Larry O'Brien Musical Director

Larry O'Brien became the leader of the Glenn Miller Orchestra on November 25, 1988. It is the second time that Larry has held this position; the first time being from June 1981 through September 1983 when he was called away by other commitments.

Larry was playing trombone in the Dunes Hotel "Casino de Paris" orchestra when Glenn Miller Productions, Inc., first asked him to front the band. "It was a great surprise to even be considered for such a job and was definitely a step up for me," Larry admits. "I was flattered and apprehensive, too. I was following some very fine leaders, and I hoped I could uphold the fine Miller tradition."

O'Brien first performed with the Miller band in the early sixties, when Ray McKinley was the leader. Ray served in Europe with Glenn Miller's band then acted as its unofficial leader after Miller's disappearance. Larry has been involved with big bands during most of his career. He performed with the orchestras of Sammy Kaye, Buddy Morrow, Ralph Marterie, Ray Eberle, Billy May, Les Elgart, Boyd Raeburn, Frank Sinatra, Jr., Al Ramsey, Art Mooney and Lee Castle. In 1962 Larry was the featured soloist / lead trombonist with the Sam Donahue/Tommy Dorsey Orchestra. Larry was born in Jamaica, New York, July 15, 1933.

GLENN MILLER

Glenn Miller disappeared on December 15, 1944. The band leader went down over the English Channel on a flight from London to Paris at the height of his popularity. In September 1942, just prior to going into the army, he had disbanded his famous orchestra and eventually formed the Glenn Miller Army Air Force Band to entertain the servicemen.

Not long before he enlisted, he nosed-out Tommy Dorsey, as the "Best Sweet Band" in the Downbeat poll. His recordings of In The Mood, Chattanooga Choo Choo, A String of Pearls, Moonlight Serenade and Tuxedo Junction were all major hit records. Miller played to sell out crowds, and his music constantly dominated the airwaves.

On December 15, Major Miller took off in an ancient, single engine plane to precede his band to Paris. The weather was foreboding. Not very confident, he said to the pilot, "Maybe we ought to call this off?" The flight officer ribbed him about his fear of flying, "Do you want to live forever?"

Now, over fifty-five years since the public first embraced the successful Miller Sound, both the legend and the music live on. The Glenn Miller Orchestra is the most sought after big band in the world today for both concert and dance engagements. Still considered the greatest band of all time, its unique sound is loved by almost anybody that cares for dance music.

The Miller Estate formed the present Glenn Miller Orchestra in 1956 following strong popular demand aroused as a result of the successful motion picture, an immense box office smash—The Glenn Miller Story, starring James Stewart and June Allyson. The band has been touring consistently since, playing an average of 300 live dates a year around the globe to millions of fans.

- Glenn Miller was born on March 1, 1904, in Clarinda, Iowa.
- Glenn Miller originally wrote the music for Moonlight Serenade (later to become his theme song) as an exercise when he was studying with noted arranger, Joseph Schilinger.
- The first Glenn Miller Orchestra, formed in 1937, was a financial failure.
- In March 1938, Glenn Miller launched his second band—the one that still lives on today.
- At the height of the orchestra's popularity, Glenn Miller disbanded his musical organization in 1942 to volunteer for the army. He then organized the famous Glenn Miller Army Air Force Band.
- On December 15, 1944, Major Glenn Miller took off in a single engine plane from England—against his better judgment—to precede his band to France, never to be seen again. The army officially declared him dead one year later.
- In 1941, the Glenn Miller Orchestra had more hit records in one year, including A String of Pearls, than anybody in the history of the recording industry.
- Although other songs had sold over a million record copies, in 1941 Glenn Miller's Chattanooga Choo Choo received the first Gold Record ever to be awarded.
- The Glenn Miller Orchestra travels over 100,000 miles each year, playing nearly 300 dates with over 500,000 people annually attending performances.
- The "Largest Dance" in the Guinness Book of Records was held July 20, 1984, in Buffalo, NY, with over 25,000 dancing to the Glenn Miller Orchestra on a 450 foot dance floor.
