Georgia State Womans College,
Valdosta, Georgia.

My Dear Dr. Pound,

Enrollment in biology classes necessitates teaching assistance. This assistance is for freshman laboratory work. The schedule is as follows:

WINTER
Number	Course	Lec. hrs.	Lab. hrs.
102 99	Biol. 100	5	8
73	Biol. 101	5	8
10	Biol. 420	1	8 plus
SPRING
	Biol. 101	5	8
	Biol. 250	3	4
	Biol. 310	3	4

It is probable that laboratory work in biology 310 will have to be sectioned.

Suggested assistance-- 16 laboratory hours in Winter Quarter; 8 laboratory hours in Spring Quarter. We may utilize Mrs. Joe Wisenbaker (Valdosta) or if student aid is more desirable Miss A.B. Weatherford and Miss Grace Lahey. The quality of teaching assistance will be determined by the funds available for this purpose. If student aid is utilized I suggest about $200 for the Winter Quarter and $100 for the Spring Quarter.

Very respectfully,

James Stokes

After careful consideration of budget, schedule, assistance available, etc. I think it best that we utilize student aid. Under close supervision and cooperation the work can be effectively carried forward by students. I suggest that three students be utilized in order that their academic work may not be jeopardized.

Dear Chancellor:

Inclosed please find a copy of a letter I have just received from Mr. Stokes relative to the work of his department for the winter and spring quarters. This report shows that he will need at least two student assistants during the winter quarter and one for the spring, or an assistant teacher for the entire time. He has suggested the salary that has been paid usually for student assistance here. Personally, I should prefer the services of Mrs. Joe Wisenbaker if they can be had at this salary, as she is a very bright woman, an excellent teacher, and has been a member of this faculty heretofore. She lives here in Valdosta. The amount called for I think we can carry within our budget. Please give me your judgment about the matter.

Dear Chancellor:

I beg leave to acknowledge receipt of triplicate copies of the program of the Council of the University System of Georgia and to note that the Council meets on the 19th day of January. As you suggest, I am notifying Dr. Beeson at once who will be our representatives at the conference.

I am coming to the office daily and attending to such work as demands my attention, but I do not think it would be wise for me to go to Willedgeville. I greatly regret, for more reasons than one, that this is true.

With best wishes for you always and for the success of the University System under your direction for the coming year and years, I am,

Chancellor Philip Weltner,

Dear Chancellor:

It is getting time that we should prepare our advertising matter for the summer school if we are to operate one this year. But I find myself facing some uncertainties.

Last year, on April 27, Chancellor Snelling wrote Dr. Powell as follows: "The University will operate for four quarters each scholastic year. Other institutions conducting summer schools will operate for three and one-half quarters." Dr. Powell, after considering the action of the Board of Regents relative to the three and one-half quarters which all schools of the University System conducting summer schools should run, wrote to Chancellor Snelling as follows:

"In this same connection, the order that of the schools that conduct summer schools, the University shall have a full quarter and other institutions only a half quarter, presents an extremely difficult situation for us. In the first place, a large part of our summer school enrollment comes from our regular students who wish to add credit toward an earlier graduation. In the second place, we have not a single course in our catalogue that can be split without essentially destroying the course as a unit toward graduation. Therefore, none of the work in summer school would be practicable for regular students. By the same token, the brief courses would not be desirable as a general rule to any serious minded students. The result of the order, therefore, as it seems to me, would be disastrous for our summer school. It is perhaps not the time now to speak of it, but at some time I should like to have an opportunity of going into details in the matter with you."

I agree entirely with Dr. Powell in this statement. A six weeks summer session would be a complete failure, I think, in view of the fact that we are all placed on the quarter system, because it will be almost impossible for the students who should take that work to adjust their credits to courses applied elsewhere or even to our own courses here. It is understood here in this school that Chancellor Snelling, perhaps personally, agreed to consider the matter and perhaps seek a reconsideration by the Board of Regents of its action. What do you think of the matter, and what shall we do in the premises?

This was true last summer. We enrolled 140 students for summer school; only 27 of these dropped out at the end of six weeks, showing that the vast majority of students regarded it as necessary that they should complete the nine weeks course in order to get the proper credit in school or with the State Department of Education. I am inclosing a record for the last several years showing the appeal which a nine weeks term makes to the teachers and students in this section. I do not think a six weeks session would be very attractive to either students or teachers if they should get credit only for their work according to the courses system which we are applying throughout the University system.

Another matter: The Board of Regents has decreed that the contracts of teachers are for twelve months and that teachers doing work in summer schools shall have no extra pay. A great number of teachers in all faculties will have no work in summer schools because there will be no call on the part of students for the type of work such teachers may be doing in regular session. This, of course, means that some teachers will have only nine months work during the year while others will have ten and a half or even eleven months work. I am wondering, in view of this fact, if I may not make requisition on the University for one or two of my old teachers to offer in our summer school some courses which are very attractive to public school teachers and which we do not offer in our regular course. Last year we met this case by employing one or two extra teachers. This would seem to be needless, if we could call upon the teachers of the University system who may otherwise be idle during the summer school to give these courses. What is your judgment about the matter?

With highest regards, I am,

Very truly yours,

President.

My dear Chancellor:

Permit me to congratulate you on putting through the course of study which was adopted at the meeting in Milledgeville the other day. I think it is an immense improvement upon what we have offered for the past year, and a trial of the new course through a year ought to develop, I think, some other improvements in what we shall offer that will make the courses of study pursued in our schools immensely more valuable than any we have ever offered at any time before.

Miss Gilmer and Mr. Stokes, on their return here, seemed very much pleased with the action of the Council in this respect, but both seemed to fear very much that a movement was being started to abolish summer schools in all institutions except at the University. Personally, if that were done, or even if summer schools were limited to two or three of the colleges, I should think it almost an educational calamity, for more reasons than one.

First, a summer school is really extension work, and it reaches a class of people older than the regular students who need help and can get it only at that time. For instance, students have driven in here daily from points thirty or forty miles away in order to get instruction. These would not and could not have gone elsewhere. In the second place, a summer school is more or less a regional matter and gives to the institution operating it a chance to impress itself upon its own constituency as the regular session does not. In the third place, it gives to the institution itself a touch with its own people which helps to build up and hold its regular patronage. Fourthly, a summer school under the present arrangement of the Board of Regents is not costly but keeps in use the plants of the institutions for at least ten and a half months during the year. These plants are costly and for them to lie idle for a quarter of the entire time seems to me to be an excessive waste of money. And fifthly, since additional salaries are not paid for summer school work, and since the students pay for the operation of the dormitories, whatever money comes in by way of fees is that much added to the income of the school itself. Not many of the smaller schools can afford to lose this income.

I sincerely hope that this movement, if a movement it is, may be defeated.

With best wishes, I am,

Very truly yours,

President.

TO THE HEADS OF THE INSTITUTIONS

Gentlemen:

The following resolution was adopted on Monday at a meeting of the Board of Regents:

"RESOLVED, That the question of summer schools is hereby referred to the Committee on Education with authority to act upon such recommendations as may be submitted by the Chancellor; said recommendations to cover the institutions where summer schools shall be operated, the budgets for the same, personnel to be employed therein, the subjects to be taught and the basis for employment in connection therewith."

I am tentatively of the opinion that summer schools should be conducted at:

North Georgia College
West Georgia College
Georgia Southwestern College
Georgia School of Technology
University of Georgia
South Georgia Teachers College
Georgia State College for Women
Georgia Normal and Agricultural College
State Teachers and Agricultural College
Georgia State Industrial College

You will note that before authority is finally given with reference to summer schools, it will be necessary to secure the approval of the Committee on Education of the Board of Regents, which approval will be forthcoming when and if the Committee concurs with my recommendations which must be based upon:

- 1) An approved budget
- 2) Statement of personnel
- 3) Description of curriculum

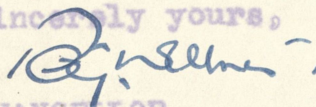

Therefore will you please forward at the earliest possible convenience a budget showing in detail both items of anticipated income and expenditure; giving me further a list of teachers whom you expect to use with the subjects they are expected to teach. I also want to know definitely the plan of organization of the summer school. Personally, I want to get to the full quarter session as quickly as possible. We want to standardize this work and make it even more efficient than the regular sessions.

Heads of Institutions

I have long felt that some recognition should be given to the teacher who serves beyond the ordinary. Presently our contracts are on an annual basis and therefore service during the summer session is considered part of the regular employment. This, however, disregards the fact that some are employed while others are not. I would like to have your views as to what is the equity of this situation.

I also believe that if we have a University System teachers who are not needed at one place ought to be willing to serve at another. I hope there will be some exchange during the summer between units in our System. This will strengthen our spirit of solidarity and widen the scope of the individual's service.

Sincerely yours,

CHANCELLOR

TO THE HEADS OF INSTITUTIONS
OF THE UNIVERSITY SYSTEM OF GEORGIA:

Gentlemen:

I herewith call your attention to the following regulation of the Board of Regents:

"Section 36-By-Laws:

Each Faculty shall meet monthly during the college sessions and each shall appoint a secretary, who shall keep a full record of their proceedings. A copy of the minutes of each Faculty meeting, certified as correct by the secretary, shall be sent within three days after such meeting to the Secretary-Treasurer of Regents of the University System of Georgia and kept on file in his office. They shall make such rules and regulations for their own direction and provide for such committees as may be required."

It is very important to me that this rule be observed because it gives me touch and contact with the faculties of the institutions, so that whatever of value is done at one point may be made available elsewhere.

Thanking you for your cooperation, I am

Sincerely yours,

PHILIP WELTNER,

Dear Chancellor:

I have your two letters to Heads of Institutions this morning, giving matters of interest which were transacted in the meeting of the Board of Regents on Monday. I note that you state that "I am tentatively of the opinion that summer schools should be conducted at" ten different institutions of the University System. Among this number does not appear the Georgia State Roman College.

I am hoping that you will revise your opinion in that matter. Really, I think the summer school is a very vital part of the work of this institution. It is true that it is not and never has been very largely attended, but it has reached a section and a class of people that would not be interested in schools farther away, and it has done quite as serious work during the summer as in the regular session.

In my judgment, the dropping of household economics and the training school from the course of study here, while perhaps advisable on account of their cost, was a very serious blow to the institution, and now to do away with the summer school is accentuating the effect of that blow. These very features of the work here are the ones that make appeal to the great majority of our students, and if they are taken away from us, the attractiveness of the school to them will in a great measure be lost. I should say, without having gone into the matter very carefully, that seventy-five percent, at least, of the students who come here, either during the regular or summer sessions, are taking courses in education, and students who come to us during the summer session are greatly dependant upon us, and would not be interested in summer schools elsewhere because those summer schools are, for financial reasons, beyond their reach. In this connection, I call your attention to a letter I wrote you the other day about this matter.

I am hoping, therefore, that you will revise your opinion and include this in the list of those institutions operating summer schools. We shall be glad to submit to you the details which you have asked of those institutions which are to operate summer schools for the approval of the Committee on Education, if you desire it.

Furthermore, in your letter you state that you desire the schools to go on a four quarter basis as soon as possible. Most of our teachers are employed with the understanding that they were to work, after last summer, in the summer school without extra compensation. Two or three departments have a different understanding and were practically employed and salaried on a nine months basis. One of these departments could be continued without loss to the efficiency of the school for a shorter time, and if one of the teachers in the other department had her salary raised commensurately with the salaries of the twelve months teachers, we could go on a four quarter basis this summer.

Just how popular the fourth quarter would be, I can not say, but I submitted figures to you a week ago showing that a nine weeks course was vastly more popular here than the six weeks course. We should be glad and should be ready, if you should desire it, to try the four quarter plan this year.

With highest respect, I am,

Very truly yours,

President.

January 30, 1934.

Chancellor Philip Weltner,
Room 331, State Capitol,
Atlanta, Georgia.

My dear Chancellor:

I am sending you, as per your request, a provisional budget of our summer school, and also a copy of a letter from our local treasurer regarding the same.

Please note that I have made up one for a six weeks session only and another for a ten weeks session. This would be only a week longer than we ran last year. The latter has been made up because it would enable us to do a full quarter's work, and would throw this school squarely on the four quarter basis.

Also, please note: first, that these budgets are based upon a summer school scarcely larger than that of last year, although we hope for a very much better attended session. Secondly, that we are using our regular teachers with one or two exceptions at the regular salaries they receive. All our teachers are plainly and definitely informed that summer school work is a part of their regular duties and that no extra compensation under the rules of the Board may be expected. Third, that provision is made for one or two teachers to give extra courses not given in our regular session because these are so much needed by summer school students and are generally the most immediately helpful ones to them. Fourthly, that the fees in the ten weeks session are precisely those of any regular quarter and that our courses are generally regular session courses. Fifthly, that Mr. Dusenbury, who has made up the financial part of the budget, feels that we can live within it, and in either case, if things move normally, can save a little money -- not much, it is true.

Now, I recommend the ten weeks session because, of the 140 students registered here last summer, only 27 dropped out at the end of the six weeks session, and because the ten weeks session will enable us to place ourselves squarely on the four quarter basis. We can complete in that length of time any course offered and could give a full course's credit, whereas in the six weeks session, we should only be able to offer half credit which would not fit into our scheme here or into that of any other one of our schools and would besides be confusing to the State Department of Education when it attempted to give credit toward a license.

As I have previously remarked, Mr. Dusenbury feels that we can save a little money on either of these budgets. Mr. Collins has indicated that, with your approval, he will be glad to help somewhat as he did last year. Now, in the event that the summer session should earn a little money and Mr. Collins should help, I believe it would be nothing but right to give additional compensation to teachers having work in the summer school for the reason that the salaries they are drawing now are mere reductions from the salaries they drew in pre-depression days and those salaries were based upon a traditional nine months work. I do not believe it is right for teachers anywhere to have their salaries cut very greatly and give at the same time greatly increased work without additional compensation. I add the above in answer to your request for our reactions about this matter.

I am hoping that these submissions may be thoroughly satisfactory and that you will authorize us to go ahead with our preparations for the summer school of a full quarter's length.

With highest regards, I am,

Very truly yours,

President.

My dear Chancellor:

The operation to which I submitted some weeks ago was an emergency operation rendered necessary by a sudden development of a critical condition and was intended to relieve intense pain and to meet that crisis. This it did very completely. It was thought at the time that perhaps it would give nature a chance to remove the ultimate cause of my trouble, but nature refused to take advantage of the opportunity.

Doctor Archie Griffin, the surgeon who operated, tells me that he has done all that he can for me and that I need to go to Baltimore or the Mayos, where are the nearest surgeons who are equipped to remove the cause. He advises that I do as soon as possible. Mrs. Pound and I have our arrangements made to leave Valdosta on Saturday noon for a consultation with Doctor Harvey Stone in Baltimore. I already have an engagement with him for 2:15, February 5th.

I do not of course know what the outcome of the consultation will be, but Doctor Griffin thinks it will hardly be necessary for me to be in Baltimore more than a week. I regret this greatly, because I have your letter stating that you will begin to make your rounds on February 5th. I hope you will come to us at the very latest, as by the time you get here, I may be back. However, as far as I can foresee, I have made all plans for the running of the school during my absence, and I believe things will go as smoothly as if I were here.

Our chief problem, of course, will be financial. We are handicapped now, and will be continually by lack of funds. Otherwise, I think this school is in pretty good shape. Be assured that nothing will be left undone to have things move along as usual in a quiet and orderly manner here.

With best wishes for you, I am,

My force is at work, not only on the budget for next year, but the course of study also.

Mr. Dusenbury assures me that we shall probably come to the end of the year with a carry-over of something like $3000.00. Upon this as a basis, I have recommended in the salary list a few slight changes in order to adjust some discriminations which have previously been made for reasons that do not any longer exist. Mr. Dusenbury will point out these instances.

I am also recommending the entire faculty and office force for re-election. I have no complaint of any kind to make against any member of the faculty. It has been a remarkably efficient and cooperative group, and one that seems to work together in utmost harmony. I should like to recommend also the addition of a teacher of household economics. With the carry-over probable and the outlook for the coming year, I think we can stand it. I do not mean by this recommendation to put this institution in competition with other schools of the system that are offering household economics. I want merely that type of work which would fit these girls best for their lives in the future and particularly for their home life. We need not at all come into competition with the more scientific work offered by other schools.

I am leaving this letter for you on the chance that I may not be back in time to discuss these matters with you. However, I am hopeful that before you have made up your final judgment respecting schools for the coming year, I shall be able to confer with you fully about all these matters. Mr. Dusenbury will be in a position to explain every item of the budget. Miss Rentz, the Registrar, and Mr. Stokes will discuss with you the curricula. If you disapprove anything, please state your disapproval to them, and as soon as I return, I will take up the matter at once with them and with you.

Again expressing my regret that my physical condition calls for this absence, and that there is a possibility that I may not see you at this time, I am,

Very truly yours,

President.

My dear Chancellor:

In case your rounds bring you to Valdosta before my return, this is to be handed you by Miss Caroline Parrish.

My force is at work, not only on the budget for next year, but the course of study also.

My dear Chancellor:

In my letter to you on February 1st, I wrote you that I was going to Baltimore and would be gone at least seven or eight days. I went to Baltimore, and very much to my surprise, Dr. Stone, after a short examination, advised me that another operation, at present at least, would be inadvisable and that he thought that all had been done that could wisely be done now, and that nature would in all probability take care of the case. So I am back at my desk again this morning, and I am sorry if you changed your plans of visitation on my account. I shall be glad to see you whenever you desire to give us a call.

With best wishes, I am,

Very truly yours,

President.

Dear President Pound:

I was glad to get your letter of the 8th and to know that you felt able to be back at your desk.

My visit to Valdosta has been delayed again on account of pressure of matters here. I shall certainly see you soon, however.

Sincerely,
