Principal's Message

To the class of 1964, I am proud of your accomplishment in education. In spite of many problems and frustrations you have proved your willingness to finish high school.

This publication shall always remind us of this class of outstanding young men and young women. As long as you live I hope this book will remind you of Pinevale High School and those who labor here to train your minds.

As you leave this school and begin building your lives I request that you accept the following challenges: At all times strive to become honest men and women. Learn to accept the shortcomings in your own lives, and strive to correct them. Seize every opportunity to further your education. Develop an appreciation for hard work and learn a good follower is the first step toward becoming a good leader.

Let me advise you that property ownership is one of the finest qualities of a good citizen. Always be willing to share a portion of your earnings for the causes of charity, religion, education, and justice.

As you go through life may you always remember there is a power greater than man who controls our minds, observes our lives, and forever knows whether our efforts are good or bad and whether our intentions are sincere.

Sincerely yours,
C. C. Hall, Principal
