Suspect sought in Bon-Bon's bumping

The body of once tamous and now deceased Speckled Tater columnist Mike Bon-Bon was found floating face down in the VSC pool today by VSC Agent Hushul Plankton.

Plankton said the body was discovered ty KUB Director John Frets when he began his daily vigil of the pool from the second story balcony just outside SGA President Bucky Cauldron's office. Associate Dean of Students John Eastern was called by Frets and reportedly mistook the body for an albino killer whale. "I thought it was just ·baie fraternity guys playing a funny jobe on the local zoo," Eastern said. Zoo officials at first thought it was a new species of water mammal that had been under the pool area in suspended animation for six or seven million years. This theory was shot to you -know-where when they found the body was a corpse. Things that are in suspended animation ain't dead," one leading expert in the field of dead and suspended things said.

Using a huge crane, the body was removed and its face was seen for the first spokesmen.

Itime. Several people fainted in terror. It was Bon-Bon. Plankton said, "The letters 'SGA' were etched in his forehead in bright red. It was kinda like what they did to that girl in a book I read in high school one time." Plankton added, "I never liked the book. That's why I can't remember the name of it."

Several theories were offered by Plankton and VSC Public Safety Director Jack Beerstein. The first is that Bon-Bon just went a little nuts-o at a punk rock party and met his end because of that. Another theory is an SGA officer heaved Bon-Bon over the ledge of Cauldron's balcony. Cauldron said that last theory stunk. "Hell, I couldn't pick him up by myself." Cauldron said. Cauldron also said, off the record, that it was probably Senate President Johnny Quicks "since he hates Bon-Bon's stupid guts anyway "

The person who is guilty will be awarded the Medal of valor at the next senate meeting according to senate

"A pig on every plate." That was the fall quarter dream of Food Service Director Mike Void concerning the Hawaiian Luau dinner scheduled for June 1 With biology enrollment up, this year's dream could very well be a reality.

"The Luau dinner is planned each fall quarter in conjunction with the biology department's enrollment," said Void. "The menu's main course is roasted pig and without enough pig to go around, we just would have to forget the Luau dinner." Void added that the pig shortage has not been a problem since Biology 126 was introduced into the core biology courses used to dissect frogs and the cafeteria tried to have a French dinner night. The menu featured frog legs, french fries, and french toast, but since they couldn't serve wine, the plans were cancelled.

Void did note that there could be complications with this year's Hawaiian Luau dinner. "Two years ago we had no trouble getting fresh fruit for the dinner thanks to the Boat People; last year the Fruit Fly almost ruined the dinner," said Void. "This year, with the aid of a few illegal aliens and Florida tourists, the fruit problem should be no problem.

What about next year's Luau dinner? Says Void, "I am trying to persuade the anatomy and physiology class to dissect sharks instead of cats in order to add

Public Safety Director Jack Beerstein the number of unpaid parking fines. has gone to great lengths to prevent vandals from getting out of hand at Valdosta State College. Beerstein proclaimed his latest measure in a recent Beerstein's opening remarks dealt with the noted increase of vandalism on the VSC campus and Public Safety's involvement. "I have noted several automobiles this quarter with large iron gedgets attached to the wheels making it virtually impossible to drive the car. Obviously this is somebody's idea of a practical joke. It was also brought to my attentioh," added Beerstein, "That large amounts of trash, specifically pink slips, have been found on campud.", Beerstein projected a breakthrough was near, for the number of pink slips corelated with Beerstein went on to mention what he called Project Saftree (pronounced safe tree). Due to the increase in vandalism on campus and the recent endowment to beautify the campus, Beerstein announced that Public Safety and maintenance would be working together to tie down all the newly planted trees and shrubery on the campus. According to Beerstrin," They (the vandals) can tamper with newspaper racks and the toilet paper racks but they won't tamper with our trees."

Beerstein also projected future Public Safety officers as being, "FBI graduates with forestry degrees.

Uncle Bic?

Political Rightist

President Wilson Reagan announced today that, after all these years, Uncle Sam is retiring. "That's right," he said, "Old Sammic boy is giving it all up. He's going to retire on a salary basis somewhat like the one the recent Georgia governer retired on. He decided that after taking so much abuse from the American people, he was going to do it right back to them and not even kiss them first.'

Since the retirement method was so much like the one in Georgia, the Feds have decided to search our fair state for Unk's replacement. "We felt it was too much of a coincidence," Wilson said before his nap.

Who is the mystery student (even though that sentence is not good journalism)? Well, it's former SGA Comptroller candidate Bic Heartburn. One may remember the pose struck in Mr. Heartburn's ads when running for the position. After Reagan's nap he said. "That's what won it for him. Gosh he's patriotic.'

Heartburn will be leaving the Valdosta airport at 6:30 a.m. this Thursday for Washington D.C. to take over his new duties. Spectator Entertainment Editor John Griffin will be there
