Language lab to open next week

By PHYLLIS McCOY
Spectator News Editor

The tentative opening date for the $37,000 foreign language lab has been set for February 21, according to Dennis Hale, head of the Modern Language department.

The new lab, named the Humanities Social Sciences Laboratory and located in West Hall Room 24, is the result of five years of planning and after the old one wore out and a $436,000 Title III Special Needs Grant from the Division of Institutional Aid to Education of the Department of Education, Dr. Hale said in a recent interview.

"The lab is primarily for language students, but it will be available to students in other areas of the Humanities and by those in Social Sciences," he said.

Dr. Hale said the lab will be used by classes in foreign language, but it will be open to students for private study at various hours each day of the week. Students will still be able to check out cassette tapes and recorders in the library when it is not convenient for them to visit the lab.

"We want it to be a teaching lab," Dr. Hale said. "We want to take classes in at least once a week. The mornings will be taken up with classes, but we want it to be open to student private study as much as possible."

The lab is Sony equipped and was installed by Crumley and Associates of Savannah.

"We saved money by not buying new furniture. We put all our money into new equipment," he said.

The new equipment will enable the teacher to control the tape recorders in the 30 booths from a console in the front of the lab.

The students will be able to listen to a master tape, repeat the drill and record his voice. He can then compare his pronunciation to the tape and correct mistakes. The student can drill at his own speed.

The teacher can tune into individual students from the console.

"If he's mispronouncing something, you don't have to tell the whole class," Dr. Hale said.

In addition to tapes for foreign language students, the lab will also have what Dr. Hale calls "quick fix" tapes for faculty members and students who plan to travel and need to know enough of a language to "get by." He said these tapes help get into a language "superficially."

The lab will be directed by Professor Grady Lacy and will be staffed by work-study students.

The KA pledges peddled flowers on Valentine's Day in the College Union and did a blooming business.

Student insight leaders sought

By JAMES HENDRICKS
Spectator Editor

Leadership applications are being accepted by the Student Insight office. The deadline for applying for the positions, which will begin in the summer, is Feb. 2. Interviews with applicants will be held on March 7-9, and new insight leaders will be announced on March 11.

Dean Shamm Sisson and Dean W. Wester will be in charge of the program this year. According to Dean Wester, the positions "are open to all students."

"Insight leaders are the students who work during orientation for College Insight, which is the summer orientation, as well as during those short orientations that we have at the beginning of every quarter," Sisson said.

She added that the leaders are "responsible for leading a small group at every session. In addition to that, they work on committees that help to plan programs."

Dean Sisson called the program "paid work that requires a volunteer attitude." She said the leaders "are paid minimum wage for the number of hours that they actually work. They are paid a little bit for part of their training. But, there's a lot more time that they put in in preparation for their sessions that they are not paid for. They end up making about $300 for the summer."

The insight leaders are also called upon to help in special campus activities such as tomorrow's Open Campus Day. "As things come up during the year, we can call on student leaders who already know the school very well," Sisson said.

Ms. Sisson said, "Basically, we're looking for people who feel comfort-

The grand opening ceremony for Valdosta Mall will be held all day Wednesday, Feb. 16 in the center court area of the shopping center. The public is invited to attend the event; all mall entrances will be opened at 9:15 a.m.

Valdosta Mall is located on Gornito Road, St. Augustine Road, Bay Tree Road and Norman Drive in Valdosta.

Valdosta Mall is a development of Valdosta Mall Co., a partnership of Homart Development Co., one of the nation's leading shopping center developers, and Scott Hudgens Companies, a leading Georgia developer.

John B. Lastinger, executive vice president of the Valdosta Chamber of Commerce, will serve as the grand opening program's master of ceremonies. Colors will be presented by the Color Guard from Moody Air Force Base and the Valdosta State College Jazz Ensemble will play musical selections throughout the program.

A number of dignitaries will give speeches at the ceremony: George Powell, manager of the Sears store in Valdosta Mall; E. O. Hudson, a principal of Belk Hudson, which also will be opening a store in the mall; Valdosta Mayor Ernest Nijem; Fred DeLoach Jr., chairman of the Lowndes County Commission; Dallas Scott Hudgens Jr., president of Scott Hudgens Companies and Edwin N. Doors for all the stores opening with the shopping center will open to the public immediately after the program's conclusion.

Also after the ceremony, special guest Buck Belue will be available to sign autographs in the center court. He currently plays baseball with the Montreal Expos as an outfielder.

Anchored by Sears and Belk Hudson, Valdosta Mall will feature more than 60 specialty shops on one level. Plans call for a third department store to be added at a future date. When fully developed, the mall will encompass 441,000 square feet on 134 acres.

Valdosta Mall Co. is the developer of South Georgia's first regional shopping center. The Homart Development Co./Scott Hudgens Companies partnership brings together nearly 60 years of combined experience in various facets of the real estate industry, with emphasis in shopping center development.

Scott Hudgens Companies is the partnership's local liaison with both city and government officials in Valdosta, and is responsible for developing Valdosta Mall's peripheral property.

Based in Duluth, Ga., Dallas Scott Hudgens Jr. heads the company with more than 35 years of experience. Scott Hudgens Companies is best known for major multi-use developments, primarily regional shopping centers throughout Georgia.

Buckhead area. Founded in 1959, the company currently operates 27 regional malls nationwide and is a joint venture partner in 9 additional centers.

The new Valdosta Mall will hold grand opening ceremonies today.

Jumping is the 'ultimate' experience

By JOHN C. GRIFFIN
Spectator Staff Writer

According to V.S.C. students Alan Ellis and Justin Coleman, jumping from an airplane at 7500 feet is the ultimate experience. Not only do they find skydiving an exciting activity; they're hopelessly hooked on it.

About twice a month, Ellis and Coleman pack their parachutes and drive to the Swamp Hollow drop zone at Quincy, Florida to participate in their favorite sport. They board a specially equipped airplane which takes several minutes to take them up to the proper altitude and then they jump.

Even for a spectator, the event is breathtaking. One can look up at the airplane and see two small human dots falling downward as the paratroopers bail out. At a speed of about 125 miles per hour, it appears they have no control over what they are doing. It's quite a show as they do flips in mid air and appear to be headed for disaster. However, they calculate their descent and eventually land with near pinpoint accuracy.

Ellis and Coleman both agree that "free fall" is the most exciting part of skydiving. "Free fall" can be described as the immense, unguided abandonment to gravity which occurs before the parachute opens.

"To be more than a mile above the world and to descend at such a high rate of speed gives one a feeling of total freedom," states Ellis.

Ellis is a veteran of about 150 jumps while Coleman has experienced around 80. They are both members of the United States Parachute Association which stresses safety above all else. Proper training and equipment are a must in the sport of skydiving. A reserve chute is required by federal law.

Many consider skydiving very dangerous. However, Coleman disagrees. "Statistically, it's much safer than driving to the drop zone. Skydiving accidents are very rare and are usually caused by really stupid mistakes," Coleman said.

Ellis and Coleman employ square parachutes when they skydive. A square parachute can be guided to control the rate of descent and the direction of the fall. With a square parachute one can pick a landing site and glide in like a bird.

Ellis and Coleman are so confident about their abilities that last year they offered to do a demonstration jump at a V.S.C. Blazer football game. Coach Grant and the Athletic Department were in favor of the idea, but the list of regulations by the Federal Aviation Association, the City of Valdosta, and a number of other agencies made skydiving into the stadium full of people almost impossible.

Ellis had a surprising answer for a V.S.C. official when asked if it would be a problem to land on the football field.

"I'm not worried about landing on the football field; I'm concerned with landing on the fifty yard line and handing the referee the game ball," quipped Ellis.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald A. Ellis of Vicksburg, Mississippi, Alan is a criminology major, a Pi Kappa Phi fraternity member, and an employee of Holland Flying Service at the Valdosta Municipal Airport.

Justin is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Wilby Coleman of Valdosta and majors in speech communications. In addition to his skydiving exploits, he is a board member of the Hahira Pick-in Committee, a d.j. for a local radio station, an expert unicycle rider, and a fairly good snipe class sailboat racer. However, he lists skydiving as his favorite activity.

Two VSC students are hopelessly hooked on skydiving.

Ellis and Coleman recommend skydiving to anyone interested in the sport. Skydiving lessons cost about 100 dollars and include six closely supervised jumps. Thorough training in regard to standard procedures and safety factors is given also.

"Skydiving is both thrilling and safe. There is a fine line between safety and danger and that's decided by the individual," stated Ellis.

Last May, two anonymous skydivers made a landing on the main campus of Valdosta State College. When asked if they knew the identity of the characters in question, Ellis and Coleman replied with the exact same comment.

"We know who the culprits were; but we'll never tell!"

Call it bravery, call it lunacy, call it whatever you will; but Alan Ellis and Justin Coleman are permanently addicted to skydiving.

New '83-84 financial aid forms are in

By MITCH CLARKE
Spectator Sports Editor

Financial aid forms for the 1983-84 academic year are now available to interested students, according to Tommy Moore, Director of Financial Aid.

Forms for all grants and loans except the Guaranteed Student Loan can be picked up during office hours at the Office of Financial Aid in the west wing of Powell Hall. The Guaranteed Student Loan applications will be available on March 15.

Moore said that the forms are basically the same as they were last year. He also gave some tips to use when filling out the applications.

"It is important to file early," he said. "But contrary to what may be thought, it is not the most important thing to do."

Moore emphasized that the forms should be filled out accurately. There are two mistakes which many students make that, says Moore, will bog the application process down for months. Students should be careful when filling out the sections that ask for members in the household and for amount of income tax paid by parents.

To determine the number of people living in a household, the student should consider only those people supported by the income of either the father or the mother. Moore stressed that anyone living in the house, but supported by a separate income, should not be counted as a member of the household.

The amount of income tax paid by the parents of an individual causes trouble with many forms. The amount to be reported is the actual amount paid after a refund if any, is given.

Moore asked students to be careful when filling out the forms to avoid delays.

The deadline for filing applications is April 15.

Producers concert still in the works

By JOHN GRIFFIN
Spectator Staff Writer

Rumors have been circulating around the VSC campus for the past few weeks that a rock group known as The Producers will be performing soon in Valdosta. However, there is no definite booking yet.

B.G. Productions, a newly formed concert agency, has been pursuing an agreement with Valdosta State College to use the new sports complex for a concert, but attempts to line up a definite date for The Producers concert have not quite jelled.

"It won't take place until a proper location has been selected and contracts are signed. Booking a major concert involves a lot of details arrangement, but we're working on as hard as we can," stated Harman Cooper, a partner in the B.G. Productions firm.

Cooper has met with President Bailey this past week in an effort to work out an agreement to lease college facilities for concerts. The agency has planned tentatively to hold at least one good popular musical per quarter.

However, there are several factors which have delayed usage of the gymnasium. First, there are college functions such as basketball games which take priority at this time of year. In addition, there is a substantial rental fee for the facilities which is required for such activities as concerts. Also, the event must not conflict with College Union Board activities.

As soon as the basketball season is over, there will be more leeway to negotiate the usage of the gym. The VSC Lady Blazers will be hosting the Gulf South Conference tournament during the first week of March. B.G. Promotions could have booked The Producers in the facility on March 11, but terms of the agreement between the agency and the college were not reached.

"At the moment we're very close to booking The Producers in the Valdosta Municipal Auditorium on March 11, but we don't have anything definite yet," added Cooper.

Blazers split points

By MITCH CLARKE
Spectator Sports Editor

Valdosta State Blazers split a 61-59 victory over the University of North Alabama on Saturday evening 81-76 over North Alabama.

Both games were played at the team at halftime that means more after a loss than a win, said head basketball coach Dominey following the Monday game. The North Alabama game, the Blazers held a lead for most of the game. But, with 2:20 remaining in the period, the Lions took a slim one-point lead. Each shot for point on turned the lead to the Blazers. It was with 02 left in the game that the Blazers scored the goal to give them a 39-38 intermission lead.

The points came after a free throw by Conley was passed to Conley on the baseline. He passed the ball behind his back and it was waiting for him to shoot.

It was Conley's best playing season. That pleased his coach because he had picked himself up a little down mentally remarked Dominey. "He's one of those who can generate our offense."

Generate he did. He scored seven points; eleven of those from the free throw line where he is a 100 percent shooter. Free throws were an important part of the game. Blazers are already alive in championship chase

Blazers split pair of GSC games

By MITCH CLARKE
Spectator Sports Editor

Valdosta State Blazers split a pair of Gulf South Conference games last weekend, losing on Saturday to Jacksonville State, 77-70, and Monday evening 81-76 over North Alabama. Both games were played at the home arena.

The points came after a steal by Brett Cambell was passed to Tommy Conley on the baseline. He promptly threw the ball behind his back to Hubbard who was waiting to make the shot.

It was Conley's best outing of the season. That pleased his coach. "It's good to see him pick himself up. He's been a little down mentally lately," remarked Dominey. "He's one guy who can generate our offense."

Generate he did. He scored twenty seven points; eleven of those came from the free throw line where he shot one-hundred percent. Free throws were an important part of the game.

Dominey did express concern that the crowd on Monday night was not encouraging. "Fans are so quick to give up on you. We're not an 11-11 team they way we're playing."

At the start of the second half, the Blazers came out and played with a great deal of intensity. They trailed only twice during the half and lead by as much as eight points.

With a 1:09 remaining, the Blazers held a seven point lead, 77-70, the conference with Jacksonville State.

This weekend the Blazers take to the road where they have yet to find a win this season for a couple of big games. On Saturday night, the Blazers meet Jacksonville State and Monday evening, they take on Livingston.

"I've talked to the other GSC coaches and they tell me that this is the toughest road trip of all," remarked Dominey. "I don't know what the problem on the road is. Our attitude is good. We, as coaches, have done everything that we can do. It's up to the team now."

In Saturday's action, Valdosta State was defeated by league-leading UT-Martin by a 75-63 score. VSC could not get their offense going. Marlon Jones lead the scoring twenty points, and Ivey Hubbard had fourteen. These were the only Blazers in double figures. The loss was the first time the Blazers had lost to a conference foe at home this season.

However, the Lions kept scoring. In fact, they closed the gap to only one point, 77-76. But with :17 left, Lee Green went to the line for a one-and-one opportunity. He connected on both ends and eliminated the Lions' chances of a comeback.

"Lee Green is not known as a big free throw shooter, but it was good to see him get those two near the end," remarked Dominey. "The North Alabama game marked the last regular season home appearance of two seniors, Ivey Hubbard and Brett Campbell. To Dominey, the four years that they have played for the Blazers have really flown. "It seems like they should be sophomores," he said.

"They are really class people who have represented the program well. They've never been an embarrassment to the program," he went on.

Hubbard and Campbell may yet return to the P.E. Complex for another game, however, depending on how the Valdosta State team fares in the Gulf South Conference race. Right now, they are tied for fourth in Gina Bozeman attempts a twenty-foot jumper in Thursday night's game against Fort Valley State. Gina scored twenty points in the game; seventeen came in the second half on shots like this.

Wildkittens fall to Lady Blazers

By MITCH CLARKE
Spectator Sports Editor

The Valdosta State Lady Blazers are following the same script they've followed most of the season: take control early and win big. This time, Fort Valley State was a 99-67 victim last Thursday night at the P.E. Complex.

"I was real pleased with the game. We played with a lot of intensity," said head coach Charles Cooper. "We're improving as the season goes along. That was our goal."

The Ladies, now 19-3, opened up a big lead early despite a slow start. Although, the Wildkittens attempted a come-back, Valdosta State lead at the break 52-34.

In fact, the only disappointing part of the Ladies' game was that they did not hit the century mark. Though they did make an effort. It went astray, however, when Cheryl Johnson was called for travelling with only 09 left. But a win is a win. This one coupled with the win over West Georgia on Saturday allowed Valdosta State to remain the third-ranked NCAA Division II basketball team in the nation.

The Lady Blazers scored twice in the first minute of the game, before cooling off until the 15:34 mark. With Valdosta State leading 12-4, Sherri France attempted and made a beautiful over-the-head lay-up, netting two of her twenty-points. Sherri played an outstanding game. When she wasn't scoring herself, she was getting the ball inside to big 6-5 Pam Johnson, who had twenty-five points to lead all scorers.

The inside game was sensational for the Ladies, especially in the first half. They had no trouble getting the ball to Pam Johnson and they did not need (or even attempt) a long jumper, such as the ones Gina Bozeman specializes in.

In fact, Gina was held to just three points on free throws during the half. But she did contribute. Gina moved the ball down the court time and again despite pressure from Fort Valley. Once, in the first half, she electrified the crowd by dribbling the ball behind her back to elude a defender.

In the second half, Gina scored sixteen points, several coming on twenty-foot jumpers.

The Ladies went on to the easy 99-67 win. Valdosta State has looked tough in its last three games against tough opponents. "Everyone is playing well. That's what you want near the end of the season," said Coach Cooper. In regard to possible post-season tournament, Cooper replied, "We're one step closer."

1983 Blazer Baseball Team

Thomas sets national championship as goal

By MITCH CLARKE
Spectator Sports Editor

Entering his sixteenth season as head baseball coach, Tommy Thomas has set a goal of a national championship for his team.

"It's not a prediction, but a goal. It's a realistic goal," said Thomas. "It'll be a rocky road, however. We're not the favorites to win a national title. But we're definitely national championship caliber."

Yet Thomas cautions that other teams and other coaches have set similar goals for the coming year. He feels sure that both Troy State and Delta State (two conference rivals) have national championship aspirations as well.

As the VSC baseball team begins to think of such a goal, they enter the competitive Gulf South Conference.

"I'll try to be objective when I say that baseball is the most competitive aspect of the new conference," Thomas remarked. He feels that Troy State and Jacksonville State will follow.

"These four teams (including Valdosta State) are perennially ranked in the top ten. And I'll be willing to bet that all four will be ranked in top twenty when the pre-season poll is released," Thomas said.

Statistics back that statement. In the last six years the Blazers have been in the national tournament three years. Delta State has been there three years, while Troy has gone twice. Jacksonville made the national tourney one year.

A national championship is not new to VSC. In 1979, Thomas' team brought a national title to town. The Blazers have an advantage over other conference teams when it comes to tournament selection. While all of the GSC's other schools are in one region together, Valdosta State is in another--the South Atlantic Region. If they have a good record, yet don't win the conference, they can still be selected to the South Atlantic Regionals.

Looking at the team, Thomas feels his biggest question mark is the arm of Wayne Fugett. Fugett pitched in only a couple of games last season before injuring his arm. Fugett, a senior from Valdosta is believed by many to be a better pitcher than Jeff Agerter and Rick DiNapoli. Last season, Agerter set a VSC record with thirteen wins; DiNapoli had twelve.

"With these three healthy, we should have a great one-two-three punch," said Thomas.

Elsewhere on the pitching staff, Thomas is looking for Bobby Hart, a sophomore from Westerville, Ohio, to help provide depth to the squad. "He must come through in relief."

The one player getting Thomas the most excited is Charlie Moore, shortstop. According to Thomas, the junior from Fords, New Jersey "makes plays that no one in the history of Valdosta State's baseball has ever made. He's got the best pair of hands ever at VSC. They're major league hands."

Around the diamond for the Blazers will be Wayne Fugett at first (if Fugett is pitching, look for June Munford to take over.)

At second, there is a trio trying out for the job. Mark Murad, Mark Powell, and Jimmy McWhorter have all played there and have all played well.

"I've got to choose the best of three good players," said Thomas.

Moore will be at short while one of the second base candidates will be at third.

A four man rotation will handle outfield duties. Chuck DeVane, John Keigher, June Munford, and Rob Busch are the candidates. Three will take the field while the other serves as designated hitter. But Thomas cautions that other DH's will be used.

Jeff Soss will be used occasionally. He's a streak hitter who, when on a streak is the best hitter on the team. Mike Ruff will be the primary catcher.

The Blazers kick off the 1983 season on Monday, February 21 against Armstrong State. The game begins at 3:00 p.m. at Blazer Field.

Eight recruits signed to football team

By MITCH CLARKE
Spectator Sports Editor

The Valdosta State Blazer football team has signed eight high school players since the signing date last Wednesday, February 9.
Head coach Jim Goodman expressed happiness with the recruits selected so far, but cautioned that these new recruits will not be filling any voids in the lineup. He expects the recruits to contribute later. "You can't expect a freshman to come in here and be a winner right away. We need to let them get used to our program. That's very important," Goodman remarked.
Of the recruits signed to date, Goodman is especially excited about Keith Redding. The 6-1, 210 pound defensive end from Brunswick "looked tremendous on film. We expect him to help a lot," said Goodman.

The coach is also impressed with Max Vickers. The 5-11, 185 pounder from Douglas, Georgia is a running back. The Blazers' running game during the inaugural season was not very consistent. Goodman hopes that with the addition of a few running backs, that the team's rushing game will fall into place.
Looking ahead to other possible recruits, Goodman said that it is extremely possible that the Blazers may sign twins sometime Tuesday evening.
Dallas and Dennis Smith from Westover High School in Albany have expressed interest in the Valdosta State program.
Also being heavily recruited is Terry Mallory from Tampa, Florida. Mallory is a triple position player, serving as punter, kicker, or quarterback in high school. Goodman said that Mallory should contact him on Wednesday evening to announce his decision.

The following are the signees that Valdosta State has signed as of Tuesday night: Joe Reese (5-9, 175 lbs, RB) from Newnan High School in Newnan, Georgia; Max Vickers (5-11, 185 lbs, RB) from Coffee County High School in Douglas, Georgia; James Gibson (6-2, 225 lbs, DT) also from Brunswick; R. D. Swain (6-2, 238 lbs, DT) from Cairo High School in Cairo, Georgia; Robert Joyner (6-2, 235 lbs, OG) also from Cairo; Roy Lee Butler (6-4, 210, TE/RB) from Miller County High School in Colquitt, Georgia; and Jesse Tuggle (6-0, 200 lbs, DE) from Griffin High School in Griffin, Georgia.

KD squeezes past Wesley in women's intramural action

By MONICA BROWN
Spectator Sports Writer

Last Tuesday's intramural action started with an exciting game between KD and Wesley Foundation. The final score was in favor of KD, 18-17. KD was led by Shari Melton with 8 points. Following closely behind Shari were Renee Whitehead and Gene Oliver with 5 points each.
The second game of the evening matched ADPI against ROTC. ADPI turned in a strong performance and defeated ROTC 48-16. ROTC got an admirable performance from Holly Beasley who scored 10 of ROTC's 16 points. Elizabeth Knight led the ADPI attack with 19 points and was followed by Ginger Dale with 12 points.
The third game of last Tuesday's action saw Karlynn Lastinger lead Sparks to victory over Phi Mu. Lastinger scored 13 of Sparks 30 points as the final score read: Sparks 30, Phi Mu 14. Phi Mu was led by Karla Pyle who scored half of Phi Mu's total points.
The final game of the evening saw Foxes win yet another at the hands of ZTA. The game was not close as the Foxes won big 40-18. Foxes had two players in double figures. Marietta Mitchell had the game high 14 points and Lisa Hill chipped in 11 points of her own. ZTA got a valiant effort as Lindy Lamar chipped in 8 points for the evening.

Last Thursday's action got under way as ADPI and Phi Mu went head to head. The first quarter belonged to Phi Mu but as the game wore on it became ADPI's ballgame. In the end, it was ADPI who walked away with bragging as they posted a score of 27 points to Phi Mu's 19. ADPI had two that ended the night in double figures. Leading the way was Ginger Dale with 12 points, followed by Lori Haddock with 10 points. Phi Mu had a fairly balanced attack with Karla Pyle taking top scoring honors with 7 points. Following very closely to Karla was Harriet Cox with 6 points.
The second game of the evening matched KD vs Sparks. The night proved to be very disappointing for KD as they had to forfeit. The forfeit left Sparks with a win and idle for the evening.

The final game last Thursday saw Independents put in a very balanced attack against Wesley Foundation. Four players for Independents were within one point of each other as the points were totaled. Lisa Youngblood ended up taking top honors with 9 points. Jane Tankersly took second scoring honors as tallies added up 8 points. For Wesley, it was Rowann Swalls scoring 4 points for top honors.

Following behind was Nanette Johnson, Susan Montgomery, and Libby Parrish, all with 2 points each.

Tuesday, February 15, had three games scheduled. Starting off the action was Wesley Foundation vs ZTA, followed by Phi Mu vs. KD, with Independents vs. Foxes closing out the evening.

Thursday's action again has three games scheduled. First game of the evening is ADPI battling KD. Following behind the ADPI/KD battle is ROTC vs. Foxes. The final game pits Sparks against ZTA.

BAC Basketball Highlights

PBS 30
KAPsi 27

By MARK SCHANBACK

AFROTC guard Clarence Johnson, last week's TV Player of the Game, pulls up for the jumper.

If you heard loud screaming and cheering coming from the old Blazer fieldhouse last Wednesday, you weren't listening to ghosts. Nearly 500 BAC fans were on hand to witness a come from behind victory for Phi Beta Sigma over Kappa Alpha Psi 30-27.
The game was intense and full of excitement. In the first half KAPsi threatened to blow out PBS. Behind the hot shooting of David Adams, KAPsi bolted out to a 12-4 lead. PBS battled back to trail by just six at the half 10-16. The intermission was full of strategy sessions.
KAPsi coached by Ivey Hubbard in one huddle, PBS coached by Lee Green in the other huddle. Watching the two athletes turn into coaches was amusing. Whatever the strategies were, PBS turned theirs into results.
In the second half, PBS got down to playing hard-nosed defense. David Adams was the only KAPsi player able to put points on the board consistently. James Snell was held to only four points in the game, two of which came on a game ending dunk. The key to the PBS turn-around on offense was strong board play by Al Williams and Calvin Raines. Jerry Jones got hot from the outside hitting a couple of three-pointers. The game was fast and furious down the wire, but KAPsi could not hit the clutch baskets. PBS held on to win it 30-27.

Leading scorers in the game were David Adams of KAPsi with thirteen points and Al Williams eleven points, Jerry Jones nine points for Phi Beta Sigma. The game will go down as one of the best match-ups of the year.

International League Weekend Action

By MARK SCHANBACK

In the first weekend game, ROTC lit up the scoreboard scoring sixty-two points to the Celtics' forty-three. The men of ROTC without Bill Buckholtz showed they have solid players. Paul Hagen pumped in 22 pts., Mike Griffin had 17 pts., and Clarence Johnson 15 pts. For the Celtics, Mike Perry had 19 pts. as did Wade Cothran.

In the next game, Oyster Bay earned one of two wins on the weekend. The Steelers beat Arts and Sciences 27-17. Mark Ritchea was the high scorer in the game with ten points for the losers.

The third game was a blow out! The top ranked Purple Aces pounded Wesley 64-25. The Aces led at one point 33-2. Hamilton had 24 points, Kenny Walton had 18, and Joe Austin had 12. The lone scorer for Wesley in double figures was Steve Devane with 11 pts.

In game four, BSU blew a six point lead with 3:00 to play and went on to lose 43-39 to SL Celtics in overtime. The hero in OT was Bobby Scott with all four Sports Locker points. Scoring leaders were M. Perry (15), W. Cothran (16), Jim Woody (12), Ashley Williams (10).

It was upset time in the Braves vs. Oyster Bay game. The Braves won their second game of the year 34-27. Butch Childers led the Braves with eleven points. Joe Mundece was let down by his team mates; all but five Steeler points were contributed by Mundece.

ROTC outlasted Wesley in the next ballgame. The final was 38-29. Sam Wilson had eleven points and Dwight Hubacher added twelve points for the Aces. Wesley again had just one man in double digits...Steve Devane had 12 points.
Once again the Purple Aces were breaking records. The Aces scored 39 second half points to bury Arts and Sciences 58-21. Mark Ritchea was shut down and only Mark Corbett topped the A&S squad with 11 points. Oyster Bay played BSU next. BSU blew a lead going on to lose. At the half, BSU led 17-15 but ended up losing it 38-32. Mundece had 12 points for O.B. and Ed Mullis canned 10 points for the Baptists.

Sports Locker followed with a 38-30 win over Wesley. Mike Perry had 15 points and Wade Cothran 10 points for the Celtics. Steve Devane led Wesley with 10 points.

The Purple Aces remained unbeaten but took a scare in the next to last game of the weekend. The Aces survived because of a buzzer ending bucket by Kenny Walton. 36-34 was the final. Oyster Bay nearly pulled off its second great upset of the season. The Steelers led 18-15 at the half.

The Aces scored nine straight points to start the second half going ahead 24-18. Oyster Bay battled back to tie it 30-30 and again tied it at 34-34. With :01 on the clock, Ken Walton put up the shot that would win it.
Leading all scorers was Joe Mundece with 15 points. Jon Hamilton had 12 points for the Aces. The game was a moral victory for the Steelers who showed what they are capable of doing. Oyster Bay was patient and drove the middle, challenging the Aces inside. The Aces will happily take the win and stay at the top in the polls.

Rounding out the weekend Sports Locker beat Arts and Sciences 35-33. Mike Perry got 14 points and Ed Wetherington 12 points. The A&S club got 17 points from Mark Ritchea and 10 points from Mark Corbett.
The totals for the weekend were from best to worst: Purple Aces 40, ROTC 30, SL Celtics 31, O.B. Steelers 22, Braves 1-2, BSU 1-3, Wesley 1-3, and A&S 0-4. The Aces are still intact but odds on favorites to meet for the league title are The Purple Aces and ROTC. They meet in regular season play on the last day of the season. Don't miss it, plan now, the game is scheduled for March 2 at 8:20 p.m.

VSC coasts past West Georgia

By MITCH CLARKE
Spectator Sports Editor

The Lady Blazers of Valdosta State continued their intense home play last Saturday evening with a 94-78 win over West Georgia.

It was the second meeting between the two teams this season. On January 8, Valdosta State beat West Georgia 65-62.

The wins kept the Ladies number three in the nation in the NCAA Division II poll released last night. The Valdosta squad opened up a big lead early, in a style typical at other games this season. At the intermission, Valdosta State led 46-23. They shot sixty-eight percent from the field, while the Lady Braves managed only twenty-seven percent.

The offensive show put on by the Lady Blazers in the first period brought them the twelve point victory as West Georgia outscored VSC in the second half 55-48. But it was too little too late.

Shooting greatly improved in the second half for the Lady Braves. Fifty percent from the field and seventy-three percent from the line fueled the West Georgia comeback attempt.

Final shooting statistics showed Valdosta State with a big percentage difference (56 percent-38 percent). Free throw shooting was almost even following the game, with the Lady Blazers netting sixty-two percent from the charity stripe to West Georgia's sixty-seven percent.

Lady Blazer Pam Johnson led all scorers with thirty-two points, while Sherri France had eighteen. Gina Boseman and Debbie Roberson netted fourteen points.

The third-ranked Ladies round out their regular season home schedule on Friday evening with a game against Kennesaw. Tipoff is at 7:30 p.m.

Korean symposium to be held

"A Century of U.S.-Korean Relations: Problems and Prospects" is the title of a two-day symposium to be held on March 1 and 2, according to Dr. William M. Gabard, Director of International Studies.

The first session of the symposium will be held in Powell Hall Auditorium on VSC's main campus on Tuesday, March 1, at 7:30 p.m. The featured lecturer is Dr. Chonghan Kim, who will speak on the Korean perspective of U.S. Korean relations. Critical commentaries will be offered by Mr. David F. Lambertson, Director of the Office of Korean Affairs at the U.S. Department of State, and the honorable Hak Won Song, Consul General of the Republic of Korea, in Atlanta.

Four VSC humanists will serve as catalytic discussants. They are: Dr. Steven M. Childs, Assistant Professor of Sociology; Dr. James F. Hill, Associate Professor of Philosophy; Dr. Dale H. Peoples, Professor of History; and Dr. Allan C. Reddy, Associate Professor of Marketing and Economics.

Gabard will serve as moderator at the sessions. Following comments there will be a general question and answer session period for the audience. Refreshments and an informal discussion will follow the evening program.

On the following day, Lambertson will offer the American Perspective of U.S.-Korean relations with critical commentaries by Dr. Kim and the Korean Consul General. This session will be held in the South Wing of the VSC dining hall from 1-2:30 p.m. Lunch will be available at $3.65.

Co-sponsors of VSC of this symposium are Moody Air Force Base and the Valdosta Rotary Club. This symposium is held in cooperation with the Departments of History, Marketing and Economics, Philosophy, and Sociology and Anthropology, along with the Office of Public Services at VSC.

The programs are made possible through a grant awarded by the National Endowment for the Humanities through the Georgia Endowment for the Humanities. Both programs are open to the general public. Adjacent parking is available for the March 1 program in Powell Hall.

"The conclusion of 100 years of formal diplomatic relations between the U.S. and the Republic of Korea was the central theme of the Korean Pavilion at the Knoxville World's Fair," said Gabard. "Now is an appropriate time to examine critically the public issues which involve a western power and an Asian power. The symposium should enable the audiences to gain a clearer understanding of the value systems, aims and objectives, and military and political relations of the two countries."

Gabard noted that Moody Air Force Base is the lead force in the U.S. Rapid Deployment Force with an important role in the overall defense strategies of the United States and its treaty commitments in Korea. He also added that Georgia now has approximately 8,000 Koreans. The Republic of Korea has an important consulate and a Korean Trade Association in Atlanta.

There are a number of Koreans living in Valdosta and the surrounding areas, and a Korean Baptist Church was organized last year in conjunction with Morningside Baptist Church. The Reverend Eil Bok Park, an MAFB radiologist, serves as pastor. There are also in Valdosta and its environs a large number of veterans of the Korean War in which 40,000 American soldiers lost their lives. The U.S. currently has in the Republic of Korea approximately 40,000 troops with a firm commitment to defend that country against any attack from an aggressor.

The Republic of Korea's "astounding growth over the past 20 years has been spectacular," said Gabard. "During this period it has advanced from one of the world's poorest nations to the threshold of being fully industrialized. Its current GNP is almost $60 billion worth of goods and imports. The United States' ninth largest trading partner, Korea is the fourth largest market for U.S. agricultural products. It purchases some $2.2 billion in agricultural commodities, which include 1.6 million bales of cotton. A nation only 2/3 the size of Georgia, Korea has 40 million people with 7 million in the capital city of Seoul; 90 percent of the Koreans are literate; English is taught in all high schools; and approximately 11 percent of the population are Christian, of which 90 percent are Protestants."

The Real Story

"The Original Hogan and His Heroes"

About 40 years before the Solidarity movement in Poland, Polish prisoners at Auschwitz operated a resistance movement right under the Nazis' noses.

The leader of this movement was Witold Pilecki, a Polish army captain. In 1940, he had himself arrested in Warsaw and sent to the Nazi death camp on purpose. While there, he and five trusted inmates put together an underground that grew to over 1000.

The Union of Military Organization, the name of the underground, helped patients in the camp hospital, pilfered weapons from the SS storehouse, and helped inmates escape. Pilecki used "free" prisoners as couriers to send reports of the Nazi atrocities in Auschwitz to the exiled Polish government in London. Furthermore, the underground used a radio transmitter that was used for seven months before it was found.

In 1943, Pilecki escaped and made his way back to Warsaw. He rejoined the Polish army and fought against the Nazis in the 1944 Warsaw uprising. He made it through the war, but was executed in 1948 for taking part in unauthorized intelligence operations in post-war Poland.

Invasion of the Body Bugs

What is wormlike, has stubby legs, is nearly transparent, cannot be seen without magnification, and is crawling on almost everybody's face? The answer is Demodex folliculorum and Demodex brevis, of course! To be less specific, they are referred to simply as mites.

Dr. Mathew Douglas of the University of Kansas says they have made their home on man throughout the ages. I know the thought of having these little creatures crawling around on your face is a gross thought to many people, but do not try to get rid of them because you never will. Actually, they may even be doing some good.

The folliculorum lives in hair follicles, especially around the nose and eyes. The brevis lives in oil glands. The good these tiny creatures do is cleansing the follicles and unclogging the glands.

So, the next time someone tells you, "You have bugs crawling on your face," you say, "Yeah, I know. Those bugs are called mites and you have them too!"

The World Around U.S.

Q: What was your impression of America before you came here and what do you think after visiting for 5 months? (Questions answered by Gallus Hasler)

A: I thought it might be a country with high technology where everyone is in a rush and into business like it is in a free enterprise system-but basically I wasn't really expecting anything so I wasn't disappointed. Now I see that people are not at all in a hurry. They have time...especially for foreigners. You can ask questions of everyone-even in the street.

Q: What do Americans ask you about Switzerland?

A: People sometimes ask me to speak Swedish. But Swedish is spoken in Sweden. Our official languages are Swiss German, 65 percent, French 18 percent, Italian 12 percent, and Rhaeto-Romanic 1 percent. Here in America you can have driven from Miami to Washington State and speak English, but back home I have to know four languages just to get along with people. The people expect you to know their languages.

Q: What is the economy like in Switzerland?

A: A lot of foreigners bring their money to Swiss banks. They don't get interest but the money holds its value because the Swiss Frank is one of the strongest currencies in the world. They also like the anonymous accounts.

Our economy is very stable. We have only around 0.5 percent unemployment. There is only a small difference between the high and low standards of living. We don't really have poor people. Here in America that difference is very big.

Q: Whatever happened to the Saint Bernards with rum under their necks who smelled out trapped skiers?

A: There is a monastery in Saint Bernard Pass where they still keep the dogs and use them to find people, but mostly they have been replaced by German Shepherds.

Backwoods Bulletin

By Doug Dozier

The great outdoors has so much to offer, although there are, at times, certain risks involved. Almost every hunter, fisherman, or camper has experienced some sort of an emergency situation. If there is one that has not, it's only because he or she has not spent enough time outdoors. It is inevitable. Problems have a way of developing.

A competent outdoorsman should be able to handle most mishaps. Many things begin to develop into a true emergency if not dealt with properly in the beginning. I am referring to anything from a gunshot wound to being lost in the woods, to a sinking boat. The ability to remain calm and think these things through is the most important asset. This particular ability is fairly easy to acquire. Common sense and experience is all that's required. Everyone tends to have his moments of panic in the woods. I'm surely no exception. About eight years ago I experienced a unique and unforgettable trip through a South Georgia swamp.

I was deer hunting along at some land we had leased for that particular purpose. Because I was not that familiar with the land, I decided to leave my stand a little before dark. The sun had gone down, but it was still not completely dark. I had begun to head back to the truck. After several minutes of walking, I became alarmed. Why wasn't I at the road after walking this long? Because it was beginning to get completely dark, I began to panic. I was alone and my mind was congealed with thoughts of what might happen.

Luckily, I had enough sense to bring a flashlight along with me. I must have gotten off the trail because I never reached the truck. I walked and walked for what seemed to be hours. Actually it was only from about 6:15 p.m. - 8:30 p.m. I had decided that the more I walked, the more lost I would be.

I stopped to sit down and gather my thoughts. I'll admit that I'm far from being a survival expert. What was I supposed to do? In which direction should I head, if any? I had no food or water, however, I had crossed a small creek and felt sure I could get back there if I became thirsty enough.

Actually, all I wanted was to go home the least embarrassing way possible. I know that I was in a particular danger; after all, I had my rifle. Anyway, South Georgia doesn't exactly have man-eating beasts roaming its swamps. Since I could not hear any tracks on the highway I had no idea which way to go. At 9:45 I heard a rifle shot a couple of miles away. I began to walk toward the shot when I heard another from almost the exact same direction. I decided that this must be someone looking for me, so I returned the shot. An alternating chain of fire began. They would shoot and then I would shoot. After a few minutes, I could hear voices. As I had thought, it was my cousin searching for me. They had found the truck and knew that I had gotten lost. Although I was not the first to get lost in that particular area, I was totally embarrassed and my two cousins were absolutely nothing to ease the feeling. I will never hear the end of my evening alone in the woods. Aside from the fact that this example of outdoor survival is, to say the least, mild, things could have gotten much worse. What could I have done if I had been hurt? Probably nothing but stay put and hope someone would find me. In all seriousness, panic has caused the death of many outdoorsmen. Drownings occur most frequently in Winter months due to shock and panic combined. The boater should mentally know what to do in an emergency situation, especially if there are passengers. It makes it a point to place all guns in a stable position. If they are loaded, the barrel is always pointed away.

Simple common sense will keep you safe and out of trouble. Occasionally, inconveniences will happen. They can be dealt with properly and efficiently. Without these mishaps the outdoors would not present the challenges that so many of us continue to experience.

A positive step

Although it seemed as if the drinking age bill would have trouble being approved in the State House of Representatives a few weeks ago, it failed to get out of committee. The Senate bill proposed by House Speaker Tom Murphy.

Very little that Tom Murphy opposes makes it through the House. The Georgia House of Representatives instead opted to introduce legislation that would actually have a positive effect in the prevention of drunk driving accidents.

According to the bill, which passed the House by a 167-3 vote, a mandatory $300 fine will be imposed on a drunk driver the first time he is caught. His license will be suspended for 120 days, although he may be issued a special, limited use driver's permit. He may be suspended up to one year in jail.

If a driver is caught driving under the influence of alcohol a second time, he will be fined $600. He will face a sentence of 48 hours in jail, or be required to perform 80 hours of community service.
