ideal."
He urged upon the students that they

Montreal, May 29.—The death list of the Empress of Ireland, rammed and sunk by the collier Storstad, is now fixed at 1,052.
After revising the list of all passengers this afternoon, the Canadian-Pacific officials stated there were 1,267 aboard the Empress of Ireland.
With only 337 known to have been rescued, of which 22 died later, the list of victims is fixed at 1,052.
The liner was valued at $2,000,000 and the cargo at $250,000. It was at first thought that 800 persons had been rescued, but this was incorrect.
It is also reported that the accident occurred when the boat was 300 miles seaward. A wireless this afternoon says that the Lady Evelyn picked up 17 bodies where the Empress went down.

Father Point, Quebec, May 29.—From 850 to 1,000 persons are believed to have gone to death this morning at two-thirty o'clock, when the big Canadian-Pacific liner, Empress of Ireland, was sunk in collision with the collier Storstad in the St. Lawrence river.
The officials of the steamship line at noon admitted that at least 850 were drowned, and advices from other sources say that the death list will reach 1,000 souls.

CRASHED IN HEAVY FOG.
The crash came in a heavy fog that had overhung the St. Lawrence river since midnight. The ill-fated liner left Montreal yesterday afternoon at 4.30 o'clock, bound for Liverpool. The big ship carried ninety salon passengers; 250 passengers in the second cabin, 650 in the steerage, and a crew of 432 men.
Among those listed on the vessel were many Salvation Army officers, for the world's convention at London. A number of them were from Minnesota, Indiana, Colorado, Wisconsin, Illinois, and California. The others were from Canada.
The disaster occurred twenty miles off Father Point. The Empress sank in ten minutes after she was rammed. The sea for miles around became alive with the wireless calls for help. Most of the life boats are said to have been disabled, when the collision came. The collier Storstad was uninjured, and stood by in assisting to save the passengers.

VESSEL SANK QUICKLY.
The steamships Lady Evelyn and Lady Eureka, which were nearby, heard the calls and hurried to the boat's assistance. The vessel sank before the other ships could reach her, and the 350 that were saved were picked up by the life boats of the steamships Lady Evelyn and Lady Eureka and the collier Storstad.
Among those who were picked up from the sea were Captain Kendall, both wireless operators, the assistant purser, the chief engineer and the chief steward. The chief officer and the pursers are unaccounted for.
The boats with those rescued hurried to Father Point, and after landing the saved passengers, hurried back to the scene of the disaster, but were unable to pick up any other passengers.
Advices from Rimouski state that of the 337 survivors, twenty-two have died from exposure since they were landed. Only twelve women were saved.

Mr. J. G. Stevens left today for Tampa, Fla., after spending a few days in Valdosta. Mr. Stevens and little daughter, Harriet Elizabeth, who came with Mr. Stevens, will remain in Valdosta for a longer visit.

Miss Elizabeth Morgan, of Valdosta, a former beloved teacher in our school, was a commencement visitor to our city and was a guest of Miss Mary Parrish. Miss Morgan taught the past term at New Smyrna, Fla. She has a host of friends here, who were delighted to see her again.—Adel News.

Mr. J. T. Blalock has returned from Macon, where he attended the meeting of the grand lodge of Odd Fellows. Mr. Blalock was one of the most distinguished visitors at the convention, being past grand master and also past grand representative to the sovereign grand lodge.

Mrs. J. T. Mathis, who has been ill for some time and who was successfully operated on at the city hospital two weeks ago, has recovered so rapidly that she was removed from the hospital to her home yesterday afternoon. Her condition is entirely satisfactory, much to the delight of her many friends.

BIRTHDAY PARTY.

Caroline Rose entertained a number of her little friends last evening at 7.30 at a party in honor of her twelfth birthday.

A color scheme of pink was carried out in the refreshments and decorations.

A beautiful pink birthday cake with twelve lighted pink candles, was the center of attraction and was arranged on a table on the porch in a bed of daisies. On cutting the cake, Frank Rose drew the dime.

In a special game, Ruth Thomas won the prize for the girls, a satchel, and B. H. Jones won the boys' prize, a pearl handled knife.

Assisting Mrs. Rose in entertaining were Mrs. Frank McIver and Mrs. John Chisholm.

Those present were Frances Fender, Annie Grace Davis, Clyde Holtzendorff, Emma Briggs, Eulalie Briggs, Dorothy Dasher, Dorothy Johnson, Claire Bray, Mattie Campbell, Eleanor Smith, Annie, Claire Willis, Pearl Smith, Kathleen Smith, Edith Mathis, Virginia Peoples, Ruth Thomas, B. the world, peace and good will shall reign forever and under the benign and beneficent influence of good government the ethereal state of man will come, when there is no more work. The way this government is drifting this would be the result if only the money would hold out."

The reference to Ben Hill was a quotation from a speech in the Senate on the obligation of contracts and of covenants. Administration leaders announced today that beginning Monday they would make an effort to keep the tolls exemption repeal bill continuously before the Senate until a vote is reached upon the bill and all the proposed amendments and substitutes.

According to the plan of Senator Simmons, who is leading the fight for repeal, all attempts to lay the bill aside for other measures will be opposed. If opponents of repeal move that it be sidetracked temporarily for appropriation or other bills a vote will be forced on that motion. It is believed that the Senate soon will tire of speeches on tolls exemption when this plan is put in operation and many senators are hopeful that the vote will not be long delayed.

COURT IS ADJOURNED; EXTRA SESSION LIKELY

The May term of the Superior Court adjourned Thursday afternoon. The session was an extremely busy one and it was impossible to complete more than half of the criminal docket.

The last case heard was that of Narcissus Clarke, a negro woman charged with murder. She was acquitted on the charge. This is the second trial for the woman. The first time it resulted in a mistrial.

It is probable that a special session of the Superior Court will be called for some time in June, as it is necessary that the docket be cleared as much as possible. Some of the cases on the Superior docket will be turned over to the city court, which meets next Monday.

See our Exhibit—ask 10 days' trial

Here is a new price on a competent Adder. On a machine that is rapid, full-size and infallible.

The very latest machine, built by men who know, in one of the largest metal working shops.

It is an individual Adder, to be placed on one's desk, close to one's books and papers. To take the place of the central machine requiring skilled operators.

It is also intended for offices and stores where costly machines are a luxury.

The price is due to utter simplicity, and to our enormous output. Seven keys do all the work.

Each copied number is shown up for checking before the addition is made.

The machine will add, subtract and multiply. With very slight practice anyone can compute a hundred figures a minute. And the machine never makes mistakes.

Countless offices, large and small are getting from these machines the highest class of service.

Now we make this offer so that offices everywhere may learn what this machine means to them.

GEORGIA POLITICS ARE MARKING TIME WHILE BROWN WAITS

State is Looking for Announcement on June 1—Reported Smith Will Not Come Back to Fight Opposition, But Stay in Washington.

Atlanta, Ga., May 28.—As the first of June approaches, interest increases in the probable action of Hon. Joseph M. Brown. Also, the opinion is gaining ground that the former governor will delay making any announcement of his plans.

Just why June 1 was picked out as the date for the former governor to break his silence it would be difficult to say, no doubt some one casually mentioned that date and the story gradually circulated until many believed there was some definite foundation for it.

In point of fact Mr. Brown would be the last person in the world to state that he would or would not make an announcement at any certain time.

As the matter now stands it seems improbable that Hugh Dorsey will make known his plans until after Joe Brown has spoken. Mr. Dorsey was appointed by the former governor and he will be guided by his action. Again, the report is that in the event that Mr. Brown does oppose him, Senator Smith will not come back to Georgia to make any such fight as he has put up in the past, but will remain in Washington attending to his duties, and leave his campaign to his friends.

Mostly Just Rumors.

Like many rumors, some of the above is perhaps partly true, while probably much of it is untrue. It is given merely as part of the current and general gossip about here.

Report has it that Render Terrell will not run for governor, because he believes Dorsey will.

Senator Smith has been here for three or four days, and it is said that he has conferred with his personal friends quite a deal during the time. It is a growing conviction that he will have opposition of some sort, but just how formidable it will prove remains to be seen.

Just now Judge N. E. Harris and William J. Harris seem to be holding the center of the stage. A story is to the effect that they met on the streets of Macon yesterday and had a few humorous words.

Judge Harris' owed to William J. that he was about six laps ahead of the census Harris. W. J. 'lowed back that he'd have to give the Judge the dickens, but that there would be nothing personal in it.

This is at least adding a touch of humor to things.

Governor Slaton's campaign, according to his managers here, is growing stronger every day, and they predict his election by an overwhelming majority.

DIPLOMAS WILL BE GIVEN TO STUDENTS OF NORMAL COLLEGE

Graduation Exercises Will Be Held Friday—Addresses Will Be Delivered by Chancellor Barrow and Hon. Lee Branch—Trustees Held Meeting.

The graduation exercises of the South Georgia Normal and Industrial College will be held Friday. The exercises will be held at 11 o'clock Friday morning in the college chapel, when diplomas will be awarded by President R. H. Powell to the three members of the graduating class, Miss Lucile Arnold, Powder Springs; Miss Minnie Arnold, Powder Springs; Miss Angie Mae Miller, Columbus.

Prominent Speakers.

The addresses of the day will be delivered by Hon. Lee Branch, of Quitman, and Chancellor D. C. Barrow, of the State University. The three young ladies of the graduating class will read short essays and the president will deliver the diplomas. Music for the occasion will be furnished by the students.

In the afternoon, an exhibit will be made of the year's work by the students of the college and of the Training School. This exhibit will be not only very beautiful, but very interesting and very instructive. The doors will remain open all the afternoon that visitors may have opportunity to inspect at their leisure. The students will return home Saturday.

The program of Friday will be the culminating event of almost a week of exercises. Last Sunday morning the commencement sermon was preached by Rev. Dr. Allen Wilson, pastor of the First Christian church.

The usual college exercises occupied Tuesday and Wednesday. Wednesday afternoon the college Sunday school entertained the faculty and their fellow students at a picnic supper at Jones' pond.

On Thursday morning at 11 o'clock the board of trustees convened in its annual meeting.

Thursday evening at 6 o'clock the faculty will entertain the college and a few special guests at dinner in honor of the graduating class. After the dinner the young ladies of the glee club and chorus, under the direction of Miss Eloise Griffin, and accompanied by Miss Whittington, will entertain with an hour of song.

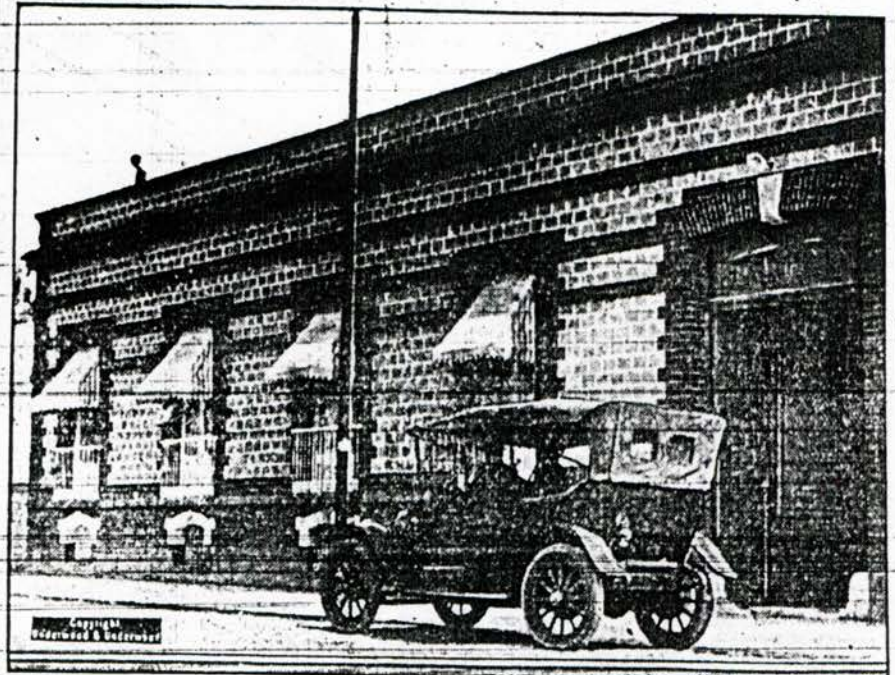

Quite a few out of town visitors are in Valdosta for the graduation exercises. One gentleman came from within nine miles of the Tennessee line and states that he is pleasantly surprised at the work being done by the college, especially since the past year is the first year. All of the visitors expressed themselves as being more than satisfied with the work being done and were enthusiastic in their praise.

ATTITUDE OF NATION OUTLINED BY BRYAN

Secretary of State Tells Business Men What Administration Will Do.

Washington, May 28.—Five hundred manufacturers and representatives of commercial organizations launched the first national foreign trade convention here Wednesday.

At a banquet Wednesday night Secretary Bryan outlined the administration's attitude toward the campaign for industrial relations with other countries.

"So far as it is possible to do so," the secretary said, "it is our desire to obtain for Americans equality of opportunity in the markets of the world. But while this government wishes to expand its foreign trade and to encourage those who seek in foreign lands a field for American capital and labor, it cannot assume responsibility for or guarantee the financial standing of Americans who engage in commercial or industrial enterprises beyond the boundary of the United States."

Mr. Bryan said that if wrong were done an American citizen in his legitimate business relations with a foreign government, diplomatic officials would be instructed to employ their good offices to secure justice, but that "the support promised by this government does not imply any obligation to interfere by force or by the menace of force in the financial or political affairs of other countries."

ROSIN GRADES WERE RAISED BY MAKERS

SO WITNESSES SAY

Evidence Declares That Turpentine was Taken from Barrels After They Had Been Inspected—Charges are Hurlled at Officials.

Savannah, Ga., May 28.—That they changed brands to raise grades, took turpentine from barrels after they had been inspected and crushed out competition were among the charges hurled at four former officials of the suspended American Naval Stores Company by witnesses for the government at the trial in the United States court yesterday. Edmund S. Nash, Carl Moller, S. P. Shoter, and J. F. Cooper Myers are the defendants.

E. C. Patterson, of Savannah, gave the most startling testimony of the afternoon session. Telling of the failure of several export companies that tried to compete with the American, he said:

"We found we couldn't meet the competition of the American. While they could sell at a profit we couldn't. We couldn't get orders without meeting their prices and if we met them it meant to sell at no profit or at a loss. The American covered practically the entire world.

A terrific storm yesterday afternoon cost six lives in New York and caused hundreds of thousands of dollars of damage. It afforded temporary relief.

THE NORMAL COLLEGE'S NEED.

"All in all during the year there have been more than twice as many students applying for admission as the dormitory was built to accommodate."

The above paragraph from a recent statement of President R. H. Powell shows the vital need of the South Georgia Normal and Industrial College.

The statement followed enthusiastic reports that President Powell had made for the successful year that will close Friday. The chief executive of the college cited facts to show that the year had been one of steady progress, despite "the ups and down that come", as Prof. Powell declared.

But, on the very opening day, there were more applications for admission than the college could grant. Not that President Powell and the trustees had not done their utmost, but due to the fact that the legislature of the state had not given sufficient appropriations to provide accommodations.

It so happens that the legislature that controls this necessary fund is not some organization removed from this state, but that it is composed of representatives who are interested heart and soul in the advancement and progress of the people of Georgia. There is no criticism to be made of the efforts of the representatives from this section. They did all they could last year, and it goes without any formal declaration that this county's new representatives in the incoming general assembly will do all in their power.

But the fact remains that the legislature of Georgia is unheeding to the great necessity for more accommodations for the education of its people. Any argument that the college in Valdosta belongs to a certain section is not true, for, despite the name it bears, two of the three graduates are from North Georgia and the other is from a city that could utilize the Athens College as well as the institution in this city.

For every year's neglect of this problem Georgia's future citizens are losing their much education. The institution here is so arranged as to give the best instruction. Its president, trustees and other officers and members of the faculty are thoroughly competent to do all that might be demanded.

Yet Georgia stands aside and allows the need of material accommodations to prevent her children from receiving the best of instruction. Lack of room seems to be a poor reason to prevent more education, and it does seem peculiar that a state, which can be plunged into the miasm of political agitation, cannot, at least have times when it can sanely plan for the development and upbuilding of its future people.

Dr. Powell in his statement speaks of the splendid results that have come—results that will be increased as the opportunity is afforded for better accommodations, but these beneficial effects cannot become open to all, until the state can provide for taking care of those who are so anxious to learn.

WITH GEORGIA CONTRIBS.

Hurling the First Stone. (The Macon News.)

The campaign-libel is abroad in the land already. They say that Tom Feider is a bachelor, that Bill Harris is bald-headed, that Judge Harris is a grandfather, that Randolph Anderson lives in Savannah, that Dr. Hardman drinks nothing but water, that Rufe Hutchens is supported by Tom Watson, that Ralph Cochran is running only to advertise his real estate business, that Governor Slaton is rich, and that Billy Hardwick will yet retire from the race. Of course, these charges are canards, pure and simple.

THE AGRICULTURAL FUND.

The secretary of agriculture has written to the governors of all the states asking that they designate the college or colleges to which the funds provided by the Smith-Lever co-operative agricultural extension law are to go. This is the first step in putting into effect this act, approved by the President May 8, which provides for the granting of federal funds to the state agricultural colleges to aid in diffusing among the people useful and practical information on subjects relating to agriculture and home economics and to encourage the application of the same. Georgia's governor has already designated the State Agricultural College as the institution for the fund for this state.

The conditions of the act are that each state must duplicate the money above $10,000 a year appropriated to it by the federal government. The money raised by the state may come from the state, county, college, local authority, or individual contributions from within the state, for the maintenance of co-operative agricultural extension work. The governor of each state, in the interval until the legislature meets, is called upon to designate the agricultural college or colleges to which the federal funds are to be paid.

The act provides that each state in which an agricultural college is designated shall receive as a basic fund from the federal government $10,000 annually without additional appropriation from the state. The act then makes provision for additional appropriations to be distributed in the proportion which the rural population of each state bears to the total rural population of all the states, as determined by the next preceding census. To share in these additional funds, however, the state, either through state, county, college, or local funds, or from individual contributions from within the state, must duplicate the additional amounts granted by the federal government for the maintenance of the co-operative agricultural extension work provided for in this act.

The federal money to which each state becomes entitled will be paid in equal semi-annual payments on the first day of July and January of each year.

The additional appropriations provided for in the act are as follows: Six hundred thousand dollars for the fiscal year following that in which the basic appropriation first becomes available. This $600,000 will then be increased by $500,000 for each succeeding year thereafter for seven years, until the total additional sum appropriated is $4,100,000 annually. This sum and the annual basic appropriation of $480,000 will then be available each year thereafter.

The act, after providing that pending the inauguration of the new work the farm management and farmers' co-operative demonstration work shall not be discontinued, defines the uses to which the federal money shall be put as follows:

"That co-operative agricultural extension work shall consist of the giving of instruction and practical demonstrations in agriculture and home economics to persons not attending or resident in said colleges in the several communities, and imparting to such persons information on said subjects through field demonstrations, publications and otherwise; and this work shall be carried on in such manner as may be mutually agreed upon by the secretary of agriculture and the state agricultural college or colleges receiving the benefits of this act."

The act provides that no appropriation of federal money shall be applied, directly or indirectly, to the purchase, erection, preservation or repair of any building or buildings, or the purchase or rental of land, or in college-course teaching, lectures in colleges, promoting agricultural trains, or any other purpose not specified in this act.

HON. J. R. WALKER

Valdosta greets as its distinguished visitor Wednesday, Hon. J. Randall Walker, congressman from the Eleventh Congressional District.

While Mr. Walker is the representative of this congressional district, he comes to Valdosta as her own native son, one whom his constituents placed in Congress two years ago by a magnificent majority.

Congressman Walker's visit was made necessary on account of a consultation with his family physician, following an illness of some time. Although he has not been well, Congressman Walker, except for a short confinement in bed, has been at his duties in Washington all of the time, and only consented to take the advice of his Washington physician when President Wilson and the chairman of the committee of which Mr. Walker is a member, gave their consent for him to leave Congress for a few days.

The many friends of Congressman Walker trust that his illness will not be serious, and assure him of their continued loyalty and good wishes.

POWELL'S ADDRESS

Many striking lessons for civic righteousness and honor can be learned from the splendid Memorial Day address that was delivered in Valdosta and Quitman by Prof. R. H. Powell, president of the South Georgia Normal and Industrial College. Disclaiming any exceptional ability as an orator and declaring that his life work centered in his college duties, Prof. Powell, nevertheless, has added a new reputation by his address.

Viewing the war between the states from varied angles, Prof. Powell draws his lesson that can be well learned by the present and coming generations. Long after the civil war shall be only a memory, the rules and principles laid down by Prof. Powell will remain. The keynote to his address lies in the statement:

"Ours is the task to bring into the world this deep sense of lawfulness, of religiousness, where the spirit of liberty and the spirit of law unite in the heart of every citizen, subordinating his own preferences and own desires to the good of the whole democracy."

BRIGHT HITS.

 "Is she sick abed?"

FROM THE ARENA

For the last year the American policy has been of waiting, liable to interruption or complication of upsetting at any moment by events we could not control. While we have proposed, somebody else has disposed. Huerta has done so now—for the last time. We cannot wage war subject to compliance with our plans by the enemy or bring moral suasion to bear to get him to accept them. We are at war with all that there is of government in Mexico, and there is enough of it to sober us and force us to set ourselves regrettably but resolutely to the task on hand.—Baltimore News.

If the Tampico affair had occurred in another age the chances are that there would have been a free-for-all fight in that port. Naval officers and their crews would not have stopped to refer the question to Washington, but would have settled the score for themselves in short order and reported to their government afterward. But now they know that their rights, their dignity and the respect due to an American citizen clothed in the uniform of the United States will be upheld by the lawful authorities. If it took all the able-bodied men in the country and every dollar in the treasury to do it.—Boston Globe.

We cannot suffer longer from armed division among Mexicans, which have come to wear an intense anti-American aspect, and will wear them more strongly than ever from now on until order is restored and made permanent. The president does not want a protracted struggle. No more do the American people. The problem relates to the best means of doing what is necessary as quickly and effectively as possible. Our movements will be watched, our motives questioned, in foreign quarters unfriendly to us. We are always under suspicion there. But we must do our duty as we ourselves see it, and take all the consequences of an energy which we think the circumstances call for. The country will support the president in all he may do to carry out the national purpose.—Washington Star.

SAYS SENATOR WEST IS MEASURING UP TO THE STANDARD

That United States Senator W. S. West is making a reputation in congress is evidenced by the following extract of a letter received by Col. O. M. Smith, of Valdosta, from a Georgia congressman at Washington:

"I want to say that W. S. West is certainly measuring up to the standard. His head is chock full of horse sense, and he is politically and mentally as honest as the rising sun. He is earnest about all he does, and so straight with it, that he makes a favorable impression on all."

Germans are waging war on nude art subjects. The Thomsville Times-Enterprise, the Moultrie Observer and The Valdosta Times photographers are peacefully-minded.

LAWLESS COLORADO

The reign of lawlessness that is rampant in Colorado has necessitated President Wilson ordering United States regulars to protect life and property from striking miners. Governor Ammons' proclamation that a state of rebellion exists in Colorado and calling upon citizens to enforce the laws, seems to have accomplished little more good than to officially inform a knowing public that there is a reign of terror in his state.

Every day's news report brings additional horrors. Recently women and children were reported to be suffocated in a mine, because strikers would not allow rescue parties to reach them. Dispatches Tuesday told of a sheriff being held prisoner, while men were shot.

If Governor Ammons is not able to protect life, it is good and proper that United States troops should be sent, although only as a course of last resort. It bids fair to be poor citizenship when a state is not able to settle its dissensions, but is necessary to go on record before the world as requiring federal assistance to stamp out lawlessness.

A PEON.

Only a peon, a brown-faced boy, filling his place in the ragged line; Staggering under the tropic sun; staggering under the moon's cold shine—
 Only a little peon boy, empty and weary since day began,
 But clutching his rifle new and bright, counting in war as another man.

Desert and cactus and rock and thorn wearing the skin from his weary feet;
 Freezing by night in a quick-made camp; burning by day in the sun's fierce heat.

Staggering on with his bright new gun, as only a true-born soldier can—Merely a little peon boy, but counting in war as another man.

Screaming of shells through the shattered air; screaming of horses torn and hurt;
 Crashing of guns on the distant hills; spouting of dust from the guttered dirt.

And there lies silent a peon boy; the night's cool breezes his still face fan—
 Only a little peon boy, reported in "dead" as another man.

LESSONS OF CIVIL WAR TOLD BY PROF. POWELL IN MASTERFUL ADDRESS

Enthusiastic praise is being paid by Confederate Veterans and Daughters of the Confederacy to Prof. R. H. Powell, president of the South Georgia Normal and Industrial College, for the splendid address he delivered at the Memorial Day exercises in Valdosta Sunday afternoon and Quidman Monday.

The address was one of the most masterful ones delivered upon such an occasion and the lessons drawn from the great conflict between the states pleased all who were most fortunate to hear Prof. Powell. In discussing the lessons that can be applied to the present and the future, Prof. Powell said, in part:

LESSON OF CONFLICT.

Young men and women of this generation, here is a lesson for us. Look upon the quiet, modest, unobtrusive men before us now. Peacefully they sit in unassuming gentleness. We have so long known them as friends and neighbors, we have so long regarded them as ordinary men in an ordinary world, that we fail to recognize them as the heroes that they are. They harbor still within those quiet breasts the hearts of steel that met defeat at arms only to snatch by patience and moral strength, final victory for the cause they loved, and save the blood-sealed foundations of constitutional liberty. To the unswerving courage and devotion of these men we owe the fine paradox.

Paradoxical is the cross-motives that inspired the contending forces, paradoxical in the issues at stake, paradoxical in every political aspect of the conflict, paradoxical in the reconstruction that followed—the greatest paradox of all was in the consequence to the nation. For though the war was decided against the armies of the South, the principle for which they fought has triumphed! In the word of the great historians of the North, "the government of America as it is today, reflects the principles for which Davis contended and Lee made war, rather than those for which Grant battled and Lincoln strove!" The constitution today is stronger than it ever was, and the decisions of the courts are observed as never before.

A little over a year ago the most picturesque and aggressive leader of recent years, enjoying a personal popularity possessed by no other living man, and taking Lincoln as his authority and inspiration, made a campaign for the presidency on essentially the issue that elected Lincoln. Mr. Roosevelt waged his last campaign on the issue, practically, that the people should tell the courts what to decide—the very issue that Lincoln made. But what happened? Not Mr. Roosevelt's personal popularity and prestige, not the magic name of Lincoln, could carry the day. The principle for which these men here before us offered their lives, for which the whole South bled, has survived the shock of battle, and today stands as the great bulwark of American freedom.

NOT A LOST CAUSE.

The Lost Cause it has been called. But it was no lost cause. It was struck at hard; the secondary consideration, the occasions, so to speak, that brought the cause to issue (I mean the question of the slave being property, and the question of secession) went against the South; but the great fundamental cause was not

(those who opposed them so cruelly—the adamant principle of liberty through law and government through constituted authority, and made impossible the quick-sand principle of liberty without law and government by the mercurial passions of an excited populace.

RELIGIOUS LIBERTY.

—Three great steps in the development of liberty for man have been made in America; and every one has been made firm by hardship and suffering. By the dangers and trials of the original settlers of the land was secured the great principle of religious liberty—the right of man to worship as he believes. Through the long struggle of the Revolution was established the right of the people of this great nation to national independence and freedom to develop as its genius inspired. By the titanic struggle of the war between the states, and the succeeding battle of intellect and will in the halls of congress, was settled the double issue—first (effected by the North), that whatever might be the destiny of the people of this new nation it should be one deathly, shared by an eternally united people; and second, the even greater gain (accomplished by the South), that this destiny should be based upon the firm foundation of established principle, and move forward along the well tried ways of precedent and law.

To this point have the heroic men and women of the passing generation brought the fortunes of this great nation. To this point have they brought the development of the great principle of human liberty.

And here, as gradually they pass from the stage of action, they hand over the cause to you and me of the younger generation. A nobler race of men and women never bent their shoulders to a nobler task, nor ever more gloriously accomplished the work that was given them by the God of nations to do, or ever passed on to their sons and daughters a nobler heritage.

And now, I turn to us, the recipients of this priceless gift. What shall we do with it? Shall we in lazy indolence and selfish indulgence sleep and play and let the blood-bought treasure slip from our grasp and fall into the abyss of nothingness? Or shall we accept our blessing as an obligation and meet our duty as did our heroic fathers and mothers?

The work is not done; the work will never be done. "Eternal vigilance is the price of liberty". I add, eternal effort, eternal sacrifice. Freedom is a jealous mistress. She gives herself and her blessings only to those who are worthy to win her—only to the brave, the unselfish and the noble-minded. She tolerates only the noblest devotion, and hides her countenance from all meanness, selfishness and cowardice. But where she bestows her smile, she gives her spirit; and her blessings are beyond the wealth of Ophir.

WORK IS NOT DONE.

The work is not done. Our fathers of the early dawn of the nation broke the fetters from the soul of man and opened the door to the throne of God. Our fathers of the Revolution gave us a national life. Our fathers of the passing generation made sure the permanence of the nation; and, even more, the permanence of the foundations of the life

ENTRY OF HUTCHENS CAUSES LITTLE TALK

ROME MAN MAKES HIS ANNOUNCEMENT IN WASHINGTON AND IT IS TELEGRAPHED BACK TO NEWSPAPERS IN CITY OF ATLANTA.

Macon, April 22.—A special to the Telegraph from Atlanta says:

G. R. Hutchens' announcement to the effect that he is a candidate for the unexpired senatorial term did not create any great excitement, although no little surprise.

It was considered rather odd that Mr. Hutchens went to Washington to file his announcement broadcast. His announcement appeared in The Constitution this morning and was given to John Corrigan, the Washington correspondent of that paper, Sunday.

He stated that he would begin an active campaign shortly, and would have "all western Georgia at his back", and that he felt confident of "carrying every county from Muscogee to the Tennessee line."

Mr. Hutchens also ventured the prediction that "Governor Brown would not enter the contest for the unexpired term."

Comparatively little comment was heard on the new entry here today.

ing that life. Their task had much to do with external conditions; ours with an inner spirit.

"The Kingdom of Heaven," said the Great Teacher, "is within you," so, also, is the true democracy within. Too much in the past the idea of government has been the authority of an external governor imposed on the governed. In the reaction against this, too often today we have the idea that there should be no authority to control. Both ideas are equally wide of the mark. In a true democracy, in the exercise of true liberty, there is as complete enforcement of law as in a monarchy; but the citizen who obeys must be the authority who enforces the law. Ours is the task to bring into the world this deep sense of lawfulness, of religiousness, where the spirit of liberty and the spirit of law unite in the heart of every citizen, subordinating his own preferences and desires to the good of the whole democracy.

This task, my friends, is as noble as any that has gone before. Let us, like true sons and daughters of the heroes of the past, step out to meet our call. Inspired by the heroic example of the men and women whose golden deeds today we celebrate, feeling their blood pulsing in our own veins and their courage and love of right throbbing in our hearts, let us pledge here today in the hearing of these fast departing heroes, North and South, that by the help of God who gave them grace for their endeavor, we will devote our strength and our very lives that their bequest shall never dwindle, and that the spirit of human liberty and law and righteousness may grow and flourish in the world.

Mr. Roosevelt waged his last campaign on the issue, practically, that the people should tell the courts what to decide—the very issue that Lincoln made. But what happened? Not Mr. Roosevelt's personal popularity and prestige, not the magic name of Lincoln—could carry the day. The principle for which these men here before us offered their lives, for which the whole South bled, has survived the shock of battle, and today stands as the great bulwark of American freedom.

NOT A LOST CAUSE.

The Lost Cause it has been called. But it was no lost cause. It was struck at hard; the secondary consideration, the occasions, so to speak, that brought the cause to issue (I mean the question of the slave being property, and the question of secession) went against the South; but the great fundamental cause was not lost. With all the depth of my heart, with all my passion, patriotism and love of liberty, I am thankful that this principle was preserved. With all the reverence of my soul I thank these women and men alive and dead who made the struggle, that, through trials unequalled, and through self-devotion unprecedented, they proffered to you and me and to all the people of this great nation—even to the adamantine principle of liberty through law and government through constituted authority, and made impossible the quick-and-dirty principle of liberty without law and government by the marauding passions of an excited populace.

RELIGIOUS LIBERTY.

—Three great steps in the development of liberty for man have been made in America; and every one has been made firm by hardship and suffering. By the dangers and trials of the original settlers of the land was secured the great principle of religious liberty—the right of man to worship as he believes. Through the long struggle of the Revolution was established the right of the people of this great nation to national independence and freedom to develop as its genius inspired. By the titanic struggle of the war between the states, and the succeeding battle of intellect and will in the halls of congress, was settled the double issue—first (effected by the North), that whatever might be the destiny of the people of this new nation it should be one deathly, shared by an eternally united people; and second, the even greater gain (accomplished by the South), that this destiny should be based upon the firm foundation of established principle, and move forward along the well tried ways of precedent and law.

To this point have the heroic men and women of the passing generation brought the fortunes of this great nation. To this point have they brought the development of the great principle of human liberty.

And here, as gradually they pass from the stage of action, they hand over the cause to you and me of the younger generation. A nobler race of men and women never bent their shoulders to a nobler task, nor ever more gloriously accomplished the work that was given them by the God of nations to do, or ever passed on to their sons and daughters a nobler heritage.

And now, I turn to us, the recipients of this priceless gift. What shall we do with it? Shall we in lazy indolence and selfish indulgence sleep and play and let the blood-bought treasure slip from our grasp and fall into the abyss of nothingness? Or shall we accept our blessing as an obligation and meet our duty as did our heroic fathers and mothers?

The work is not done; the work will never be done. "Eternal vigilance is the price of liberty." I add, eternal effort, eternal sacrifice. Freedom is a jealous mistress. She gives herself and her blessings only to those who are worthy to win her—only to the brave, the unselfish and the noble-minded. She tolerates only the noblest devotion, and hides her countenance from all meanness, selfishness and cowardice. But where she bestows her smile, she gives her spirit; and her blessings are beyond the wealth of Ophir.

WORK IS NOT DONE.

The work is not done. Our fathers of the early dawn of the nation broke the fetters from the soul of man and opened the door to the throne of God. Our fathers of the Revolution gave us a national life. Our fathers of the passing generation made sure the permanence of the nation, and, even more, the permanence of the foundations of the life of the nation. Our fathers have given us all the outer conditions of a noble liberty; it is for you and me to say, shall the liberty they have made possible live. Their trials have been often the trials of the crash of war. Our trial is in the less stirring, but no less testing contest of peace. Theirs was the task of working out, as it were, the conditions of the life of liberty; ours the task of develop-

AND IT IS TELEGRAPHED BACK TO NEWSPAPERS IN CITY OF ATLANTA.

MacON, April 23.—A special to the Telegraph from Atlanta says:

G. R. Hutchens' announcement to the effect that he is a candidate for the unexpired senatorial term did not create any great excitement, although no little surprise.

It was considered rather odd that Mr. Hutchens went to Washington to file his announcement broadcast. His announcement appeared in The Constitution this morning and was given to John Corrigan, the Washington correspondent of that paper, Sunday.

He stated that he would begin an active campaign shortly, and would have "all western Georgia at his back", and that he felt confident of "carrying every county from Muscogee to the Tennessee line."

Mr. Hutchens also ventured the prediction that "Governor Brown would not enter the contest for the unexpired term."

Comparatively little comment was heard on the new entry here today.

ing that life. Their task had much to do with external conditions, ours with an inner spirit.

"The Kingdom of Heaven," said the Great Teacher, "is within you", so, also, is the true democracy within. Too much in the past the idea of government has been the authority of an external governor imposed on the governed. In the reaction against this, too often today we have the idea that there should be no authority to control. Both ideas are equally wide of the mark. In a true democracy, in the exercise of true liberty, there is no complete enforcement of law as in a monarchy; but the citizen who obeys must be the authority who enforces the law. Ours is the task to bring into the world this deep sense of lawfulness, of righteousness, where the spirit of liberty and the spirit of law unite in the heart of every citizen, subordinating his own preferences and desires to the good of the whole democracy.

This task, my friends, is as noble as any that has gone before. Let us, like true sons and daughters of the heroes of the past, step out to meet our call. Inspired by the heroic example of the men and women whose golden deeds today we celebrate, feeling their blood pulsing in our own veins and their courage and love of right throbbing in our hearts, let us pledge here today in the hearing of these fast departing heroes, North and South, that by the help of God who gave them grace for their endeavor, we will devote our strength and our very lives that their bequest shall never dwindle, and that the spirit of human liberty and law and righteousness may grow and flourish in the world.

In no line of human endeavor has the brain of the scientist contributed the world's progress than by the art of telephony, of which the Bell is embodiment.

When the telephone was born, analogous to telephone service as we listed. There was no tradition to experience to follow.

The system, the apparatus, the entire new art had to be created. electrical engineering did not exist, pioneers, recognizing that success lay in the highest engineering and technical once organized an experimental and permanent which is now directed by a staff of 500 engineers and scientists, leader professors, post-graduate student investigators—the graduates of over a dozen.

From its foundation the company continuously developed the art. New in telephones, switch boards, lines, followed one another with remarkable speed.

While each successive type of apparatus suggested each step in the evolution marked a progression. These changes, this evolution not only been continuous, but is now essentially all of the plant now in telephones, switchboards, cables, have been constructed, renewed or recast in the past 10 years.

Particularly in switchboards have been so radical that installations of aggregate millions have frequently been replaced after only a few years of use.

Since 1877 there have been introduced and styles of receivers and 78 types of transmitters. Of the 12,000,000 receivers and transmitters owned (company January 1, 1914, none were made prior to 1902, while the average age is 10 years.

Within 10 years we have expended $1,000,000,000 in the reconstruction of an entire plant.

Long-distance and underground was the most formidable scientific frontier the telephone experts.

The retarding effect of the earth's resistance to the current often impaired through one mile underground through 100 miles overhead. Over the ocean had its distinct limitations.

No possible improvement in the transmitter could of itself solve the problem. The solution was only found in the effect of improvements, great and small, in the construction of the apparatus and in the transmission of speech.

While the limit of commercial telephony had increased from strictly

CORDELE AUTOIST IS DASHED TO DEATH

THREE OTHERS ARE INJURED
WHEN CAR TURNS OVER
TWICE ON NATIONAL HIGH-WAY, FOURTEEN MILES FROM MACON.

Macon, Ga., April 27.—Harry Jacobs, an expert automobile machinist, of Cordels, was killed outright and three other Cordele men were injured Sunday morning at 5:50 o'clock when their automobile turned twice over on the National Highway, fourteen miles from Macon, near Dunbar. They were en route to Atlanta on business, when, at a sharp curve in the highway, a rear tire was punctured, causing the accident.

Of the five men in the car, four were going to Atlanta on business, and only the fifth man, who was going for pleasure alone, escaped without injury.

A. J. Little, cashier for the Seaboard Air Line railway at Cordele, had his right shoulder dislocated and sustained cuts and bruises over the body.

E. E. Purcell, employed by B. H. Palmer, implement and vehicle dealer, of Cordele, had his right leg hurt, a severe laceration in his back and was otherwise bruised.

J. A. Smith, clerk for the S. M. Watson Company, wholesale hide dealers, sustained painful but not serious cuts and bruises over the face and shoulders.

Charles Green, a prominent farmer, residing in Cordele, was the only member of the party who escaped without injury other than a slight scrape-up.

Messrs. Green and Smith left yesterday afternoon for Cordele, but Little and Purcell will be confined to the hospital indefinitely.

COUNTY SCHOOL FAIR TO BE HELD MAY 9TH

COUNTY ARE TO BE GIVEN AN OPPORTUNITY TO SHOW WHAT THEY ARE DOING ALONG THE LINES OF DOMESTIC SCIENCE

As a continuation of the work being done in the rural schools of the county by County Superintendent J. H. O'Quinn there will be held in the city on Saturday, May 9, a school fair for the white children of the county, similar to the one held for the negroes last Saturday. Superintendent O'Quinn is busy making preparations for the event, and from all indications the fair is going to be one of the most successful ever held in the state.

Several prizes have been offered for the leaders in the various display and others are to be solicited. J. E. Gornto has offered a prize of $5 for the best cake; a prize of $5 will be awarded to the girl showing the prettiest boudoir cap, slippers and kimono; J. H. FIELD DAY EXERCISES AT THE COLLEGE TODAY

BASKET BALL, DODGE BALL, TENNIS AND OTHER FIELD EVENTS WILL BE THE ORDER OF THE DAY—INTEREST IN THE GAMES VERY KEEN.

The annual field day exercises were held at the South Georgia College today. The seniors, sophomores and sub-freshmen were matched against the Juniors and the freshmen, and interest over the outcome of the day's events is very keen. The contestants have been hard at work for the past two weeks preparing for the meet and are ready to put up good games today. Basket ball, dodge ball, tennis, sack races and potato races are included in the program and the girls are expecting a most interesting day.

The faculty and girls of the Valdosta high school have been invited out for the day's exercises. Quite a few of the parents of the college girls are expected out for the day. Professor Powell stated this morning that all indications point to a very successful occasion.

CLEANING UP WEEK WILL BE HELD BY VALDOSTA WOMEN

Wymodausis Club Has Inaugurated Campaign

MERCHANTS WILL BE ASKED TO GIVE PRIZES FOR COLLECTION OF OLD BOTTLES AND TIN CANS—PLANS ARE ALSO SUGGESTED FOR PLAYGROUND.

Plans for a "clean up" week in the near future have been begun by the civic committee of the Wymodausis club.

The program for the week will be announced in a few days, as soon as the date has been arranged.

The members of the committee state that Mayor T. E. Converse, Jr., has assured them a cordial cooperation and has not only indorsed the plans, but will give whatever aid he can.

It is understood that the committee will ask the merchants of Valdosta to offer prizes for the greatest collection of old bottles, tin cans and other articles of refuse. This plan was recently adopted by Montgomery, where one small boy claims the record with 1,000,000 bottles.

The committee will also call on the citizens of Valdosta to clean up their premises and assist in the general cleaning up of the city.

PLAN PLAYGROUND.

The civic committee is also planning the establishment of a playground, which was agitated some time ago. The committee is of the opinion that this is a long felt want. It is said that this has also been assured the support of Mayor Converse.

FEDERAL ARMY FIGHTING FOR ITS LIFE AT PARRAS

Torreon, April 11.—Driven from San Pedro and Las Colonias by the fierce assaults of five thousand constitutionalists, led by Gen. Villa, the united federal army under Generals Velasco, Maas and Demouire, has retreated to Parras and is fighting there for its life today.

Couriers report that a terrific engagement is progressing. The federals are stubbornly contesting the advance of the rebels. It is estimated that fifteen hundred have been killed and wounded in the fighting around San Pedro.

If You Think Politics Are Going To Be Slow This Summer, Forget It; indications Point To A Red Hot Senatorial Race With A Still More Hectic Contest For Governorship.

Atlanta, Ga., April 11.—Any idea that Georgia is to have a dull time politically this summer is rapidly vanishing.

Indications point to a red-hot senatorial race, with four men already in it, and the possibility, though not probability, of Governor Brown making the fifth.

And then it promises to be some scramble for the governorship. Several able Georgians are casting long eyes toward this choice seat. Two have already launched their candidacies—Dr. Hardman and Mr. Randolph Anderson.

Bill Burwell is getting the notion stronger and stronger every day. It would not surprise people if he did so. At any rate, his prospective candidacy—there, has brought Henry Fullbright out with an avowal of his candidacy for the speakership of the 1915-16 house, a place which Burwell expected to seek again, in the event he does not run for governor.

A great deal of talk of Judge W. E. Thomas is being heard up this way right now. Scores from the upper part of the state have said they would like for him to make the race and that he would poll a heavy vote in the northern part of the state.

Burwell's candidacy will probably be contingent on Candier's decision. If Candier runs, Burwell probably will.

It is not believed that the field will be closed for some weeks yet. There will doubtless be eliminations and possibly other entries not now mentioned.

But when it comes down to the closed field it is going to be a warm old campaign.

FIGHT FOR LIFE OF MEN WHO KILLED ROSENTHAL

New York, April 11.—The last fight in behalf of the four gunmen sentenced for electrocution next Monday for the murder of Herman Rosenthal, was begun this afternoon, when Supreme Court Justice Goff began the hearing of testimony on the order signed last night, directing District Attorney Whitman to show cause why a new trial should not be granted. The hearing is expected to last all the afternoon.

HARDMAN WILL MAKE VISIT NEXT WEEK

COMMERCE CANDIDATE FOR GOVERNORSHIP IS PREVENTED FROM BEING WITH VALDOSTA RELATIVES THIS WEEK—WILL BRING WIFE.

On account of pressing business engagements, Dr. L. G. Hardman, one of the two avowed candidates for the governorship, will not be able to come to Valdosta to visit relatives until next week.

Dr. Hardman was to have arrived Saturday morning to spend the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. J. N. Griffin, the parents of his wife, who was Miss Emma Griffin.

Dr. and Mrs. Hardman, according to the present plans, will pay their visit next week.

Prominent Planter Badly Burned in Gas Explosion

Mr. W. T. Staten and his son, Jack, are nursing burned hands and faces this morning as a result of an explosion of gas which occurred at Mr. Staten's place yesterday afternoon about dark.

Mr. Staten has an acetylene gas plant for lighting his home, and when he tried to light the burners about dark yesterday the light was so dim that he determined to make an investigation. He took a lantern and, accompanied by his son, went out into the yard to the house where the generator is located. There was a leak some where about, for as soon as they opened the door to the house the escaping gas ignited from the flame of the lantern and exploded.

Mr. Staten and Jack both sustained painful burns and narrowly escaped serious accidents. Their hands and faces were burned in several places and, for a time it was feared that the accident might prove serious.

They are both able to be out today, but the burns are very painful, and it will probably be some time before they are entirely recovered.

AT BIG CONVENTION

All Entrants are Requested to Call on Chamber of Commerce Secretary for Banners and Official Badges—Many Will Go On Trains.

Twenty-five Valdosta cars have been offered for the big pageant in the first animal industry convention at Quitman Tuesday.

Others are expected to give their entries to Secretary J. M. Ashley, of the Valdosta Chamber of Commerce, and all indications are that it will be one of the biggest delegations that Valdosta ever sent out.

Scores of other people are going by train, a fare of 70 cents for the round trip have been put on by the railroads.

Enthusiastic Crowds.

The delegation will be one of the most enthusiastic that has ever fared forth to advertise this section. Some of the most prominent citizens of Valdosta will be in the parade.

The cars will carry big banners, advertising South Georgia, Lowndes county and Valdosta. The owners will be furnished with banners by the Valdosta Chamber of Commerce. All who will go will also be given ribbons-embroidered with the word, "VALDOSTA."

These banners and ribbons can be secured without any expense, from Secretary J. M. Ashley. All entrants who have pennants with VALDOSTA or LOWNDES COUNTY on them, are requested to make arrangements to decorate their automobiles with them.

The list of entrants is still growing and it is the plan of the promoters to carry as many cars from Valdosta as can be secured.

Great Parade Planned.

Valdosta will occupy one of the most prominent places in the parade, which will be over two miles in length. Trunk line railroads are preparing to run special trains into Quitman for the first time in the history of the town.

The United States Government will have its leading animal industry experts there with more than two thousand feet of motion pictures, covering all of the phases of the animal industry in America, and also about one thousand colored stereopticon slides. More than a dozen South Georgia towns will have floats, bands, automobiles and walking delegates in the parade and pageant.

There will be over sixteen hundred regularly appointed delegates, and the least estimate made by the most conservative railroad officials is from five to seven thousand people will be in Quitman.

- DELEGATES ARE NAMED TO REPRESENT VALDOSTA
- Mr. J. T. Blalock, president of the Chamber of Commerce, has appointed the following committee to attend the Animal Industry convention at Quitman next Tuesday, the 26th:

Chancellor D. S. Barrow and Hon. Lee Branch Will Deliver Addresses to School—Dr. Allen Wilson to Preach Commencement Sermon.

The commencement exercises of the South Georgia Normal and Industrial College will take place next week. In the arrangement of the order of exercises the same democratic individuality has been shown that has characterized all the work of the institution.

Sunday morning the faculty and students will meet at the college and proceed to the Christian church where at 11 o'clock the commencement sermon will be preached by Dr. Allen Wilson, the pastor. There will be no special program, but music suitable to the occasion will be provided by the choir.

The public is cordially invited.

COLLEGE EXERCISES.
On Tuesday and Wednesday the usual college exercises will continue until 4 o'clock, when the college Sunday school will entertain the faculty and their fellow students at a picnic supper at Jones' pond.

On Thursday morning at 11 o'clock the board of trustees will convene in its annual meeting.

Thursday evening at 6 o'clock the faculty will entertain the college and a few special guests at dinner in honor of the graduating class.

COLLEGE CONCERT.
For Thursday evening there had been planned a very beautiful concert by the department of music, open to the public, but the unfortunate illness of the director, Mrs. Youmans, has made it impracticable to carry out this concert as planned. BEFORE STATEMENT

Deolares That Conditions are Right in South Georgia for South Georgia Candidate, but There is Confusion in Other Sections.

Judge W. E. Thomas Friday afternoon gave out his first authorized statement, relative to the boom that hundreds of his friends and admirers have inaugurated for him for governor, a boom that is sweeping South Georgia in intense interest and has resulted in overwhelming pledges of support. Judge Thomas, when asked if he would be a candidate, stated in reply:

"I feel assured that South Georgia is ready to endorse and support a South Georgian for the governorship.

"Conditions in North and Middle Georgia are now in a state of confusion and I am looking into the situation there, before I shall make my announcement."

It is believed that an announcement will be made by Judge Thomas in a short while, but the purport of his statement cannot be forecast.

He is daily in receipt of letters from all over Georgia, urging him to make the race. While he has the matter seriously under consideration it is known that he will not make any statement until he has thoroughly investigated the situation.

Burning Trestle Holds Up Fishers And Big Stories

Did you ever go fishing and have to spend the night in the woods as the guest of the mosquitoes and red bugs? Well, that is not exactly what happened to a party who went from this city to Fargo Thursday, but their fate was decidedly similar. Among those in the party were Messrs. J. F. Turner, W. M. Howell, Wade and Schuler.

They went down on the early morning train and enjoyed a most successful day's fishing. They caught something like three or four hundred fish, so they said, and they were supremely happy when they caught the evening train for Valdosta. They had visions of the wonder and envy with which friends in Valdosta would view their catch.

But alas and alac! They were destined to the bitterest of disappointments. When just this side of Mayday it was discovered that the bridge over the Alapaha river was burning, and it was found that it would be impossible to cross.

Now, what would you have done had you been left stranded in the woods on a train with several hundred fish and no way to get them home? You would have said a few things not at all relative to Sunday school or we are muchly mistaken. There was nothing else to do but to take things as they were and wait for something to turn up.

Early in the morning, somewhere about 3 or 4 o'clock, it was learned that the train could proceed back to Dupont and thence by way of the Atlantic Coast Line tracks to Valdosta. This was done, and about 6 o'clock this morning a tired party came into town minus most of their fish, as they had spoiled during the night.

SANS HAT OR TRUNK BRIDE COMES TO TOWN

Mr. and Mrs. N. E. McKinnon are Married in Orlando and Hurry to Hahira.

Without hat or trunk, because of the haste with which they left the bride's home, Mr. and Mrs. N. E. McKinnon passed through this city on Tuesday on their way from Orlando, Fla., the home of the bride, to Hahira, Ga., where the groom's parents live. They spent a day and night in this city, going up to Hahira Wednesday at noon.

Mrs. McKinnon was Miss Corine Wilkins, of Orlando, Fla., and was one of the most popular young ladies of that place. Mr. McKinnon is the son of Cashier McKinnon of the Bank of Hahira.

It is understood that there was some objection to the marriage on the part of the bride's parents because of the extreme youth of the couple, neither of them being 21. The young couple decided to take matters in their own hands, however, and determined to run away. Accordingly, they met at the minister's home in Orlando, just before train time, and had the ceremony performed just in time for them to catch the train to this city.

They arrived here Tuesday at noon and spent the day at the Valdes hotel. From here they went to Hahira, the home of the groom's parents, where they will spend several days before returning to Orlando, where the groom is working.

party will repair to the college chapel, where the young ladies of the glee club and choruses, under the direction of Miss Eloise Griffin, and accompanied by Miss Whittington, will entertain with an hour of song.

Friday is commencement day proper. The graduating exercises will take place at 11 o'clock in the college chapel. The public is cordially invited. The addresses of the day will be delivered by Hon. Lee Branch of Quitman, and Chancellor D. C. Barrow of the State University. The three young ladies of the graduating class will read short essays and the president will deliver the diplomas. Music for the occasion will be furnished by the students.

In the afternoon an exhibit will be made of the year's work by the students of the college and of the Training School. This exhibit will be not only very beautiful, but very interesting and very instructive. The doors will remain open all the afternoon that visitors may have opportunity to inspect at their leisure. The students will go home Saturday.

Upon being asked by The Times what he thought of the year's work, President Powell replied that the school had done a good year's work; that, indeed, it has done a remarkably good year's work.

HAVE HAD FINE YEAR.

"We have had our ups and downs, of course," continued Mr. Powell, "but it has been a year of steady progress in every way. On the opening day there were more students applying for admission than could be accommodated in the unfortunately limited dormitory space. All in all during the year there have been more than twice as many students applying for admission as the dormitory was built to accommodate. Some students, of course, live in the city and some we have found places for in the city; but some have not been able to come. Our greatest need now is more room."

"But this limitation of the number of students has not been without its advantages. It has made possible a most remarkable internal development. Character and self-control after all are the great things in education; and these have had a wonderful growth among our students. We are frankly proud with what has taken place with us in so short a time."

"Yes," Mr. Powell concluded, "it has been a good year. The college has proved beyond question that it is greatly needed in this section of the state. It has shown that it can meet the demand. It has created an individuality of its own, and is be-

Court Room is Over-Crowded and Seats Sell at a Premium.

New York, May 22.—A great throng besieged Justice Seabury's court today to witness the final act in the legal drama that has been played about the former head of the "strong arm squad," Lieut. Charles Becker, for the killing of Herman Rosenthal.

Tickets of admission to the court room were at a premium.

Justice Seabury concluded his charge to the jury at 12:29 this afternoon.

BANK IS MERELY TRUSTEE AND NOT JOINT OWNER.

In the statement of the case involving the possession and sale of bonds issued by the Valdosta, Moultrie & Western Railroad in Thursday's issue of The Times it was stated that the Valdosta Bank & Trust Co. was a joint owner, with Mr. B. F. Jones, of the bonds. This was a mistake as Mr. Jones is the sole owner of the bonds and the bank is merely a trustee in the matter.

Mr. J. M. Patten, of Hays Mill, was in Valdosta on business on Thursday.

ing recognized through the fact as a college with a distinct character of its own, standing for broad democratic Christian character, solid service and patriotic ideals. We are well satisfied."

SHRINE DECORATIONS ARE AT LAST REMOVED

Atlanta, May 22.—The gorgeous and colorful Shrine decorations have nearly all disappeared from the tall office buildings and the handsome homes of the city. Among the most admired and the last to go were the decorations on the home of George E. Argard, recorder of Yearab Temple Shrine, at the corner of Highland avenue and Argard street.

As an official of Yearab Temple, Mr. Argard had draped his home magnificently with the Shrine colors, augmented by a beautiful electrical design. Mr. Argard is also secretary of the Mason's Annuity, and while the Shrine was in session thousands of visitors were shown through the handsome Masons' Annuity building, which has recently been improved and remodeled.
